Albuquerque Civilian Police Oversight Agency

First Amendment

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

NO SECRET NEETINGS. VOTES.

What is a public body?

Board, commission, administrative adjudicatory body or other policy making body of any state agency, any agency or authority of any county, muncipality, district or any county, municipality, district or any political subdivision held for the purpose of formulating public policy, including the development of personnel policy, rules, regulations or ordinances, discussing public business or for the purpose of taking any action....

Why have open meetings?

- Formation of public policy needs to be done in the sunshine—meetings behind doors breed mistrust.
- A representative government is dependent upon an informed electorate so the public policy of the state is that all persons are entitled to the greatest possible information regarding the affairs of government and the official acts of those officers and employees who represent them.

Is it a Meeting?

Public notice

- Public bodies MUST provide notice to newspapers of general circulation that request notice in writing
- Every public body adopts an Open Meetings
 Resolution every year.
 - Tells you how, when, where they will post meeting notices

Public notice

- How soon must notice be given?
- Where should notices be posted?
- What about special meetings?
- What is an emergency meeting? (Unforeseen circumstances if not addressed immediately by the public body will likely result in injury or damage to persons or property or substantial financial loss to the public body.)

The agenda

- Final agenda must be available 72 hours in advance. FOG was instrumental in extending that deadline
- Public body shall take action only on those items appearing on the final agenda
- Discussion items may be added during the meeting, provided the discussion is somewhat limited.
- Reasonable specificity

Closing a meeting

- aka "Executive Session"
- Most common: limited personnel matters, pending or threatened litigation if subject to the attorney-cllient privilege, collective bargaining, property purchase/sale
- Procedure
 - 1. Take a roll-call vote to close the meeting
 - 2. State authority for closure AND subject(s) of discussion
 - 3. Afterward, state for the minutes that only the specified subjects were discussed

Public Forums

- The public has a right to attend and listen
- No right to speak at a meeting
- Most public bodies provide a public comment period
- Can be at any point in meeting
- Once create a limited public forum, First Amendment principles apply
- Reasonable time, place, manner limits

Beware of closed meetings pitfalls

- Discussing topics other than the stated reason for closing the meeting, even if such matters can be discussed in a closed meeting.
- Not taking final action in the public meeting.
- Failing to post notice and an agenda for a closed meeting.

DEALING WITH VIOLATIONS

- If you see a violation:
 - Ask for permission to speak
 - Notify the chair that the body's actions are in violation of the Open Meetings Act; explain why
 - Notify the chair that any action taken in an illegal meeting is invalid
 - Notify the chair that if he/she proceeds, you will lodge a complaint

DEALING WITH VIOLATIONS, Step 2

- Send written notice to the public body
- Wait 15 days
- If body does nothing or denies claim, notify the AG and local DA
- Call the Foundation for Open Government @ 764-3750.
- There are misdemeanor criminal penalties as well as fines but rarely imposed.
- In some states grand juries are convened to indict for open meetings violations.

What ifs.....

- Texting other members during the meeting?
- Sidebar conversations
- Social gatherings? Workshops?
- Phone calls or emails to one another when not meeting?
- Meetings of a subcommittee of commission?

Public has the right to see public records L D G

What's a record?

 Documents, letters, books, maps, tapes, photographs, recordings and other materials regardless of physical form or characteristics

★ E-mail, metadata, text messages

 Anything used, created, received, maintained or held by or on behalf of any public body and relating to public business

EXAMPLES OF PUBLIC RECORDS

- Job applications
- Police reports
- Payroll documents
- Contracts
- Invoices and payments
- Correspondence
- Personnel action forms

- Meeting minutes

- Lawsuits & settlements
- Building inspections
- Tort claims
- Travel records
- Corporate reports (PRC)

Issues

- Job applicants
- Database of students with emails
- Police reports
- Video lapels of police officers
- Fired superintendent

HOW TO ASK

- Every public body must have a records custodian
- Send a letter or e-mail to preserve your rights
- Ask "to inspect"
- Include your name, address and phone number
- Identify the records you want with "reasonable particularity"
- You don't have to say why you want the records

THE DEADLINES

Immediately

Provide records if practicable

3 business days

- Explain when records will be available OR

Subject:	It's time to call for the resignations of Berry, Perry, IG Pacheco and others at the May 4 Council meeting and reject the $4.5 million contract for the powerless James Ginger and his PRC Inc. fellow former cops

TO: City Councilors

Info to others sent this Bcc to include the media

By now you know or should know that this city is in crisis as DA Brandenburg said and also in distress as my now banned from council meetings upside down flag depicts.

It's because this city is run by white collar criminals like Berry and Perry who would make any Mafia organization looking for its leaders very anxious to interview them. That might be a future career opportunity for both..

Our compulsive liar Mayor told his biggest lie to all of us in 2009 when he first ran for office when claiming that he would bring "a new era of transparency and accountability" to the City. Since then, Berry has continued to lie and demanded this same dishonesty from all those who work for him. I feel sorry for Gil Montano.

You saw at the last meeting yet more examples of these lies/doubletalk from Berry's disgraceful thug CAO Perry and the incompetent APD Chief Eden and you yet you chose to "suffer these fools gladly." I called them out for their B.S./doubletalk.

FINALLY SOME BACKBONE-HUEVOS FROM SEVEN

You must know that Berry is by far the most corrupt Mayor's in our City's history who has made our APD and City the shame of the nation.

Yet none of you before March 20 ever stood up to him. At that last Council meeting , seven of you finally demonstrated some backbone/huevos when deferring the $4.5+ million for the toothless/powerless former cop James Ginger and his fellow former cops in PMR Inc. who Judge Brack chose to monitor the toothless/disgraceful DOJ/City agreement to reform APD.

Once again, both Councilors Winter and Jones showed again that they are hopeless-disgraceful people-seemingly mere Berry stooges.

Judge Brack became part of the problem when he ignored APD Forward's recommendations filed with the court. See page one of it attached. More on him below.

DIRECTED DEFIANCE OF OUR STATE LAW-THE NM IPRA

Rob "Mutt" Perry , R.J. "Jeff" Berry, and APD's "deer in the headlights" Chief Eden and others ordered APD's blatant defiance of citizen and media NM IPRA requests. The DOJ intentionally under a threat of a City lawsuit never mentioned this as a problem in the toothless APD reform agreement or stated that this was the primary reason many of APD's death squads were murdering citizens and getting away with it.

The blame was instead put on insufficient "sensitivity" or other training-something that seems to be PMR Inc.'s primary expertise. Nor did the DOI mention as a contributing factor APD's Firearms Training Simulator (FATS) and Reactive Force model used by APD officers to predispose them to kill and also use excessive force.

There was also a "killology" course that a vindictive parent of a killed cop sponsored to have cops shoot first as if this city and state was a battle zone. APD never condemned it. These 100 or more pretend warrior soldiers in APD who likely bragged that they got away with murder would likely run if they ever faced real combat.

MAKE NO RECORDINGS

Since Schultz began the APD bloodbath here first under Mayor Chavez and then under Berry, APD's trigger happy bad cops, many trained by Schultz's SWAT commander and now Eden's disgraceful Deputy Chief Bob Huntsman, have been directed not to record their killings. Any incriminating recordings that were inadvertently made would be withheld or destroyed with Berry's blessing.

The only recordings that likely inadvertently leaked out were those confirming the murder of James Boyd and even then some recordings were withheld. See attached Live Leak report.

Now that all (except the two murderers of James Boyd) of APD killer cops have never been charged by DA Brandenburg because she chose to/or had to rely on the lies told by the APD shooters and their partner's/accomplices, all of a sudden Berry, Perry and Eden decided to do some intentionally (knowingly too late) damage control.

They suspended three yet unnamed characters from APD's IPRA records section. One of these is assumed to be the corrupt Reynaldo Chavez whose resignation I had called for five years ago.

These three still unnamed corrupt minions were willing to take the fall for their equally corrupt superiors beginning with Berry because they knew they would merely be transferred and given a new APD job and just a slap on the wrist.

SCHULTZ AND TASERGATE IN 2013

In 2013, you feigned concern with Schultz's spending of $1.9 million for AXON cameras and software in a sole-source non-competitive buy from his then employer TASER Inc. that "greased" by Berry.

You asked both the State auditor and Berry's embarrassing IG Peter Pacheco to investigate it. The useless Pacheco did nothing. Finally our new NM auditor chose to act. See Journal article below.

MAY 4 COUNCIL MEETING

At the May Council meeting you should disapprove the $4.5 million four year contract to PMR Inc and demand that the agreement be rewritten to have it made a Consent Decree where the monitor has power.

You should also pass a no-confidence vote in Berry, Perry, Eden, Huntsman and Pacheco and call for their resignations for their blatant criminal activity. Also you might consider doing the same for Planning Department Director Lubar and those heading the procurement office.

You should also call for the resignation of the disgraceful US attorney for NM Damon Martinez who has brought disgrace to the local office of the DOJ.

Our new US attorney General in Washington DC Loretta Lynch hopefully will also be told and realize that Damon has sold his soul to the devil here and call for US for him to step down.

I also damned Damon Martinez (as did Tony Pirard) and those in the DOJ who signed the toothless agreement that betrayed us.

After Damon sent his US thug marshals (who he refused to equip with recorders-as his California counterpart had done) to Tony's home to threaten him to shut up, an outrageous act, it now seems that Judge Brack is now doing his own retaliation against Tony. Brack too seems to have become a willing part of the problem with APD as he is obsessed with keeping Tony out of this reform process.

Many believe that the corrupt APOA leaders have gotten to Judge Brack as Tony received a letter putting the APOA in the (Intervenor-3rd party) spot, and bumping him out. Tony was accused as being a "non-party with no standing" in the case. In short, after doing everything right for the District Court, Brack and his people apparently "still wish to be lawless" as the District Court appears to be violating their own rules.

Judge Brack has also threatened that the Court may place filing restrictions on Tony-the usual intimidating stuff one would expect with a corrupt judiciary. It appears that Brack doesn't want to deal with those who represent "We the People, the reason he ignored APD's Amicus Curaie submitted by APD Forward whose fine people tried to put some teeth into the DOJ/City agreement.

See you on May 4 to find out if seven of you still have some backbone/huevos and finally will have the courage to serve we-THE PEOPLE.

Silvio For WE THE PEOPLE

P.S.

The procurement office in Finance and Administrative Services has clearly been complicit in not only this rigged APD buy from TASER but other corrupt direct high dollar contract awards that waste our tax dollars.

Mike Riordan-former head of DMD now not surprisingly the Mayor's COO was among the worst offenders with directed contract awards and clearly rigged 'allegedly competitive bids.

Cost was never asked for by him as procurement rules dictate. Only a bidder's "cost control" methods and that only given a 5% weight in the selection. It's all subjective-thus allowing the rigging of contract awards.

One can only look at the bogus competition and award to Paul Silverman head of Geltmore run by the Planning Department that in fact gave him taxpayers' dollars to build a profitable four story primarily apartment complex downtown misrepresented as primarily for a grocery store. Planning Director Suzanne Lubar had previously worked for Silverman.

That contract award too could never pass anyone's smell test. Since I mentioned the rigged contract given to her former boss, Ms. Lubar is retallating against me and not having her code enforcement people respond to a serious code violation in our neighborhood since retallation is condoned by Berry to keep people in line

The award of the public TV contract to U-Public rather than the lower priced and more experienced incumbent Quote-Unquote also was rigged by Berry and Perry.

During my 22 years as an Air Force officer I sat on many "source selection," multi-million dollar contract evaluation boards. Later after retirement as an large Aerospace Company's middle manager and later as a consultant for many other contractors, I also prepared their bid responses to multi-million dollar government RFPs.

With what material that wasn't withheld from me in response to my IPRA requests, it's clear our City's procurement process is as corrupt as any in the US. Some white collar criminals in the city deserve jail time

Most awards are all based not on merit but on who you know and often on pay to play, or friends or who will be the big dollar campaign contributors?

You saw how Berry first gave a sole source award to the disgraceful Cincinnati duo of Streicher and Greenwood (buddies of Schultz greased with Berry) by intentionally keeping it under the $75K threshold needed for Council approval. Then he came back and upped it to $230K and now it is $500K because they were claimed to be proven incumbents. This trick is done all of the time by this corrupt administration.

Auditor: 'Very clear violations' in ABQ's Taser dealings

Former Albuquerque Police Chief Ray Schultz speaks to the media on Tuesday, Aug. 14, 2012, about the police department's lapel cameras. The State Auditor's Office on April 30, 2015, found "probable violations" with the city's dealings with Taser International, the manufacturer of the cameras. (Jim Thompson/Journal file)

By Dan McKay / Journal Staff Writer UPDATED: Thursday, April 30, 2015 at 12:32 pm PUBLISHED: Thursday, April 30, 2015 at 10:35 am

New Mexico State Auditor Tim Keller announces that his office found probable violation's in Albuquerque's dealings with Taser International. (Pat Vasquez-Cunningham/Journal) State auditors found "probable violations" of the state Governmental Conduct Act and other problems in Albuquerque's dealings with Taser-the company that provides body-worn cameras and other equipment to the police department, according to a report released Thursday. The review raised questions about the relationship between Taser and former Police Chief Ray Schultz, among others. It said Schultz's formal employment with the city overlapped with contract work he did for Taser International Inc. That's because he started working for the company even as he was on "early retirement" from the city, auditors said. The review also said "APD officials received certain benefits from Taser" during the years the city began testing and then planning expansions of Taser services. The benefits included two tickets to a Taser party at the Stingaree Night Club in San Diego and an "all-expense paid" training program in Scottsdale, Arizona. New Mexico State Auditor Tim Keller said he has referred the findings to the state attorney general and district attorney for potential prosecution of "what we believe are very clear violations" of state law and city ordinance. "Specifically, in former Chief Schultz's own words, we confirmed that this contract was essentially 'greased" and that was the term he used in emails to describe what he did to this contract," Keller said in a news conference Thursday. Keller said he found "rampant disregard" for the rules intended to protect the procurement process.

"We had a head of a police department under contract and receiving payments at the same time as he was employed by the city of Albuquerque and receiving our taxpayer money," Keller said. "We also have a situation where the procurement process, we believe, was clearly gamed, and that's well-documented in our report." Taser, he said, offered "gifts and junkets for the chief."Schultz and his attorney didn't immediately return telephone calls or email messages from the Journal seeking comment. But Schultz told the Journal last year that the city's contracts with Taser were handled properly and that Taser's most recent contract had been signed by his successor. Mayor Richard Berry's administration has also said the city's procurement office approved the sole-source procedure for hiring Taser, authorizing a no-bid contract. Schultz has maintained that Taser was the only company at the time that offered a way to securely upload the video and provide other safeguards. Keller, however, said auditors found minimal documentation of testing of other products. Violating the state Governmental Conduct Act can result in punishment of a year in jail or a $1,000 fine, Keller said. Violating city ordinances can result in 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine, he said."We believe these are very substantial violations," Keller said. "We believe they deserve prompt enforcement by law-enforcement agencies."This is a developing story. Check back for updates.

PROOF - APD Covered Up Production of Videos of Shooting of James Boyd

On March 17th 2014 Albuquerque Police (APD) shot and killed a homeless and mentally ill man - whose only crime was a violation of a municipal ordinance against camping in an open space area in the Sandia foothills at the eastern edge of the city.

On March 17th, the day after the fatal shooting, KRQE made a public records request for the videos of that incident. On April 1st, APD unlawfully denied that request.

BUT ... Here is the REST of that Story.

To this day - not only have the Keith Sandy videos mysteriously disappeared - but when the APD finally produced videos claiming to be ALL the videos of the incident - many of the videos were missing INCLUDING almost all that actually show the SHOOTING - most NOTICEABLY - the very videos (from the other shooter - Dominique Perez) from which the now-famous shooting clip was taken and released by APD that week.

On April 2nd, one day after KRQE's request was unlawfully denied, an investigator with the APD interviewed Kevin Fuller, APD Video Unit Supervisor. According to the interview - included in this video - Fuller was instructed on FRIDAY March 21st - to obtain the videos and place them in a Drop Box account.

On Thursday, March 27th - he was instructed to coordinate with several other persons - and to look at all the videos, frame by frame, and identify those parts that the Chief might have an "interest" in BEFORE they were released to the media.

Although those videos have since been released (those that have) WITHOUT being identified by officer or time -Fuller and his team broke down each video by officer and began this work. He was, at this time, told to "take out" all videos in which the audio or video contained the actual shooting.

On Friday March 28th Fuller was instructed to place the videos on another hard drive and provide them to the FBI. BUT ... on Friday evening - Commander Montano on behalf of the Chief contacted Fuller and stated he had "concerns" allegedly about the Chain of Custody. He ordered Fuller to "cease and desist." He was later then told to give Montano the hard drive and to delete the videos from the drop box account.

It is unlawful for the APD to withhold, delay, or deny public records that have no exemption provided by law. The APD clearly DELAYED production in order to find those videos it might find embarrassing - or creating liability - with regard to the act of the shooting of Boyd. It then DENIED unlawfully the production of those videos.

Since then - it has produced videos it has CLAIMED were the complete set. BUT there are several known videos missing - not least being all the videos taken by the second shooter, Dominique Perez, from whose videos the famous clip released by APD initially came. Although several other officers' videos are MISSING from the set produced as well.

It is clear that the APD has and continues to knowingly and willfully withhold those videos. This interview contains proof, at minimum, that the APD had delayed production of the videos, contrary to the Public Records law, in order to try and identify those videos it considered problematic - this specifically was a reference to anything officers may have said to each other during the incident AND anything that revealed either audio or video of the actual shooting of Boyd.

What appears to be missing here is the timeline for this process. You have emphasized to us the 90 day time requirement under which CPOA operates. Please show that timeline and other time expectations in the work flow sheets. Also, the complaint committee will be injected into this work flow process. Where should they be placed, in your view, in this process? Also, it is vague using these charts, to decipher how exactly the investigators on your staff get their cases. We will need a clearer picture for our meeting.

The Personnel Committee will need more that we have in these two documents. Joanne Fine

Thank-you Ms. Hammer, This is very helpful. We will discuss this at the personnel subcommittee meeting.

As an aside, that meeting is this Monday, at 1:30 in the basement of Plaza del Sol, and is a public meeting. Any POB members who wish to attend as non-voting delegates are welcome to do so. If they'd like to volunteer to work on this project or any other project, they could do so at that time. (Please do not reply-all to this email, which might be perceived as having the unintended effect of creating a quorum. You may reply to myself as personnel subcommittee chair if needed.)

Subject: Re: Flow Charts

What appears to be missing here is the timeline for this process. You have emphasized to us the 90 day time requirement under which CPOA operates. Please show that timeline and other time expectations in the work flow sheets. Also, the complaint committee will be injected into this work flow process. Where should they be placed, in your view, in this process? Also, it is vague using these charts, to decipher how exactly the investigators on your staff get their cases. We will need a clearer picture for our meeting.

The Personnel Committee will need more that we have in these two documents. Joanne Fine

All: These are Robin's "flow charts" of the CPC process. Generally flow charts have a beginning and an end, along with timeline and due dates, not to mention areas of responsibility. The personnel subcommittee asked her for a swim lane flow chart. Just Google it if you aren't familiar. Thanks, -B

This character is so deeply funny, a perfect match to the reality. I love how you're playing with distortion and how you slow time down. I think you may be creating a new genre of video performance art (not that I'm an expert on such matters). if Carol Burnett had had a potty mouth she might have attempted something like this. The closest she came was Eunice.

So proud of your creativity, sweetheart.

YOUR EDITORIALS WRITTEN BY "NEWSPAPER"

It's always exciting to read the editorials in the Journal and play "let's see if we can catch the lies and Berry propaganda" written not by some unnamed individual or individuals but by an inanimate object-"the newspaper."

Your "newspaper" outdid itself once again today when urging APD officers to be nice and please, please turn on your cameras even though they know that they will at worst will be punished with just a slap on the wrist-mere verbal reprimand and their names never revealed by Ms. Hammer in her police oversight reports..

Of course that's far better than being charged with murder or other use of excessive force as the retaliatory/vindictive US attorney Damon Martinez did when getting former Rio Arriba sheriff Tommy Rodella put away to jail for a long time for just doing what cop Greer had done.

The editorial today discussed "hero" cop Cedric Greer (who like the other bad cops) showed up in court looking like a choir boy following his beating of a citizen. Unlike Rodella, Cedric-deemed a "hero" of we-the people for merely putting on his APD uniform, was charged with only a misdemeanor.

"Newspaper" who wrote the editorial also pointed out that Greer like his accomplice/partner Jerry Rauch intentionally never turned on their recorders until after the beating was over. Newspaper then added, "By the way, "Greer is not the first officer to fail to turn on his camera for whatever reason."

"FOR WHATEVER REASON?" REALLY? DOESN'T "NEWSPAPER" KNOW WHY THE RECORDERS OF THESE BAD APD COPS AND THEIR ACCOMPLICES AREN'T BEING TURNED ON.

I noticed in the editorial that there was no recommendation that brave APD cadet Andrew Henry should be the one honored as a hero for revealing the beating by Greer. Was he also deemed a "rat" as APOA VP Willoughby calls all cops who dare to break the blue code of silence? Will the City Council have the courage to honor him?

We recall an earlier 4/29 editorial written by "newspaper" Know rules of seizure road before turning a key" commenting on the recently passed amendment to the State Forfeiture Act.

It recommends that our new City attorney Ms. Hernandez should allow APD to continue to do what it is doing because it is "part of the millions of dollars the program brings in pays the salaries of attorneys and staff one might look at as a jobs program of sorts." A JOBS PROGRAM?

HERRERA AND HIS POLL

You recall the answers to the Journal survey of citizens done years ago asking just a hand-picked select few just "What is a New Mexican?

With the exception of one honest responder to it from Santa Fe who said it's a person who continues to elect mediocre people, all of the others surveyed mentioned things that are not the things we have become a known for nationwide. I guess that's the subject of another "What is a New Mexican?" poll.

Today's page one UpFront summary of a survey done by your Editorial page boss Dan Herrera who apparently won't sign his name as Mr. "newspaper" was yet another piece of propaganda. After reading it, one brave comrade of mine wrote to me saying, "Oh my god, this smells of desperation." It certainly does!

Most of those Dan interviewed apparently never heard of Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs-see diagram of it attached.. It places physiological (breathing and other) and safety (security of body and other) needs above all of the rest in importance. Don't these relate to APD's police state that we have now?

Since "Newspaper" won't publish any of my letters to the editor at your/and your Mayor's direction-(I gave up trying) I hoped Dan's survey would have included me.

Some of what I would say to him if I had been asked would include:

1.It is great here because we have only one daily newspaper. It is stimulating to read its editorials to see if I can catch all of pro Barry propaganda and lies told. It's something I look forward to.

2.How great it is here to have to rely on brave TV reporters-mainly KRQE's, blog sites like the Eye on Albuquerque and Joe Monahan's and La Jicarita and the bi-monthly ABQ Free Press to tell us what the Journal won't.

3. It's great here that we get national publicity-albeit for all of the wrong things like our culture of corruption, blatant fiscal irresponsibility and rigged contracts, a bad education system and our still dangerous/unaccountable police force.

4.It is a unique place where public servants like DA Brandenburg as well as citizens like me, Tony Pirard and others can get threatened by APD, the US Attorney here and others law enforcement officers and judges for just doing what is right.

5.I am thankful that there are so many opportunities to exercise by marching and protesting here about APD problems in this city, problems that are similar to other cities in distress and in a crisis 6.That we are offered the opportunity to participate in a jobs program that gives tons of money to attorneys to sue the city for justice (city leaders won't provide) for police shootings and other acts of excessive force and to remedy our leaders defiance of our State law-the NM IPRA.

7.That I can wake up every morning anxious to find out just where our Mayor is hiding from the media whenever some controversy comes up that he may be asked questions to.

8. Thankful that we can keep count of how many times he is not reachable down in his mouse hole/bunker or some out of town trip (Mexico, other) for some undefined purpose and then see just which minion Montano, Perry, Roseman, Tixier, Espinoza or other person will be sent out to speak for him or his APD Chief.

9.That unlike most cities, we are able to go to Council meetings to be ignored by our elected leaders, have approved symbols of our distress like an upside down American flag banned and also able to participate in an office pool to see just when the Mayor will show up for a council meeting-as other US city mayors routinely now do..

Well, maybe next time I will be selected for Dan's next poll on what we like about this City. Hope springs eternal

YOUR BROTHER JERRY AND THOSE LIKE HIM

Before I forget, how is your attorney brother Jerry doing working for the Mayor on APD reform? I didn't realize he had unique experience doing that.

Has he been given even more money to help the disgraceful Cincinnati duo friends of Schultz-Streicher and Greenwood and possibly the equally powerless former cops in PBR Inc with APD police reform should the Council irresponsibly give the latter the $4.5+ million they are asking for on May 2? We are all anxious to know.

SCHUTZ, BERRY AND TASERGATE

The LA Times did a recent article on APD's retaliation against DA Brandenburg. The Wall Street Journal article below also showed how shameful the leadership of this City and APD was and still is.

Yet more nationwide publicity below about Berry and Schultz and TASERGATE showing again how our city "does right"-what we like about Albuquerque. I guess any nationwide publicityeven bad, is good publicity. I guess IG Pacheco was told by Berry not to investigate TASERGATE hoping the story would go away.

I'm more than a little disappointed in Councilor Sanchez for trying to transfer much of the blame on TASER, rather than all on Schultz and Berry.

Companies will always be willing to pay to play to get contracts knowing some greedy government people are willing to be dishonest-benefit from their positions.

Just follow the money and it explains a lot of what goes on in this city and others.

See the April 30 Eye on Albuquerque posting "#RICOforRay" on TASERGATE

http://www.wsj.com/articles/ex-albuquerque-police-chief-accused-of-violating-ethics-laws-inauditors-report-1430435296

Ex-Albuquerque Police Chief Accused of Violating Ethics Laws in Auditor's

Ray Schultz allegedly pushed for contract with Taser International while working for both the city and the company

By DAN FROSCH April 30, 2015 7:08 p.m. ET

New Mexico's auditor released a report accusing Albuquerque's ex-police chief of violating state law by brokering a lucrative contract to outfit city police with body cameras while serving as a consultant for the maker of the devices, Taser International, Inc. The report, released by state auditor Tim Keller on Thursday, found that former Albuquerque Police Chief Ray Schultz had improperly pushed for a $1.95 million, no-bid contract between the city and Taser in 2013 to purchase body cameras and other equipment. Mr. Schultz had taken a consulting job with Taser that began several months before he retired from the police department last year—at the same time that he was working to help procure the body camera contract, according to the audit.

Cheers and please stay in touch Kent. I'm sure Publisher-William P. Lang, your boss knows how great a job you are doing. Give him my best.

Silvio

P.S.

I wonder wither Eden's corrupt Records Custodian Reynaldo Chavez with sue APD for being punished/disgraced for only doing only what he was ordered to do by Eden, Berry and others. Or whether Eden will stop disgracing the good APD officers and remove the sixteen unearned bars of service in APD on his uniform?

Reference my May 1 e-mail below. Only its beginning is shown in the interest of brevity

One comparison with Herrera's May 1 bogus UpFront propaganda piece would be him then at the Ford's Theater asking Ms. Lincoln in 1865, "Except for what happened to your husband, just what did you like about the opera and opera house?

Another better comparison with Dan's disgraceful UpFront piece would be surveying these same people who-had they lived in 1912 were among the few survivors of the Titanic.

That ship's sinking can be compared to the "clearly sinking fast" city of Albuquerque since Mayor Berry was elected in 2009 and then irresponsibly rehired Schultz.

Because there were only 20 lifeboats on board, over 1500 passengers died because of the Titanic Captain's incompetence/criminal irresponsibility.

These 15000 deaths are comparable to the record number shot and brutalized here by APD where the ongoing lying and non-existent transparency and accountability had led to this city and our APD to becoming the disgrace of the nation.

Dan would begin his survey by first telling those survivors to just ignore the fact that over 1500 fellow passengers died because of the criminal and reckless acts of the ship's Captain (let's call him) Berry.

Instead, just tell Dan what they liked-what was right about their fateful cruise. Dan's new 1912 UpFront article on those same good folks surveyed here might read something like this.

Passenger-Winograd would say that before they hit the iceberg, the sunsets, spectacular skies on the ocean and many recreation activities on the ship were just great/were right.

Another passenger-Abdallah would say that there was a diverse cultural mix of people on board and the people like him are anti-fragile and that whatever doesn't kills you (like icebergs) makes you even stronger.

Another passenger-Christiansen would say that he was amazed how many helped him get into one of the precious few 20 lifeboats and that the reckless ship Captain Berry was also asking for prayer.

Another passenger-Gessing would say that the ballroom was beautiful and there were a lot of activities on board.

Another survivor-Garcia would say they had a great band that urged all to dance.

Another-Youngblood would say the ship's business friendly Captain Berry whose criminal conduct almost killed him supported business people like him.

Another -Rosenfeld would say there are a lot of instructional activities on board even for a Rabbi like him.

Another survivor-Sanchez would say that there was a lot of room on the ship to run and ride her bike on the ship's deck.

Another-Watson would say that he was impressed by the workmanship on the ship even though there were not enough life rafts provided to deal with such a catastrophe.

Another Stebbins would say the ship was spacious with a welcoming staff to care for her except until when they hit the iceberg-then it was everybody for themselves.

Finally the disgraceful ship's Captain Berry would say even though he allowed many innocents to be killed because of his criminal recklessness, his passengers had a uniqueness with many people of different cultures and races. Even his ship's deck chairs were painted various colors. So really the fact that his ship hitting the iceberg and killed so many on board who drowned because of him was not that important.

Thanks again Kent I knew you would appreciate these comparisons with Dan Hererra's survey.

Like others there at your clearly NOT Independent Journal, Dan is doing his best to ruin this city with his UpFront propaganda pieces and editorials both of which insults our intelligence

THIS PROVES ONCE AGAIN THAT DAN REALLY HAS NO SHAME AND TO MANY OF US, SEEMS TO BE JUST ANOTHER BERRY WHORE.

The Berry ship here is sinking fast-or haven't you noticed?

Stay in touch.

COUNCILORS

Info to those shown and many sent this Bcc

Seven of you nine councilors were commended two weeks ago by Joe Monahan other media outlets for deferring/not prematurely approving the exorbitant/ridiculous $4.5+ million four year contract to former PhD cop James Ginger and his other former cops in PMR Inc who will be limited to merely monitoring/suggesting but cannot enforce the still flawed City/DOJ agreement. It was not surprising that Trudy Jones and Brad Winter did the Mayor's bidding.

The May 2 letter published in the Journal written by Councilor Dan Lewis gives all the impression that he and four others will now approve the $4.5 million for Ginger Monday, just as the Council folded after Mayor Berry vetoed their resolution calling for the DOJ to come. Instead, you passed a meaningless substitute resolution only promising support if DOJ came.

The editorial that Lewis criticized omitted the fact that it even damned you seven for now having "buyers' remorse" knowing that the City and DOJ disrespected you when excluding you from the negotiations/buyers process. Dan also seemed reluctant to damn editorial boss Dan Herrera or whomever Mr./Ms. "Journal" is who wrote the editorial.

Federal Judge Brack will clearly NOT oversee Ginger as it appears he is unconcerned just how bad/toothless the agreement is. Nor does James Ginger care as long as he get his $4.5 million for four years merely to give the illusion of oversight/reform.

The attached documentation to EC-15-314 makes it clear that the city is not obligated to do anything that Ginger may recommend and if necessary will ask federal judge Brack to support them-something he will likely do.

I was also disappointed that Dan focused only on the editorial about delaying Ginger's rip off of the taxpayers. He never mentioned giving to Greenwood (and likely disgraceful Cincinnati buddy Streicher) $500,000 who will be kept on to again stonewall any reform as they previously did when negotiating the agreement with the DOJ.

You looked the other way when Berry first kept the no-bid contract under the $75K requiring your approval. Then since the two disgraceful characters were now incumbents he increased it to $230K-with your approval. Now it's proposed to be $500K. Do you like being disrespected? We'll see Monday.

New City Attorney Jessica Hernandez will be told by Perry and Berry to go and find some corner to hide in as it will be Greenwood who will lead the fight against anything good Ginger proposes. This assumes that you councilors betray us Monday and give Greenwood his $500,000 and also Ginger his 4 year $4.5+ million contract.

If Ginger deserves any contract it should only be for one year to see if he is really worth it. His disrespectful absence from the April 20 council meeting says to you that he believes that he doesn't have to please you-only Berry and the DOJ.

Or he doesn't have a clue what needs to be done except provide his own interpretation of the flawed agreement that focuses merely on training as the solution. It should begin with a thorough house cleaning in APD's to get rid of its inept and corrupt leadership.

See my other comments below to Lewis' article. It appears that since the April 20 meeting that Berry has gotten to him and four of the others there or else the five or more will get no more pork for him. See one depiction of Greenwood below sent me by a fellow comrade for real change. What a disgrace Scott is to the legal profession-much like Mutt CAO Perry and Tourek.

If there was ever a time for those comrades of mine in APD Forward, on the police oversight task force, in the MLK Jr, MC and many others who did the early heavy lifting to show up and demand real changes, it will be Monday night. All of us were betrayed by the DOJ and Berry's corrupt negotiation team and this federal judge

All should show up and demand that the bogus powerless agreement be rewritten before any contract with Ginger or someone else is signed. My comrades should also demand that you reject the increase to $500,000 for Greenwood and Streicher.

Since Berry won't show up to do his own typical lying to you, let's see if we hear from Greenwood and Ginger the same doubletalk/B.S. that we hear repeatedly from Mutt Rob Perry, Eden and others in this corrupt administration and also see whether you nine will be willing to "suffer these fools gladly."

Silvio For WE THE PEOPLE

2 May 2015 Albuquerque Journal BY DAN LEWIS ALBUQUERQUE CITY COUNCILOR

City Council just did its duty with contract deferral-Careful vetting of monitor for city's settlement with DOJ is necessary

The City Council approved a two-week deferral of the proposed contract with Jim Ginger, the court-approved monitor for the city's settlement agreement with the Department of Justice. The Albuquerque Journal stated that the deferral was only so that "councilors can consider things they likely have no control over or that have no real bearing on the reform effort," and an opportunity for the council to express "bravado" at the beginning of the oversight process. EDITORIAL ALSO DAMNED COUNCILORS CLAIMING THEY NOW HAD BUYERS' REMORSE. TRUTH IS THAT YOU WERE NEVER INVOLVED AS BUYERS-AND DIDN'T CARE.

The editors at the Journal clearly didn't watch the meeting. THE EDITORS WERE WATCHING.

At no time during the discussion did the council oppose Ginger's contract or act contrary to the settlement agreement in any way. DISTURBING. On the contrary, the questions asked by city councilors were reasonable and in accord with the council's duty to the citizens of the city of Albuquerque. The City Council has a fiduciary duty to taxpayers to ensure that their tax dollars are being spent soundly and as efficiently as possible. NO KIDDING.

A four-year contract for a total cost of $4.5 million deserves to be scrutinized closely. SHQULD ACTUALLY BE REJECTED The reform effort, at its heart, is intended to restore the public's faith in their police department. Most know that the City Council was the first to ask the DOJ to come to Albuquerque, ONLY HALF THE STORY. MAYOR VETOED FIRST BILL AND THEN COUNCIL FOLDED-PASSING MEANINGLESS LEGISLATION TO SUPPORT DOJ IF THEY CAME. WE CITIZENS AND MEDIA FORCED THEM TO COME and that we have worked collaboratively with the DOJ, the administration and the citizens of Albuquerque ever since. NEVER DID-COUNCIL WAS LEFT OUT OF THE NEGOTIATION PROCESS AS IF THEY WERE NOT PART OF THE CITY The questions asked by the council at its last meeting were asked humbly and addressed very basic and common-sense concerns. Any responsible governing body would need answers to those questions before signing a contract, and any investigative organization such as the DOJ should understand this important part of the process intended to ensure the public's trust. ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS STILL NOT IN CURRENT LEGISLATION TO BE HEARD ON MAY 4.

For example, councilors had expressed concern that in a previous meeting Ginger had not seemed familiar with the police oversight ordinance that the council recently passed or the public process and input that led up to it. GINGER NOT FAMILIAR WITH ANY OF IT OR REALLY CARED HOW WEAK IT WAS.

The council needed assurance that Ginger had done the research and put in the time necessary to make informed judgments about the city's progress toward satisfying those provisions of the settlement agreement that dealt with police oversight. Unfortunately Ginger was not present at the meeting to provide the council with that assurance. PLAIN ARROGANCE-AS GINGER KNEW IT WAS "GREASED WITH BERRY, PERRY, DOJ AND JUDGE BRACK

Again, prior to deferring the contract, councilors had asked whether the four-year term of the contract could be shortened to two years with an option for an additional two years. The answer the council received was that that was a reasonable question and that, before the next meeting, we could ask the federal judge whether that was possible. WHY SHOULD FEDERAL JUDGE BRACK BE THE ONE TO DECIDE HOW LONG GINGER'S SERVICES IS NEEDED-IF AT ALL?

No demands were made, and the council was not attempting to rein in the monitor, however, without answers to these most basic questions, the council could not reasonably approve the monitor contract at the last meeting. No one understands the need to move forward with monitoring the city's progress better than the City Council. However, we must not forget that we are ultimately responsible to the citizens of Albuquerque for how we achieve that goal. IS THIS JUST MORE APOLOGETIC LIP SERVICE FOR THE SEVEN WHO DID WHAT'S RIGHT BEFORE LIKELY BETRAYING US MONDAY? COUNCIL NEVER WALKED THEIR TALK

We would expect the Department of Justice and the federal judge to welcome the council's questions and concern for accountability and transparency in the process of approving this contract. Unfortunately, now we are hearing that the Department of Justice, in a fit of pique over the council's deferral, is refusing to allow Ginger to speak with councilors or appear at a council meeting to answer these basic questions:

PIQUE-translated "a feeling of wounded vanity, resentment"-AKA sheer arrogance.

The Department of Justice would be well served to remember that the council process is deliberative and sometimes slow but is ultimately critical to transparency and community acceptance. If the Department of Justice is really serious about transparency and an open, public process, they'll encourage Ginger to come to the council's May 4 meeting and answer all of the council's questions. THE DOJ, PARTICULARLY DAMON MARTINEZ WERE NEVER SERIOUS ABOUT TRANSPARENCY AND AN OPEN, PUBLIC PROCESS PURE ARROGANCE KNOWING FULL WELL THE AGREEMENT BETRAYED WE-THE PEOPLE

P.S.

See Joe Monahan's latest May 1 posting about the Journal's "best man for the Job" Ray Schultz and Tim Keller's and retired cop Dan Klein's take on Schulz and the 2013 TASERGATE. Also see the April 30 posting on the Eye on Albuquerque on Schultz-"#RICOforRay" that includes the comments by another honest retired cop-Paul Heh.

IG Pacheco should have investigated this pay to play by Schultz with TASER in 2013 but you let this disgraceful Berry minion sit on it until new State Auditor Tim Keller came through. Heads should roll including some in procurement.

This no bid contract to Taser Inc was not the first time Schultz was allowed by procurement to rip taxpayers off. Years ago without again asking for bids, he spent almost $10 million on new black Dodge Charger muscle cars from a local dealer (Berry campaign contributor?) for $40,000 each.

He knew that it was the most mechanically unreliable police car available and even had an exhaust leakage problem inside the car. Other police departments were buying Chevrolet Impalas, a better vehicle but the Impala didn't fit Schultz desired of APD macho and must be feared image.

At previous council meetings you also ignored no bid contracts to buddies of Berry, Riordan and others. We fear you will do it again and again.

One of the real reasons for the lack of transparency and accountability in APD ignored in the bogus agreement is the Berry directed non compliance with NM IPRA requests by APD-beginning with Reynaldo Chavez who was discussed in two recent stories in the ABQ Free Press. See attached

Also see KOB's Ryan Luby's great story (attached) on APD's disgraceful IPRA stonewaller Reynaldo Chavez. Until Eden and Berry did some damage control and relieved him, Reynaldo willingly did Eden's and Rob "Mutt" Perry and R. "Jeff" Berry's bidding and made sure there was no transparency and accountability in APD.

I wonder where KRQE's well publicized superstar investigative reporter has been as he seems afraid of investigating APD while allowing the other good reporters at KRQE to do so.

New allegations surface over 'arrogance factor' within APD

Created: 04/30/2015 10:52 PM By: Ryan Luby, KOB Eyewitness News 4

One of the three employees placed on leave within the public records unit at the Albuquerque Police Department believes his absence will negatively impact the city's commitment to transparency. According to the department, it's investigating "allegations of unprofessional conduct, workplace safety and inadequate supervision which have impacted the efficiency and effectiveness of the [Inspection of Public Records Act] Unit."

4 Investigates contacted Reynaldo Chavez, APD's public records custodian, who's one of the three employees placed on leave. He would not speak on camera on Thursday, but over the phone outlined what he said is his side of the story. According to Chavez, the department has not laid out specific reasons for the investigation against him or the other two employees.

However, he said it's likely connected to his interaction with a temp worker --- a woman who had routinely missed days of work since she started three months ago. Chavez said he found her crying on Tuesday not long after he asked her to bring doctors' notes whenever she's unable to work. Chavez said within hours of her speaking with APD's internal affairs personnel, he and the other two employees were placed on leave. Still, he believes there may be bigger issues at play.

Chavez said he's had a contentious relationship with his supervisor, Bill Slauson, who was promoted to Executive Director of the Administrative Support Bureau late last year. He said Slauson believes there's no need for the public records unit and that it shouldn't exist. Slauson did not respond to KOB's request for comment through a department spokesperson on Thursday.

Chavez also described what he calls an "arrogance factor" at APD. He believes his absence from the public records unit will hamper the department's transparency, in violation of the Department of Justice agreement.

Both an APD spokesperson who??? and Gilbert Montano, an embarrassment who sold his soul to the devil a deputy chief administrative officer in the mayor's office, denied the transparency claims. "I've been provided no information from anyone within the department or current administration that would reduce, eliminate, or in any way change the makeup of the IPRA unit to serve the function that it is called to do," Montano said in an interview with 4 Investigates on Thursday.B.S.

He said he'd certainly listen to Chavez's concerns once the personnel investigation concludes. "[T]he outcomes and the recommendations that result from that, and what we find and determine to be in the best interest of the management, oversight and day-to-day implementation, will be just that," Montano said. More B.S.

Chavez said he's contacted several high-profile attorneys in Albuquerque and is preparing to file a lawsuit against APD if need be. He should sue. He believes the department needed to be specific as to why it placed him on leave.

He said he'd continue to work for the city, but said he would never work for APD again. Chavez has worked for APD for the last four years. He said he has a bachelor's degree in business administration, a Master's degree in human resources, and has completed post-Master's work in Management Information Systems (MIS). What he needed was a degree in integrity as he went along with this IPRA stonewalling for four years.

He said he's developed and built databases for the department to streamline information. Chavez is intimately familiar with nearly all of the inner workings of APD. He said he's "seen everything." He was among the people responsible for producing documents for the New Mexico State Auditor in connection to its audit of former Chief Ray Schultz's relationship with TASER International. Whoopie! Reynaldo stonewalled my many IPRA requests and those of others.

KOB expects Chavez to speak on-camera and outline more concerns about the department in the next few days. Will Reynaldo be bought off as APD did to Darren White's disgraceful PIO?

Apparis a man at the Albuquerque Police Department, sitting alone at his desk, talking to no one else in his organization, denying public records requests from the public and news media. Some of these denials are for records requested by investigative reporters. Some denials come in response lo requests by lawyers, including lawyers for the ACLU, Others come in response to people with Individual grievances against the police.

According to this man, these dentals happen without consultation with his police superiors - lieutenants, commanders, deputy chlefs, assistant chlef or the chief.

They also occur without his consulting with anyone over at City Hall, Including the Mayor's office, the Chief Administrative Officer or even - except in rare instances - lawyers at the City Attomey's office.

In his time on the job, this man has handled 2,000 to 3,000 inspection Public Records Act requests per year, he savs

His training for handling these requests, he says, was an intensive "one-on-one" with former City Clerk Amy Bailey on public records laws.

The training may have also included although he's not sure - attending an IPRA training program. He says he is "vaguely" aware such training exists and "may" have aclually attended such a session or something "related closely to It."

This man, who has been on the job for four years, has cost the city tens of thousands of dollars in legal sottlements over those records denials.

And he gets to keep his job. Meet Reynaldo Chayez.

If Chavez's testimony in a deposition is to be believed, he is the sole arbiter, the Judge, the decider, the Supreme Court, the czar, the Caesar, the King Louis XIV of what we are allowed to know about Chavez's deposition in late October came in a lawsult filed last winter by this newspaper and independent journalist Peler St. Cyr. Before ABQ Free Press published its first issue, we sought an Inventory of APD's military weapons and equipment. Chavez denied our IPRA request.

Nothing about the sensitivity of a records request by news media or the public influences his decision, he testified. Nor does the sensitive nature of any request compel him to seek counsel from his police superiors or others in City Hall or from city lawyers, he said.

That's Reynaldo Chavoz's story about how he handles the six or seven requests he gets, on average, each day, every day of the week, 365 days a year.

So, he must be one of the most powerful people in city government.

We have yet to get the weapons inventory, even though we know it reported on by our local media has for - makes zoro difference a to your eacuation about whether exists and even though we know it must be reported to the New Mexico Department of Public Salety and to line Department of Delense, whose weapons and equipment are on loan to APD.

permitalind A. LININK INS andwarded that in our case, Chavez decided that telling us about the military weapons invantory would help terrorists. So, out came his big, red block-letter "DENIED" rubber stamp (I'm speaking rhetorically here).

We believe that when the weapons inventory is finally made public, it will show that APD has lost some of the DOD equipment - Including, as we report in this issue, an M16 assault rifle. Maybe Reynaido Chavez's denials reflect the "old" APD and not the "new" APD that Mayor Richard Berry and Chief Gordon Eden say is committed to constitutional policing in this town. Maybe he'll see the light and realize how much his big, red rubber stamp is costing APD in public trust and taxpayer dollars.

And maybe we'll get to see how APD has accounted for all the military weapons and equipment it has grown so lond of.

We doubt it.

Because while some things may be changing at APD, a lot is not at City Hall.

Day the ball to the But of I Des Por-

BY DAN VUKELICH

Before this newspaper published its first issue back In April, ABQ Free Press and Peler St. Cyr. an independent loumatist who periodically writes lor us, asked for the Albuquerque Police Department's Inventory of its military-style weapons.

Costs ABQ Big Money

APD Records Stonewalling

When we were refused, we sued APD under the provisions of the New Maxico Inspection of Public Records Act. The case has been percolating along for months, but quite shortly, depositions will be taken - by both sides.

The public records law, commonly called IPRA, has protections built in to protect the public from unreasonable denial of public records. If found by a judge or jury to have wrongly withhald records, a governmental entity - like the City of Albuquerque and APD - can be liable for payment of the requestors' attorneys' fees, costs, and up to $100 a day in damagas.

Since we filled our case, KRQE Channel 13 filled a broader case. The TV station's suit alleges that APD has engaged in a pattern of wrongly withholding public records, including: lapel-camera video; records related to the James Boyd shooling; correspondence relating to the U.S. Department of Justice's probe of APD; records regarding APD shootings since 1994; APD's dealings with former APD Chief Ray Schultz and Taser: APD's 2013 review of its use-of-force policy; SWAT team reports of various incidents; surveillance viceo of the Mayor's Office during a protest and sit-in; crime-scene photos; dash-cam lootage; and an Inventory of APD weapons.

The TV station asked for more records than I can list here - but you get the idea. In all cases, APD refused to release the requested information or was not lully responsive in what it did release. Some of the KRQE cases go back more than a year.

When totaled up, should the city be found in violation of the records act, APD - or, more properly, Albuquerque texpayers - could be on the hook for well over $100,000 for the KRQE case alone.

This pattern of refusal to release public records is being used against the public, as well as the news media. Reports of settlements and case dispositions that Council shows the city paid more than $48,000 in damages in three citizens' records cases between Oct. 1, 2013, and June 30, 2014.

Colin Hunter, an attorney with the Barnett Law Firm, who is representing this newspaper in its IPRA case against APD, said the deniate are part of a legal strategy by APD and the city.

They are making a PR and calculated risk assessment decision in denying these requests," Hunter said, "hoping that the requestors go away and that only one in 10 will actually sue."

Hunter said he believes the city will seek to dismiss the newspaper as a plaintiff and out its exposure under the bad-faith portion of the IPRA statute, which calls for damages to be paid to all plaintiffs wrongfully denied records.

The records denials are the stick in APD's carrol-and-slick strategy In dealing with the news media - which is play ball with us and we'll spcon-feed you access, storles, video, mug shots and story leads; ask difficult questions and get the slick - no cooperation, no access and a big "no comment."

To be fair, other acencies do the same thing. The governor's people don't answer questions they don't like. Hell, they don't even return phone calls from modia outlets they don't like.

But the APD records situation has become intolerable for a population that requires spin-free information to hold a troubled police department accountable. Case law is against APD and the civillans directing its policy. Taxpayers are paying the financial price, but eventually, someone's going to pay a political price.

This issue marks our sixth month of publication. Our readership is growing and, just as importantly, our advertising is picking up. People have told us they've been looking for another media voice in our community. We hope we're providing that voice.

We'll gladly accept your suggestions. All you need to do is talk to the manager or owner and ask them if they'd be willing to let us to distribute there. Send us an email with the business name, address and the person you talked to and we'll get it done.

See below on Greenwood. He not only lied to the Council when claiming he spoke for the DOJ on his proposed knowingly bad police oversight ordinance changes , but also refused to admit when interviewed on PBS's In Focus show that he worked for Taser Inc, like buddies Schultz and Streicher.

He also spent lavishly on his $240K expense account-even an extra $100 to have his dog in his hotel room. The guy is a disgrace.

Can't new City attorney Hernandez be trusted to betray the people?

Since when do you also allow a federal judge to decide that we taxpayers should give PMR Inc $4.5million for four years and replace a citizen-Pony Pirard with the corrupt police APOA leadership. The DOJ even allowed the APOA at the negotiating table while banning us and you councilors. See New York Times article about police unions below. It's not about liberals or conservatives but those willing to serve the people.

See the attached May 3 posting by the Eye on Albuquerque on Schultz, Berry and the entire corrupt enablers downtown Tonight, we'll find out just who of you will finally be for WE THE PEOPLE and those who want to maintain the police state we have here that under Berry has gotten worse-made this City the disgrace of the nation.

P.S

Now more waste of our tax dollars-this time $90,000/year on a new insider propagandist who Berry claims has experience in "strategic communications and public affairs issue management."-TRANSLATED-She can lie better than Waldo-R. Jeff Berry who goes deeper into his hole, and his other high paid liars Mutt Perry, Gil Montano, Chief Eden, cops Roseman, Tixier, Espinoza and others. See Joe Monahan's comments today on Erin Gentry attached. APD's Janet Blair finally got fed up with lying for Eden and Berry and quit. Will Erin have the same integrity? Doubtful-as she is part of Guv Martinez's cabal.

Here is a snap shot of Greedy Greenwood. Greedy Greenwood stuffed his face and his pockets with the PEOPLE'S money in a little video I did last week. Since then, much has happened. IPRA employees on leave or fired or whatever. WHY? Cuz you all violating our rights... AGAIN. RAY RAY- loser, trickster, gangsta sell out is now under scrutiny again, making Albuquerque more of a national embarrassment. RAY RAY was a disgrace when he was 'Chief' of police as he is today. Shameful. Chief is an earned title--- EDEN does not deserve the title of Chief. PO PO still hurting our people, beating up homeless people, saying "who's the man?' Seems like the PO have self-identity issues.

Same with Sandy when he said he would "Shoot that fucking lunatic in the penis". The ties with Taser International are more than enough to shut Greedy Greenwood down and get him out of MY CITY, your city, OUR CITY!! We, NM, are dead last by design. Same dirty money being pushed under neither the same dirty table by the same dirty hands. Rise to the occasion! Demand better for us all. Time is now for City Council to stand with the people they claim to represent. Enjoy the lawless video.

Our Police Union Problem

http://www.nytimes.com/2015/05/03/opinion/sunday/ross-douthat-our-police-unionproblem.html?hp&action=click&pgtype=Homepage&module=c-column-top-spanregion®ion=c-column-top-span-region&WT.nav=c-column-top-span-region&_r=0

For decades now, conservatives have pressed the case that public sector unions do not serve the common good. The argument is philosophical and practical at once. First, the state monopoly on certain vital services makes even work slowdowns unacceptable and the ability to fire poorperforming personnel essential, and a unionized work force creates problems on both fronts. Second, the government's money is not its own, so negotiations between politicians and their employees (who are also often their political supporters) amount to a division of spoils rather than a sharing of profits. Third, these negotiations inevitably drive up the cost of public services, benefiting middle-class bureaucrats at the expense of the poor, and saddling governments with long-term fiscal burdens that the terms of union contracts make it extremely difficult to lift. Finally, union lobbying power can bias public-policy decisions toward the interests of state employees. To take just one particularly perverse example: In California over the last few decades, the correctional officers union first lobbied for a prison-building spree and then, wellentrenched, exercised veto power over criminal justice reform. These points add up to a strong argument that the rise of public sector unions represents a decadent phase in the history of the welfare state, a case study in the warping influence of self-dealing and interest-group politics. But as we've been reminded by the agony of Baltimore, this argument also applies to a unionized public work force that conservatives are often loath to criticize: the police. Police unions do have critics on the right. But thanks to a mix of cultural affinity, conservative support for law-andorder policies and police union support for Republican politicians, there hasn't been a strong right-of-center constituency for taking on their privileges. Instead, many Republican governors have deliberately exempted police unions from collective-bargaining reforms — and one who didn't, John Kasich of Ohio, saw those reforms defeated.

In an irony typical of politics, then, the right's intellectual critique of public-sector unions is illustrated by the ease with which police unions have bridled and ridden actual right-wing politicians. Which in turn has left those unions in a politically enviable position, insulated from any real pressure to reform. Yet reform is what they need. There are many similarities between police officers and teachers: Both belong to professions filled with heroic and dedicated public servants, and both enjoy deep reservoirs of public sympathy as a result. But in both professions, unions have consistently exploited that sympathy to protect failed policies and incompetent personnel.

With this important difference, however: Even with the worst teacher, the effects are diffused across many years and many kids, and it's hard for just one teacher to do that much damage to any given student. A bad cop, on the other hand, can leave his victim dead or permanently damaged, and under the right circumstances one cop's bad call — or a group of cops' habitual thuggishness — can be the spark that leaves a city like Baltimore in flames. Last December, my colleague David Brooks noted that police unions are resisting change on every issue where police reform might be contemplated, from body cameras for officers to reversing the militarization of local law enforcement. But after the untimely death of Freddie Gray, no issue looms larger than the need to discipline, suspend and fire police officers who don't belong on the streets — and the obstacles their unions put up to that all-too-necessary process. The cases from all over the country where unions and arbitration boards have reinstated abusive cops make for an extraordinary and depressing litany. Baltimore is no exception. Last fall, The Baltimore Sun reported on the police commissioner's struggle to negotiate enough authority to quickly remove and punish his own cops, and the union's resistance to swift action and real oversight persists.

What we know so far about the officer who first pursued Mr. Gray (his history of mental health issues, in particular) suggests that he might have benefited from being eased into a different line of work. This issue is particularly pressing if you believe that some of the aggressive police tactics criticized in the wake of Mr. Gray's death, and Eric Garner's in Staten Island — the stress on quality-of-life and "broken windows" policing, the focus on misdemeanors and disorderly conduct — have played a significant role in America's declining crime rate and our much-safer cities. Some liberals have decided these tactics haven't made a difference, or that they aren't needed anymore. I think this view is naïve, and dangerously so. But to sustain this kind of police work, it's necessary to restrain the excesses associated with it; to restrain those excesses, it's necessary to hold cops accountable. And that can only happen if we reckon with the ways in which police unions, no less than other interest groups, can align against the public that their

The Taser Bust: More Cockroaches Under City Hall's Carpets? Plus: Speculation on Keller's Future, A New Spinmeister For Berry and Going Nuclear In Hobbs

Now-that on a big far cock roach has crawled iout, from under the carpets of city/Hall, the question is whether there are in one to come.

State Auditor Timikeller Eusted former ARD Chief Ray Schultz for "greasing" a nearly $2 million div contract for Tase, maker of police video land, cameras, The Berry administration is reacting by administration there are some weaknesses in the city "procurement code." That's prompted city Hall watchers to ask if Taser is the only cuestionable contract approved by ARD or other city agencies under this faulty procurement code or are there. more cockroaches to come?

As for Keller, his aggressive move against Schultz and the Taser deal—he said there have were criminal violations of ethics laws and forwarded the audit to the AG and DA-put the political guessing game into overdrive.

Vere an politicon art independent Mike Samullo: took note of our Edday blog on speculation about Keller seeking the ... 18 Dem Guv nomination by adding, "Don't forget the '17 mayoral race." We are quite away out but aside from a couple of elty councilors) at am not hearing any blog names. thestarges of Keller's investigation makes me wonder if his audience is Albuquerque voters. Although its no searct Keller and (Attorney General) Baldetas are both eving the fourth floor of the Roundhouse, its also no searct that in 2013 s before the APO arkis fills the fam with the tames. Boyd shooting video—Keller was eving the mayor's office. He likely took one-look as Berry's kigh approval rating and decided to take appasse or a rain the decisit possible Keller is keeping his options open and he could also be looking at a mayoral run in 2017?

Eringentry will collect a handsome salary in the $90,000 area but as a full fiedged member in good standing of the Cluvⁱs political machine, it's hard to see anything but more of the same. Not that Berry couldn't use some Dale Carnegie lessons

His relationship with the three TV-stations is in shreds because of the constant APD stonewalling over public records...Berry has lost much of a politician smost precious asset with the mediar trust. The newspaper is still hanging onto his coattails but one wonders how long that can last as TV news gets the jump on the big stories like the faser corruption, leaving the paper in the dust.

And how about tase? No wordes, really. When they inked the deal with the city its stock was trading at under $9 a share = Today It's in the $32 area tanearly 300 percent dimb = $111, the company's generosity in entertaining (and hiding), police chiefs has worn attonal notice. Below are some comrades' comments on the BCSO's latest likely murder-the reason the disgraceful BCSO Sheriff Manny Gonzalez doesn't want body recorders for his officers.

Like APD, Gonzales says-no recordings-no proof of lies told by his officers. Recordings protect honest officers and expose killers as Gonzales knows.

APD has over 1000 Scorpions video recorders bought in 2010 and 2011 that are sitting on a shelf unused.

In defiance of a recent Supreme Court ruling the arrogant lawless Gonzales is still seizing citizens' cell phones to destroy any proof that his officers lied. What a scumbag Manny is!

Maybe it's time for the DOJ to investigate the BCSO.

Silvio For WE THE PEOPLE

See you tonight

Father Quintana and I spoke with the daughters and family of Billy Grimm today. Very sad to say the least. Report of BCSO are more than conflicting with the witness. It is also important to point out that the OIS with Billy Grimm is that they were approached by BCSO for 'suspicion of domestic violence'. The gist of the information given by the family is that 'Their car had some issues and would not start, leaving them stranded. The couple walked to a nearby relatives house for some jumper cables and a ride back to what BCSO describe as an 'abandon car'. After BCSO 'cleared' the call and gave the couple their ID's back another BCSO wanted Mr. Grimm to get out of the ca, When Grimm 'refused' BCSO escalated the situation- and shot and killed Billy Grimm a short while later. Paramedics did not arrive until 2 hours later. When Grimm's girl friend tried calling the paramedics herself BCSO took her phone and threw it in a patrol car and then placed the girlfriend in the patrol car for being hysterical and what not. Other family members did not see a gun at the crime SEEN or in the evidence bags that were being carried away.

All this according to the family. A candle vigil will be on Wednesday in solidarity with the family members. Please attend if you can share the invite.

This is right from the dictionary and seems to describe Albuquerque, Berry and Schultz. Fascism (f ash, izem) noun An authoritarian right wing system of government and/or social organization. (in general use) extreme right wing, authoritarian, chauvinistic and/or intolerant views or practices. Fascism tends to include a belief in the supremacy of one group over another, national, ethnic, especially social strata or monetarily; a contempt for democracy, an insistence on obedience to a powerful leader, and a strong demagogic approach. Compliments of one of our Eyes.

May 3, 2015 EYE ON ALBUQUERQUE

Ray Schultz and his Merry Bunch

Now the State Auditor, Tim Keller, has truthfully exposed Ray Schultz and his extra-curricular activities; where is the long list of his cohorts who were active participants in his activities?

We know Schultz's famous claim to fame concerning "nature at play" but was it "nature at play" when Schultz and his friends from APD were in San Diego visiting a 'Girls Gone Wild' club on 'business' with Taser? Who was in Mr. Schultz's company while at the 'Girls Gone Wild' club? And exactly what kind or 'type' of business were they conducting?

We here at the Eye also want to hear more from the State Auditor or any investigative body concerning any other dealing(s) Ray Schultz and any of his friends, family, associates, cohorts or any other person or business who has ties to Schultz in any way, shape or forum. The reason for this question is this: did Ray Ray sell the farm for a cheap trip to San Diego? Perhaps a promise of a lucrative job in the future? Neither of these seems pliable. Ray Ray was already making $140,000.00 per year. Speaking of future this brings us to another plausible possibility and question.

Taser was at around $8.00 a share when Schultz started his dealing with Taser in 2013ish and Taser closed Friday at approximately $34.00 a share. Is it possible Schultz and Company were buying Taser stock low and then selling when Taser announced they had just signed a multi-million dollar deal with the City of Albuquerque? Was this how the "Wheels were being greased?" We think a lot more than just a few wheels were greased. What transpired with Taser, Nate Corn and other vendors left a door open for dishonesty and other acts which may prove to be criminal. The State Auditor only scraped the tip of the iceberg. The monstrosity of what lies beneath remains to be discovered. We here at the Eye On Albuquerque warned all about Schultz but Berry bet his career on Schultz.

As our top statement clearly says exactly what type of person we believe Berry and Schultz truly are. Well, Mr. Berry; YOU LOSE. And your bid for the Governor's Office is over before it even began. Yes, we know all about your other little dirty secrets. Just a thought for Berry as he ponders his other options like running for a third term as Albuquerque Mayor; people do not like dishonesty just ask the last mayor.

We here at the Eye applaud Timothy Keller. Based on his honestly in bringing forth this case clearly shows Mr. Keller's potential. Can you imagine a governor, senator, or a congressman who is really honest and not just another politician saying they are honest just to get your vote? His party affiliation makes no difference to us; it's all about being honest and telling the truth. Mr. Keller has a bright future; Kudos to him!

Good Morning, Julian.

I'm following up on the email I sent on the 28th. I know things get lost in the shuffle sometimes.

Leonard, Scott, and I have a meeting of the Case Review Committee this coming week, Thursday. I'd like to be able to give a brief to that subcommittee RE my conversation with Councilors. If you're not quite ready to answer questions about the next meeting Councilors said they'd be arranging as a multistakeholder discussion of "training" for the POB (the content of my earlier email), would you please offer me an update on this issue--anything you know tentatively up to this point?

Thanks.

Hello Moira,

I am sorry for the delay, but we are still working to get that meeting together. It's looking like we will not be able to have it before Monday, May 4th which means the Councilors will probably defer it again, to the following City Council Meeting.

That's all the information I really have right now, but let me know if you have any other questions.

Thank you,

Good Morning, Julian.

I'm following up on the email I sent on the 28th. I know things get lost in the shuffle sometimes.

Leonard, Scott, and I have a meeting of the Case Review Committee this coming week, Thursday. I'd like to be able to give a brief to that subcommittee RE my conversation with Councilors. If you're not quite ready to answer questions about the next meeting Councilors said they'd be arranging as a multistakeholder discussion of "training" for the POB (the content of my earlier email), would you please offer me an update on this issue---anything you know tentatively up to this point?

Thanks.

As always,

Moira

Thanks, Julian. That's just what I needed -- an update.

Will you please let me know if the proposal we were/are concerned with was indeed deferred again last night?

I'd like to invite you to the first meeting of the Case Review Committee --- a standing subcommittee of the POB. We're meeting at 9:30 a.m. Thursday morning, in the Plaza del Sol Building, Basement Hearing Room, #160. We'll be spending most of our time discovering details of how/why/when/and by what means certain cases reach us at our monthly scheduled meeting, and whether/where we need to intervene to assure quality and quantity issues.

I'll attach the agenda here. Give it a look and see if our scheduled discussions might be something useful to you.

Best,

Moira

Subject:	What i would have said last night to City council
Date:	Tuesday, May 05, 2015 9:32:21 AM

If i had been able to speak last night during public comment (if i'd gotten there early enough to sign up) i would have said:

1. Contempt for Democratic Process: Thank you Councilors for not taking away Public Comment period from City Council meetings. Without Public Comment, claims to being a democracy, government by the people, would ring hollow. Sad that public comment has been limited to one hour though. And shame on the Administration and Chief of Police for walking out en mass when the Public Comment period began. What contempt they show to the democratic process and to the people by walking out like that. The administration is also showing contempt for City Council by walking out, as you represent the people.

2. Terminate or Phase Out Greenwood's Contract: It is deeply disturbing that the representatives of the people---aka City Councilors---approve paying out taxpayer money for a $350 per hour consultant--Scott Greenwood----who does what? He advises the administration to not make too many concessions for true change to how police treat residents of this city. It's like getting the hens to pay the fox to guard the henhouse. I completely support Alan Wagman's comments and suggestion that Greenwood's contract be phased out if not immediately terminated.

3. Give ABQJustice a Piece of Dirt: I urge the City Council to take the money that would have gone to extending Greenwood's contract and earmark that money to be spent on a contract for the hard working, tireless, dedicated community activists who have been assisting homeless folks who are metro camping, being moved around due to the threat of forcible evictions from here and there and everywhere, ABQJustice, so that they can run an orderly, community-building, transitional tent city or metro camp for folks who don't meet the criteria to stay at the shelters in town. All they are asking for a piece of dirt---a bit of land that they won't be kicked off of. Look at what Las Cruces did.

Families living on the street, even while doing their very best to provide for their children, is a reality that most housed people do not want to accept or even acknowledge. We can't make people care. There are 6000 homeless children attending APS and there are empty houses all over the city. The fact remains, very few people care. There is no reason that the city can't implement a program to help these families by allowing them to live in these homes that are going into foreclosure. It never fails to amaze me how people just want to make more and more money while children in their own city don't even have a place to live or enough to eat.

Case Review Subcommittee members:

I am writing to request direction regarding what materials you would like to review for your meeting on Thursday. Currently, there are about 32 CPC cases ready for POB Review, which are in the process of being reviewed by APD's Chain of Command. By Thursday, there will be a few more in that category.

In the past, the Police Oversight Commission reviewed all CPC cases which were fully investigated, in which I had drafted a proposed finding letter and APD had completed their review in month prior to the meeting. I did not select CPC cases; I provided each to the Commission as soon as it came through the process. The POC review the CPC cases sequential to APD's review.

At the March 2015 Police Oversight Board Meeting, I presented to the Board all CPC cases which were completed through the revised system set forth in the amended Police Oversight Ordinance and requirements of the Settlement Agreement. Which meant in March that I submitted to the Board all cases in which the CPOA Office had completed the investigation and I had drafted the findings letter. I had sent all these cases to APD for their review, but APD had not completed their review prior to the POB receiving the cases. I made no selection of cases, merely a presentation of all cases which were through the revised simultaneous POB & APD review process.

Currently, there are 32 cases which have been through the CPOA Investigative and proposed finding process. I do not know which, if any, of these 32 cases the Chief has completed his review. If you would like me to determine this, I will inquire at APD. I can send you all 32 proposed findings letters, if you wish. If there is any selection to be made, If any decision should be made about selection of cases, it would be appropriate for the Subcommittee to select cases for placement on the May 19, 2015 POB Agenda. I have never selected CPC cases for any Agenda in the past. However, if you would like me to start this practice, I need some direction from the Subcommittee what parameters you would wish me to use to do so.

I have attached another copy of the Case Status chart, which reflects 31 pending cases for POB Review. I completed one yesterday and sent the case to APD for their review. We will send some more CPC cases to APD this week, as well.

Please let me know how you wish to proceed.

Thanks, Robin

Hi, Robin. I don't have time right now to go through this completely, but I can say that you should be able to sort out what we'll need, at least more or less, by way of what we're going to _cover_ in our meeting. Also, in previous emails to you and to the entire Board, I've said clearly that we'll want to understand the entire process -- including how things are to proceed ideally, and how things get bunked up.

Notably, for instance, you seem aware that the difference between having 2 cases ready for review at our first meeting and 32 ready for our next meeting, is something we'd like to query and see substantiated --- given the fact that you say you've never "selected." What happened between now and then, given the fact that both meetings have/had same minimum entry point: here had been 6 months of backlog (when there was no sitting Board) previous to our first meeting, just as there are 6 months (+) minimum backlog now?

Also, I can say that yes, we will want you to discover which cases the Chief has already reviewed, of those 32 you say are ready for us. This might be a good standard procedure in the future, but that will be part of what we'll sort out on Thursday. For now, yes, I'd like to know that.

Third, I'd like to see a Case Status Chart _by day_ from our last full Board meeting on through tomorrow (Wednesday, 5th).

And, naturally, anything you and Paul have been able to put together for the Personnel Committee up to this point (their request for a more decipherable flowchart, perhaps including a "swim-lanes" style document, obviously overlaps with our work in Case Review).

That's what I can think of just now. Take the agenda as your guide, but these few things for certain.

Best,

Moira

Case Review Subcommittee members:

I am writing to request direction regarding what materials you would like to review for your meeting on Thursday. Currently, there are about 32 CPC cases ready for POB Review, which are in the process of being reviewed by APD's Chain of Command. By Thursday, there will be a few more in that category. In the past, the Police Oversight Commission reviewed all CPC cases which were fully investigated, in which I had drafted a proposed finding letter and APD had completed their review in month prior to the meeting. I did not select CPC cases; I provided each to the Commission as soon as it came through the process. The POC review the CPC cases sequential to APD's review.

At the March 2015 Police Oversight Board Meeting, I presented to the Board all CPC cases which were completed through the revised system set forth in the amended Police Oversight Ordinance and requirements of the Settlement Agreement. Which meant in March that I submitted to the Board all cases in which the CPOA Office had completed the investigation and I had drafted the findings letter. I had sent all these cases to APD for their review, but APD had not completed their review prior to the POB receiving the cases. I made no selection of cases, merely a presentation of all cases which were through the revised simultaneous POB & APD review process.

Currently, there are 32 cases which have been through the CPOA Investigative and proposed finding process. I do not know which, if any, of these 32 cases the Chief has completed his review. If you would like me to determine this, I will inquire at APD. I can send you all 32 proposed findings letters, if you wish. If there is any selection to be made, If any decision should be made about selection of cases, it would be appropriate for the Subcommittee to select cases for placement on the May 19, 2015 POB Agenda. I have never selected CPC cases for any Agenda in the past. However, if you would like me to start this practice, I need some direction from the Subcommittee what parameters you would wish me to use to do so.

I have attached another copy of the Case Status chart, which reflects 31 pending cases for POB Review. I completed one yesterday and sent the case to APD for their review. We will send some more CPC cases to APD this week, as well.

Please let me know how you wish to proceed.

Thanks,

Robin

For anyone who wonders why Berry is trying to distract all from his gross incompetence and disrespect for honest cops and citizens with these phony PR initiatives to solve nonexistent problems that he is having his propagandist dream up, see the attached posting by Joe Monahan and May 7 posting in the ABQ Free Press.

Sine he was elected in 2009 this city is going to Hell in a hand basket while Berry believes everyone doesn't know this and is stupid.

See the difference in leadership between Tucson's competent and this city's incompetent leadership as reported by Joe-attached.

The lawsuits keep coming, yet another by a retaliated against honest APD cop as reported by the ABQ Free Press at http://www.freeabq.com/?p=1836 and shown below.

I wonder how Berry is going to spin this and how much of our tax dollars will be spent defending the corrupt Chief Eden and Lt. Michael Archibeque

The lack of certification could invalidate the state police certifications of as many as 100 Albuquerque police, the suit by 30-year APD veteran John Corvino alleges. Corvino, a certified instructor at the academy, said he contacted the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy to report the problem and was told by his APD supervisors to cease all contact with state officials. When he refused, he was suspended for two weeks without pay for insubordination, investigated by APD Internal Affairs, ostracized, subjected to verbal abuse, and barred from teaching at the academy. The cover-up, Corvino alleges, came during a critical period when the U.S. Department of Justice was investigating APD training in connection with what later would be found to be a pattern of use of excessive force. As part of the cover-up, the suit alleges that the director of the APD academy demanded that Corvino sian a fabricated letter claimina that Corvino had taught the problematic classes. Corvino refused to sign the letter, his suit says. Corvino's lawsuit, filed in Bernalillo County District Court, names APD Chief Gorden Eden: Lt. Michael Archibeaue, the head APD officer in charae of the academy; and the academy's director, Joseph Wolf, a civilian. The suit seeks compensatory and punitive damages. - Dan Vukelich

A Tale Of Two Cities: ABO And Tueson, What Went Right There And Wrong Here The wors of ABO have been well-throntoledd ere three call years, including the failure of the state and city: to adequately investigatiself in the wake of the reconomic crash. loe, your recent column outlining how the decay of the iconic Tingley Coliser in was brought about by inexcusable neglect and short sightedness due to a word infect y and state leadership. brought to mind an earlier era. I recalled when Albuquerque was the "go to city" other municipalities wanted to replicate for progressive rebirth, development and job creation.

It was 2009, a year following the collapse of Wall Street, but Albuquerque was still on the upswing, boasting revitalization of the downtown and job creation with massive developments such as Mesa Del Sol and the selection of Albuquerope over Tueson by Schott Solar for a 200,000 square foot facility to manufacture their solar panels. The future of the city couldn't have been brighter, or so they boasted.

From this success, there were lessons to be learned and fucsion, struggling with slow job prowth and numerous failures in attempting to rejuvenate its downtown, wanted to learn fusiliand how Albuqueroue had been so successful in developing a private/public partnership.

In each an 2002, the Turson Regional Economic Opportunities (IREO) investors sponsored a Three clay "Fearlership Exchange Thip" to Albuque que and Santa Fefor 40 plus elected officials and dividual adjustors are first hand how the successes of this comparable sized dity were adheved. The trony is the trippocourred just days after Mayor Chavez lost his re-election bid to quarent Mayor RH Benny.

the local newspaper even paid for a reporter to go along so that details of the trip could be recorded in hopes of bringing encouragement back to the weary taxpayers of Tucson and Pina County Now fast forward to 2015.

While Albuquerque has experienced job losses, population decline, development stagnation and a steep increase in violent crime, flucton has flour shed since that 2009 trip. Today downtown flucton is thriving with new restaurants, new upscale housing developments. University of Anzonarstucient housing complexes, an expansion and renovation of the convention center and a theater that attracts capacity crowds. The newly completed streetcar that traverses the downtown area has brought new life and business to these venues and has exceeded idership expectations. Two new and much needed instituted share received approval to serve the convention center area. In short, in the last three years huge and exciting changes have come to downtown flucton by way of over $320 million in public and private investment. That also includes the nine story corporate headquarters for UniSource Energy, the parent company of Tueson Electric Rower and completion of the multi-story Pime County Court building:

It's not just the restaurants, ententainment and hotelinooms that are contributing to the growth of Tucson and Plma Councy. In January, the Board of Regent's finalized and approved the menger of all thriversity Medical Center facilities with Phoenix based Banner. Health Care, the largest health care provider in Arizona. In announcing the merger, Banner Health Care, the inflicin capital injection for renovation and expansion of the existing Medical Center which will include a new Seven story tower. Over the mexiclew years, the merger and expansion is anticipated to create hundleds of new jobs as construction begins and new health care services are provided.

In January, HomeGoods, adivision of the IFX companies which includes Marshall's and it d. Maxy, announced that Tucson was chosen to become the site of their new $80 million West Considustribution center. Besides Tucson, HomeGoodsconsidered New Mexico, California and Nevada to build their new 800,000 square foot distribution center, it's expected to create 400 new Jobs upon completion, and approximately 900 long-term. As of February, the 100 acres needed to construct the facility had already been purchased and construction is scheduled to be completed this year.

This is only a small fraction of what's happening in this exciting area. While I always dreamed of moving to beautiful New Mexico, I'm glad we stayed in Tucson. Last April, we stopped in Albuquerque for a couple of days and were extremely disheartened by what appeared to be a major decline of the city we once loved to visit. Many areas, including the Northeast Heights, appeared neglected, unkempt, and dirty.

The roles have reversed since 2009. Perhaps the elected officials and civic leaders of Albuquerque and New Mexico-should now consider making a trip-to-fucson to see the results. of what Tucson's leadership may have leadered on that three, days rip in October, 2009, just prior to the "changing of the guard" in City Hall and a year later in the Roundhouse. What a dliference five years makes in two difference shared ideas for economic success.

Thanks, Leonard. Thanks, Robin.

Robin -- I want to follow up on our first exchange earlier today regarding what you should have available to us on Thursday. In addition to the requests I mentioned in that earlier email, I think it would be good to have a few more specifics about the life of each individual case.

Would you please assure that each staff member bring a table of their own cases, but unlike the one you've provided, to include: the date the complaint was received in your office, the date it was assigned to him/her as an investigator, the date the case was then completed by the investigator and turned back over to you? Then, if you'd be able to follow that on with: the date you bring the case to the POB, the date it goes out to the APD chain of command, and then the date the findings letter was mailed out to the complainant.

The "Case Status" documents you give us are great, and we'll sure use them, but they don't include these sorts of dates.

So, if each investigator was responsible for bringing their own table of cases with these dates of work flow, with the analyst's assistance, it wouldn't be too much on any individual. We don't want to overtax you, either, with recounting individual work flow details for which individual staff members are themselves expert.

Also, and 'm sure you're anticipating this in regard to agenda item IV-b, but please do be ready to provide the committee with updates on the cases we responded to in our March meeting.

Thanks.

Hi, Leonard and Scott ---

This is a lot of information, but I think we all three should have these documents tomorrow.

You'll see two spreadsheet (Excel) documents, one titled Status of Cases 2012 and it's partner titled Status of Cases 2013. These show some of the dates I was talking about in my query to Robin yesterday -- how to actually date the work flow itself, not based on individual investigator (though they could be sorted that way), but by dates of complaint, received at IRO, and assigned.

Please note in these two documents, a specific point that might come up tomorrow as we try to sort out how and where things get held up -- or at least, seem to stay "on the books" month after month:

Chris Davidson's start date in the IRO office was 2/26/2013, yet these records show that he was assigned cases on 2/5 and 2/12 of that year. [And, possibly given responsibility for a case that came in 9/19/12, with no change in his "assigned" date.] Apparently the same thing is true for the new hire Erin O'Neill -- she was assigned cases while she was still in Denver with the Denver Police Department.

Besides all the other questions this raises, it is a demonstration for us tomorrow about the challenges in collecting real timeline information.

The second set of documents demonstrate a more immediate problem, but troubling for all the same reasons: a Case Status and Investigation Status chart dated 4/23/2015, and a Case Status for POB chart dated 4/27/2015.

You'll notice some startling alterations in these two documents. Check, for instance, how Robin had 30 cases on 4/23, but over the very next weekend (which, not coincidentally, was the weekend leading up to the 4/27 Personnel Meeting), she seems to have resolved 28 of those cases -- down to 2.

NOTE: The analyst Paul Cash is responsible for, and prepared, the "Case Status and Investigation Status document of 4/23. This is part of what he does, I believe, monthly, or perhaps more often. Robin herself prepared the look-alike document, "Case status FOR POB," of 4/27, with no input from the analyst.

I do not bring your attention to these issues because I intend to run some sort of trial tomorrow. But, rather, because I think these sorts of facts are absolutely material to our attempts at discovering the actual processes in that office, the veracity of the information we are provided with, and the challenges of assuring that we, as a Board, have the best quality of information on which to base our own work.

Thanks for having a look. I haven't had time to study these carefully, and hope to find some time tonight, but I'd be glad to have your input.

Moira

Hi, Leonard and Scott. Please note, this end of day message from Robin is Robin putting us on notice that she does not want to talk about any cases that are NOT one of the 32 pending.

The reason for this is that she does NOT want to answer any of the questions I had yesterday about DATES -- and why and how things got stuck, for instance, on her desk for so long. Nothing in the "pending" cases have these dates attached to them.

It's the difference between the tables I sent this morning: one set was "pending" -so, none of the dates regarding how the work flows through (or doesn't). The other, longer documents, as you can see, provide ALL those details, but she's thrown down the gauntlet here: says she'll only be able to address "pending" cases tomorrow.

Of course, that's only half our agenda tomorrow: the second half of the meeting. If you have ideas about how you'd like to handle this, please let me know.

Moira

Ms. Hammer,

This is a much more meaningful depiction, thank-you.

I wonder, does the Executive Director really have nothing whatsoever to do with a complaint until the 80th day? No staff meeting, no supervision or shepherding of the complaints? I'm sure I'll have other questions as I study this, but this is a great start, thanks. -B

	MORE OF BERRY'S INSULTING PROPAGANDA AND LIES. WHEN WILL IT ALL END? WHEN HE LEAVES OFFICE OR RESIGNS-AS HE SHOULD?
Date:	Thursday, May 07, 2015 3:24:45 PM

All-Bcc

BERNCO-pass to Commissioners and County Manager.

Following e-mail below are FYI of all including our Councilors, the media and our new US AG Loretta Lynch in Washington DC

While the Mayor flees to Mexico or out of media's reach deep in his mouse hole/bunker, he has his new $90,000/year propagandist Erin Gentry coming up with (insulting to anyone's intelligence) bogus problems to pretend he is doing something about-hoping to distract us away from his failure to address the real problems of this city.

It looks like Erin Gentry will be expected to now sell her soul to the devils on the 11th floor-be his new Judas to earn the thirty pieces of silver given her.

The latest are Berry's bogus efforts to address the non-problem of panhandling and allegedly correct the disparity in pay between men and women in this city.

He calls this equal pay ordinance passed by the Council Monday as a "national model." Instead, it is B.S. at its very best.

Isn't it time for the Council President Garduno to say he will no longer sponsor such bills that knowingly are just Berry publicity stunts?

I'm sure the disgraceful Trudy Jones and/or Brad Winter will be more than willing to act again as Berry's stooges and sponsor such future propaganda legislation if Mr. Garduno won't.

Ethical APD PIO Janet Blair finally got fed up with lying for Berry, "Mutt" Perry, Eden and the whole corrupt cabal downtown and quit.

With Blair gone, Eden is now sending out his bad cops like Tanner Tixier-Jeremy Dear's accomplice in the murder of Mary Hawkes, Deputy Chief Roseman and Celina Espinosaall of whom have no credibility and are willing to lie. Note the new KOB report of Berry's bogus INSULTING excuse for TASERGATE—"There were problems with the way in which Albuquerque police bought hundreds of lapel cameras from Taser International, according to Mayor Richard Berry."Yeah, we had some breakdowns in the procurement process, some serious breakdowns," he said.

Mere problems? Are these alleged "breakdowns" synonymous with Berry "greasing" the contract to Taser Inc.-Schultz's employer while still on the City payroll?

Good job reporting TASERGATE by State Auditor Tim Keller and City Auditor Debra Yoshimura. Where is Berry's useless IG Pacheco's report on TASERGATE? Still working on it since 2013?

So the scapegoat for TASERGATE is now Lou Hoffman and his procurement people rather than Berry himself. This is much like Berry making APD's Records Custodian Reynaldo Chavez and two others for APD's defiance of our State law NM IPRA requests and not him and Perry.

I hope Chavez (who no longer has a City e-mail address) and the two others relieved of their duties sue and spill their guts.

Are you paying attention to any of this Mr. "no-show" (disrespectful to our legislative branch-the City Council) James Ginger? Do you also even care-Berry new attorney Ms. Hernandez?

Also to be reported soon is yet another honest cop at the APD Law Enforcement Academy suing Eden and others in the City. I wonder how Berry will spin that.

See the petition below by Progress Now NM below on this pay disparity legislation that the Council passed Monday. Ignored was the fact that it was just another Berry distraction PR stunt likely dreamed up by his new Judas-propagandist Erin Gentry.

Is everyone sufficiently disgusted with Berry yet?

Wife Maria likely asks R. "Jeff" Berry when he returns home each night-"Just who did you screw over and lie to today R.J.?

Disgusted

Silvio For WE THE PEOPLE P.S. Also check out this week's issue of the ABQ Free Press.

Also when is the disgraceful BERNCO Sheriff Manny Gonzales finally going to be forced to equip his deputies with body cameras?

I guess Manny is waiting for US Attorney Damon Martinez to equip his US Marshals with them. Don't hold your breath on this ever happening!

Erin

So for $90K/year it's now your job to come up with meaningless PR Berry stuff to distract people from the real problems. Before it was the ice rink like Rockefeller Plaza in NYC on the plaza and then the plants and tables and chairs there. Now it's the equal pay for women legislation. What's his own record there downtown?

Now it's pretending that panhandling is a problem and says APD doesn't have enough cops to control it so donate to the United Way. Yet he ignores the homeless of this city

Janet Blair quit doing Eden's and Berry's dirty work lying to/fooling the people and the question is whether $90K is enough to sell your soul to the devil-Berry?

PROGRESSNOWNM

How would you feel if your boss said he was going to reward your supervisor if he paid you 10% less than the guy down the hall doing the same job? That's exactly what Mayor Berry told women in Albuquerque when he proposed and passed his brand new "equal pay for women" ordinance this week.

Here's how the Albuquerque Journal describes it. An ordinance adopted by city councilors this week, at the request of Mayor Richard Berry, establishes a 5 percent preference in the evaluation process for businesses seeking a city contract.

The incentive will go to companies that show they pay women at least within 10 percent of what they pay men in comparable jobs...The city estimates that its own wage disparity is about 7 percent, according to testimony before the council on Monday. National figures vary, but the White House estimates that women make about 23 percent less than their male counterparts, on average..."It is time we start incentivizing the result we want," [Mayor Berry] said in a statement. The city even says this ordinance is a "national model."

I don't know about you, but 90% isn't 100% equal to me. And 90% is not the "result we want." Let's take this issue on and get the city's new ordinance amended to require - not reward - 100% equal pay for women who work for City Hall and companies who want to do business with taxpayers. Some councilors say this ordinance is a good first step. Let's help ABQ take the next step towards equal pay for equal work for every worker and contractor.

Join us in taking the next step to creating an equal pay for equal work city: sign this petition to Mayor Berry and the Council.

Mayor Berry: Mayor Berry: 90% pay is not equal pay for women

Thanks!

All: Amy Sirignano was very grateful for our confidence in her, unfortunately, she has a health issue that will make her unavailable for the next couple of months, possibly longer. She sincerely regrets that she will be unable to assist us at this time.

I will proceed with our next plan to request more information from our alternate candidates. I don't think we'll be able to get responses and get back together in time to make a recommendation for the May 19th meeting.

If we don't like any of the candidates based on their responses, we could open the search again.

Police Chief's Horrid Reign Gets Whitewashed

BY KEVIN OSBORNE · MARCH 23RD, 2011 · PORKOPOLIS

There's a tendency among many people to romanticize the past, and that's especially true of the mainstream media.

Unless a politician or other public official is convicted of a crime, virtually anyone is subject to the "rosecolored glasses" treatment upon his or her retirement or death. Maybe it's because it is easier to write puffery about someone than do serious, in-depth analysis of a long and complicated career.

This trend was in full display last weekend when The Enquirer ran a lengthy, glowing profile about Cincinnati Police ChiefThomas Streicher Jr., upon his retirement. The article, by reporter Jane Prendergast, included an interview with the chief under the headline, "Streicher leaves legacy of change." It included a videotaped interview and several flattering photographs.

Streicher, 57, of Green Township, is retiring after nearly 40 years with the department. He served 12 years as chief.

To hear Streicher tell it, via his Enquirer-appointed stenographer, he always supported the dozens of police reforms that resulted from the Collaborative Agreement. That was the catch-all name for an agreement with the U.S. Justice Department for improving police operations, along with a separate settlement of a class-action lawsuit that accused local police of harassing African Americans.

Although people tend to forget it now, the lawsuit already had been filed when on April 7, 2001, a police officer shot and killed Timothy Thomas, a 19-year-old, unarmed black man wanted only on misdemeanor warrants, during a foot chase down a dark Over-the-Rhine alley on a Saturday night.

Three days later, after Cincinnati Police refused to divulge any details about the shooting, scattered rioting broke out in parts of downtown and Over-the-Rhine.

Thomas was the 15th African-American killed by Cincinnati Police in five years, a period in which no white people had been killed in police encounters.

The lawsuit, meanwhile, had alleged a 30-year pattern of racially biased policing. Once riots erupted, city officials took a more conciliatory tone toward the suit, while also asking for a Justice Department review of the Police Department.

City officials eventually settled the lawsuit, although they didn't admit to any wrongdoing. As part of the deal, the city agreed to implement numerous changes in the department — with a federal court providing oversight for five years to make sure it was done.

Related to:Cincinnati newsCincinnati politicsTom StreicherCincinnati Enquirer-appointed stenographerromanticized history Ultimately, the monitoring period lasted six years (2003-08) because of a slow start.

Which brings us back to Streicher.

According to the whitewashed version of his tenure as chief, which Streicher spoon-fed to the Enquirer reporter, his attitude toward making reforms was solidified one night in late 2001, while watching a TV show. A Middle Eastern man was debating the merits of his nation with a U.S. citizen and made the comment, "Well, at least we're not Cincinnati."

"I knew in my mind that we had to be advocates for this city, we had to be a total part of the effort," Streicher told The Enquirer for his profile. "I knew I had to commit myself and commit this entire agency to take on the challenge. I mean, my God. How could someone say that about Cincinnati?"

Nice try, Mr. Streicher, but your "memory" doesn't quite jibe with the historical record.

Streicher often was skeptical about the need for reforms during the initial phases of the process. In fact, the city tried to withdraw from the deal in April 2003 but a federal judge refused the request. (The Enquirer also wasn't so supportive back then: Its then-editorial page editor wrote that the Collaborative was "a hurry-up deal to settle bogus profiling lawsuits that were not even settled." My, how times have changed.)

The chief's actual history (read: resistance to change and oversight) briefly was mentioned but it also got altered from reality.

The profile stated: "He didn't initially welcome the post-riots reforms sought by the U.S. Department of Justice, either. It felt to him 'like it was force-fed,' and 'You're going to do this or else.' No surprise, that method didn't exactly work with the leader of a paramilitary organization. But when DOJ officials assigned to the case changed, he felt the new ones actually listened. The pressure was off, too, with the election of President Bush, who was less interested in federal oversight of police departments than his predecessor Bill Clinton."

Except Bush took office in January 2001 and the Collaborative was signed into effect spring 2002,aImost 15 months later. Clinton had nothing to with any of it, except he remains a favorite punching bag for reactionary conservatives like Tommy.

And what about the time in March 2005 when a federal judge ruled that the city and its police department had breached the deal? Her ruling came after Streicher blocked a court-appointed monitoring team from viewing police training and accessing records at police headquarters. The team also complained that Streicher and his top assistant, Lt. Col. Richard Janke, were persistently rude and uncooperative.

The judge warned city officials to improve their behavior or face stricter oversight and the levying of fines.

For those keeping score, that was almost three years after the Collaborative was signed, and four years after Bush took office.

None of the facts that dispute Streicher's pleasant recollections, however, were cited by The Enquirer.

All of that is just the tip of the iceberg when it comes to Streicher's rocky reign. Other highlights included the domestic violence complaint lodged against Streicher by his then-wife Kathryn when she filed for divorce in 2001; his later marriage to a subordinate officer who was then granted disability retirement; and his reluctance to confront the slowdown in arrests that occurred after the riots.

In the 18 months following, adult arrests declined by 36 percent and juvenile arrests dropped by 28 percent. Arrests have since rebounded, but it took a few years.

Also, a study by a nationally renowned police expert in 2005 found officers had low morale not due to City Council but because of department leadership.

Conducted by John Linder, the study was ordered by then-Mayor Charlie Luken in summer 2005 and completed the following December. After badgering by CityBeat and other media, it finally was released publicly in June 2006.

Among its findings, the study stated rank-and-file officers felt ignored and treated unfairly by department leadership. It found that officers sharply mistrusted their supervisors, with only 28.1 percent believing that discipline within the department was fair and uniform.

Make no mistake, any manager in a private-sector company with that record would be fired.

Several City Council members privately grumbled about Streicher's performance over the years but were afraid of the political fallout if he was demoted.

With Streicher thankfully fading into the sunset, the more pressing question is why did The Enquirer allow the piece of journalistic fellatio to grace its pages?

Famed American writer Finley Peter Dunne once said that journalism's function is to "comfort the afflicted, afflict the comfortable." Based on how they kowtow to the powerful, managers at The Enquirer have a bad case of dyslexia.

News: Streicher Says We're Safe

Philip Bates' widow and children disagree BY KEVIN OSBORNE - SEPTEMBER 13TH, 2006 - NEWS

Call it Cincinnati's "Hurricane Katrina" moment, when officials' indifference and disorganization in the face of a looming crisis were made apparent to a surprised public.

Police Chief Thomas Streicher Jr. last week embarrassed city council and ignited a public backlash with his comments that crime here isn't so bad when compared to other cities and that people are fearful only because of aggressive media coverage.

The outcry about the chief's comments left council members scrambling to do damage control, quickly approving a resolution to make public safety the top priority in the next municipal budget and giving interviews to TV news crews to assure people the problem is taken seriously.

Police chief silent on abuse allegations

No public comment, Streicher says

By Jane Prendergast The Cincinnati Enquirer

Cincinnati Police Chief Tom Streicher said Wednesday he will not publicly dispute his estranged wife's abuse allegations, saying he doesn't want to embarrass his family more. "I have two children that I am very concerned about," he said. "I don't want them to be harmed or embarrassed any further.

"I'm concerned about my children, my mom, my family."

The chief's comments came a day after his wife of nearly 25 years, Kathryn, filed for divorce and asked for court protection. She leveled a wide range of accusations, including that he threw her to the floor, spit in her face and cursed at her when he was drunk. She also alleged that he follows her friends and lets himself into the Delhi Township house they once shared when she's not home.

The allegations are contained in affidavits filed with her requests for a temporary protective order and for spousal support, both civil court proceedings. They are not being investigated by police as criminal matters.

Mrs. Streicher, 46, teaches first grade at Oyler Elementary School in Lower Price Hill. Neither she nor her lawyer, Robert Kelly, could be reached Wednesday despite several attempts.

Mrs. Streicher's allegations prompted action from several fronts Wednesday:

• In Hamilton County Domestic Relations Court, Judge Penelope Cunningham granted Mrs. Streicher's request for a temporary restraining order.

She ordered Chief Streicher, 47, to stay out of the Delhi Township house they once shared and to not take any property out of it.

Mrs. Streicher said in an affidavit that she's afraid of him and because he has said his job as chief of the Cincinnati Police Division grants him "special status to abuse, threaten or harass" her.

Another hearing is set for May 14.

• Delhi Township Police released a report on a domestic violence run officers made to the Streichers' house in October 1996. Mrs. Streicher called a police non-emergency line and asked for a supervisor, Chief Thomas Bauer said.

She told officers the chief pushed and slapped her, the report said. Officers closed the case because she refused to cooperate, the report said, but prepared paperwork for both of them to use to file charges against each other. Neither did.

Chief Bauer said his officers did not arrest either of them because they could not determine which was the "primary aggressor."

Cincinnati City Manager John Shirey confirmed the city investigated the incident in 1996, but that then-Chief Mike Snowden also could not determine who was at fault. Chief Streicher was a captain at the time.

"It was one of those things that happens between a husband and wife," Mr. Shirey said.

• Mr. Shirey repeated that Mrs. Streicher's divorce allegations are part of a civil dispute that does not involve the city. He said he would continue to look into the matter, meaning he would read the court filings and familiarize himself with her complaints.

Mrs. Streicher had been a substitute teacher for Cincinnati Public Schools since January 2000. She became a full-time teacher in August.

In the court filing, she said her job is in jeopardy because he stopped paying her car insurance. She estimated, in court documents, that her annual salary would be about $14,000. He makes more than $125,000 a year, she said, but refuses to contribute money toward her expenses.

He stopped paying her $80 monthly car insurance and $60 cable bills this month, her affidavit said, as well as her phone, water, gas and electric bills.

She said they last lived together in May 2000. He has indicated they separated long before that.

When he was promoted to chief in March 1999, he listed his family as two daughters. They are now 23 and 20, the youngest a member of the Cincinnati Fire Division's current recruit class.

Racial tension in Cincinnati

Racial tension has persisted in Cincinnati for decades. Among incidents leading up to the April riots and Friday's proposed boycott of the annual Taste of Cincinnati festival:

• May 31, 2000: African-Americans protest at City Hall after Cincinnati Police Chief Tom Streicher is accused of using a racial slur in a training class. The chief, who says the remark was meant to show officers what they might hear on the streets, is counseled by his boss.

♦• July 2000: Many downtown restaurants close during Ujima and the Cincinnati Coors Light Jazz Festival, leading black activists to accuse owners of racism.

• Nov. 7, 2000: Roger Owensby Jr. is asphyxiated in police custody as officers try to arrest him in Roselawn.

• Nov. 8, 2000: Jeffrey Irons is fatally shot by an officer after struggling with police after allegedly stealing deodorant and shaving cream from a Pleasant Ridge grocery store. Mr. Irons grabbed a sergeant's gun and shot Officer Tim Pappas in the hand before another officer, Frederick Gilmer, shot and killed him.

• Nov. 13, 2000: Angry citizens pack City Council chambers to protest the deaths of Mr. Owensby, Mr. Irons and other young black males killed during their arrests by Cincinnati police.

• December 2000: The Rev. Damon Lynch III and other black leaders encourage a boycott of downtown businesses to protest restaurants closing during Ujima and the Coors Light festival.

• March 14: Black activists and the American Civil Liberties Union sue the city of Cincinnati, asking a federal court to end what they say has been 30 years of unchecked discrimination by police officers.

• April 7: Cincinnati Officer Stephen Roach, who had been pursuing 19-year-old Timothy Thomas in Over-the-Rhine, shoots and kills the unarmed African-American at 13th and Republic streets. Mr. Thomas is the 15th African-American to die in confrontations with Cincinnati police since 1995.

• April 9: A group of citizens takes over a City Council committee meeting, demanding to know why Mr. Thomas was shot. That night, protesters break City Hall windows and gather outside police headquarters on Ezzard Charles Drive.

• April 10: Civil unrest turns violent; protesters overturn planters and hot dog stands, break windows, and pull several white motorists from their cars and assault them.

• April 11: Random violence — arson, assault, looting, property destruction and shooting — occurs in communities from Over-the-Rhine to Norwood. A Cincinnati police officer is shot, but his belt buckle deflects the bullet and he is not injured. A Justice Department team arrives in the city to investigate whether it should begin a civil-rights investigation into the "patterns and practices" of Cincinnati's Police Division.

• April 12: Mayor Charlie Luken declares a state of emergency and a citywide curfew beginning at 8 p.m. It ends after four nights, with calm restored.

• April 13: Under pressure from some City Council members, Kent Ryan steps down as the city's public safety director, citing health reasons.

• April 14: Mr. Thomas is buried. An investigation is begun after six Cincinnati SWAT officers are accused by witnesses of shooting beanbags into a peaceful crowd at Liberty and Elm streets.

• April 16: The six officers, said to be emotionally devastated by being under criminal investigation by the FBI, are put on paid leave for two weeks.

• April 26: Two of four people hit by beanbags in the April 14 incident after Mr. Thomas' funeral file a civil lawsuit seeking at least $2 million.

• May 2: City Manager John Shirey, criticized by some City Council members for his handling of the unrest and riots, agrees to resign effective Dec. 1.

• May 2: City Council agrees to an unprecedented attempt to settle through mediation a federal lawsuit that accuses police of racial profiling.

• May 3: A Hamilton County grand jury begins hearing evidence in the case of Mr. Thomas' shooting.

• May 7: Grand jury returns charges of negligent homicide and obstructing official business, both misdemeanors, against Officer Roach. The U.S. Justice Department announces a formal investigation into Cincinnati police's alleged pattern of excessive force violating the civil rights of residents.

• May 9: Organizers cancel the annual Pepsi Jammin' on Main music festival in Over-the-Rhine, citing miserable ticket sales. .

• May 18: A group of 75 ministers called Concerned Clergy calls for a general boycott of Taste of Cincinnati.

The Cincinnati Police Department tried and failed 19 times to fire officers and dispatchers in the past decade.

Fired to rehired

City's record poor when dismissals go to arbitration

One officer tackled an unarmed Alzheimer's patient, resulting in a $700,000 settlement. Another was accused of shooting a woman with a Taser and then taunting her. Two others drove a drunken woman home and had sex with her while on duty. Police administrators fired all the officers, including one who was fired twice. But many of them are back at work today.

An Enquirer analysis of personnel files found that 35 police firing cases have been resolved since 1998. The firings stuck with 16 officers, but 11 of those cases involved criminal charges that made it difficult or, in some cases, impossible for the officers to return to work.

The other five did not appeal their firings, lost their appeals or resigned.

The 19 remaining cases ended with a settlement or an arbitrator's ruling that returned the fired officers to the job.

The appeals process is the main reason so many officers come back. Independent arbitrators ruled against the city and reinstated fired officers in 16 of the 18 cases they decided in the past 10 years.

The police union sees the appeals as crucial protection against unfair or excessive discipline. But city officials say the inability to keep fired officers off the payroll erodes public confidence, increases the city's financial liability and creates the impression the police department cannot police itself.

"It bothers me that the threshold is set by the city of Cincinnati, but is not upheld by arbitrators," said Police Chief Tom Streicher.

"I think citizens have a right to demand total honesty from a police officer."

Fired cops often return to force

Eric Schneider's bosses twice declared him unfit to be a Cincinnati police officer. They fired him three years ago after accusing him of charging the city $2,200 for hours he didn't work. They fired him again in December after claiming he allowed officers he supervised to goof off while on duty.

For the Hamilton County jail, bigger isn't necessarily better.

That's the finding of a supplemental audit of the Hamilton County Sheriff's divisions that oversee the jail and take inmates to and provide security at the county courthouse.

The sheriff's office must remake itself to address decades of inefficiency while changing its mission to embrace technology and work with other police departments to become a 21st-century crime-fighting department, according to the report.

While Simon Leis Jr., the sheriff for 26 years before retiring in 2013, isn't named in the audit, he's referred to often for not upgrading technology; not providing deputy training; and keeping the agency largely unchanged. The audit recommends Sheriff Jim Neil that adding more employees and conducting business under the Leis model won't work, especially at the jail.

"Past discussions concerning the Hamilton County Justice Center were almost singlemindedly focused on (Leis') pursuit of a vastly expanded corrections facility. Since the transition in administration, the new discussion has focused on a more effective use of existing resources and changing the role and purpose of corrections in Hamilton County – 'A Different Kind of Jail, Rather Than Just a Bigger Jail," the audit noted. The audit's findings – improve technology, training and staffing – are similar to an October audit of the Sheriff's Office as a whole.

"They're mired in decades-old technology, or lack of technology. They're still relying on pencil and paper," Tom Streicher, one of the audit's author and the former Cincinnati Police Chief, said Wednesday. Streicher and local civil rights attorney Scott Greenwood formed a company to conduct such audits and provide recommendations. The department audit, including supplemental audits like the one released Wednesday, cost $50,000.

The big difference in this audit, though, is its recommendation to fundamentally change the Sheriff's Office or face continued drops in employee morale and potential federal court intervention or lawsuits rising from injuries or worse to its employees and the public.

Neil wants to talk to Hamilton County officials about how to pay for the technology upgrades. No one has mentioned a cost.

"The Sheriff's Office has begun a technology revolution bringing us out of the dark ages," Neil said Wednesday. His office has 732 employees and a $59.8 million general fund budget in 2014.

The Hamilton County Justice Center, the audit concluded, should become the center of an area-wide law enforcement effort. Technology should be upgraded so that all area police departments, including those in Northern Kentucky and Indiana, can share crime data, including information on those jailed in Hamilton County.

For example, cruisers for the 40 police agencies in Hamilton County now often wait in a long line to jail someone. Sharing technology would allow those officers, while in their cruisers, to do some of the "paperwork" associated with jailing someone, shortening the wait and allowing the officers to get back on the streets more quickly. That can't be done now because the jail doesn't have the technology.

The current "archaic" technology also needs to be upgraded within the jail so the same information about the person arrested isn't typed in multiple times, the audit recommended. More electronic ankle bracelets with GPS monitoring should be used to track those who have been released while awaiting trial or as punishment instead of sitting in a costly jail cell.

Volumes of research notes technology like that can be a crime deterrent and serves to focus resources on the small percentage of people who commit most of the crimes.

"(Then) you've got a way to tell the court, 'this is a person you need to incarcerate,'" Streicher said. Getting other police agencies involved in upgrading the technology also will spread the cost of that upgrade. "You have to do it differently," Streicher said. "You have to embrace the data and research that's out there. It's a force multiplier that can offset layoffs and reductions."

The Sheriff's Office is excited about the audit recommendations. It met Wednesday with Hamilton County officials to discuss funding for the upgrades. Streicher was unsure how much money was needed for the recommended upgrades.

"What seems like a big investment in technology can be huge savings," Streicher said. "You don't put as many people in jail which is an enormous cost."

Audit findings

A supplemental audit of the Hamilton County jail and the county sheriff's department that takes inmates to court and provides security for the courthouse stressed a need for increased training and upgraded technology.

Other audit findings:

• Upgrade technology to improve records management and assess inmates on what services they need or dangers they pose;

• Partner with the University of Cincinnati Corrections Institute to modernize, using data and technology to improve crime-fighting;

• Develop its training. "There are no excuses for failure to train in a modern law enforcement and corrections agency," the report states.

• Establish a mandatory training program so all deputies working off-duty details have training on evidence collection, use of force and other procedures;

• Equip deputies, especially those in the jail, with radios that work. The audit noted many radios are held together with rubber bands and don't allow officers on different floors to communicate with each other;

• Immediately upgrade security in the courthouse to monitor inmates going to court. The audit noted some inmates on the way to court are kept near an easily opened cabinet containing handguns and rifles.

Home > 2001 Cincinnati Riots

First Prev [1 2] Next Last

Downtown Cincinnati. Ohio experienced the worst rioting (often referred to as revolts by supporters and sympathizers) from April 10, 2001 through April 12,2001 since the 1960's. It was an unorganized and violent reaction to the death of a young unarmed black male, Timothy Thomas, in the early morning hours of April 8, 2001 during an on-foot pursuit by several officers. Officer Steven Roach was the officer who killed Thomas when alone with the suspect in an alley out of the view of any other witnesses.

The riots took place throughout the downtown center of Cincinnati. There were a few smaller riots throughout Greater Cincinnati during that time, but their effects were negligible in property damage and injury. The damage from the riots was estimated in the millions. Millions more were lost due to the ensuing protests and boycotts of the city. No deaths were reported as a result of the riots.

1 Tension's Background

Between February, 1995 and April, 2001 15 black males under the age of 40 were killed during confrontations with police or in police custody while no whites were killed in that same time period. In one case the police involved were reprimanded and given extra training (Death of Michael Carpenter by Officers Michael Miller III, and Brent McCurley). In all other cases none of the police were ever found guilty of any criminal charges regarding their actions in the incident. However, internal investigations often found the officers at fault creating a perceivable divergence in expectations of police conduct.

Roger Owensby Jr. died November 7, 2000 while in custody of the police. The charges of manslaughter and misdemeanor assualt were filed against the officers Jorg and Canton January 3, 2001. A group filed a federal lawsuit, filed March 14, 2001, on behalf of the many black men that had died since 1995 alleging racial profiling.

While the city was embroiled in emotional discussions about racial tensions and police conduct regarding these incidents, Timothy Thomas was killed.

2 Aftermath

On the third night of riots the city issued a curfew which was accompanied by rain and the riots stopped. The curfew was imposed throughout GreaterCincinnati, although its enforcement was limited to certain neighborhoods.

The older generation of black community leaders took the initiative to create non-violent means of protest. A boycott was called on Greater Cincinnati which led to several well known celebrities and organizations to cancel previously scheduled and recurring events, as well as several celebrities citing the racial tensions dissuading them from scheduling proposed events.

2.1 Federal Lawsuit

The federal lawsuit initiated prior to Thomas' death became more urgent. Citizen interest groups (Cincinnati Black United Front, Coalition for a Just Cincinnati, the ACLU, and several other groups) represented the plaintiffs. The case was presided by Judge Susan Dlott. To avoid proceeding to a point of finding the city guilty or innnocent of the charges, which would most likely have resulted in simply a monetary punative sentence if found guilty, the plaintiffs and the city's representatives agreed to create serious reforms in police-community relations referred to as the Collaborative Agreement.

At the same time the Department of Justice was reviewing the policies and practices of the City of Cincinnati's police force and developed a report on its findings. The reports suggested many areas of improvement received by the city August 13, 2002. All of the report's suggestions were initially included to be applied as part of the Collaborative Agreement.

Much of the Collaborative Agreement was based on suggestions formulated by a citizen and city discussion group managed by a third-party privatelyowned professional conflict resolution group. Thousands of citizens, civil servants, and city officials, were brought in over the span of weeks, to propose changes to police, city, and citizen, behaviors and procedures. This information was then redressed and compiled by the third party group and presented to the actors in the federal lawsuit. The citizen-focused group working on the Collaborative Agreement worked without knowledge of the Department of Justice report's finding.

As a reaction to the out-of-court resoltuion, the city agreed to the following initiatives:

- Police-community relations through the formation of a community focus group that recommended CPOP (Community-Police Oriented Policing)
- Revision of the police's use of force policies
- Creation of a citizen-complaint panel independent of the police

These efforts were delayed and diffused through conflicts between elected city officials and representatives of citizen interest groups. Wranglings involved the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP), headed by Kieth Fangman, and the police Chief, Tom Striecher, refusing to commit to smaller components of the agreement. The city's mayor, Charlie Luken, initially refused to use city funds to pay for the legal fees of the lawyer representing some of the citizen interest groups involved.

The representatives of the police refused to agree to these terms of the report:

- A report must be filed every time the police remove their sidearm from their holster
- The involvement of a federal judge to monitor and enforce the aspects of the agreement
- Switching the chemical irritant (ie: pepper spray) and reducing its usage as a primary response to aggressive behavior

John Ashscroft, US Attorney General, even signed the agreement noting he considered it a unique initiative in the nation.

The deadline (as set by the judge to ensure the out-of-court resolution was expidited) for the agreement approached but due to these points of contention from the FOP and chief, it remained unsigned. The deadline was extended at which point the plaintiffs allowed those points to remain out of the agreement in the interest of getting the Collaborative Agreement signed.

The devolution of the vaunted collaborative agreement on police reform -- from rallying point for civic progress to cudgel over the city's head -- would be comical if it weren't so serious. Instead, let's just agree that it's soooo Cincinnati.

Since 2002, Mayor Charlie Luken and Vice Mayor Alicia Reece have told people across the country that we're a whole new city with dramatic improvements in police-community relations thanks to the groundbreaking collaborative agreement. That was their best argument in countering the civil rights boycott of Cincinnati.

Having apparently exhausted the bragging rights yielded by the reform agreement, last year Luken turned his back on it, proposing the city try to end the deal. Police Chief Tom Streicher therefore had every reason to sneer at the reforms called for in the agreement. When a monitor team working for the federal court showed up at police headquarters at the end of the year, Streicher and Assistant Chief Richard Janke insulted and intimidated them before "inviting" them to leave. David Sorcher

Jorge Delao marched Downtown on Good Friday in the Way of the Cross/Way of Justice procession.

Now Luken, Streicher and Janke no longer have a collaborative agreement to kick around -- instead they'll labor under a court order mandating reform of the police department. In a restrained tone, Dlott's March 28 ruling makes plain that she won't tolerate any more intransigence.

Tweet SHAREPRINTCOMMENTFONT SIZERATE

Further violations could lead to fines or jail time for city officials.

"Needless to say, should any such violations occur, the court will take all appropriate actions necessary to enforce the collaborate agreement," Dlott wrote.

The ruling made short shrift of assertions by Luken and City Manager Valerie Lemmie that the confrontation at police headquarters in December 2004 was merely an expression of police frustration with the reform initiative or a kind of miscommunication.

"The improper conduct of top police officials toward these court officers is a serious problem deserving careful attention," Dlott wrote. "Differences of opinion and miscommunications are very different from the obstructive behavior described here."

That virtually echoes City Councilman Christopher Smitherman's call for Streicher and Janke to be formally disciplined for their behavior. In a Feb. 18 letter to Lemmie, he expressed concern that the city wasn't taking the incident seriously enough.

"The lack of management of the police department is an underlying factor that maintains the loose atmosphere in which the police chief and his lieutenant colonels regularly exercise such disturbing decisions," Smitherman's letter said, "The absence of prompt, firm regulation of unacceptable autonomous behavior is undermining the credibility of the entire Cincinnati Police Department."

Smitherman repeated his concern after learning of Dlott's ruling this week.

"Streicher and Janke put us here," he said. "Focus on those two people and deal with their behavior. This shows the culture of our police department, their unwillingness to change. They're holding onto the doorway of 1950, 1960 policing."

The same morning Dlott released her ruling, someone threw a brick through the window of Smitherman's campaign headquarters in Avondale. Smitherman, who has hinted at a run for the mayor's seat, says he'll announce his decision April 7.

State Sen. Mark Mallory (D-West End), who is already running for mayor, issued a statement lamenting the fact that the court order was necessary.

"It is an absolute shame that it has come to this," he said. "Certainly, everyone should realize that the collaborative agreement is an opportunity to reform the relationship between the police and the community. I am amazed that the situation was allowed to deteriorate to the point that a court order was necessary."

DeWine and Heimlich Should Be Committed

A year ago, shortly after winning re-election to city council, Pat DeWine decided he'd rather be a Hamilton County Commissioner.

This is what County Commissioner Phil Heimlich said about that idea: "I support Pat DeWine in order to bring a conservative majority to the commission that is committed to getting taxes and spending under control."

But "committed" is such a relative term when it comes to politics. Now, less than three months after becoming a county commissioner, DeWine has decided he'd rather be a member of Congress. He's running for the seat soon to be vacated by U.S. Rep. Rob Portman (R-Terrace Park).

Meanwhile, Heimlich has decided he'd rather be lieutenant governor of Ohio, a seat that's up for election next year. This is what DeWine had to say of his colleague Heimlich just a few weeks ago: "Our challenge over the next few years is to transform our county into one of the best run county governments in the country."

In politics, "next few years" is also a relative term.

If the two "family values" Republicans have difficulty understanding the idea of commitment, they had a chance to see it firsthand March 25 on Good Friday, the occasion of the annual Way of the Cross/Way of Justice march through downtown Cincinnati. Participants not only remembered the crucifixion of Jesus but visited contemporary reminders of the struggle for justice and peace in Cincinnati such as the Federal Building and the Hamilton County Justice Center.

Greenwood, who is also a master trainer for Taser International and is considered a "use of force expert", says he believes there are plenty of alternatives to shipping the weapon to Canada. "There are about 10 or 12 in the United States that have the technical ability to test the weapons according to the manufacturers standards and they should have done that by now."

Police Chief's Horrid Reign Gets Whitewashed

Tags: Cincinnati news, Cincinnati politics, Tom Streicher, Cincinnati Enguirer-appointed stenographer, romanticized history

There's a tendency among many people to romanticize the past, and that's especially true of the mainstream media.

Unless a politician or other public official is convicted of a crime, virtually anyone is subject to the "rosecolored glasses" treatment upon his or her retirement or death. Maybe it's because it is easier to write puffery about someone than do serious, in-depth analysis of a long and complicated career.

This trend was in full display last weekend when The Enquirer ran a lengthy, glowing profile about Cincinnati Police Chief Thomas Streicher Jr., upon his retirement. The article, by reporter Jane Prendergast, included an interview with the chief under the headline, "Streicher leaves legacy of change." It included a videotaped interview and several flattering photographs.

Streicher, 57, of Green Township, is retiring after nearly 40 years with the department. He served 12 years as chief.

To hear Streicher tell it, via his Enquirer-appointed stenographer, he always supported the dozens of police reforms that resulted from the Collaborative Agreement. That was the catch-all name for an agreement with the U.S. Justice Department for improving police operations, along with a separate settlement of a class-action lawsuit that accused local police of harassing African Americans.

Although people tend to forget it now, the lawsuit already had been filed when on April 7, 2001, a police officer shot and killed Timothy Thomas, a 19-year-old, unarmed black man wanted only on misdemeanor warrants, during a foot chase down a dark Over-the-Rhine alley on a Saturday night.

Three days later, after Cincinnati Police refused to divulge any details about the shooting, scattered rioting broke out in parts of downtown and Over-the-Rhine.

Thomas was the 15th African-American killed by Cincinnati Police in five years, a period in which no white people had been killed in police encounters.

The lawsuit, meanwhile, had alleged a 30-year pattern of racially biased policing. Once riots erupted, city officials took a more conciliatory tone toward the suit, while also asking for a Justice Department review of the Police Department.

City officials eventually settled the lawsuit, although they didn't admit to any wrongdoing. As part of the deal, the city agreed to implement numerous changes in the department — with a federal court providing oversight for five years to make sure it was done.

Ultimately, the monitoring period lasted six years (2003-08) because of a slow start.

Which brings us back to Streicher.

According to the whitewashed version of his tenure as chief, which Streicher spoon-fed to the Enquirer reporter, his attitude toward making reforms was solidified one night in late 2001, while watching a TV show. A Middle Eastern man was debating the merits of his nation with a U.S. citizen and made the comment, "Well, at least we're not Cincinnati."

"I knew in my mind that we had to be advocates for this city, we had to be a total part of the effort," Streicher told The Enquirer for his profile. "I knew I had to commit myself and commit this entire agency to take on the challenge. I mean, my God. How could someone say that about Cincinnati?"

Nice try, Mr. Streicher, but your "memory" doesn't quite jibe with the historical record.

Streicher often was skeptical about the need for reforms during the initial phases of the process. In fact, the city tried to withdraw from the deal in April 2003 but a federal judge refused the request. (*The Enquirer*also wasn't so supportive back then: Its then-editorial page editor wrote that the Collaborative was "a hurry-up deal to settle bogus profiling lawsuits that were not even settled." My, how times have changed.)

The chief's actual history (read: resistance to change and oversight) briefly was mentioned but it also got altered from reality.

The profile stated: "He didn't initially welcome the post-riots reforms sought by the U.S. Department of Justice, either. It felt to him 'like it was force-fed,' and 'You're going to do this or else.' No surprise, that method didn't exactly work with the leader of a paramilitary organization. But when DOJ officials assigned to the case changed, he felt the new ones actually listened. The pressure was off, too, with the election of President Bush, who was less interested in federal oversight of police departments than his predecessor Bill Clinton." Except Bush took office in January 2001 and the Collaborative was signed into effect spring 2002, almost 15 months later. Clinton had nothing to with any of it, except he remains a favorite punching bag for reactionary conservatives like Tommy.

And what about the time in March 2005 when a federal judge ruled that the city and its police department had breached the deal? Her ruling came after Streicher blocked a court-appointed monitoring team from viewing police training and accessing records at police headquarters. The team also complained that Streicher and his top assistant, Lt. Col. Richard Janke, were persistently rude and uncooperative.

The judge warned city officials to improve their behavior or face stricter oversight and the levying of fines.

For those keeping score, that was almost three years after the Collaborative was signed, and four years after Bush took office.

None of the facts that dispute Streicher's pleasant recollections, however, were cited by The Enquirer.

All of that is just the tip of the iceberg when it comes to Streicher's rocky reign. Other highlights included the domestic violence complaint lodged against Streicher by his then-wife Kathryn when she filed for divorce in 2001; his later marriage to a subordinate officer who was then granted disability retirement; and his reluctance to confront the slowdown in arrests that occurred after the riots.

In the 18 months following, adult arrests declined by 36 percent and juvenile arrests dropped by 28 percent. Arrests have since rebounded, but it took a few years.

Also, a study by a nationally renowned police expert in 2005 found officers had low morale not due to City Council but because of department leadership.

Conducted by John Linder, the study was ordered by then-Mayor Charlie Luken in summer 2005 and completed the following December. After badgering by CityBeat and other media, it finally was released publicly in June 2006.

Among its findings, the study stated rank-and-file officers felt ignored and treated unfairly by department leadership. It found that officers sharply mistrusted their supervisors, with only 28.1 percent believing that discipline within the department was fair and uniform.

Make no mistake, any manager in a private-sector company with that record would be fired.

Several City Council members privately grumbled about Streicher's performance over the years but were afraid of the political fallout if he was demoted.

With Streicher thankfully fading into the sunset, the more pressing question is why did The Enquirer allow the piece of journalistic fellatio to grace its pages?

Famed American writer Finley Peter Dunne once said that journalism's function is to "comfort the afflicted, afflict the comfortable." Based on how they kowtow to the powerful, managers at The Enquirer have a bad case of dyslexia.

Streicher's reign at the CPD has been a disaster. So many senior sergeants (the experienced and it is a supervisors who are the real leaders of the department out in the streets) retired during Streichers reign that it's left a real leadership vacuum in the department. Streicher should have lost his gun and hi badge for beating his Wife.

The city council should tell Berry to go pound sand on the funding for GGG and Ginger. It $$$ should come out of APD's multi million dollar budget.

My e-mail summary of council meeting last night to be out soon. It begins with some assumptions about our republic/democracy, our city and my observations last night

ASSUMPTIONS

Unless the US Constitution was changed or never read by one seemingly irresponsible NM federal judge and the DOJ, I assume that we still have three branches of government independent of each other whose powers cannot be usurped by any of the others. Those in the DOJ and Judge Brack somehow think they can usurp the given powers of the Council-our legislative branch

That this separation of powers still exists in New Mexico and cities like Albuquerque who are not ruled by a monarchy or dictator-something that Mayor Berry apparently believes he is.

That there are both honest and dishonest as well as competent and incompetent people elected or appointed to these three branches of government. We have more than enough examples of this here.

That transparency as well as accountability of our government officials is a proper expectation of we-the people. We now have neither here

That those public officials who lie to the people should be called out as liars without any fear of retaliation. Berry is a compulsive liar as is his thug CAO Perry and they expect the same from their minions and their dishonest and/or incompetent willing stooges on the Council-specifically Trudy Jones and Brad Winter

That since Ray Schultz became police chief in 2015 under Mayor Chavez and then irresponsibly rehired in 2009 by Mayor Berry that this city and our police force has become the disgrace of the nation. A belief held by all nationwide

That Chief Eden who never met the City's posted qualifications for the job has shown himself to be an incompetent Chief -a fact

People who do heroic deeds should be the only ones who are recognized as heroes-not those who merely put on a uniform. APD cadet Andrew Henry is such a hero

More soon

Greasy Greedy Greenwood has worked for Taser int.

Here is one of several link available on line. All this information can be found on Google. Google remain free. Anyone can use it.

So when Greased Greenwood, the wonder twin and hired hijacker, said he has never 'worked' for Taser Int. or has never 'received a personal dime' from Taser International he is lying.

Unless of course, by 'work' Greedy Greenwood means something else or that 'work' is not what we know it to be.

And because Scott Greenwood is smart (he's educated too) I'm guessing the 'personal' aspect to not receiving a dime from Taser is more than relevant to the whole scheme of things.

Taser international- the taste will shock you.

All saw my recent e-mails on the Mayor's ridiculous diversionary (from APD's problems) tactics-the fabricated bogus problems Berry is solving to pretend he is competent. He is the most corrupt and incompetent Mayor in our history and has made this city and its APD the disgrace of the nation. If we didn't have Sandia Lab and Kirtland AFB here, the economy of this city would more of a disaster than it already is.

Berry's recent trip to Mexico was not only to avoid answering questions on the latest APD excessive force revelation hidden from the public for six weeks until an honest cadet exposed it, but also likely to learn better how he can perfect his corruption and pay to play demands possibly while also looking away to the drug dealers doing business here.

Soon after taking over, Berry whose high level City selections are primarily white often unqualified Anglos like Debbie Stover and later Suzanna Lubar hired his first token Hispanic in his office Gil Montano (later Alan Armijo) at a ridiculously high pay. We were told Gil would be Perry's deputy CAO-a job Gil was clearly unqualified for.

Gil never supervised anyone during his mediocre bureaucratic career but was merely a former City Council policy analyst-and a bad one at that. A deputy CAO must be able to act in Perry's absence, not merely be a another parrot of Berry's lies, something that Gil is. After overpaying Montano for the deputy CAO job that he never could perform, Berry dropped that title, gave him a raise and made his chief of staff-AKA yet another propagandist to parrot his lies.

The Eye on Albuquerque posting had some scathing names for this embarrassing character who seeming perfected Berry' habit of criticizing critics and responding to the media with a lot of scripted B.S./doubletalk. He does the same B.S./doubletalk at Council meetings when Perry leaves the chamber when anticipating some hard questions.

See the latest insulting comments below made by Gil to KOB on Thursday in response to the proper criticism of Jeremy Reynalds head of Joy Junction. Yes, I too give to panhandlers who appear to be deserving but won't support Berry's phony initiative.. The reality is that Berry cares NOTHING about the poor/homeless of this city and especially those who are murdered by his unpunished APD officers. Maybe Gil will answer the disrespected by Berry councilors' questions at the next meeting when the arrogant monitor James Ginger again doesn't show up.

Joy Junction founder calls mayor's panhandling plan 'ridiculous,' 'asinine'

Updated: 05/07/2015 10:48 PM | Created: 05/07/2015 6:27 PM By: Stuart Dyson, KOB Eyewitness News 4

Albuquerque's mayor calls his new plan for coping with panhandlers a "better way." One of the city's biggest feeders of homeless people says it's a lousy way to deal with the problem."It's ridiculous," said Joy Junction founder Jeremy Reynalds. "It's ludicrous. It's asinine. "Mayor Richard Berry wants to steer panhandlers to call the city's 311 phone system for help in finding food and shelter. He wants to steer people who give money panhandlers to donate to the United Way instead." If you hand five dollars out your window today to a panhandler, that panhandler can go down to a fast food restaurant and buy a hamburger and fries," Berry said at a news conference Wednesday. "If you hand that same five dollars to the United Way and they give it to the Roadrunner Food Bank, you can feed 20 people in our community. "But Reynalds says many who panhandle won't even consider seeking help from a church or a charity. "These are folks that won't go near an agency," Reynalds said. "They may have mental health problems, they may have a whole number of issues. These are folks that rely on that panhandling money to get them through the next day. They rely on that money to make sure they have a meal. We're talking about survival. "Reynalds says the "better way" plan will actually wind up hurting the people it's supposed to help." It is a bumper sticker solution - which sounds really cute, really cool - to a complex issue," Reynalds said. "It's a feel-good solution to an issue that demands a lot more help than this is." Reynalds says he hands out fast food gift cards to panhandlers instead of money, to make sure they eat instead of spending cash on booze and drugs. As of 2 p.m. Thursday, the mayor's initiative had only gained two donors who gave a total of $35, according to the donation website, DonateABQ.org."So often, we see the dust flying with Mr. Reynalds on new and beginning initiatives. We hope that he begins to be part of the solution, not from the outside throwing rocks at initiatives like we saw in 2011," said Mayor Berry's Chief of Staff, Gilbert Montano, Thursday evening. The 2011 reference is to the city's Heading Home project, which tries to find permanent homes for the homeless. Montano says the program has been successful, ???? but Reynalds criticized it at the time.

The new City Mayor can't come in soon enough to rid this city of characters like Montano and other unfit and primarily white leadership in his administration.

It's not clear how Gil can look himself in the mirror. He is an expensive joke played on taxpayers!

Silvio,

Who does the Lawless, do nothing, Mayor Dingle Berry think he is to tell the people of OUR city not to give to 'panhandlers'?

His reference to the 'panhandlers' - our Unsheltered- using 5 bucks for burgers and fries is ridiculous. Is 311 operator there pass 5:00 o'clock? Or on weekends?

It should have read:

Join us at City Hall anyDAY of the week for a

Dingle Berry Burger, LIES, and the usual SHAKEdown.

Criminalizing panhandling - which is really criminalizing the homeless- is a tax payer waste. And if that needs explaining to Cabq- well... Business as usual.

Maybe a panhandling protest is in order. Downtown and up on Central and Tramway- just a thought.

"They may have mental health problems, they may have a whole number of issues. These are folks that rely on that panhandling money to get them through the next day. They rely on that money to make sure they have a meal. We're talking about survival. "Reynalds says the "better way" plan will actually wind up hurting the people it's supposed to help." It is a bumper sticker solution - which sounds really cute, really cool - to a complex issue," Reynalds said. "It's a feel-good solution to an issue that demands a lot more help than this is." Revnalds says he hands out fast food gift cards to panhandlers instead of money, to make sure they eat instead of spending cash on booze and drugs. As of 2 p.m. Thursday, the mayor's initiative had only gained two donors who gave a total of $35, according to the donation website, DonateABQ.org." So often. we see the dust flying with Mr. Reynalds on new and beginning initiatives. We hope that he begins to be part of the solution, not from the outside throwing rocks at initiatives like we saw in 2011," said Mayor Berry's Chief of Staff, Gilbert Montano, Thursday evening. The 2011 reference is to the city's Heading Home project, which tries to find permanent homes for the homeless. Montano says the program has been successful. 2??? but Reynalds criticized it at the time.

The new City Mayor can't come in soon enough to rid this city of characters like Montano and other unfit and primarily white leadership in his administration.

It's not clear how Gil can look himself in the mirror. He is an expensive joke played on taxpayers!

Silvio,

Who does the lawless, do nothing, Mayor Dingle Berry think he is to tell the people of OUR city not to give to 'panhandlers'?

His reference to the 'panhandlers' - our Unsheltered- using 5 bucks for burgers and fries is ridiculous. Is 311 operator there pass 5:00 o'clock? Or on weekends?

It should have read:

Join us at City Hall any DAY of the week for a Dingle Berry Burger, LIES, and the usual SHAKEdown.

Criminalizing panhandling - which is really criminalizing the homeless- is a tax payer waste. And if that needs explaining to Cabq- well... Business as usual.

Maybe a panhandling protest is in order. Downtown and up on Central and Tramway- just a thought.

Who do you represent?

Compadres and Politicians,

Ignore this ridiculous petition! Don't waste your time even reading the darn thing. It's a pathetic joke. Diane goodman thinks signing this will somehow change the standard in ethics by attending an annual 'ethics training course'.

Ridiculous right!

So here is my take:

How would an ethics training course conducted once a year change the corruption, dirty deals, and overall everyday beat down of us people and of the people's resources?

Answer is simple: IT WON'T

It's like sending the killer cops to a 'don't shoot people in the back from 20 yards away, and call it fearing for ones life' training course. OR 'when hands are up, don't shoot' training course. 'Shocking' right, like taser-- shocking.

Here the ridiculous petition urging u all to action. (laughing out loud) http://www.nmvoice.org/

TaserGATE happened because of corruption not a simple breach in ethics.

#RicoForRay needs to go to jail, along with all those involved.

And PS, why is Rob trying to blame Taser International for hiring Ray Ray? Taser doesn't represent the people of ABQ- the 'City' does- well, at least the 'City' is suppose to. Whereas, No one expects taser to- obviously.

So long and short, ignore the distraction of Diane Goodman. It's ridiculous to even consider this ridiculous 'action' for change.

Dinah, all

What Dianne proposes is just a very small part of the solution.

Ethical conduct can't be divorced from demanding and enforcing transparency and accountability by all city employees-both promised us by Berry when running in 2009-a lie to all of us by this compulsive liar.

This is because compliance with the IPRA would expose unethical conduct by him and his minions in APD and throughout the administration that also run rigged procurements like Schultz's $1.9 million buy from employer TASER Inc. "greased" by Berry.

It still doesn't exist here now with the repeated defiance of the IPRA, all directed/blessed by Berry. The office of the IG run by Pacheco is a joke. Only the auditor Ms. Yoshimura is honest.

Also it's like those many no bid or rigged "greased" procurements run by former DMD's Mike Riordan for his business buddies blessed by the Councilor Also one by Suzanne Lubar-(four story) downtown not really a grocery store to her former boss Paul Silverman of Geltmore and others.

It was all blessed by Berry's controlled procurement people who Berry now want to have them take the fall for TASERGATE that he had greased.

Trudy Jones herself had a knowingly blatant conflict of interest when sponsoring free infrastructure for the out of town developer of the failed Unser Crossing project-not in Trudy's District 8 but on the west side to incentivize him to buy of $23 million of land from the Unser family, a sale handled by Trudy's then employer Grubb-Ellis. Nobody cared.

So far new Attorney Hernandez based on her contact with Damon Martinez who apparently told James ginger the Berry repeatedly disrespected Council was irrelevant seems to be no different from Perry and Tourek. I hope I'm wrong.

As a former NM Governor allegedly said years ago to an owner of a business thinking about coming here, in NM you must pay to play to do business here. The owner got the message and didn't come. The culture of corruption-lack of ethical behavior was then officially formalized by this Governor as an integral part of "Mexico True" here.

We are told by Berry's propagandists like the embarrassing Gil Montano and those in the Journaljust don't worry about the blessed culture of corruption-just see the nice sunsets and multicultural people here. Just FYI, in the past a POC member had business cards made and allegedly tried to use one to get out of a ticket. At that time it was decided by the POC that members wouldn't have cards made. While I don't think the POC decisions are binding on us, its just a history to be aware of. I know nobody on the current Board would do such a thing; this is just FYI. -B

Um.....my judgement tells me that was less a consequence of having business cards than it was having a really twisted sense of entitlement, Beth. To use a really inappropriate meme: business cards don't make bad decisions, people make bad decisions.

A little history: after hearing Jeanette, in last month's meeting, talk about all of us getting out into our communities, I felt it would be good to have something to give people we make contact with, other than our own personal business cards. I asked them to consider it, but here's where I got caught up: What sort of identifying "brand" would we have? They can't be City of Albuquerque-type cards; so -- who/what?

And, thanks, Robin, for working out the single-page contact sheet.

This YouTube video was inspired by Chief Eden advisement of those two APD thugs who beat a homeless man. 'Who's the Man??' How heroic, I'm sure it was all done in the name of protecting and serving, risking lives, and honor. APD is Community Strong, pass it along. 'Who's the man'?

I'd like to acknowledge Councilor Kenny Sanchez for the much needed question and concern regarding the 4.2 million dollar monitor, these questions are tough and equally, they are necessary.

I think we should take Kenny's concern about the monitors a step further, what we should be asking is Who 's going to monitor the monitor's monitor?

Maybe the tax payer waste firm who was paid to monitor Greedy Greenwood's expenses but didn't.

It's an outrageous $4.5 million+, not $4.2 million. Also see Joe Monahan's latest posting below on Ginger and the Councilors-seven finally developing some huevos.

Berry's loyalists- Jones and Winter have been and continue to be traitors to us. I don't know how they can look themselves in the mirror.

Let's see if the brave seven Councilors will demand answers from Ginger and Perry at the next Council meeting or fold. We can expect more doubletalk from Perry. Eden hopes he isn't called on and makes a fool of himself once again.

Former cop Ginger knows that the bogus agreement that APD enabler US Attorney Damon Martinez negotiated and signed makes him powerless. Ginger can only recommend changes (likely limited to training) to APD who will laugh at him. But Ginger doesn't care as he still will be ripping taxpayers off-making his $4.5 million over the next four years.

The Council's new must be amended legislation should spell out specifically what Ginger will donot merely say he will follow the disgraceful toothless agreement and falsely claim that Judge Brack will really oversee his work.

I'm confident that the seven councilors finally know we are in a crisis as DA Brandenburg says and also a city in distress as my still banned upside down flag symbolizes..

As for the YouTube video, Eden's disgraceful records custodian Reynaldo Chavez is still stonewalling my requests to see the videos taken by Eden's (whose the man?) cop Greer and partner and the cadet if he had a recorder. Reynaldo even asked me for the case #. Time for him to go. Winter has another Chavez IPRA stonewaller in APS-Rigo Chavez. Both Chavez boys cut from the same cloth.

See you at that next Council meeting

Life In the Old Gal Yet? ABQ City Council Finds Some Hind Legs, Plus: Heinrich Redux, And: Haaland Is New Dem Chair; Now What?

Councilors Lewis & Harris

Maybe there's life in the old gal yet. That's the takeaway from the ABQ City Council's 7 to 2 vote to hold the APD federal monitor's feet to the fire. Five Dems led by Council President Rey Garduno were joined by two of the council's four R's—Dan Lewis and Don Harris—in refusing to approve (for now) a $4.5 million four-year contract with monitor James Ginger because of concerns about the agreement. It was a rare occasion of the council breaking with the Mayor Berry administration and inserting itself into policy when it comes to the long-running APD crisis.

While the action seemed extraordinary because of the way the council has mostly hibernated during the mayhem that has surrounded APD, it was actually quite ordinary for the legislative branch—on equal footing with the mayor—to inject its concerns. It's finally letting it be known that it too wants a seat at the table in resolving a matter that has given ABQ numerous national black eyes and demoralized APD officers.

Allies of the Mayor immediately criticized the seven councilors, saying their action was merely symbolic—that the federal judge monitoring the monitor and the city administration will have the final say over Ginger's contract. But symbolism should not be underestimated.

Berry, Chief Administrative Officer Rob Perry, APD Chief Gorden Eden and federal monitor Ginger have treated the council as an aside. Anyone familiar with the history of the nine member panel knows it is much more than a wall flower, even if the current crop of councilors has let its muscles atrophy. The 7 to 2 vote had the council finally doing some of the heavy lifting that is needed to renew confidence in APD and city government.

Welcome back, councilors, please visit often.

Silvio,

I stand corrected, monitor cost is $4.5. I am however, not in agreement with you at the moment regarding the recent 'development of some huevos'. Mostly because I am waiting for the bait and switch, shakedown, double talk, or otherwise shady deal to emerge. The monitor was always the big play. Let's see, time will surely tell

I am completely outraged at Greedy Greenwood and shooter cop Tom S. I was thinking about the time in council just after CABQ announced the Wonder Twins. Everyone was up in arms about the initial contract agreement by the Mayor for $70,000. everyone was in shock and awe... Even with us people sending info about the Shady Twins. It didn't matter that we did because they were always gonna hook them up and sell us out, by design.

Greenwood was only the beginning of the pillaging of our resources in the guise of reform and fixing APD Killer Kop Korruption. The Mayor, on record, said he never asked about Greedy Greenwood' connection and business ties because 'that wasn't what we (he) hired them to do'. So I am guessing not research or background.... OR hell interview process took place, otherwise that would have came up at some point. Unless of course it was by design.

I am currently having IPRA violations from CABQ Admin myself. At least 2 of my IPRA request are in violation of the law and of my liberty, privilege, and right. There is absolutely no transparency here. My IPRA Request are also being reviewed by an attorney. Which adds to the list of the countless things I do not have time for, but I am forced to regardless otherwise what's the point?

Why we are forced to fight battles and struggles we have already won is beyond me. It's the everyday breakdown. NM being sold off, and not even to the highest bidder. I could see if we were being sold-out for something big... naw, not here. Politicians sell us out for box seat tickets at Wise Pies. Wise Pies- even the PIT got sold out. I won't ever go to an event there again.

I am embarrassed and ashamed to come from here. I come from a long line of family members who were here long before this was NM territory. I never considered leaving ABQ, mostly because my family is here and the earth's chambers in the valley of ABQ embraces my child. With great consideration I have thought of leaving this God forsaken city, I will most likely never leave because of what keeps me here. I wish to leave this city, I do, but I won't. BUT If I ever do, I hope to never return.

Everyday I ask myself 'what happen?' ... 'what's next?' ...

YET Foolishly, I am amazed and in disbelief at what emerges. This whole damn city is broken the water is dirty, el llano de encanto carries the cries for justice in the wind, injustice turned the waters red, Desert Spirits roam endlessly in the desert of the lost souls. No Justice and No Peace should be New Mexico's slogan, NM's mottos: NM is 4 sale.

'Until Victory, Always', I say with conviction, I know reality is that it is Always Until Victory. It will never end, the struggle lives on. Resistance is required no matter and battles waged against us should be fought even if victory is not an option of ours.

I'm thankful for you and your resistance, I'm thankful to resist with you, Silvio.

It's an outrageous $4.5 million+, not $4.2 million. Also see Joe Monahan's latest posting below on Ginger and the Councilors-seven finally developing some huevos.

Berry's loyalists- Jones and Winter have been and continue to be traitors to us. I don't know how they can look themselves in the mirror.

Let's see if the brave seven Councilors will demand answers from Ginger and Perry at the next Council meeting or fold. We can expect more doubletalk from Perry. Eden hopes he isn't called on and makes a fool of himself once again.

Former cop Ginger knows that the bogus agreement that APD enabler US Attorney Damon Martinez negotiated and signed makes him powerless. Ginger can only recommend changes (likely limited to training) to APD who will laugh at him. But Ginger doesn't care as he still will be ripping taxpayers off-making his $4.5 million over the next four years.

The Council's new must be amended legislation should spell out specifically what Ginger will donot merely say he will follow the disgraceful toothless agreement and falsely claim that Judge Brack will really oversee his work.

I'm confident that that the seven councilors finally know we are in a crisis as DA Brandenburg says and also a city in distress as my still banned upside down flag symbolizes..

As for the YouTube video, Eden's disgraceful records custodian Reynaldo Chavez is still stonewalling my requests to see the videos taken by Eden's (whose the man?) cop Greer and partner and the cadet if he had a recorder. Reynaldo even asked me for the case #. Time for him to go. Winter has another Chavez IPRA stonewaller in APS-Rigo Chavez. Both Chavez boys cut from the same cloth.

See you at that next Council meeting

Life In the Old Gal Yet? ABQ City Council Finds Some Hind Legs, Plus: Heinrich Redux, And: Haaland Is New Dem Chair; Now What?

Councilors Lewis & Harris

Maybe there's life in the old gal yet. That's the takeaway from the ABQ City Council's 7 to 2 vote to hold the APD federal monitor's feet to the fire. Five Dems led by Council President Rey Garduno were joined by two of the council's four R's—Dan Lewis and Don Harris—in refusing to approve (for now) a $4.5 million four-year contract with monitor James Ginger because of concerns about the agreement. It was a rare occasion of the council breaking with the Mayor Berry administration and inserting itself into policy when it comes to the long-running APD crisis.

While the action seemed extraordinary because of the way the council has mostly hibernated during the mayhem that has surrounded APD, it was actually quite ordinary for the legislative branch—on equal footing with the mayor—to inject its concerns. It's finally letting it be known that it too wants a seat at the table in resolving a matter that has given ABQ numerous national black eyes and demoralized APD officers. Allies of the Mayor immediately criticized the seven councilors, saying their action was merely symbolic—that the federal judge monitoring the monitor and the city administration will have the final say over Ginger's contract. But symbolism should not be underestimated.

Berry, Chief Administrative Officer Rob Perry, APD Chief Gorden Eden and federal monitor Ginger have treated the council as an aside. Anyone familiar with the history of the nine member panel knows it is much more than a wall flower, even if the current crop of councilors has let its muscles atrophy. The 7 to 2 vote had the council finally doing some of the heavy lifting that is needed to renew confidence in APD and city government.

Welcome back, councilors, please visit often.

Hello Comrades and Politicians,

This YouTube video was inspired by Chief Eden advisement of those two APD thugs who beat a homeless man. 'Who's the Man??' How heroic, I'm sure it was all done in the name of protecting and serving, risking lives, and honor. APD is Community Strong, pass it along. 'Who's the man'?

I'd like to acknowledge Councilor Kenny Sanchez for the much needed question and concern regarding the 4.2 million dollar monitor, these questions are tough and equally, they are necessary.

I think we should take Kenny's concern about the monitors a step further, what we should be asking is Who 's going to monitor the monitor's monitor?

Maybe the tax payer waste firm who was paid to monitor Greedy Greenwood's expenses but didn't.

Viewer discretion is advised. Enjoy the inspired youtube video. NM is dead last by design. we all deserve better.

Importance:	High

POB Board Members:

The CPOA and POB have received two requests for documents pursuant to the New Mexico Inspection for Public Records Act (IPRA). The Requests are below. Please send by email any responsive documents you may have in either email or hard copy form to the requested document to Assistant City Attorney Hessel Yntema at hyntema@cabq.gov

Hess has been assigned to review all the documents you and I provide him and determine if they are responsive to the requests and producible under the IPRA law. It is our duty to provide Hess all documents described in the request. He will make any determination for privilege or other exceptions to IPRA.

The law requires that the City make available the copies within 15 days of the City's receipt of the request. Hess also needs time to review the documents within that 15 days. Therefore, please send Hess your emails and other documents as soon as possible. If you do not have access to a scanner to send your non-email documents to Hess via PDF, please contact him and make arrangements to deliver the hard copies by some other means. If you have any questions about these requests, please call Hess at the City Attorney's Office, 768-4500.

Dear Dr. Foster:

On April 10, 2015 we received your request to inspect certain public records. We are reaching out to clarify a few issues pertaining to the request, in which a portion of the request reads as follows:

I request that any and all emails, communications, and correspondence of any kind to and from any and all Commissioners received and/or sent in conduct of their duties as Commissioners of the Albuquerque Oversight Board / Civilian police Oversight Agency from February 2, 2015 through this request...

We request that you clarify what you meant by the term "communications," listed in the IPRA request. We want to ensure everyone completely understands what you mean by that word, so there is no doubt as to what public records you believe fall under that term. See NMSA 1978, § 14-2-6(F).

We also request that you provide greater "reasonable particularity," NMSA 1978, § 14-2-8(C), for the portion "Commissioners." As was previously indicated, in order to accomplish an effective email search, we need the names of the specific "commissioners" to search or their individual email address (i.e. chavezr@cabq.gov). We look forward to hearing back from you on the above referenced questions.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions or comments.

As far as applying for membership on the Police Oversight Board (POB), City Council is responsible for all appointments to the POB. I would suggest writing City Council President Rey Garduno (revgarduno@cabq.gov) and Vice President Brad Winter (BWinter@cabq.gov) to notify them of your or an SCLC member's desire to apply for future openings on the POB. Because more than 100 people applied last Fall for the initial placement of the POB Members, it was my understanding that City Council intended for future openings to pull from the applicant pool already in place. However, there is nothing in the Police Oversight Ordinance which mandates this. Council would be free to open up the process to additional names if they wished.

I hope this answers some of your questions. I look forward to working with you.

I would suggest writing City Council President Rey Garduno (revgarduno@cabq.gov) and Vice President Brad Winter (BWinter@cabq.gov) to notify them of your or an SCLC member's desire to apply for future openings on the POB. Because more than 100 people applied last Fall for the initial placement of the POB Members, it was my understanding that City Council intended for future openings to pull from the applicant pool already in place. However, there is nothing in the Police Oversight Ordinance which mandates this. Council would be free to open up the process to additional names if they wished.

I hope this answers some of your questions. I look forward to working with you.

All the best,

Robin Hammer

Dear Ms. Hammer,

We hope that your meeting scheduled last night went smoothly and was productive.

The SCLCNM is quite interested in the work of your committee. While we have not had representatives at your first two meetings we intend to be attending future meetings.

We know that you have filled all the member positions on the committee. We will be interested in having one of our members apply for any future vacancies on the committee. How do we initiate that process?

Thanks,

Dan Webb

Leonard,

I can drive you. They wrote back and said that they couldn't make Thursday after all. What about Tuesday at 1:30 pm?

Thanks, Robin

Mr. Webb:

Thank you for your email. I would like to meet with you, along with the Police Oversight Board Chair, Leonard Waites, to discuss common interests between your organization and the Civilian Police Oversight Agency. Please let us know when would be a good time for you. I am available during portions of Thursday and Friday this week.

As far as applying for membership on the Police Oversight Board (POB), City Council is responsible for all appointments to the POB. I would suggest writing City Council President Rey Garduno (revgarduno@cabq.gov) and Vice President Brad Winter (BWinter@cabq.gov) to notify them of your or an SCLC member's desire to apply for future openings on the POB. Hi, Leonard and Jeanette.

Listen, I was thinking about Jeanette's own work and recommendations for all of us regarding individual outreach in our own neighborhoods, and I wondered if we should have business cards of some sort. I hesitate, in a sense, to give out my own business cards (though, that's okay too, if that's what we think is best), AND, I wondered if we should be leaving folks with our POB info., anyway, if that's the capacity in which we interact with them in these sorts of forums.

I'm doing some work with CNM and the homeless population this coming week, for instance, and I'm wishing I had a POB-inscribed card to use for that event.

What do you think?

Moira

I think its a great idea. There might b funds for that, I'll check

Thanks, Leonard; we should have letterhead too.....But all this will involve creating a "look"/branding for the Board? -- since we're not supposed to be City affiliated....? Don't know....

Thanks for thinking about it with me, and checking into it. Let me know what I can do to help.
