All - I'm enclosing the completed applications with writing assignments that I have received. There are 3 additional people who have applied and their writing assignments are not yet due, and I don't have their applications yet, they are: Duncan Bradley, Robin Dozier Otten and Jennifer Romero. I'm not sending you resumes of people who failed to complete the writing assignment, if you want those, let me know - for whatever reason, Allen sent me some of those and not others. I'm also enclosing the spreadsheet tracking people.

Please confirm receipt of these. Thanks, -B

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

The City of Albuquerque has attempted some form of public oversight continuously since June of 1978. During the intervening decades, the city has explored a variety of methods with limited or no success. In fact, the April 2014 DOJ Findings letter opined that the then current approach to public oversight was a contributor to what it considered to be unconstitutional conduct of the Albuquerque Police Department (APD). There may be no greater failure of public oversight.

In September 2014, the City of Albuquerque instituted the POB and CPOA as a new form of public oversight in attempt to address the short comings believed to be present in the prior implementations. As with all previous forms of public oversight, under the current system the APD remains free to ignore the recommendations of the POB. However, the present environment makes it far more likely that the APD will be receptive to change as a result of information it receives from the community. The single most important element in the success of public oversight is APD's willingness to participate.

As a result, the most important goal for the CPOA and POB to achieve within the next 12 months is to objectively demonstrate on a consistent basis that the APD is meaningfully responsive to recommendations of the POB and CPOA. If the APD fails or refuses to adopt the recommendations of the POB as a general practice, the POB and CPOA will fail at effective public oversight within far less than twelve months.

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

During my representation of a company, I became aware that a high level executive, who was my superior, had purchased and was operating an independent business venture. The existence of that business venture may have exposed the company to the possibility of civil and criminal claims. Knowing that my employment was in jeopardy, I reported my concerns to the CEO of the company and the executive. The executive obtained legal counsel and divested of that business venture. I took action because my ethical responsibility to the company is of greater importance than my continued employment. Fortunately though, our working relationship successfully survived the situation.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

Prior to law school during my employment at The Boeing Company I was given responsibility for a software quality assurance department that made the final delivery decisions for a number of multi-billion dollar programs including nuclear capable weapon systems. At the time of my promotion, I was the sole member of the department and confronted with the challenge of budgeting, obtaining facilities, and staffing in the face of rapidly growing business demand. I located facilities, obtained equipment, and hired a number of employees in a matter of weeks. Over the course of the next few years, I recruited and hired more than 30 employees. During this time, I created company-wide policies and procedures that outlined the philosophy of the organization and allowed employees quickly to become productive. I dealt with this challenge by creating a well-rounded cohesive team that could be relied upon to effectively accomplish their responsibilities independently. Managing delegation of tasks was critical, because the scope of work was broad and some of my employees were located remotely where communication was limited to phone calls with months passing between in person visits.

My second example is when, as general counsel, I was asked to terminate the HR director of a 650 employee company. I proposed to the executives the alternative of demoting of the HR director to an administrative position and the transfer another partially qualified employee to the director position. Having anticipated the situation over a year previously, I had arranged for the employee to be transferred to the HR department as an administrative assistant to gain HR experience, followed by coordinating her promotion and transfer to the business development department engaged in HR facilitation activity. By the time the situation with the incumbent HR director developed, the employee had sufficient experience to handle the position. The executives approved my proposal and tasked me with carrying it out, which I did in a matter of weeks.

The reason I proposed this alternative was that termination and replacement of the HR director could have caused significant disruption to the company. The incumbent was an experienced HR professional who enjoyed the administrative aspects of the job and had significant corporate memory, but disliked the conflict inherent in the HR director position. The proposed employee was adept at handling conflict and resolving disputes, but had insufficient experience in HR to serve a 650 employee company alone. However, with the enthusiastic support of the former HR director, she successfully performed as HR director while gaining experience in the position. The two of them work well as a team. Both individuals are still serving in those positions now after nearly three years.

A final example involves a situation when a physician-employee of the company related a racially charged joke in the presence of two minority employees, one of whom took offense. Another physician in the office reported the incident to me and I immediately investigated to confirm the occurrence, engaged in a discussion with the offending physician regarding the inappropriate conduct, then scheduled sensitivity training which included a final examination. My outside legal counsel included a female minority attorney who agreed to provide the sensitivity training as well as to counsel the offended employee to ensure that future performance was not affected. I followed up three months later to verify that the intervention had been successful and the office continued to be productive. Ensuring appropriate respect for all persons is vital to ensuring that an organization is able to function at optimal productivity.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

One case of which I am proud involves a mentally disadvantaged youth who had been charged with two counts of statutory rape with an initial proposed plea of one count with a 40 year sentence and no possibility of parole. A multi-state investigation revealed that an older sister who was alienated from her father had made false claims about her younger sister in an attempt to harm her father, which gave rise to the false charges against my client. A court appointed medical expert re-examined the alleged victim and reported that the investigative findings presented in three reports all had been fabricated. After over a year involving many hearings before the court, I reached a plea agreement with the prosecutor for a misdemeanor conviction. The judge accepted a plea of no contest, entered a misdemeanor conviction and a sentence of time served. I am proud of this case because it represents defending a vulnerable person in an unpopular cause in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds.

Another case involved a claim of commercial fraud perpetrated by the relative of a sitting judge in the same district. After having engaged in a protracted uphill struggle to get the case in front of a jury, the presiding judge interrupted my examination of the defendant and allowed those of my claims that he previously had disallowed. Deliberation took less than 20 minutes. I am proud of this example because it represents pursuing justice in a difficult case with significant opposition.

One final case of many involved a court appointed representation relating to counts of attempted murder, kidnapping, felony evade and elude, and felony criminal damage to property. At the first preliminary hearing, the judge refused to bind over two of the counts for want of probable cause. The prosecutor dropped charges and refiled, and I was reappointed to the same defendant by mere chance. At the second preliminary hearing in front of a different judge, the judge bound the two charges, but refused to bind over the charges that had been bound in the previous hearing. Again, the prosecutor dropped the charges and refiled, but this time in anticipation, I had requested the assignment clerk to assign the case to me. The third preliminary hearing in front of a still different judge resulted again in only two charges being bound over, at which point the prosecutor entered into a plea for two misdemeanor counts with time served. My success largely was a result of my long-term relationship with an out of state law enforcement officer who served as an investigator. I am proud of this case because of my persistence in seeking a better outcome for my client. The traditional approach would have been to waive the preliminary hearing and let the case go to trial, but that would have meant the defendant would have spent perhaps close to a year in custody awaiting trial.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.

The POB and CPOA exist to assure the community of the quality of the APD. Quality in this case being compliance with the US Constitution, New Mexico laws, the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree, and other specifications of the APD system. Verification of quality can be expected to involve both a systemic audit program and a complaint resolution program. The audit program investigates both that the policies and procedures are correct and adequate, and verification of operational compliance with those policies and procedures. The complaint resolution program uses information provided by complaint investigations to further examine and verify the adequacy of the APD policies and procedures.

An investigation is an important step in a process of ensuring and improving the quality of the APD system. The investigation, however, is merely the information gathering portion of the process. The critical and possibly more difficult activity is that of implementing effective resolution of the identified concerns. The typical reaction of an organization to audit findings or complaints is to defend, deny and avoid taking any corrective action. But, with education and persistence, organizations can understand that all systems are imperfect, and that investigative findings are critical information necessary to continuously improve the system.

Part of my investigation philosophy is that among the most damaging conduct possible with respect to public oversight is false statements made by public servants in the course of an investigation. The Fifth Amendment does not shield false statements. See U.S. v. Wong (1977), U.S. v. Mandujano (1976), and U.S. v. Knox (1969). Consequently, Garrity rights do not apply to perjured or false statements made by a government employee under Garrity protection. I vigorously will encourage prosecution of any government employee who participates in sworn false statements made during the course of an investigation, whether they utter the false statement or knowingly allow it to be uttered.

Furthermore, it is my opinion that Garrity rights do not require that the City of Albuquerque knowingly to expose the public to a risk of danger merely because information regarding that danger was elicited through compelled self-incriminating statements. It is my expectation and belief that the constitutional rights of government employees can be protected while simultaneously protecting the constitutional rights of the public at large.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

The POB and CPOA are tasked with verifying the quality of the APD as defined by the US constitution, New Mexico laws, the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree, and other quality specifications. I have extensive experience with quality verification that is relevant here. In addition to my experience with criminal defense attorney, which will help with interpretation of the quality specifications for the APD, I also have fifteen years of quality assurance and industrial statistics experience that will allow rapid implementation of a comprehensive and cost effective program to verify APD's compliance with the identified requirements. In the past, I have been certified by the American Society for Quality, as a Quality Engineer, a Quality Auditor, and a Reliability Engineer, representing the possession of specific knowledge relating to the investigation of compliant and noncompliant systems and the resolution of noncompliance.

My background in industrial statistics also may be especially useful in rapidly responding to a large backlog of cases in a timely manner. Although sometimes criticized by people who do not understand, statistics is a science of decision making and problem solving that involves taking quantities of data and identifying information contained therein. The efficiency of investigations may be increased with the appropriate use of such analytic methods. Statistics can be used not only to identify the priority of investigations to pursue, but also to identify which cases are likely to be isolated events and which may be signals of systemic issues, and to objectively measure the success of implemented recommendations.

Statistical methods allow for an objective determination whether the POB and CPOA are effective. CPOA's report to the community and the City be expressed with a scientific level of confidence. For example, appropriate implementation of statistical methods can allow measurement of community confidence, and the change in that confidence over time, regarding whether the POB and CPOA have been able to achieve effective public oversight. Among the many other factors of quality that can be objectively measured are whether the frequency of observations of putative unconstitutional conduct has changed to a statistically significant extent and whether recommendations implemented by APD are likely to have contributed to an improvement in system performance.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?

The POB is the voice of the community seeking to ensure the quality of the APD. Among the factors of quality that can be measured is the level of community confidence that the APD is appropriately protecting the community and that the CPOA is effective in supporting public oversight. The CPOA is the administrative function that supports the POB and empowers it with appropriate resources and systems to ensure that the concerns of the community have been satisfactorily addressed and that the APD is maintaining appropriate quality.

The primary purpose of the POB and the CPOA is to ensure that the community has confidence that the APD is complying with the US Constitution and other quality requirements while allowing the APD the appropriate operational secrecy necessary to engage in effective law enforcement. It is my expectation based on prior experience with quality systems, that the APD can be persuaded to be responsive voluntarily to the recommendations of the POB from its own self-interest. It will be my goal to persuade the APD to take objectively verifiable action with respect to every recommendation of the POB.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

Prior experience with similar quality assurance systems. I have created and managed many quality assurance and complaint resolution systems in similar politically charged and conflict-filled environments under tight time constraints and high pressure to perform. I can create and have in operation an objectively verifiable system producing results visible to the community in a very short period of time.

Focus on the goal. The important goal of public oversight is for the community to have confidence in the APD. I am able to evaluate mountains of data to determine which are important versus merely urgent, and develop a strategy to satisfactorily accomplish large numbers of assignments in a short period of time. The CPOA has a large backlog of cases and being able to address and resolve that backlog quickly and effectively is important for establishing confidence in the CPOA and the APD.

Willingness to forgive insult to get the job done. I do not hold grudges and easily forgive insults. In an environment of conflict and divergent motivations, holding grudges for past insults or seeking retaliation can politicize an environment and destroy consensus building necessary for conflict resolution. Having implemented quality systems before, I have extensive experience de-escalating the natural defensiveness of organizations against perceived criticism and induced change.

Independence. I am an outsider. I have no prior relationships with the APD, the City Attorney, or any other employee of the City of Albuquerque. I have never been a police officer, a prosecutor, nor a city attorney. No one justifiably can accuse me of bias or favoritism.

Development of effective relationships. I have experience with developing effective relationships with people of all perspectives, cultures and backgrounds. Having an appropriate understanding of our different world views is important to ensuring effective community engagement and support.

As for one of my challenging characteristics, I have a tendency to be intense with a laser-like focus on completing important assignments that can cause distress for those who work for me. At times I have been given the nicknames, 'Bulldog' and 'Missile-lock.' I gravitate toward situations that involve more work than can be done in the given amount of time and lose sight of the clock to ensure the completion of an important goal. Sometimes this results in giving employees more work than they accomplish leading to stress and distress. To address this characteristic, I intentionally develop a rapprochement with my staff that allows them to coordinate the scheduling of their assignments and identify appropriate deadlines. We discuss the distinction between important and urgent assignments, and coordinate a priority that assures the appropriate assignment is accomplished at the required time.

9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others.

An advantage of having many years of life experience is that I have had numerous opportunities to be involved as officer, chairman or member of numerous community groups, including branches of the American Red Cross, American Cancer Society, Habitat for Humanity, and other organizations. I have represented multiple independent practice associations, which are a type of union for physicians, with respect to their labor negotiations with contracted health plans and in matters relating to discipline of individual physicians, including navigation of the contractual dispute resolution and appeals provisions. I have served as an intern for a state senator, and coordinated lobbying action seeking reformation of state law. I have interacted with DOJ attorneys with respect to multi-million dollar civil and criminal claims. I have no prior experience working with a DOJ monitor, but my employment with The Boeing Company involved years of working closely with numerous defense procurement officers that served in an analogous role of monitoring that our system was complying with the requirements of the procuring government department. My fifteen year career at Boeing, and seventeen as an attorney, has centered on resolving disputes between groups having different interests in order to create a consensus necessary to achieve a common goal.

Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

My situations are myriad, but unfortunately the most interesting examples involving legal cases, the DOJ and others, are cloaked in confidentiality or involve classified programs. One example I can relate involved the assembly and installation of the aft access and blow out door that precludes a catastrophic failure mode for the 737 commercial aircraft; the door keeps the aircraft from blowing apart in midair. The installation process took nearly 8 hours to complete but the production line was being accelerated necessitating a more efficient process. There was significant conflict with the installation crew blaming assembly, assembly blaming tooling, and tooling blaming engineering; these conflicts related to hundreds of millions of dollars and involved perhaps 100 people all highly motivated to place blame on others with negative impact on process improvement. My responsibility was to improve the process to allow the airplane assembly to move faster while maintaining appropriate quality, which caused increased work but no reward for all of the supporting organizations. My role was to mediate disputes and obtain engagement from those disputing organizations. As a result of my facilitation and in a period of less than a week, the process was adjusted to allow completion of installation in less than 20 minutes.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

A Wichita, Kansas television news station used me as an on-air legal expert for a period of years. They would call me with an issue of criminal or civil law as they were on their way to my office to televise the interview. In most cases, I had less than ten minutes notice of the interviews on a wide variety of legal subjects.

Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

ANSWER: Use of Force is the issue on which the public will focus. What is the CPOA going to do about it? I propose the following:

- a. Within 30 days the Chief of APD must present an overview of the department's Use of Force Training for new hires and in-service training. This report must include a detailed use of force continuum. Additionally, the Chief must present a comparison between APD standards and national standards.
- b. Within 90 days the Chief must submit an action plan to conform with national standards for use of force with a timeline for department wide training.

At the same time the Director must initiate an aggressive media campaign to highlight the work of the CPOA relating to the use of force issue. That campaign must include individual meetings with stakeholders, media availability, and use of social media.

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

ANSWER: A few years ago a client came to my office needing to protect assets from garnishment. The garnishment effective date was just a few days away. I filed an action in federal court on an emergency basis.

After the case was filed I discovered my clients had an interest in a business they had not disclosed to me or to the court. Because I filed the case on an emergency basis, the case status was still pending. Therefore, the clients' assets had not been finalized with the court.

Upon discovering these facts I met with my clients and discussed their options. They could continue the case and possibly face criminal charges; and I would file a motion to withdraw as their attorney, or they could voluntarily dismiss their case and find another way to protect their assets.

My clients voluntarily dismissed their case.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

ANSWER: An employee presented a challenge to me. For a time my law office ran commercials on a local Spanish TV station. The campaign was successful and I needed to add a Spanish speaking assistant. My Office Manager and I interviewed applicants and we hired a part-time assistant to answer phones, do client intake, and data entry.

After the employee started it became apparent she was comfortable speaking Spanish in the office, but not interacting with clients. My office manager began to tutor the employee in Spanish to help the employee's confidence.

Another problem developed, the employee fell behind on data entry tasks. I counseled the employee on the data entry tasks, and offered to increase her hours to help complete the tasks. She said she would get caught up and did not need the extra hours.

The employee's interaction with our Spanish speaking clients did not improve. The data entry tasks fell behind again, so I terminated her employment.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

ANSWER: The legal case I'm most proud of is Feerick v. Matrix Moving Systems, Inc. et.al. I'm proud because I received a fair and just outcome for my client, and proud of the work it took to get it.

The case involved interstate transportation of household goods and exploitation of the elderly. My clients moved from Wisconsin to Florida. The moving company charged the Feericks $20,000.00 more than the original quote (a violation of federal statute). The moving company held the household goods hostage until my clients paid the extra $20,000.00.

The Feericks hired me to help them recover the extra money paid. I filed a claim and complaint with the Better Business Bureau. The BBB conducted an arbitration hearing. The arbitrator ruled in our favor.

The moving company hired new attorneys and the appeals process began. I filed an action in state court to confirm the arbitrator's decision. Meanwhile, the moving company sought relief from the decision through federal statute. During the state court action the defendants through their attorneys claimed the arbitration award money was in the moving company's lawyer's trust account.

The state court ruled in my client's favor ordering the money be paid, and that is when it got complicated. The law firm for the moving company then stated it did not have the money. I filed a Contempt Motion to compel the law firm to turn over the money. The court ruled in our favor and the law firm paid the money from its general business account.

The case then moved to the Wisconsin Court of Appeals. After submissions from all parties the appellate court ruled judicial estoppel was not the correct legal theory to hold the law firm liable and remanded the case back to state court for further proceedings.

Upon remand my clients were dismissed from the case and allowed to keep the arbitration award, based upon the legal theory of equitable estoppel. The case took 5 years to complete.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.

ANSWER: It is important to understand investigations of the police have a special nature, because police hold a special place in our society. First and foremost every complaint matters. Each complaint can be analyzed as a management tool for the CPOA.

Investigations must be timely and thorough: Were all the identified witnesses interviewed? Were there efforts to identify additional witnesses? Was a neighborhood canvas conducted? Did the investigation include any photographs or diagrams? Were there any conflicts of interest for the parties involved? Was there any conflict of interest that existed between the parties? Is this a pattern and practice? These are questions that should be answered for each investigation.

My philosophy is to treat each and every investigation with the care it deserves, because each complaint is a tool to better the police department.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

ANSWER: In 1999, the Better Business Bureau of Wisconsin hired me to lead its Dispute Resolution Center during a time of transition. The BBBWI wanted to add mediation as a dispute resolution process, but more importantly the organization needed to upgrade its arbitrator cadre to comply with federal warranty laws and state administrative code. When I came to the BBBWI the arbitrators were volunteers and non-lawyers. To gain compliance the arbitrators needed to be attorneys.

Over the next 18 months I recruited and trained a new cadre of arbitrators across the state of Wisconsin. Additionally, I designed and implemented a mediation program for resolution of consumer complaints.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?

ANSWER: My vision for CPOA is that it conducts thorough and fair investigations of both internal and external complaints. That CPOA deter future police misconduct by ensuring discipline in cases of proven misconduct. That CPOA provides a satisfactory procedure for citizens to seek redress for grievances against the police. That CPOA provide fair treatment of officers accused of misconduct. That CPOA enhance public confidence in the police by providing a professional complaint review process.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

ANSWER: Five assets I bring to the position are:

- o Experience – My work as a police officer in a major city, an administrator of a statewide organization, an attorney, a mediator, and Vice Chair of a civilian oversight of police commission.
- o Demeanor- I'm calm, pragmatic, and decisive.
- o Education – BA in Criminal Justice Operations, Law Degree from Marquette University Law School
- o Accomplished - Most recently as a Leading Lawyer in Milwaukee for 2015

- o Marketer – I took my firm from $0 to over $200,000.00 of gross revenues by learning how to market. I've done trade-shows, community events, designed websites, and used social media including blogging.

I struggle with finding a balance between work and off time. I'd rather check email or phone messages instead of letting them go until the next day.

9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

ANSWER: I am a professionally trained Mediator. My training is in the evaluative, facilitative, and transformative models of mediation. The issues I've mediated have been quite diverse: federal land use issues, discrimination complaints, consumer issues, and employee/employer to name a few.

Most of the mediations I conducted were for the United States Postal Service. These mediations involved union workers, union representatives and management officials. Over 80 % of the cases I mediated resulted in resolution of the dispute.

My achievements and recognition as an attorney have presented other opportunities for community involvement. State Senator Lena Taylor requested my participation in a series of workshops related to homeownership. Alderperson Linda Lubotsky requested I participate in a workshop for the citizens of Greenfield when new property assessments threatened homeowner's ability to meet their property tax obligations.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

ANSWER: The CPOA has a big task ahead. My breadth of experience, education, and training make me uniquely qualified to fill the position. I will be ready from Day 1 to assume the duties of the position.

Based upon the current make-up of the committee, not a single member has police experience. According to news reports, there is already pushback from police staff and the police union. My experience shows me a committee comprised of all civilian personnel will meet great resistance to change. I can change the dynamic.

Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

For this Written Assignment refer to the Settlement agreement/Consent Decree and related documents available at <http://www.cabq.gov/cpoa> or <http://www.cabq.gov/police> or <http://www.justice.gov/crt/about/spl/findsettle.php#newmexico>

Please provide the following information:

Name: Herbert Strassberg
Firm/Employer: None
Address: [REDACTED] Hobbs, NM 88240
Phone: [REDACTED]

  - a. It seems that more transparency is needed and the availability of the results of investigations into particular police complaints be made available to the public and while the number of complaints filed by citizens has fallen over the last couple of years, there is still a backlog that needs to be addressed. Perhaps some additional procedures being put into place and more defined roles of investigative personnel involved would help to resolve the complaints more quickly. The shifting of financial resources to improve law enforcement training and the number of trained professionals in dealing with mentally ill citizens as well as those high on illegal substances in reducing the use of force especially in situations involving mentally ill citizens as well as minimizing racial profiling and constitutionally proper search and seizure procedures together with increased documentation of the particular procedures being followed in police reports would go a long way to reduce further the number of citizen complaints filed.
2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.
  - a. As an Assistant Public Defender, there is often the ethical conflict of expediency in urging a client to accept a plea deal from the Assistant District Attorney (ADA) versus going to trial. Because we (as well as the Assistant District Attorneys) have a heavy caseload and there is not enough work time to take all or most of our cases to trial, there is the ever present ethical conflict of having our clients best interests served vs. getting his or her case resolved quickly. In my case, I have often been able to get charges dropped (usually the most serious ones) and an offer of no jail time, but supervised probation in exchange for their pleading guilty and the clients usually prefer that certainty vs. taking their case to trial when the evidence appears to weigh in favor of the ADA. Of course there are often times when I filed a motion to suppress improper evidence to try to get the ADA' cases dismissed instead of the client accepting a plea deal. When that failed and/or the evidence is weak on the prosecution side, then I have taken the client's case forward towards a trial. Again, most of these have been settled along the way with revised plea deals more to the clients liking. Of course, sometimes I had to take cases to trial and I won about 50% of those cases that went all the way to a judge or jury verdict.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.
  - a. As a supervisor of employees that had multiple supervisors, I encountered the challenge of getting the underlying employees to treat my projects with appropriate priority. I have dealt with these situations by asking what the other projects were for the other supervisors and letting the employee know how mine fit into their workload. At times, I contacted the other supervisors to inform them of my project so that we could work out the appropriate priority of the pending projects for the effected employees as well as to inform them of the work I have given to those employees. This way, all the supervisors can better coordinate the workload on the effected employees.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?
  - a. I am most proud of my criminal defendant cases where I got the ADA to dismiss or reduce charges against my client in light of the motions I told them I was going to file after I discussed with them why the evidence and law was in my clients favor. I am most proud of such cases as I was able to resolve these cases quickly in my clients favor without the expense and time needed to take their cases to trial and that my being able to convince the ADA of this meant I was on the right path in achieving justice for my clients. In such cases, the ADA could see that I would likely win given the law and evidence in such situations.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.
  - a. As an Assistant Public Defender, I usually didn't just depend on the ADAs to provide me with discovery for a particular case as they often drag their feet in timely getting me the legally required evidence against my client. Also, they often don't give me all or even most the possible exculpatory evidence available; but rather, tend to turn over only the standard items of evidence, usually the items in their prosecutorial favor. My standard mode of practice was early after I am assigned a case, I review our case file and criminal information we have initially and then make a list of items that are likely available (such as audio and video recordings, call logs and reports) and request them from our in-house investigator. Not only do I obtain additional exculpatory evidence this way, but it also puts pressure on the ADAs to turn over evidence more quickly to my office.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?
  - a. One part of my background that makes me uniquely qualified to attack the backlog of cases is that I earned a Bachelor's of Science Degree in Industrial Engineering. In that major, I was taught how to optimize the flow of labor and materials not just in a factory setting, but also in an office setting. Since obtaining my degree, I have always worked towards optimization of not only handling my assigned projects, but the layout and handling of papers and projects coming across my workstations in just about every job I have held since graduation.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?
  - a. My vision is that the CPOAI is able to effectively and efficiently handle citizen complaints in a timely manner to the satisfaction of the constituents and citizens of Albuquerque so as to eliminate most of the backlog and more importantly, to properly educate and oversee the training of the law enforcement personnel of the Albuquerque Police Department as to just and proper procedures in light of the constitutional rights of its citizens to be free from improper searches and seizures as well as to be treated with the respect they deserve regardless of their race, income level and place they reside or are encountered in by law enforcement personnel. One area in particular, not just for the Albuquerque Police Department, but also for most police departments across the United States is proper psychological training in dealing with mentally ill citizens as well as those that are high on illegal substances causing them to act irrationally. Perhaps there can be on call a staff of mental health care professionals and/or substance abuse counselors around the clock to serve as a resource for law enforcement personnel. Many encounters with mentally ill patients and/or those high on illegal substances lead to violent encounters with law enforcement, as the proper recognition of their illnesses and limitations as well and how best to handle such encounters so as to calm them down without violent shows of force is not part of standard law enforcement training.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.
  - a. I am a dedicated worker, often putting my work first ahead of personal commitments and don't mind working overtime to get the job done when needed. This is important to meet the goals of the organization, especially in light of the current backlog.
  - b. I am an ethical person and like to do the right thing whenever possible not just on the job, but in my personal life as well. The CPOA is all about law enforcement personnel acting ethically and respecting the rights of others, so this is a key quality.
  - c. I prefer to be collaborative and please as many people involved in a particular work project or assignment as possible vs. doing whatever is needed to get the job done at the cost of causing acrimonious relationships. Many diverse stakeholders are affected by actions by the CPOA, so it is important to work as collaboratively as possible to work out arrangements that can please as many people as possible while still achieving the goals of the CPOA.
  - d. I am a person of high integrity and professionalism. I strive for keeping my word whenever possible and keeping other effected individuals informed when things cause deadlines to shift. I do not make false promises to others.
  - e. I strive to not mix personal and work relationships by not getting too personal and prying into the lives of co-workers, but stick to the work at hand, yet show my concern for the welfare of my co-workers. This is important to not implicate insinuations by member of the public and other stakeholders, especially in a neutral oversight body such as the CPOA that must maintain its independence from any particular group of stakeholders to accomplish its mission.
  - f. One challenging area to improve is that I am a bit of a shy person and can sometimes be a little intimidated in public speaking situations before large groups, but I have been active in Toastmasters in the past and have practiced overcoming my nervousness in such situations. In fact, once I start speaking for 30 seconds or so, I usually get over my apprehensiveness. My recent position as an Assistant Public defender has helped a great deal in this respect as well.

9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.
  - a. At one of my former positions, I worked for a bankruptcy claims agent as a communications specialist and paralegal for national level chapter 7 and 11 bankruptcies. I effectively dealt with a wide array of stakeholders, employees, stockbrokers, landlords, creditors, attorneys and investors. I answered phone bank calls and email requests for all sorts of information effecting these stakeholders as to how the bankruptcy effected their salaries, investments, pension plans, etc. and how to file a claim for what is owed to them in a number of bankruptcy proceedings. As a paralegal for various bankruptcy law firms and intellectual property law firms, I also communicated with a variety of people and organizations including creditors, patent examiners, technical support and customer service agents. In other employment, I was an extern to a United State Bankruptcy Judge and for a United State Attorney's Office where I interfaced with attorneys, judges and court staff personnel. More recently, I was a paralegal in litigation support for the California Attorney General's office where I interfaced with staff attorneys, the executive office and attorneys and paralegals at many CA State agencies that the Attorney General's Office represented in litigation proceedings. Finally, in my last job as an Assistant Public Defender, I represented indigent persons accused of crimes and I regularly negotiated and communicated with police officers, Assistant District Attorneys and of course appeared before magistrate and district court judges.

- b. As a paralegal for a patent prosecution firm, I was assigned the task of figuring out how to electronically file patent applications and amendments when that procedure was still new to many law firms. In a series of staff meetings that were held, I informed the other firm members (lawyers, paralegals, patent agents and legal secretaries) of the information I found out and we openly discussed the procedures and protocols that we could use as a firm to implement the use of electronic filing in place of the tried and true filing by mail and facsimile. I was the point person on the project and I learned how to do the electronic filing for the firm. Some of the long time firm members were a bit old school and hesitant of the trustworthiness of electronic filing, preferring to follow the old tried and true methods, but after we discussed how we can change office procedures and workflow in the office in these meetings, I volunteered to be the person to do all of the electronic filing initially, then slowly train others to do so both one on one and by developing training documentation for the office. Eventually, most everyone came to appreciate the speed and almost immediate confirmations we received in filing electronically with the US Patent Office vs. our old methods of filing documents and that became the new norm for the firm within 6 months of beginning the process.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

- a. I am a detailed oriented person, yet I like to know the bigger picture to keep things in perspective. I also like to be more of a collaborator than a dictator type manager giving people I supervise some autonomy and authority over their own work, but within reasonable limits of course. When new and difficult situations arise, I like to involve co-workers in some brain storming for ideas and possible solutions when the standard protocols and procedures do not seem to be able to efficiently resolve the situations at hand.

Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

I believe an immediate need is to establish a simple, efficient and reliable system to administer civilian complaints and coordinate the effective investigation of these complaints. This requires the development of easily understood procedures and guidelines. This will eliminate confusion and assist in the just resolution of civilian complaints. This step is critical in order to establish confidence that members of law enforcement will be held accountable for their actions. It is necessary to implement a well-thought-out system to ensure that the oversight board is accountable, equitable and gives both the law enforcement community and the general public confidence that their concerns will not be overlooked and that they will be treated fairly.

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

A client appeared for a court hearing and he was highly intoxicated. Unfortunately, he hid it very well and I was the only one in the courtroom aware of his condition. He was my client so I was obligated to advocate on his behalf and keep him out of jail. I also had to make sure that he didn't do any harm to himself or others. I discussed this with my client and informed him that we needed to address the court regarding his condition. He was angry and threatened to leave. I quickly discussed the matter with the Assistant District Attorney and he agreed that if I made sure that he did not drive we could request a reset of the hearing and not have my client taken into custody. I took the client back to my office. He slept in my conference room for the rest of the day and his wife picked him up after she got off work.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

When I was supervising the Magistrate Court Division of the First Judicial District Attorney's Office, one of my duties was to make sure that we had adequate coverage for the Magistrate Courts in Santa Fe, Rio Arriba and Los Alamos Counties. There were four attorneys including me to make sure that all three courts were covered. This was challenging given the number of cases and the size of the area that needed to be covered. There were courthouses located in Chama, Espanola, Los Alamos and Santa Fe. One of the lawyers I supervised constantly complained about the size of his caseload and what he perceived as the unfair distribution of cases. I sat with him on numerous occasions and attempted to resolve it without much success. I finally hit upon the idea to put him in charge of case coverage. Much to my surprise he adapted well to the new assignment, worked closely with the other attorneys and flourished in his new role. I was able to focus on other needs within the division and could count on him as a reliable back up.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

I represented a single mother who suffered significant injuries as a result of an arrest. Once her case was resolved she used the proceeds to purchase a home and pursue her college degree. I have found that the most rewarding moments of my career are those that result in helping my clients obtain resolutions that allow them to improve their lives.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.

Investigation is the key to obtaining a just result. It is a process that requires a patient, step by step inquiry into conflicting and sometimes confusing fact patterns. A professional investigation exonerates those who are wrongly accused and establishes a basis to proceed when the facts point to misconduct. The foundation of effective investigation is developing facts, weeding out inconsistent and false statements and arriving at a just resolution.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

I have been a solo practitioner in a very busy criminal defense practice. I have done this without a support staff for the last five years. I have handled hundreds of difficult cases and clients and have provided excellent service and representation under challenging circumstances. I have the focus to ensure I handle my caseload in a manner that is efficient and effective. I work well under pressure and I am used to handling multiple cases at the same time, all of which will allow me to move the backlog of cases efficiently.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?

I believe that the core function of the CPOA should be establishing and maintaining Albuquerque citizens' confidence that members of law enforcement will be held accountable for their actions. Above all, the community must believe in the CPOA's integrity to ensure that this confidence is developed. Trust in law enforcement is the cornerstone of a vibrant community. The CPOA must actively monitor and work closely with law enforcement; when necessary the CPOA must be willing to make difficult decisions to foster community belief in its legitimacy. I have unique perspectives from the several different positions I have held in the legal system, including those of prosecutor, defense attorney, civil litigator and legislator. I have tried many cases in these various roles. As a result of this background, I have developed an ability to work effectively with a variety of individuals. My previous experience ensures that I will be able to fulfill my role as Executive Director based on my current knowledge and my ability to adapt quickly and effectively. My extensive and diverse experience will allow me to define challenges and quickly develop solutions.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

1. Honesty. This is a key asset in establishing credibility with all stakeholders involved in this process.
2. Integrity. I hold myself to high standards and believe it reflects in the work that I do. I trust myself to do the right thing in a variety of circumstances. If you can't trust yourself then you can't expect others to trust your insight or observation.

3. Candor. I feel a direct approach results in the efficient use of a limited amount of time to resolve issues.
  4. Ability to work well with others. Throughout my career I have been most effective when I recognized other points of view and worked with people in arriving at a solution rather than trying to force someone to accept my view.
  5. Sense of humor. This quality has allowed me to see trying situations as challenges to overcome and not as roadblocks without a solution.
  6. I struggle with being somewhat direct in addressing an issue. There are circumstances that require a more delicate touch and I am working on that.
9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

As a New Mexico State Senator I carried and passed the first major piece of ethics legislation passed by the legislature and signed into law. Senate Bill 931 governed ethical conduct by legislators and substantially cut monetary awards and gifts to legislators. There was significant opposition to my proposal. Several legislators felt it was unnecessary and that it created more oversight than was needed. Proponents of the legislation did not think that it went far enough and asked for significant penalties to be attached to the bill. I spent a great deal of time convincing legislators that we were obligated to our constituency to monitor our own conduct and control any appearance of impropriety. I met with vocal constituents who wanted stiff penalties and worked out a compromise to ensure that the legislation passed. This Bill proved to be an important first step in the development of additional ethics legislation.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

When I first started at the Attorney General's Office as an administrative prosecutor, I presented cases to the Law Enforcement Academy Board for the revocation of law enforcement officers' certifications. This gave me valuable insight into the function of a board that monitors law enforcement and the challenges a board has in maintaining high standards of professionalism in a sometimes adversarial environment. Additionally, it helped me develop my skills as attorney and help me recognize the fundamentals of good investigation. I have used these skills in my career to direct investigations and as a defense attorney to point out flaws in investigations. As Deputy Director of the Civil Division of the Attorney General's Office, I advised numerous Boards and Commissions on all aspects of compliance with State law and regulation.

Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

A: I worked as the sole intern of a criminal defense attorney in the District of Columbia. While working for Michael Madden, I conducted extensive investigation for the many cases he was trying, including homicide, rape, assault and battery, domestic violence, and robbery. I investigated the alleged crimes and reviewed numerous police reports and witness statements relevant to the case. I worked closely with Mr. Madden's personal criminal investigator and accompanied him and participated throughout the investigation process. I interviewed witnesses and prepared the defendant and witnesses for direct and cross examination. I researched the relevant law and wrote numerous motions which were submitted to the Court.

8. Q: Briefly describe your experience with administrative and judicial processes, policies and procedures.

A: As a Staff Attorney at Disability Rights New Mexico (DRNM), I represent my clients in Administrative Fair Hearings and am required to have extensive working knowledge of relevant administrative procedures and policies. Because I work closely with Administrative Law Judges, I have experience with the Hearings Process and relevant laws. As a Staff Attorney at DRNM, I represent clients challenging guardianship and represent these clients in guardianship proceedings. In light of my experience working for Michael Madden as a criminal defense intern, I often appeared in front of criminal court judges and was required to know criminal laws, policies, and procedures.

1) After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

One of the first objectives is to catch up on all the backlogged cases. Doing so will show the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and that the agency takes it seriously. By demonstrating a commitment to review complaints that have been backlogged will show the community that the agency is actively trying to review all complaints and begin the investigation process. I expect that due to the number of cases that have been backlogged, this process will take time; however, beginning this process and substantially reducing the number of cases in the backlog is a critical first step. Another initial goal is to begin training both agency personnel and the APD in appropriate use of force, de-escalation techniques, and to revise and develop new policies, with a special emphasis on providing crisis intervention trainings and developing crisis intervention teams. With the development of new policies and with the conclusion of initial trainings, new procedures for handling misconduct must be in order to ensure compliance with the new policies and procedures. I believe that while trainings are taking place, it is important to begin the process of establishing procedures for handling misconduct and for supervising officers in the field. This requires developing a staffing plan to ensure close supervision of officers and creating an early intervention system. These initial steps will demonstrate to the community that the agency is reassessing its policies, evaluating officers in the field, and creating a supervision plan that involves closely monitoring officers and creating a procedure for handling officer misconduct. Coupled with the issue of reprimanding or punishing officer misconduct is creating a plan for hiring and encouraging officer compliance with the new policies and procedures. Recruiting new officers and encouraging compliance with policies and procedures for professional and ethical policing can include plans to have thorough psychological and medical evaluations of new candidates and lateral hires, conduct pre-employment and routine drug testing of all officers, and providing a variety of supports and assistance for officers, including access to occupational training, mental health services, and other social services. These initial steps should occur while the Director and other agency staff regularly meet with community stakeholders to facilitate ongoing communication, conduct outreach to inform the public of progress towards the new goals and objectives, and to maintain transparency.

2) Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

While working under the supervision of an attorney during an internship opportunity, I witnessed a mentally ill client be treated in a way that negated their dignity and informed choice. This was an ethical conflict because I believed that the individual had a right to make their own decision regarding their legal argument; however, the attorney chose to act in a way he believed served the client's best interests but ignored the client's wishes. When working with individuals suffering from a disability or mental illness, there are two approaches that are often implemented: 1) best interests or 2) client centered. I believe that clients deemed legally competent have a right to make decisions they believe are appropriate. Informed choice is an idea that I strongly stand by and believe is necessary for treating individuals with dignity despite any disabilities they may have. My supervising attorney believed in the best interests approach and we disagreed on how to handle the situation. In this particular case, I was working under direct supervision from an attorney who was trying the case, so while I made my opinion known, I was not able to change the plan. I believe that as I was under the supervision of another attorney, I was not in a position to make the decision; however, I did feel obligated to express my concern and disagreement and provide reasons to support my position. I felt that my ethical obligation was to inform the supervising attorney of the alternate approach with supporting reasons. While I believe my client had the right to make his own decision, I was not in a position to act as his attorney and thus could only express my differing position to my supervisor. While I had hoped to sway my supervisor's decision, he ultimately pursued a course of action that was in the client's best interest and while that did allow the client some additional perks, it was not an approach the client wanted to take. I do believe that I handled the situation appropriately given that I was not a licensed attorney at the time but that I expressed my position and stood by it. I believe that my actions in that situation demonstrated my integrity and dedication and fulfilled my ethical obligation to inform my supervisor of the alternate approach.

3) Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

While working as a Staff Attorney at Disability Rights New Mexico, I have been paired to work on various projects with other staff members. As an attorney, I am given more discretion as to the project and have made supervisory decisions regarding trainings and presentations. Although I am not the direct supervisor of the individuals I am working with on a training project and a conference presentation, I have been assigned the lead and continue to play a supervisory role in organizing the project, creating a plan, and delegating work. In this capacity, I will review all project materials and training guides and will make necessary additions or changes to provide the highest quality materials. One of the challenges I have encountered is that I am working with individuals who have been with the agency for a very long time and are working under the same models and hierarchy they have held in the past. As I started in November of 2014, I am relatively new to the agency and I am finding that some staff members do not want me to take the lead. The challenge is getting staff to trust in my experience and knowledge and to allow me to direct the project. In doing so, I am working closely one-on-one with individual staff and creating an informal environment to have discussions and to decide on details together. In creating an informal setting to create a plan, I am asking for input from the staff and allowing their opinions to be heard and taken into consideration. I believe this approach allows individuals to trust that I will respect their opinions and work closely with them to create a collaborative project. Overall, I believe this method results in a positive working relationship and allows for individuals to trust in my abilities but to also feel like they will remain active participants and that their opinions are meaningful.

City of Albuquerque Police Oversight Board
Questionnaire for Director of Civilian Police Oversight Agency Applicants
Due by the close of business on July 1, 2015

4) Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

While working at Disability Rights New Mexico, I represented a student with learning disabilities and behavioral problems who was facing a permanent expulsion from high school. The student admitted to bringing and using illegal drugs on school grounds and to engaging in numerous fights with other students. I am most proud of this case because despite the seriousness of the charges, during the expulsion appeal hearing I was able to convince the school to reverse the expulsion and allow the student to return to school with additional special education accommodations. I am extremely proud of this result because I was working under pressure as I had not received all the information until shortly before the hearing and because the family and the student were very difficult to communicate with. I am also proud of this result because I was able to quickly learn an area of law that I was unfamiliar with and make a very strong and sound legal argument in support of my client despite the seriousness of the charges.

5) Describe your investigative philosophy.

I believe that in conducting an investigation, it is important to remain open-minded and not reach a conclusion before all information is gathered and assessed. I believe that all complaints should be thoroughly investigated and that an investigation is deemed complete only when reliable and complete findings are made. Complainants need to be individually interviewed, interviews should be recorded to ensure accuracy and context of statements, and witnesses should provide written statements of their observations or lack thereof. I believe that investigations need to remain confidential and that administrative and criminal investigations remain separate to protect constitutional rights. My investigative philosophy requires thorough and private interviews and that in many cases, a follow-up interview is necessary to ensure completeness of information. I believe that timeliness is crucial to accurate reporting of observations and information gathering and that obtaining information from a variety of sources is crucial for an unbiased interpretation of events.

6) The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

I have a lot of experience working in a variety of offices and have extensive knowledge of organizational methods, time management, and self-directed work. I believe that I am a qualified leader and when it comes to projects involving many people, I am able to delegate and assign work based on individual's skills. Because of the large backlog of cases, I believe taking the helm of the organization and moving it forward requires someone who is capable of jumping in and quickly directing and delegating work while also investing a lot of additional time to do a thorough job. I believe that when presented with an abundance of work leftover from a predecessor, I am able to prioritize and began working immediately while working efficiently and thoroughly. I am a strong leader and am not afraid to direct and delegate individuals where I believe they would be most effective. While professionalism is important and vital to a productive work environment, I am capable of acting professionally and courteously even when confronted with staff who do not want to cooperate or take direction. In stepping into this position as someone new to the department that is undergoing substantial changes, I believe people may not be happy with a new Director's vision or plans and I am not afraid to step into a position where staff may not trust me or respect me at first. I believe in myself and my ability to make appropriate decisions and I believe that in time, I can rally people together to be committed to a new vision and working together.

7) What is your vision for the CPOA?

My vision for the CPOA is to work to ensure police integrity, protect officer safety, prevent the use of excessive force and/or unreasonable use of deadly force, and promote trust and communication between APD and Albuquerque's many communities. My vision for the CPOA is to review and complete the backlogged cases and be able to conduct and conclude investigations in a timely manner. I believe the CPOA should monitor and review all citizen complaints or concerns and investigate the claims. As a result of these investigations and review of complaints or concerns, the CPOA should review, revise, and/or develop departmental policies and procedures for the Police Oversight Board. I envision the CPOA catching up on backlogged cases to prove to the community that complaints are taken seriously and that excessive or unreasonable use of force is a serious issue within the agency. I envision the CPOA developing a realistic perspective on its current status and its timeline for meeting the objectives outlined in the Settlement Agreement and developing an effective and efficient plan for meeting those objectives. I also envision the CPOA developing a strong working relationship with community stakeholders while reinvigorating the agency's relationship with the community fostering support, trust, collaboration, and communication.

8) What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experience. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

I believe that my top five assets that I bring to this position are: 1) integrity; 2) dedication; 3) experience working with the community; 4) open-mindedness ; and 5) experience working with mentally ill individuals

Integrity: I believe that integrity is one of the strongest personality traits to have. I believe that I am an honest individual with strong moral principles. Honesty is crucial when working within an agency because it allows me to communicate both the positives and negatives of a situation and work with others to provide constructive criticism and honest opinions. Because I have strong moral principles, I always try to do what I believe to be right and I always treat everyone with dignity and respect. I believe that treating everyone with dignity and respect is vital to this position because it means listening to what colleagues and civilians have to say, providing support and appropriate supervision to employees, handling employee grievances in a timely manner and with support and fairness, and working with other agencies and community stakeholders in a way that fosters communication and willingness to work together. As a CPOA Director, I believe that supervision of other employees is a task that requires integrity so as to always remain respectful, honest, and supportive of their opinions while fostering a work environment that exudes integrity and veracity, both within our work environment and with other individuals and agencies.

Dedication: As a community activist and strong believer in the need for government accountability, my dedication to the cause is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA because it equips me with the motivation to continue working towards the ultimate objective. When things get rocky or I hit a roadblock, this dedication allows me to work through the difficult times and think outside the box to come up with other possible solutions. My own desire and dedication to engage with community stakeholders and with other community groups advocating for accountability is an asset for this position because it means that I will be able to work with community partners, listen to their opinions, and be open minded so as to meet the objectives of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency.

Experience Working with Community Leaders and Members: Throughout my various extracurricular activities, I have been heavily involved with working with community leaders and members. I believe that systemic reform requires community involvement and by getting involved with various community leaders and community groups, a larger audience can be reached and information can be widely disseminated. Once community partners are involved, they are able to spread the information and get others involved. I believe that the ability to work within the community and engage with them regularly and in informal settings and formats creates a positive relationship that fosters honesty and openness. In light of the ongoing allegations of overuse of police force against civilians, it is incredibly important to have a strong relationship with civilians to show them my commitment to listening to what they have to say, taking their comments and concerns seriously, and reforming the system with their opinions in mind. I believe that my ability to work closely with community members is an asset that I bring to this position because I am comfortable working with community members, listening to their concerns, and committing to addressing their concerns in a timely and professional manner. One of the objectives of the settlement agreement is to foster greater trust among officers and the communities they serve, it is vital to have a good working relationship with community organizations and leaders. This objective requires that the agency undergo reforms to support community participation and create both formal and informal mechanisms that facilitate ongoing communication between APD and Albuquerque's communities. I believe that my ability to work with individuals at a community level and my interpersonal skills are a necessary asset for this position and I believe that I would excel at fostering a stronger relationship between the police department and the community.

Open-mindedness: As the department is undergoing substantial reform, I believe that open-mindedness and a willingness to accept constructive criticism from all stakeholders is a crucial asset for this position. I believe that I am open-minded and willing to work with stakeholders to develop a plan that strives to leave all parties satisfied. One of the biggest concerns in communities is the use of excessive force and many communities currently distrust APD. I believe that working with community members and being open-minded to their criticisms and concerns is a vital component since previous models and methods of running the department have been ineffective. Being open-minded means working towards a solution by utilizing a variety of methods and plans and being open to changing those plans as problems or alternatives develop. I believe that the agency needs an individual who is willing to step into this position with an open-mind and a willingness to hear stakeholder's concerns while creating and recreating plans that target the heart of the problem. I believe that because there are so many stakeholders involved, it is important that the Director be open-minded to the various comments that will arise from discussions with the different stakeholders. Being new to this agency and being open to the comments and criticisms will create a more diverse and inclusive agency. This ability to step into a new position and listen to everyone's concerns without heading down a stagnant and close-minded path will ultimately have the biggest and most positive impact.

Experience working with mentally ill individuals: Crisis intervention is one of the provisions of the Settlement Agreement and requires that APD ensure accountability and promote constitutional, effective policing, by minimizing the necessity for the use of force against individuals in crisis due to mental illness or a diagnosed behavioral disorder. In law school I focused my studies on criminal law and procedure and disability law. I conducted several research projects that focused on the intersection of disability and the law, specifically I addressed the unique needs of individuals suffering from mental illness who are experiencing a crisis situation where police are the first responders. My research also addressed the unique needs of these individuals upon arrest and intake. I believe that my academic background is a strong asset as it has helped me prepare for a career that involves working with individuals with mental illness. Furthermore, this research background forms a strong foundation for professional investigation and planning. As a Staff Attorney at Disability Rights New Mexico, I have numerous clients that suffer from mental health or diagnosed behavioral disorders, many of which are juveniles, who engage in problem behaviors leading to intervention or school disciplinary actions. I believe that my interest in working to ensure that the unique needs of individuals with disabilities are met and so crisis intervention does not involve unnecessary use of force is a strong foundation for serving in this position. As one of the biggest issues in the settlement agreement is crisis intervention planning and restructuring, I believe that my experience working with individuals with mental illness and my academic and professional background that focused on studying the intersection of disability and the criminal justice system is highly relevant to this position. If selected for this position, my experience would allow me to quickly begin working with members of the mental health community of providers, advocates, and individuals to create a more effective and constitutionally sound way in which to work with local stakeholders and develop a crisis intervention program constituting of an advisory committee, behavioral health training, crisis intervention certified responders and intervention unit, and crisis prevention.

Due by the close of business on July 1, 2015

One challenging area of my personality that I struggle with and am working to improve is that I sometimes doubt my ability and skills. When I am working on a difficult case or am dealing with a challenging question or factual scenario, I sometimes become doubtful that I am well-equipped to solve the problem on my own. I am working to improve my self-doubt and learn to trust my abilities by working through problems on my own and spending additional time researching, preparing, and learning everything I can that is relevant to the problem. After going through this process, I prepare a list of questions that I am still struggling with and will sit down and try to come up with answers, sometimes multiple answers, to these questions without judgment as to whether the answers are right or wrong. Once I have answered the questions, I go back and reassess why they are correct or incorrect. At this point, I have usually answered the majority of my questions and begin to feel more confident on my knowledge and skill-set because I know that I have analyzed the issues to the best of my ability. At this point, I also know that if I have remaining questions, I can brainstorm and discuss the issue with my colleagues and take their input into consideration. I find that this process is more effective than immediately going to others when there is a question I cannot answer because it allows me to become more confident in my own abilities and to make efficient use of my time and the time of others. It also allows me to learn what I need to know and gain practical experience with researching, learning other relevant information, and being able to attack another future problem in the same way.

9) This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the groups' goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

Throughout my academic, professional, and extracurricular experiences, I worked closely with various community groups, union officials, attorneys, and others. While working as an

City of Albuquerque Police Oversight Board
Due by the close of business on July 1, 2015

Advocate and then a Staff Attorney at Disability Rights New Mexico (DRNM), I conducted trainings with community special education support groups and parents. During these sessions, I thoroughly explained special education law, the rights of students and parents, and some of the reservations that school districts have regarding the provision of services. While working at DRNM, I attend numerous Individualized Education Program (IEP) meetings to work with schools to identify and then provide appropriate services. Often these IEP meetings are difficult because the schools do not always want to provide necessary and appropriate services and it was my job to convince the schools to provide these services to both abide by federal law and to provide the services the student needs in order to succeed in school. These meetings often started with a conflict over what services should be provided to a student and my role was to work with the school to provide the requested services. I did this by working with the school to conduct evaluations of the student, assess relevant data and reports, and listen to parent and student input to decide what kinds of services are necessary and appropriate. In many cases, I was successful in that I worked with the IEP team and the school district representative to evaluate the student's needs, review relevant reports, and listen to the parties' opinions to come up with a solution that was satisfactory to all involved. In my work at DRNM, I work extensively with opposing counsel to avoid litigation yet addressing and solving client concerns. I often need to communicate regularly with opposing counsel, write thorough legal analysis, and circulate the client's objectives while addressing the opposing side's opinions. In many cases, I successfully avoid litigation by working with the opposing party to come up with a solution or plan that is satisfactory for all involved.

While volunteering with the California Reentry Project as a reentry counselor, I worked with inmates to address their concerns regarding their return to their communities when they parole or their sentences have concluded. In working at San Quentin State Prison, I spent the majority of my time working with the inmates but frequently interacted with correctional officers and prison administrators who ultimately had control over our the project and could decide whether we could continue to work within the prison. Even though our mission was to help inmates prepare to return to their communities, there was often a lot of pushback from prison staff who believed we were wasting our time working with offenders. One important factor when working in that setting was to engage with prison staff and navigate the relationships between staff and inmates to ensure that we were providing quality support to the inmates but were respecting the staff even when they made disparaging remarks to the program, the inmates, and the reentry counselors.

When I lived in Washington, D.C., while I was in law school, I was actively involved with Amnesty International and community activism on issues including Metro union organizing and mental health community awareness. Working with Amnesty International involved networking with local embassies and planning and participating in larger events aimed at promoting human rights. I worked with local universities and partnered with their student chapters to fundraise and participate in local Amnesty International events. While in D.C., I became involved with Metro union organizing when I became friends with several of the Metro bus drivers and learned about union organizing. Once I became involved, I participated in talking with community members, educating the public through manning a booth at various busy areas in the city, and attended several events where I helped create and handout relevant literature. During this process, I learned about how unions operate and strived to get other individuals who were inactive members in the union and the community at large more involved in understanding the process and its importance. I participated in several community based events in the Anacostia area to meet with community members to discuss mental health stigma and various mental health treatments and resources available within the community. This work was focused primarily with individual community members who attended our event but I networked with other community organizations for support and to help promote our meetings. Because these issues were important to the community and because the community was traditionally underserved, I felt that our events were successful and we were able to increase attendance and engage with the community to foster a larger network of supporters.

10) Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

I am a strong supporter of police accountability and oversight and I believe that this position requires an individual who strongly believes in the objectives and who will be fully committed to fulfilling the objectives of the Settlement Agreement. I also believe that this position requires a Director who is not afraid to work with individuals who may hold opposing viewpoints. I am capable of working with diverse individuals and working collaboratively with individuals who do not hold the same position. My ability to collaborate with individuals of various backgrounds and my ability to work closely with individuals who do not agree with my position is a strong indicator of my ability to successfully serve in this position and work towards meeting the objectives in the Settlement Agreement. My dedication to police accountability and oversight is a strong indication that I will do everything in my power to fulfill the objectives of the Settlement Agreement and to foster trust and respect between APD and Albuquerque's many communities.

RE: Application for Job Number 1501043 – Civilian Police Oversight Agency Director

To Whom It May Concern,

I am a licensed New Mexico attorney currently employed by Disability Rights New Mexico (DRNM) as a Staff Attorney. I graduated from the American University Washington College of Law (WCL) in Washington, D.C. in May of 2013. I wish to be considered for the position of Civilian Police Oversight Agency Director and believe that my professional experiences coupled with my academic preparation and extracurricular volunteer experiences make me a qualified candidate for this position.

While a student at WCL, my academic studies focused on criminal law and procedure, disability and the law, and human rights. I completed several extensive research projects addressing human rights issues and the intersection of disability and the criminal justice system, including initial psychological evaluations upon an inmate's entering jail, forcible administration of medication, and conditions of jails and prisons. During law school and after graduation, I continued to volunteer for various organizations including the California Reentry Program, the California Coalition for Women Prisoners, and the Prisoners Literature Project. As a Staff Attorney at DRNM, I have had extensive experience attending Individualized Education Program and Behavior Intervention Plan meetings for students with behavioral problems who face long-term suspensions or expulsion from school. I have attended expulsion hearings and appeal hearings and have advocated for students' rights while working with school districts to provide appropriate services and comply with federal and state laws. I represent clients challenging guardianships and in Medicaid and Medicare Administrative Fair Hearings. My work at DRNM involves extensive interpersonal communication, cultural sensitivity, investigation, research and writing, legal analysis, systemic advocacy, trainings, and conflict resolution and I believe my skills have continued to be sharpened and improved.

Although my current employment is in the area of disability advocacy and focuses on special education, challenges to guardianship, and Medicaid and Medicare appeals, I have a strong desire to engage in systemic work involving governmental policies and procedures and I am dedicated to improving police accountability and oversight. In light of the Justice Department and the City of Albuquerque reaching an agreement bringing about wide-ranging reforms to the Albuquerque Police Department (APD) and its use of force against civilians, I have a strong desire to overhaul the way in which APD handles use of force by monitoring and reviewing citizen police complaints, serious use of force, and claims directed against officers and employees of the APD. I believe that my dedication to ensuring that APD works with integrity while respecting and protecting the rights of citizens makes me a strong candidate for this position. I believe that what I may lack in experience, I make up for in dedication and drive for excellence. I am a fast learner and am highly motivated to excel in this position.

In my online application, I have included my resume, references, and my law school transcript. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact me at [REDACTED]. Thank you for your consideration and I hope to speak with you soon regarding my interest in this position.

Sincerely,
Julia M. Petrucelli, Esq.

City of Albuquerque Police Oversight Board
Answers to Questionnaire for Director of Civilian Police Oversight Agency Applicants Extension Granted Due: July 2, 2015

Niva J Lind

[REDACTED] Albuquerque NM 87111

1. The Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree clearly sets out the purpose of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency (CPOA) "...[t]he City shall implement a civilian police oversight agency ("the agency") that provides meaningful, independent review of all citizen complaints, serious uses of force, and officer-involved shootings by APD. The agency shall also review and recommend changes to APD policy and monitor long-term trends in APD's use of force. " United States v City of Albuquerque, No. 1:14-cv-01025-RB-SMV, 2014 U.S. Dist. http://www.justice.gov/crt/about/spl/documents/apd\_settlement\_11-14-14.pdf at *83 (D.NM. November 14, 2014).

Based on this primary objective set out by the Department of Justice (DOJ), the most important goals for the CPOA and POB to achieve is transparency in its fulfillment of the objectives that the DOJ have set out for the CPOA. The other important goal set out by the DOJ is to put into place non-biased reviews of APD's actions and citizen complaints. Transparency will achieve more than just the objectives I quoted above. It will also help to begin the process of gaining the trust of Albuquerque's many communities. This settlement/decree through its many directives continually stresses the importance of maintaining meaningful conversations with the citizens of Albuquerque. If the citizens can see that there have been investigations in use of force and officer-involved shootings, this will show them that the APD takes these situations seriously and investigates their own conduct fairly and enforces the applicable regulations, standard operating procedures (SOPs), and laws that apply to each situation. Additionally citizens will see the results of the CPOA's review of these police actions. Also by "...tracking long-term trends and assessing APD's policies and training [,]" id. the CPOA can fulfill the objective set out by the DOJ, to let the public know the terms of the settlement and APD's compliance with the Settlement Agreement/Decree. Long-term trends are helpful in showing improvement in APD's compliance with the provisions of the Settlement Agreement/Decree and transparency in this will also help foster community based discussions with APD. By assessing APD's policies and training, the CPOA can ensure that APD is complying with the provisions of the settlement agreement. In order for the community to feel that compliance is being attained, it is vital to share the new policies and training practices that come into place at APD.

2. While I was working for the 11th Judicial District, Div. II in Gallup, I had an ethical conflict with my boss on a case that we were working on together. The standard practice is to have an "open file policy" so that defense counsel can come into our offices to copy material from our files. Our office had received new information on the case we were prosecuting together and I wanted to email defense counsel with the new information. My boss wanted to let them (defense counsel) find it out themselves when they eventually came to copy the file. I felt that it was my ethical obligation to inform defense counsel immediately of the new information we had received. This ethical conflict was solved when I successfully argued to my boss that we had to email defense counsel immediately with the new information we had received in order to fulfill our ethical obligation as prosecutors and attorneys. There is a higher ethical standard for prosecutors set out by the Model Rules of Ethics. He agreed to let me email defense counsel with the new information immediately.

3. While I was working as an Assistant District Attorney in Gallup, I had the opportunity to be the Chair of the McKinley County Task Force on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault. It became apparent that not all the stakeholders in the meetings were on the same page when it came to investigating, documenting and reporting domestic violence cases. The DA's office and the Battered Woman's Shelter wanted more documentation and investigation of the cases law enforcement. We had to come up with a way that officers could quickly and effectively investigate these calls and document them appropriately for later prosecution. We came up with creating a Domestic Violence warrant that would help remind the officers of what to do on site and ensure documentation and investigation. After hours of negotiation, we agreed that the Gallup Police Department (GPD) and the McKinley County Sherriff's Office (MCSO) would implement a new domestic violence warrant that we had created. I was able to ease some of the tension by working closely with a Detective from GPD to create the new warrant and then having MCSO review it. In having members of the task force create a document that could be and would be used by both GPD and MCSO, the conflict disappeared. The warrant was used for the first time by a GPD officer the day after it was finalized and released to all MCSO and GPD officers. It was also accepted by the court and filed.

4. The case I am most proud of is State v. Redd, 308 P.3d 1000 (N.M. App., 2013). The underlying charges in the case were three counts of criminal sexual penetration of a minor (CSPM), one count of criminal sexual contact of a minor (CSCM), one count of false imprisonment, and two counts of intentional child abuse. Id. The District Court had dismissed all the charges because the defendant had successfully argued that because the Sherriff's Office had lost a digitally recorded interview of the minor, his case would be irrevocably prejudiced and dismissal was the only remedy. The Court of Appeals unanimously decided to reverse the dismissal and reinstate all the charges. I am most proud of this case for a couple of reasons. First, I had to write the docketing statement that is part of the Appeal and the Court of Appeals used my statement of facts of the case and my questions to the court in their decision. Secondly, I worked very hard to be successful in my appeal and was delighted that not only had I been successful in the appeal, but the Court chose to have the case published.

5. In order to describe my investigative philosophy, I will have to explain more of what I did as a prosecutor. I specialized in violent crimes against women and children. A lot of these cases, especially the ones that involved children, required a lot of extra investigation. In order for me to be successful in those types of cases, I had to be in constant contact with the law enforcement agency that was handling the case. I was thorough and very detail oriented because these cases were very difficult and were mainly based on disclosures made by victims without hard evidence to back them up. In order to understand the case I spent a lot of time meeting with the victims and finding out their stories and preparing them for what was to come. I went to multiple conferences specifically dealing with investigating and prosecuting these types of cases. I would say that my investigative philosophy is: leave no stone unturned and pay attention to everything.

Investigations are important as they are the means to getting at the truth, and a good investigation is through and detail orientated.

6. While I was a prosecutor I successfully managed a caseload of up to 150 cases at a time. This is one part of why I would be uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward. Additionally, I am a very quick learner and hard worker. I believe it is important to tackle the backlog but also simultaneously look towards the future by making sure that a backlog doesn't happen again and maintaining an organization that can manage a large caseload.

Without putting a system in place that can help tackle the large caseload, the organization cannot function properly. Moving forward can also mean a change in how the organization functions from the bottom to the top. In getting down to the nitty gritty of the systems in place to manage the cases, I can figure out a way to make things run more smoothly and efficiently. Time management is important but so is structure. If structures are implemented to change how the cases are managed, then the caseload becomes more manageable. As the Chair of the Task Force I mentioned earlier, I had to absorb a lot of materials and opinions in order to successfully negotiate with the various stakeholders to implement the domestic violence warrant. I believe that this uniquely qualifies me to take charge of this agency.

7. My vision for the CPOA is that the agency fully and successfully complies with the Settlement Agreement/Decree. In order to do this I believe the CPOA would be successful once the community feels more involved and starts trusting APD officers again. This is one of the most important aspects of this agency.

8. The top five assets that I would bring to this position:

1. My ability to work with a diverse group of people. I believe it is vitally important that the head of this agency be personable and works well with all different types of people because as director I would have to work with many different types of Stakeholders. Without my abilities to gain the confidence and trust needed to accomplish the Settlement's decrees, the agency could not be as successful. I don't need the Stakeholders to like me; I would only have to get them to want to work with me and the agency.
2. My ability to persevere despite obstacles and challenges. It is important that the head of this agency be able to stay focused on the goals of the agency and not let anything get in the way of achieving those goals. There might not always be the most positive reaction by stakeholders, community members, etc., to the agency but that should not derail the director's efforts to achieve the agency's goals. I have faced many obstacles in my life but persevered and became a successful person. That ability to always continue striving for a goal no matter what is an important asset to bring to this organization.
3. I enjoy working with elected officials and law enforcement. It is something I am very comfortable doing and I do not shy away from difficult situations. It is an asset that is very beneficial to the CPOA as I would be working with various Stakeholders including but not limited to the DOJ and elected officials. I majored in Government at the University of Texas (aka Political Science) and have always loved the institutions of our government and been fascinated by the people who run it.

4. I enjoy being in the spotlight. I have always loved to be in court litigating and I am not shy. I think this is a very important asset to the agency because I would have to be on television once a month. I enjoy high pressure situations where I am expected to speak and argue on the fly so to speak. I participated in speech and debate all four years of high school and was quite successful. I believe the head of this agency has to be able to speak eloquently in public and show that the agency is on the right track for the future.
5. I work hard and am a quick learner. I believe this is an asset that I could bring to the agency. In order to overcome the challenge of a backlog of cases and move the agency forward I will have to be able to absorb a lot of new information and work hard to quickly and efficiently deal with the backlog. I will have to quickly learn the ins and outs of this agency in order to be able to figure out how best to move the agency forward successfully. I also enjoy research and writing, I like to find out new information and use it in whatever ways I can.

9. I believe my answer to question 3 encompasses the answer to this question.

10. I believe that I am the best candidate for this job for many of the reasons I have already indicated above in response to question 8. Additionally I am excited and honored to be a part of this selection process and look forward to the opportunity to meet members of this agency. I feel that the CPOA is a very important agency and there is much work to be done to gain the trust of community members and achieve the goals as set out in the Settlement/Decree. I believe I can help that happen and sincerely hope that I get the opportunity to be a part of this agency.

All: Since the POB will be meeting on Tuesday, August 4th at 5pm, I don't see any need to have a personnel subcommittee meeting as we had scheduled it tomorrow.

If you can think of a compelling reason to have it, please let me know, however, I am unaware that an agenda was correctly posted. I was supposed to get an agenda reminder for that from the Ms. Hammer or someone at the CPOA Office, and that didn't happen, and I didn't remember, either. So I think between the lack of need and the lack of posting of the agenda, it makes sense to cancel.

Thanks, -B

So the latest APD PR stunt is to hold this "Hero" Academy to have seriously ill kids speed around in police cars, be pretend SWAT killers and do other things our self proclaimed hero cops do?

Is APD also going to teach these kids how to lie and turn their body cameras off.

The reason we will never have real reform is this "our cops are heroes" by merely putting on a badge and can carry guns-murder people BS propaganda.

Why not have a real hero education for the seriously ill kids run by military veterans so kids can see what it takes to serve in the military?

It's sickening but this is New Mexico

MURDER OF JAMES BOYD BY APD COPS SANDY AND PEREZ

My e-mail yesterday discussed among other things the fact that except for the one recording of the murder of James Boyd by APD cops Sandy and Perez there has never been even one recording showing the actual shooting/killing by APD of their victims. We see videos only after the killings and cover-up written police testimony and likely fictitious witnesses corroborating their bogus stories justifying them.

I reminded all again that the only reason Boyd pulled his small knives was to protect himself against the snarling K-9 dog straining at this leash who he feared would be turned loose on him to tear him to bits. I cited another recent example of a K-9 dog doing just that.

Charging both with murder should be a no brainer even with the two high paid out of town "experts"/liars their defense attorneys brought in to try to justify it.

EDEN-A DISGRACE TO THE UNIFORM AS IS BERRY TO HIS OFFICE

I discussed Pete Dinelli's Journal letter calling for the firing of the incompetent Gordon Eden a Governor's discard who never met the posted qualification for the chief's job. This was evident with his first statements trying to justify the Boyd murder which he later recanted. Since then, he proved his incompetence over and over again. Eden has no self-respect. If he had any, he would resign.

ABQ FREE PRESS-A MUST READ

Eden's claims-now over 16 months later to still have never read the investigative report on Boyd's murder should have outraged you but as always, you remained silent. This bogus excuse was also the subject of an ABQ Free Press article in its current issue "16 Months Later, Eden Still Hasn't Read Boyd report." This latest AFP issue also has a story "Prosecutor: Boyd Shot While Trying to Surrender." Another is "Boyd standoff from a Clusterf#@k from the start" Also included in this AFP issue was a cartoon (attached) showing our "asleep at the switch" Mayor. See <http://www.freeabq.com/?p=2936> or pick up a copy at many stores throughout the City.

Now our sleeping in his bunker Mayor would try to appease us fed up or naïve citizens by appointing his former "senior advisor" Annabelle Romero now with the Office of Diversity and Human Rights to oversee (for $15,000 of our tax dollars) the UNM's facilitators of these bogus citizen outreach collaborative "dialogues" that the Mayor claims will help him reform APD. Not surprisingly, their lowest priorities coming out of these well UNM and City controlled "dialogues" were given to police accountability and transparency which says it all. These PR "dialogues" scams are an insult to our intelligence.

The Mayor's Annabelle is not surprisingly now stonewalling my NM IPRA request for the names of those people attending these dialogues throughout the city. She should be an APD employee-don't you think?

My earlier e-mails talked about another APD excessive force protector Cincinnati attorney Scott Greenwood who lied to the Council when claiming his approved changes to the new police oversight ordinance represented the desires of the DOJ-something they denied. I discussed the retaliatory actions taken against perceived APD enemies like DA Brandenburg, former good APD cop Dawne Roberto and others.

I mentioned often US Attorney for NM Damon Martinez sending his thug US Marshals, (who he refuses to equip with body cameras) to the home of Tony Pirard twice to try to silence his criticism of him, Judge Brack, James Ginger and this whole corrupt APD reform effort.

I too have been critical of the DOJ for their betrayal of the people when signing that toothless reform agreement and spending $4+ million of our tax dollars to hire the knowingly toothless former SC cop James Ginger and his PMR Inc team of mostly former police officers.

Are you aware of the talk at Congregation Albert by Mayor Berry and others claiming Berry Eden and others in the DOJ will really make a difference-bring about reform. Don't the Israeli police act just like APD? Do they think we are all stupid? Does this Mayor believe you nine are all fools?

SEEMINGLY PRO BAD COP APPOINTEES

Earlier e-mails talked about pro APD appointees to the old POC like the wife of former cop Bob Martinez-head of the Fraternal Order of Police who openly opposed any citizen oversight. Ms. Martinez was not surprisingly appointed by Councilor Harris.

Not to be outdone with Harris' pandering to the APD Chief and Mayor, yet another APD oversight reform obstructionist, Republican political operative Carl Foster was appointed to the POC by my disgraceful Councilor Trudy Jones.

Jones also appointed retired APD Captain Loy to the police oversight task force to try to have him stonewall any serious reform recommendations by the others along with UNM's Bruce Perlman.

I wonder just who are Harris' and Jones' appointees to the new Police Oversight Board.

THE POLICE OVERSIGHT BOARD'S UNBELIEVABLE FIRST CHOICE FOR POA'S EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

The cited Journal article today finally reported that incredibly those now on the Police Oversight Board named former Milwaukee cop Ed Harness to be their first choice for the POA's Executive Director's position over Jay Rowland-the logical choice.

Beth Mohr, a retired San Diego police officer and now vice chair woman of the POB would try to justify a fellow retired cop by incredulously saying "He would bring a fresh perspective to the PD because he is from another state." Really Beth?

Anybody looking at the GOV TV interviews of the three nominees should have been outraged that Ed was their first choice. See my attached e-mails sent to the POB, you Councilors, media and others here since July 30. Did you ever bother to see the interviews posted on youtube?

Not likely-as was the case when you likely never reviewed the 30 + other current and former US police chiefs and deputy chiefs with outstanding qualifications before you blessed Ed. Was Ed also claimed to be another who would give the APD Chief's job a "fresh perspective."

What the Journal reporter knew but never asked is why were two POB meetings necessary? After the first meeting, did Ms. Mohr and the others have to check first with Chief Ed, his boss Perry and the Mayor and possibly also you Councilors to determine just who were acceptable to them-their first choice? Thus the need for the second bogus POB meeting to announce your selections after more deliberations.

Were all asked by the POB just who of the three finalist would they like to continue the toothless corrupt process of the former Police Oversight Agency previously led by (not interviewed) Robin Hammer and her band of pro-cop investigators led by a former senior Belen police officer and two others whose only experience was working at Target and Lowe's?

The question all of us have now is will you like this Mayor shown in the cartoon choose also to remain asleep while APD reform here continues to remain a myth or finally do something about it-start to be respected by us. If you choose Jay Rowland and reject Ed Harness-a likely nice guy but likely clueless former cop from Milwaukee, you will finally earn our respect.

Don't disappoint us again please.

TO: POB Members

Info to Councilors, media and others not shown

Reference my earlier e-mail shown below that expected you to respect the people and select the only candidate that was truly qualified to serve as the next Executive Director (ED)-Jay Rowland. You interviewed the five on July 29 and after conferring for hours should have announced your ranking then. You did not. The public had lost confidence in the oversight process as only attorney Alan Wagman spoke on July 29.

Rather than making your choice(s) on the 29th many believe you instead chose to ask APD, those Councilors who wanted to keep the oversight process a sham, the City's dictatorial Mayor and CAO just who they wanted. Of course these who wanted no real APD reform wanted a former cop even though Harness was completely unqualified for the job-had absolutely no related experience.

You then held another unnecessary POB meeting last night where not even one citizen was willing to speak to you knowing it would be a waste of time. This says that you have lost our confidence. Your again went again into secret executive session/discussions.

You came out incredulously saying that former Milwaukee cop Edward Harness was your first choice followed by very experienced (but likely feared by APD Jay Rowland) and then made the also unqualified Edna Sprague your third choice. Those close to Edna say she has blessed everything cops do.

After once again reviewing Harness's responses to you last week it was again clear he had no clue of the problems with the oversight old process but spoke only in generalities trying to cover up his lack of qualifications for the job.

Does working for the Better Business Bureau show the proper police investigative experience? Neither Ed nor the others were ever asked what they thought was wrong with the old and current oversight process some of which the knowledgeable Jay Rowland discussed in detail without being asked.

Both the DOJ and Judge Brack ignored some of the required changes to the still flawed process documented in APD Forward's filed Amicus Curiae last January-first page of it is attached. Unlike Jay Rowland, neither Harness nor the other three ever discussed what should be the limitations of the 1967 "Garrity vs. Supreme Court" ruling that the DOJ opined to the Seattle Mayor but was ignored by the DOJ here. See page 1 of that opinion-attached. Nor did Ed or the other three discuss the police officers' "qualified immunity" that essentially gives them the benefit of doubt in any of their killings.

Harness restated his belief that a cop's life is more important than that of the average citizen-something it is NOT. Do you agree with that belief? This essentially gives cops the right to kill using the bogus excuse that they "felt threatened." Look at these same lies being told in court this week to try to justify Sandy's and Perez's murder of James Boyd.

Ed apparently never knew that under the current changed Ordinance that the Director and the POB cannot dictate discipline but that the APD Chief can ignore your recommendations offering up only some ridiculous excuses.

I guess Ed's only claim to fame was his alleged outreach ability-trade shows, police work with his local village association and his teaching of good financial practices to the poor. Again-he has no investigative experience other than responding to Better Business Bureau (BBB) complaints.

We already have one pro bad APD cop hired as a police oversight investigator while the two others were former employees of Target and Lowe's and have none. Robin Hammer who was sued for judicial misconduct while working for the DA was a bad enough selection by the Mayor (who she worked for) and Council and now you want a former out of town clueless cop Harness to replace her?

The Councilors likely never bothered to read the resumes of those many extremely qualified applicants for the APD Chief job before blessing the incompetent bureaucrat Eden. Likely the Councilors also never read the resumes of the five applicants for this Executive Director position-resumes we were not allowed to see for some unknown reason.

Realizing that this is a dictatorship here with the Councilors choosing to abdicate its role as an integral part of our government, the nine likely never reviewed the GOV-TV interviews with the five (handpicked by who?) candidates to see how they responded to the often too broad questions posed them by you on the 29th.

Choosing the clearly unqualified Edward Harness to be your first choice was disappointing to say the least. If this former cop is chosen, the oversight process will still be toothless-yet another example of disrespect shown to us citizens-the real stakeholders who want real reform from the ED-not the ones the Mayor chooses.

Time to rethink your choice.

I thought your POB did this review at their executive session without the public following your last meeting. Since current EO Robin Hammer was not interviewed, I assume she is not being considered for the job.

Your selection is a no-brainer. After the interviews of the five only Jay Rowland is qualified-demonstrated any knowledge of what this job requires, what are the issues ("Garrity" Supreme Court ruling and others) in having credible police accountability- and not having the Agency be a sham again. APD is likely afraid of Jay.

Another "closed discussion?". Why? Only Jay's name should be sent to the Council. Don't let them pick someone else that is unqualified but will do APD's and the Mayor's bidding.

TO: The Honorable Police Oversight Board Members

Info to City Councilors and Bcc to others

After viewing your meeting on GOV-TV last night that included interviews of five candidates for the “Executive Director of POA, the following are some of my observations/questions:

1. I assume that since current interim Executive Director Ms. Hammer was not interviewed, she did not apply for this POA Executive Director position or being considered as a sixth candidate
2. The talk by attorney Alan Wagman was right on target saying essentially that this selection is critically important-that we don't need more of the same (translated-not another Robin Hammer)
3. This position never required that it be an attorney when Ms. Hammer was hired for the IRO job since an attorney is already assigned to the IRO-yet all were attorneys.
4. Who chose these five candidates who you interviewed and more importantly who decided that you had to send three of the five interviewed to the Council to pick one? Only one stood out!
5. You saw their resumes-something that should have also been posted on the website. One candidate-á former Colorado sheriff's deputy had conflicting-erroneous information on his resume
6. Two of the applicants were former law enforcement/police officers both of whom had beliefs like Ms. Hammer.

Your selection decision is easy.

The only candidate that stood head and shoulders above the other four was former IRO during 2002-2007 Jay Rowland.

Based on his demonstrated knowledge of this job and expected respect by both the many APD honest police officers and the people, only Jay should be nominated to the City Council.

The only other even remotely credible candidate of the other four interviewed was Edna Sprague.

After Edna has the opportunity to review all of the GOV-TV interviews today, she too would likely believe that Jay would be the right choice.

Subject: Please register CPOA Staff for NACOLE at once
Date: Friday, August 07, 2015 11:47:58 AM

Ms. Hammer -

In the POB Personnel Subcommittee meeting, a recorded public meeting, we previously directed you to register the CPOA Staff for NACOLE. As I stated at that time, the reasons were two-fold, one was for staff training, the other and more important reason is because NACOLE will be coming to Albuquerque next year for their annual conference; the City and the CPOA will be hosting that event.

At that time, you stated on the record that you were only waiting for the DOJ to approve the training. I wrote the DOJ and requested that approval; it is my understanding that such approval was given, yet completely unnecessary.

Because NACOLE will be coming to Albuquerque in 2016, it is important that the permanent staff of the CPOA have developed relationships with NACOLE staff in order to be good hosts, as well as being adequately prepared to host the 2016 meeting. The City of Albuquerque has been trying to bring the NACOLE Conference to Albuquerque for 12 years now, and it is important that we be good hosts. It simply looks bad to have the entire CPOA agency staff shun the annual meeting the year prior to being hosts. This is a City of Albuquerque matter, having nothing to do with the DOJ.

Despite all this, which you had previously been told, and despite being directed yet again to register the staff, you failed to follow this direction. Your newest set of excuses include the previous excuse about the DOJ, as well as some notion that you have allegedly found some superior training for staff in Connecticut, along with your supposed concern for budgetary limitations.

There is more than adequate budget set aside for POB and staff training. Training budget existed in the original CPOA budget and issues papers, and City Council added another $23,000, at my request, specifically earmarked for NACOLE training. I am unaware that ANY of that budget has been expended; it should therefore be more than adequate for all the staff to attend NACOLE this year, in addition to any other training that the new Executive Director deems appropriate. If the POB needs to request additional funding from Council later during the 2016 fiscal year, the POB will address that as needed; that is a matter with which you need not concern yourself.

Unfortunately, because you failed to register staff at the time directed, the CPOA therefore missed both the "early bird registration deadline", and the "early member registration" deadline of July 31 for the CPOA staff; as a result of your actions the City will have to bear the additional cost of full-priced registration. That would have been a substantial savings for the City, instead that opportunity has been lost.

Neither your alleged concern for the quality of the staff's training, nor the DOJ's permission, nor your supposed budgetary concerns address the reason that it is so important for the CPOA staff to attend this year's NACOLE conference, which is that they will be the City's full-time permanent staff as the Agency hosts the 2016 NACOLE Conference.

M004533

Kindly register the CPOA staff for the NACOLE Conference at once, and report to the entire POB that you have complied with this direction prior to or at our meeting on Thursday, August 13th.

Thank-you for your cooperation.

3-45 REVIEW OF COMPLETED ADMINISTRATIVE INVESTIGATION CASES

3-45-1 Policy

To maintain high-level, quality service; to ensure officer safety and accountability; and to promote constitutional, effective policing, APD shall ensure that all allegations of officer misconduct are received and are fully and fairly investigated; that all findings in administrative investigations are supported by a preponderance of the evidence; and that all officers who commit misconduct are held accountable pursuant to a fair and consistent disciplinary system. [DOJ 162]

3-45-2 Rules

[5] A. Timeliness, Review, and Forwarding of Completed Cases

1. All investigations conducted by the Internal Affairs Bureau or the Civilian Police Oversight Agency (CPOA) shall be completed within 90 days of the initiation of the complaint investigation. The 90-day period shall not include time for review. An extension of the investigation of up to 30 days may be granted, but only if the request for an extension is in writing and is approved by the Chief. Review and final approval of the investigation, and the determination and imposition of the appropriate discipline, shall be completed within 30 days of the completion of the investigation. To the extent permitted by state and city law, extensions may also be granted in extenuating circumstances, such as military deployments, hospitalizations of the officer, and extended absences. [DOJ 191]
2. All cases will be forwarded to the Division Head of the accused employee. The Division Head will review the identified SOP sections and may add additional SOP sections if appropriate. The Division Head, with input from the effected employee's chain of command, shall make a recommendation as to what discipline, if any, should be imposed. The Division Head will list all mitigating and aggravating circumstances, in detail, which were considered. If the Division Head recommends a level of discipline outside of that suggested by the Chart of Sanctions, the Division Head must include a written, detailed, justification for the deviation. The Division Head shall also consider whether non-disciplinary corrective action is appropriate in a case where discipline has been imposed. The Division Head will then be required to forward his/her recommendation along with the complete file to the appropriate Deputy Chief of Police. [DOJ 202f]
3. Internal Affairs will provide the CPOA Executive Director a copy of all officer involved shootings. Other internal cases will be sent to the CPOA Executive Director upon request as part of the CPOA Internal Affairs review process.
  - a. The Executive Director has the authority to make findings and recommend discipline against officers involved in the incidents it reviews. The Chief shall retain discretion over whether to impose discipline and the level of discipline to be imposed. If the Chief decides to impose discipline other than what the agency recommends, the Chief must provide a written report to the agency articulating the reasons its recommendations were not followed. [DOJ 285]

4. APD shall develop protocols to ensure the confidentiality of internal investigation files and to ensure that materials protected from disclosure remain within the custody and control of APD at all times. [DOJ 284]
5. All supervisors are responsible for the security and confidentiality of all cases in their possession for review. [DOJ 284]
  - a. The cases shall be stored in a locked drawer, file cabinet, etc., when not being reviewed.
  - b. Allowing others outside the chain of command to view the case or releasing information from the case outside the chain of command is strictly prohibited.

[7] B. Case Review by the Chain of Command

1. The Executive Director/Commander/Manager should review the identified SOP sections and may add additional SOP Sections if appropriate. The Executive Director/Commander/Manager may request additional information from the effected employee's chain of command to assist him/her in making a determination. The Executive Director/Commander/Manager should then make a finding of sustained, not sustained, unfounded or exonerated for each SOP section with a brief explanation of the factual basis for the finding.
2. The Executive Director/Commander/Manager, with input from the effected employee's chain of command, shall make a recommendation as to what discipline, if any, should be imposed. The Commander/Manager should list all mitigating and aggravating circumstances which were considered. If the Executive Director/Commander/Manager recommends a level of discipline outside of that suggested by the Chart of Sanctions, the Executive Director/Commander/Manager must include a written justification for the deviation. The Executive Director/Commander/Manager will then be required to forward his/her recommendation along with the complete file to the Deputy Chief of Police/Major. Under normal circumstances, the entire process shall not take longer than five days from the time of receipt until the time it is delivered to Internal Affairs.
3. In order to ensure that all cases are kept confidential, Executive Director/Commander/Manager will store all completed cases in a secure area while in his/her possession.

[N/A] C. Case Review by the Internal Affairs Unit

1. The Internal Affairs Unit will review the recommended discipline and certify if it is consistent with past discipline for similar findings.

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT ADMINISTRATIVE ORDERS

SOP 3-45

Effective: xx/xx/xx Expires: xx/xx/xx Replaces: 03/16/11

[N/A] D. Case Review by the CPOA Executive Director

1. The CPOA Executive Director shall review the case and shall indicate by letter whether the investigation was objective, fair, impartial, free from political influence, and otherwise in compliance with the CPOA Ordinance, and shall make recommendations as to whether disciplinary action should be taken. The CPOA Executive Director will then return the case and letter to the Internal Affairs Unit.

[N/A] E. Final Case Review

1. Upon return of the case from CPOA Executive Director, Internal Affairs will forward the case and CPOA Executive Director's recommendation(s) to the Deputy Chief/Major/Area Commander of the accused employee. The Deputy Chief/Major/Area Commander shall review the case, the supervisors' recommendations, and the CPOA Executive Director findings.
2. If the Deputy Chief/Major/Area Commander concurs with CPOA Executive Director's but modifies the chain's recommendation, the division commander and Internal Affairs shall be notified. The division commander shall take the necessary action in accordance with the Deputy Chief/Major/Area Commander's decision.
3. If the Deputy Chief/Major/Area Commander's recommendations do not concur with those of the CPOA Executive Director, the Deputy Chief/Major/Area Commander will notify Internal Affairs in writing. At that time, the appropriate Deputy Chief/Major/Area Commander will direct his/her staff to arrange for a meeting between the Deputy Chief/Major/Area Commander (and/or the Chief), the CPOA Executive Director, and the Internal Affairs Lieutenant to discuss and possibly reconcile any differences.
  - a. Internal Affairs Lieutenant or designee will attend said meeting to answer or address administrative review issues.
  - b. If the meeting does not produce a concurrence and/or compromise, Internal Affairs will be notified and written documentation of recommendations by both sides will be forwarded, with the case, to the Chief of Police for review and final disposition.
  - c. If the final decision by the Chief does not concur with CPOA Executive Director's findings, a letter will be sent by Internal Affairs to the Chief Administrative Officer to advise of the non-concurrence (as per Directive #3; Ordinance 0-61).

[N/A] F. Final Decision Authority

1. The Deputy Chiefs/Executive Director/Majors/Division Heads/Commanders have the authority to make the final decision on disciplinary actions not exceeding 39 hours of suspension.
2. Only the Chief has the authority to make the final decision on disciplinary actions exceeding 39 hours, demotions, and termination of employment.

Dear Sue and Leonard --

After giving this some good thought, and in consideration of my other responsibilities as a member of the POB, I am writing to let you know I have decided it best to resign my position on the Policies and Procedures subcommittee this year, effective immediately.

As you and I have observed in discussions over the past month, Policies and Procedures is currently one member larger than other subcommittees. Given this fact, plus the observation I've articulated in several forums, and with which I know you agree--that the other subcommittees should be continually feeding into Policies and Procedures as a matter of course--I resign this committee knowing that the work is well covered and that we will be working closely on these tasks in any case. I do believe that my particular strengths and expertise are probably best suited for, and therefore best focused, on the committee I already chair, Case Review.

Thank you, Sue, for the work you've already accomplished to get this committee of the ground, and in advance, for the excellent work that I know will emerge from this committee as we move along. I look forward to working in close collaboration with you over the coming year.

Best,

Moira

Sean Gassner
(APD Quality Assurance)

Minutes

- I. Welcome and Call to Order: The meeting did not have a quorum of members present so discussions occurred, but no actions taken, only suggestions.

Chair Susanne Brown called the meeting to order at 8:30 a.m.

Chair Susanne Brown was concerned about having representative(s) from APD attend all future meetings. Denise Thomas and Sean Gassner, both of APD were introduced and were in attendance of the meeting.

- II. a. Approval of Agenda. There were no additions or changes to the agenda, and the discussion proceeded according to the written agenda order.

b. Approval of the Minutes. None

- III. Public Comments. None.

- IV. Rules of our Committee

Chair Brown asked about existing rules for the subcommittee. Ms. Hammer stated there are existing Rules, however Mr. Baker was in the process of drafting new rules. Chair Brown and Board Member Armado-McCoy agreed to table the issue while the Rules are being drafted

- V. Report on the process of APD Policy Committee – Chair Susanne Brown
There was some discussion about the frequency of meetings and the urgency of completing the tasks. Chair Brown, Member Amado-McCoy and CPOA Investigator Paul Skotchdopole discussed the timelines APD has been working under to revise policies. There was some input from the Quality Assurance members. Chair Brown raised the issue of whether the Subcommittee could discuss matters and make decisions via email. Attorney Mark Baker advised that all business of the public and needed to be done in an open meeting.

There was discussion about prioritizing the policies. Chair Brown believed the policy regarding handling the mentally ill would be of public concern as was the policy dealing with force investigations. A discussion of the Mental Health Response Advisory Committee (MRAC) as mentioned in the DOJ settlement agreement was held. This group is already reviewing the response to the mentally ill policy. It would be beneficial to see if a POB member could be included in that group. The recommendation was for a POB Member to attend the MRAC meeting to develop a relationship. Chair Brown is also going to be attending APD's Policy and Procedures Review Board (PPRB) now with Mr. Skotchdopole.

Mr. Baker indicated that he was awaiting a response from the City Attorney how the POB can receive policies in advance of being published for discussion and input. Board Member Amado-McCoy pointed out the POB could review policies at any time since the POB cannot match the APD timeline for review.

- VI. Additional Training for subcommittee Re: Policy and Procedures.
Board Member Amado-McCoy mentioned there were several stakeholders and she felt it was important to know the context of policies and what was being discussed in other units.

Mr. Baker suggested he would arrange for subject matter experts for particular policies when the POB was ready to discuss a particular policy.

Chair Brown discussed receiving training on how to dissect a policy, determine stakeholders, and develop the policy. Chair Brown suggested the board receive training from most likely the Health Department as an entity that has experience creating policies. Other agency possibilities were mentioned.

- VII. Review of Albuquerque Police Department Retaliation Policies Other Business & Committee Recommendations.
Chair Brown mentioned the DOJ Settlement Agreement specifically mentioned the POB's involvement in the retaliation policy. The APD retaliation policy has already been reviewed and approved by APD , but Chair Brown felt important pieces were missing. Chair Brown and Mr. Baker suggested they review the policy before it was approved by the DOJ Monitor if possible. Board member Amado-McCoy asked about input already done by Ms. Hammer and Commander Gonzalez. The inclusion of two sentences developed by Ms. Hammer and Commander Gonzalez as well as additional language from other departments' policies on retaliation that are under DOJ reviews were the main issues. The general sense was that more was needed in the retaliation policy.

VIII. Specific policies mentioned in the Settlement Agreement for POB input – Chair Susanne Brown.

Chair Brown asked about the tracking of statistics such as mentally ill and homelessness as mentioned in paragraph 175 of the DOJ settlement. Ms. Hammer stated the database tracked this information. Ms. Hammer believed the complaint forms were changed in November or for sure in January to track this additional information.

Chair Brown asked about paragraph 176 of the DOJ Settlement Agreement that talked about a numbering system. Ms. Hammer informed this already existed and that the CPOA assigned the numbers.

Chair Brown asked about paragraph 192 and if the language was already being used. Ms. Hammer confirmed that it was being used.

Chair Brown asked about paragraphs 196 and 197. These paragraphs talked about the CIRT and FIT teams. Mr. Skotchdopole explained the CIRT responded to all major incidents, which included officer-involved shootings. There was discussion of having two POB members be included in this team. This approval would have to come from the Chief. CIRT's role is primarily for training. Very few of the serious Use-of-Force incidents will be in IA, as they now fall under CIRT. FIT is responsible for the criminal investigation aspect of uses of force. CIRT is in place and has been trained. FIT will probably be activated in September.

The Policy and Procedures Review Subcommittee wanted to recommend that the POB receive a presentation on these two teams first and then look at a possible greater involvement.

A restatement of tasks the Police and Procedures Board wanted:
-A policy development presentation

-CIRT and FIT presentations

-A cultural sensitivity presentation (which is one of the required remaining training sessions)

-A presentation from the Quality Assurance Group that has been overseeing the meetings.

IX. Discussion of policy weaknesses which Members have noticed.

Ideal for Police and Procedures Review Board, APD and POB to have the same policy.

X. Other Business.

Chair Brown briefly discussed APS SOP 3-45-1, which is under current development Mr. Skotchdopole mentioned there was some language added that he disagreed with and felt conflicted with the POB ordinance. Further discussion of this SOP was to be placed on next meeting's agenda.

XI. Next meeting was tentatively set for Tuesday, August 18, 2015.

XII. Adjournment. The discussion concluded at 10:04 a.m.

TO: All, Bcc

The disgraceful double standard here allowing APD police officers to murder while jailing others who do the same is disgusting. We have a corrupt police force leadership and supportive corrupt Mayor and administration that has made us the disgrace of the nation. Honest officers are punished if they dare speak the truth while APD's corrupt leadership is using every trick in the book to prevent any real reform.

Murdered James Boyd only pulled out his two small knives to protect himself against the fierce K-9 dog (not a police officer) straining at his leash to get to him to chew him apart and never threatened the real officers on the scene including Boyd and Sandy. The dog was later turned loose on the lifeless body and began chewing on it.

“They are going to protect their brother officers,” McGinn said in an interview. “And even if they have reservations about the shooting, they can't express them because of the blue wall of silence.” There are 16 Albuquerque police officers on the defendants' witness list.

The July 29 Issue of the ABQ Free Press now in stores and on their website has some incriminating stories about our failed leadership and corrupt APD. One written by retired honest cop Dan Klein “Why are N.M.'s Top cops Immune from Discipline Beat Cops Face?” talks about the seemingly corrupt NM Law Enforcement Academy (LEA) Board. Berry's TASERGATE Schultz is one of the best examples of this. See the KOB reported retaliation by APD blessed by the LEA Board against former honest APD cop Dawne Roberto who allegedly leaked incriminating information about the lethal cesspool in APD. Integrity has no place in APD.

Alleged administrator of anti-APD blog set to lose police certification

Updated: 06/17/2015 10:32 PM | Created: 06/17/2015 9:58 PM By: Chris Ramirez, KOB Eyewitness News 4

An alleged administrator of a blog used to disparage the Albuquerque Police Department and city leaders was fired two years ago from the department and now is on track to lose her law enforcement certification. APD brass accused Dawne Roberto, a 15-year-veteran officer on the force, of operating under the screen name "Stealth" to write hateful, embarrassing and often untrue posts on the website "Eye on Albuquerque." APD fired her on grounds she violated the department's social media policies. A hearing officer recently recommended the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy Board revoke Roberto's law enforcement certification based on her frequent involvement with the controversial ??? website. Last week, the LEA Board accepted that recommendation.

In summary, the hearing officer found Roberto:

- Lied about her involvement with Eye on Albuquerque (never proven)
- Diminished public trust and confidence in APD (deserved)
- Personally attacked APD's leadership and city leaders (deserved)
- Lowered morale at APD (only to bad cops) and used bad judgment
- Used city computers to write her posts (cops use take home cars to do family chores)
- Used information she learned while on duty against APD (God bless her)

In his report, Hearing Officer Peter Camacho ( a joke) wrote, "I find [Roberto] did commit acts that indicate a lack of moral character that would adversely affect her ability to exercise the duties of a certified law enforcement officer. KOB reached out to both Roberto and her attorney, John D'Amato, Wednesday. Neither returned emails or phone calls. Roberto currently works as a sergeant for the Bosque Farms Police Department. Bosque Farms Police Chief Gregory Jones told KOB he has not received any direction from the Law Enforcement Academy regarding Roberto yet, but plans to keep Roberto on the force unless otherwise directed. He said Roberto has been a "terrific employee" and "wished he had more officers like her." Roberto does have the option to appeal the LEA Board's decision. The website Eye on Albuquerque is still active.

Really-is the Eye still active? The last Eye posting criticizing Mayor and his corrupt minions and the city council was on July 5 "Time to Face the Facts"-26 days ago. APD is likely trying to shut down that blog as well?

More on this latest revealing issue of the ABQ Free Press in a later e-mail. In addition to Dan Klein's great article on the NM LEA, there are articles about "ABQ's Mean Streets," Berry's Bus Blueprint: Boon or Boondoggle," (Recall COO Mike Riordan's incredulous reply to my NM IPRA request on the ART/BRT and the contract being seemingly rigged for just one contractor), "ABQ Cringes in Fear While Mayor Does...What exactly?" by Joe Monahan, "Like the rest of Us, Mayor Needs to Act on Homelessness" by Joy Junction's director Jeremy Reynolds who the Mayor ignored, and other good articles..

As for KOB and their good reporters Chris Ramirez who wrote the above article on the NM LEA and partner Caleb James. While they made a big splash with their good one time "boomerang thugs" report criticizing only the judicial system while allowing Chief Eden, Bob Huntsman, BCSO Sheriff Gonzalez and other high ranking NM officers to get a lot of free publicity answering their phones for just one night, KOB was never willing to spend the money to put the photos of these boomerang thugs in the Journal as I suggested but forced viewers to go to their website. Just a superficial effort at best. Do the job right KOB-or don't do it at all!

Then there is the latest scam foisted on citizens by the City's Office of Diversity and Human Rights with these UNM conducted Collaborative meetings with citizens pretending they really will result in any changes to APD except superficial ones. The City is now stonewalling my IPRA request for the list of attendees at their PHASE 1 meetings and for the resumes/qualifications of the UNM

As my earlier e-mail to the POB said, former IRO Jay Rowland is the only credible candidate put forth to the Council to be the next Executive Director of the Police Oversight Agency to replace Robin Hammer who was never interviewed and should not even be considered. Honest APD cops and the citizens who want real oversight support Jay. Let’s see if the Council has the guts to give him the job.

Finally, Is the DOJ naïve enough to believe think James Ginger and his PMR Inc. fellow former police officers and the Greenwood/Streicher team will ever reform APD until Berry leaves office and takes his corrupt minions with him? Apparently so or they think we are stupid.

Regards

Silvio

All: The enclosed document (same thing in PDF and Excel) is my proposal for consideration at tomorrow's Personnel Subcommittee meeting to help us select candidates to go on in the process.

I am NOT suggesting that we score people using any point system based on this as a rubric, this just is something I came up with based on NACOLE's qualifications for a civilian oversight executive, combined with our job description, combined with basic attributes that we all wish to have in any leader.

The Personnel Subcommittee can decide not to use this, edit or alter it in any way, as you all see fit. I just wanted to have something for us to refer to as we discern which candidates belong in the Yes, Maybe or No piles.

Thanks much, -B

TO: ALL

THE GUV'S TWO DISCARDS AND NO REAL INTENT TO REFORM APD

First Gorden Eden who never met the City's posted qualifications for Chief was selected over 40 applicants with outstanding-some eye watering qualifications. This, despite the fact that the State police and NM Law Enforcement Academy under Eden had disgraceful records.

He was the Guv's first incompetent discard but R.J. found a job for Eden and then brought Schultz's former "death squad"-SWAT trainer/boss Bob Huntsman out of retirement to run APD for him.

Then it was Jessica Hernandez who same say did a lousy job negotiating gaming compacts with the Indian tribes who now needed a new job. Berry then found a home for her. Councilors should be fed up by now with her doubletalk supporting APD and the culture of corruption in this City-but apparently not.

Isn't it time for the Mayor to not just cutting ribbons and planting trees and find an APD uniform for Jessica and her Kathryn Levy-both cut from the same cloth as is their mentor-attorney/shadow Mayor Perry?

Today's Journal article below by Ryan Boetel tells all but the naïve here that APD has no real interest in reforming APD in four years, nor does the DOJ, Judge Brack, the PMR Inc. monitors or anybody downtown.

Berry's negotiator-consultant Tom Streicher's former Cincinnati's PD took seven years to reform and other city PDs took even longer. We can expect former cop James Ginger after four years to ask for another three years and millions more of our taxes to help him audit/fix APD.

The bad rank and file cops much like those in Eden's Command staff here really don't want to be held accountable and will fight reform tooth and nail as did Streicher in Cincinnati.

As self-proclaimed "heroes," they don't want to be held to a higher standard as their badge should demand. Instead they expect to be above the law, like Perez, Sandy, Dear and the others who have brutalized and killed record numbers of people here knowing that lying and complicit cops like Tixier, Willoughby, Lopez and others will cover their backs and there will (except for the murder of James Boyd) be no recordings exposing their crimes.

See: <http://www.abqjournal.com/647314/news/delays-sought-for-first-steps-in-albuquerque-police-dept-reform.html>

In an extract from it Jessica says, "The police and procedure review board, she said, has been a part of Albuquerque police for several years. She said it now includes civilian Albuquerque police employees and members of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency and Police Oversight Board.

Why didn't the Journal's author Ryan Boetel ask her just who are these people on the review board? Are those from the Police Oversight Agency and on the POB any of the three former cops there? Will the new Executive Director-also a former cop Ed Harness be appointed to the Board? Just foxes guarding the hen house.

Eden should put an APD uniform on Jessica Hernandez to show just where her real loyalty lies. I didn't think anybody could be as bad as former Berry/APD attorneys Perry and Tourek. What an embarrassment to the legal profession Jessica is!

THE CULTURE OF CORRUPTION

While another article on the opinion page again appeals to the Mayor to not waste our local and federal tax dollars to build his clearly unjustified Albuquerque (not) Rapid Transit (ART), that appeal too will fall on deaf ears downtown. As the merchant writer among the many here says, it makes no sense.

APD, ART and other protected children of this Mayor and his CAO are just the result of the culture of corruption here. Will R.J.'s and Maria's Cumbre Construction Company get any part of the ART action?

See extract from another opinion piece in today's Journal below.

<http://www.abqjournal.com/647208/opinion/creating-clarity-and-accountability-in-new-mexico.html>

"Questionable ethics, corruption charges and a culture of pay to play have, sadly, become business as usual in New Mexico. ....New Mexico's ranking as the fifth-most corrupt state in the country sends a message to businesses that in New Mexico, fair competition isn't how to get ahead, but rather back-door deals and pay-to-play influence."

JOE'S AND THE EYE'S BLOGS

Check out the latest Monahan and Eye on Albuquerque blog postings.

<http://joemonahansnewmexico.blogspot.com/> and <http://eyeonalbuquerque.blogspot.com/>

I guess yesterday's Journal showing the Guv's 9" x 9" photo of her fund raising parachute jump that I discussed in my e-mail yesterday was noticed by Joe and others while the citizens protest of the shooting completion was deemed not that newsworthy-relegated to just a small article.

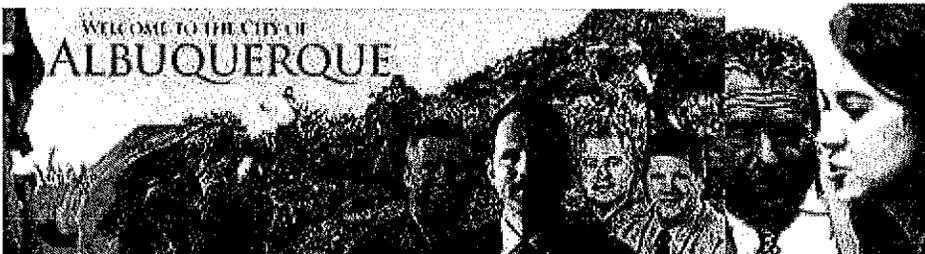

I'm glad the EYE is also representing WE-THE PEOPLE as well. Check out their recent columns

"Rape" and "Can this be True" Gorden Eden, Jessica, Mayor Berry and CAO Perry?

Good job guys. I also can't wait for the next ABQ Free Press issue.

The scoring of this is just as suggested methodology, we can discuss it during the meeting and adjust as necessary. This is simple, math-wise, but you may choose to give more weight to any question, or to give more or less weight to the person's background.

This gives us a starting point, and we can make hand-changes during the meeting as needed.

Councilors

While the Police Oversight Agency (POA) website claims the Agency is committed to transparency, I don't see the resumes of the applicants for the Executive Director position posted on its website.

This secrecy is yet more of the same. When Mayor chose Robin Hammer to be the IRO years ago, intentionally not revealed to the Council was the lawsuit filed against her for alleged judicial misconduct while she worked for the DA. The Council after learning of this still did nothing-went along.

Also, neither PMR Inc.'s head APD reform monitor James Ginger nor Scott Greenwood were forced to come before the public at Council meetings to hear what we say-all with the blessing of our embarrassing US Attorney for NM Damon Martinez.

The old POC then was kept toothless, spoon fed only what Robin, her investigators-(one a former senior Belen cop) and the APD Chief wanted them to see.

Three good POC members quit after Berry's attorney David Tourek opined in a memo that IRO Hammer (contrary to the Oversight Ordinance) worked for the executive branch and not the citizens appointed to the POC. Robin liked it that way as did Chief Schultz and his successors and also the bad cops whose names were never revealed. The POB seems to be still toothless now.

Did Councilor Benton learn anything about police oversight throughout the US when he spent our taxpayers' dollars on two trips to the NACOLE conference?

Does he care or any of you care about the secrecy surrounding the qualifications of and selection by the POB for this most important POA Executive Director's job. Show us the resumes!

Thanks Maria.

Nothing I have seen thus far from Dr. James Ginger and his people-(most like him-former police officers) convinces me that he is part of the solution.

These $15,000 UNM run outreach collaboratives like the city run "Goals forums" are shams.

Today's UNM law school run public meeting on the wasteful $100 million+ ABQ Rapid Transit (ART) down Central will also be a sham as the Mayor will still waste our tax dollars after the public meeting today-caring little that his ART is unjustified.

Developer Paul Silverman one of the narrators supporting the wasteful ART is head of Geltmore.

Geltmore got essentially a rigged contract/sweetheart taxpayer rip-off deal-courtesy of taxpayers from Silverman's former employee-Planning Department Director Suzanne Lubar and her ABQ Development Board (Silverman is a member) to have him build a profitable primarily four story condo complex downtown that was justified to all as just a grocery store.

See today's Journal letter calling for an ethics panel because most citizens know this State and city (particularly APD and the procurement process) are corrupt. Ginger and his mere "auditors" of APD (as Rickman describes the role of the out of town PMR Inc. team) knows that as well. We already have a city auditor.

The council wasted more of our tax dollars on secret ethics training for its employees promoted by the misguided Dianne Goodman. You can't teach honesty to corrupt people as she knows.

PMR Inc. won't clean up APD in four or ten years or twenty as they know because they are powerless. But they really don't care since they have their $4.5+ million from us taxpayers.

Good Morning Silvio,

I agree with you, there is corruption! Yes,I know the city has outreach programs, I work during those times.

Mr. Rickman was sponsored by Ms.Biel,I believe she works with Sarah Namaste from Occupy/unoccupy. Peace Center provided space under the sponsorship of Sue Schuurman.

I cannot speak for the participants impression, however, Mike Swick has a video recording. Also, Charles Ascraim, has a video recording of the Round Table I sponsored, and Sylvia and her husband hosted.

Silvio, Silvio, I do go to City Council meetings, only to be shut down by Garduno, two minutes, it insults my integrity, especially after waiting an hour to even address them. We testify, they read their email, then shoo us away.

Yes, APDFORWARD, comprised of attorneys and ACLU, are in this debacle for money...it's their job. I did apply for the new POB. So yes, Silvio I battle daily, I also work 8 hours a day and drive 3. But I reach 1.5 million people twice a day on radio talk shows to get the right information out.

I will continue to volunteer with Dr. Ginger. In my lifetime I hope Albuquerque becomes "the golden lights we see in the desert, as we crest 9 mile hill and see its splendor". Maybe a foolish girls dream, but one worth working for....

From a home girl, thanks for always being open to conversations.

Beth

That's true now but that wasn't the case when Robin Hammer applied for the City posted IRO job and was hired. The City seems to play fast and loose with these posted job requirements.

Case in point-the City Clerk's position always required that it be an attorney and one who was knowledgeable in the NM IPRA since it was the City's designated NM IPRA compliance monitoring office. In order to hire the current appointee Natalie Howard who has no relevant experience in the NM IPRA or other clerk duties, that was changed.

Again, Only Jay should be nominated to be the next Executive Director. What a great choice he would be if approved-as you know.

Thanks

Silvio

P.S. Good job running the interviews

Sir, Please note that the POB Ordinance specifically requires that the ED of the CPOA must be an attorney, our job description further specifies they must have graduated from an ABA approved law school and have a current Bar membership . Also, the Ordinance requires that we rank the top 3 candidates and sent their name to City Council.

We have to follow the law in these areas. Thanks.

"I'm sure Robin applied. I have reason to believe the POB read the DOJ report about the Mickey Owings shooting and then compared it with her statement to City Council about the same subject and drew some conclusions about her honesty. "

Regarding the other candidate I mentioned-Edna Sprague, one I respect who knows her well told me that "in her current position she is a "vehement defender of all APD police"-thus would make a poor Executive Officer."

My disgraceful District 8 Councilor Trudy Jones' representative to the old POC-the arrogant PhD Carl Foster was a disgraceful obstructionist to any APD accountability-just a Republican political hack. Carl appeared on TV last night criticizing you on the POB for alleged defiance of the Open Meetings Act.

TO: The Honorable Police Oversight Board Members

Info to City Councilors and Bec to others

After viewing your meeting on GOV-TV last night that included interviews of five candidates for the "Executive Director of POA, the following are some of my observations/questions:

1. I assume that since current interim Executive Director Ms. Hammer was not interviewed, she did not apply for this POA Executive Director position or being considered as a sixth candidate
2. The talk by attorney Alan Wagman was right on target saying essentially that this selection is critically important-that we don't need more of the same (translated-not another Robin Hammer)
3. This position never required that it be an attorney when Ms. Hammer was hired for the IRO job since an attorney is already assigned to the IRO-yet all were attorneys.
4. Who chose these five candidates who you interviewed and more importantly who decided that you had to send three of the five interviewed to the Council to pick one? Only one stood out!
5. You saw their resumes-something that should have also been posted on the website. One candidate-a former Colorado sheriff's deputy had conflicting-erroneous information on his resume

6. Two of the applicants were former law enforcement/police officers both of whom had beliefs like Ms. Hammer.

Your selection decision is easy.

The only candidate that stood head and shoulders above the other four was former IRO during 2002-2007 Jay Rowland.

Based on his demonstrated knowledge of this job and expected respect by both the many APD honest police officers and the people, only Jay should be nominated to the City Council.

The only other even remotely credible candidate of the other four interviewed was Edna Sprague.

After Edna has the opportunity to review all of the GOV-TV interviews today, she too would likely believe that Jay would be the right choice.

P.S.

Subject: Agenda setting in the future

Ms. Hammer - In the future, we need to avoid the situation which happened this week - where I sent an emailed agenda for the personnel subcommittee for posting well before the deadline, but you didn't received it, and it wasn't posted 72 hours prior to the meeting.

As staff for the POB, we all need you to be the person primarily responsible for staying on top of these deadlines with agendas and posting. Volunteer Board members shouldn't be the ones primarily responsible for this task.

To be clear, the failure is not that you didn't receive my email, as that technology is beyond our control. The issue was that when you didn't receive the agenda in plenty of time for posting, that you neither emailed, called nor texted me to find out the status of the agenda. As I had previously disclosed, I was working out of state, in 3 locations involving both coasts between June 13th and yesterday evening. Had I received any communication from you that you hadn't yet received an agenda, I could have resent it prior to the deadline.

In the future, to ensure there isn't a repeat of this issue, you will follow the protocol listed below:

5-days prior to meeting - email the Chair of the POB, or subcommittee chair, requesting an agenda, and asking if they would like your assistance to format a draft agenda; please CC the committee members, or in the case of the full POB, cc the co-vice chairs. This is also the last point where the most recent minutes should be sent out in draft form.

4-days prior to meeting - if you haven't received a response, call the Chair and follow up to ensure that an agenda is forthcoming.

3-days prior to the meeting - verify the receipt of an agenda and post. If for whatever reason the chair is unable to put together an agenda, and you haven't received an agenda or any response from anyone else, please post an updated version of the most recent agenda for that body. For the personnel subcommittee, just update the last agenda with the upcoming agenda's date and post it, so at least the meeting won't need to be cancelled.

2-days prior to the meeting, verify the room reservation and email a reminder to the full POB inviting/reminding everyone of the meeting or subcommittee meeting.

Following this timetable for all future meetings will ensure that we are able to smoothly conduct business. If you'd prefer to assign one of your staff members to this task, please let us know who will be primarily responsible. Feel free to call with any questions. Thanks much, -B

Ms. Hammer,
I stated for the record that I would like to thank Officer Saavedra for the outstanding work that she has done in getting us all through the 47th Citizen Police Academy. This should be placed in the Other Business section.

Hello All,

So far I have received emails and approved:

- Joanne Fine
- Jeannette Baca

I've also checked my Junk folder and didn't find any more requests.

Unless I am totally misunderstanding the situation, the information below does not solve, (and in fact I think creates a problem) our problem.

As I read the instructions, they appear to deal with how to automatically forward emails that are received in our inboxes. Not forwarding emails we send. So unless someone has figured out how to automatically forward emails that we generate, we still have the same problem.

In addition, if everyone sets up the rule as described below, when we each receive our copy of an email sent to all of us, the email will automatically be forwarded to the IPRA account 9 or more times, meaning we will have 10 or more copies of the same email sent to that account.

Could be wrong about this, but that's what it seems like to me.

I would like to gather the POB members, spouses, as well as the staff and their significant others to welcome Ed Harness to Albuquerque.

I am proposing suppertime, Wed, Nov 18th, at my home in Glenwood Hills.
How about everyone bring something to go with what Art and i grill on the BBQ. Drinks, alcohol and otherwise, would be our treat as well.

We have been through a lot together in the last few months. Let's celebrate our collective endurance and success as we head into our shared future.

I will include all staff once we have a date that works for the Board. Please let me know by Monday if the date will or will not work for you.

Thank you,
Joanne and Art Fine

P.S. due to the Open Meetings Law we cannot make this event about our work. All the better.
Let's talk about anything else. :0)

Christie misses cut for prime-time GOP debate

John Grubestic: Senator Richardson. Seriously.

John Grubestic

Senator Richardson.

Say it slowly, try not to throw up and give it a chance to sink in. It makes perfect sense. Come on folks, if I can say it so can you... SENATOR RICHARDSON.

Yes, that Richardson, Big Bill, Slick Guillermo, the flabby King.

Richardson (http://www.ballotpedia.com/wiki/index.php/Bill\_Richardson) is the only Democrat that merits consideration. Balderas, the two Martins, that Diane lady (http://www.ballotpedia.com/wiki/index.php/Diane\_Denish) who even the President couldn't remember (<http://www.ihatethemedia.com/barack-obama-cannot-pronounce-diane-denish>) , Patsy Madrid (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Patricia\_A.\_Madrid) (who last time I checked couldn't even remember who she was), Benito Lujan (http://www.ballotpedia.com/wiki/index.php/Ben\_Ray\_Lujan) ? One more time, together... Senator Richardson!

Getting easier right? It should be. Especially for all you Democrats that have almost managed to wash the taste of his butt off of your lips. Pucker up, assume the position and get him elected!

We are not sending someone to Washington to make friends, play by a mythical set of rules and sit around waiting for the Labs to shut down, see Kirtland relegated to Nerf warfare and watch as any available money goes elsewhere; the current Congressional delegation has it covered.

Don't take a knife to a gun fight; don't send a man wearing a suit made of salmon into a den of grizzlies or a Girl Scout to a crack house. We need to send the most successful hood (I mean this in the best sense as in ...Robin) New Mexico has ever produced to represent our interests in a city that has more unindicted felons roaming the streets than anywhere else in the world.

New Mexico needs a senator with the morals of a tapeworm, the energy of a drug-addled mongoose and the cajones of a rutting moose. Somebody who can down a gallon of vodka, bed an intern and finagle funding out of an economy that is sputtering like an accountant with a speech impediment at an IRS audit.

New Mexico doesn't need a dedicated family man/woman, a loving husband/wife or the mother/father of the year or somebody that tells us they are. They might show up at church, but nine times out of ten they have bones buried in their basement and spend too much time trying to hide the evidence instead of doing their jobs.

No one in Congress comes close to being the image they created, they just haven't been caught. The truly successful politicians don't care. Slick Willy, John, Bobby, Ted, Lyndon, Newt, tricky Dick, each had their own set of demons, but they all had the ability to consistently sell us a bucket of horse shit and get the job done.

New Mexico needs someone who can gut his own mother and eat her liver, chase it with a bottle of '82 Chateau Lafite and still have an appetite for a bucket of Häagen Dazs.

We need to stop electing our public servants based on the myths manufactured by the media. Better to elect the devil we know than the milquetoast we don't. Richardson is calculating, competitive and ruthless. He has every attribute and a resumé, which New Mexico has paid for, that would make him our finest senator.

Richardson is electable. Bill and his buddies can raise or steal all the money he needs to match Heather's junta of henchmen. Money changes political reality; Richardson is the keeper of the keys to the bank.

We don't need a camp counselor named Heinrich (http://www.ballotpedia.com/wiki/index.php/Martin\_Heinrich) as senator — maybe a Field Marshall or a Reich Fuhrer — but not a senator. Marty #2 (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Martin\_Ch%C3%A1vez) got stomped state wide. Besides, I think we need a sign that says "You must be this tall to get on this ride" before we send anyone to Washington. That would probably toss Benito out and his daddy (they are a package deal) and maybe Denish, Madrid and definitely Luján-Grisham (<http://michellelujangrigham.net/>).

Sorry Hector (<http://www.saonm.org/about-hector-baldaras>), bald guys don't get elected to prominent positions in the United States. Grow a goatee and you might have a shot in the Balkans.

Richardson has credentials. He s the best man money can buy. Realistically, there is not one member of Congress or politics in general who hasn't sold something at some time to get where they are.

Politics is not pretty; it is not clean and there is nothing ethical about it. The profession is as as noble and virtuous as convention for pedophiles at Disney World.

Richardson knows the game. He can cut throats better than Jack the Ripper and could charm the pants off Mother Teresa. And not get caught! With the string of has-beens and never-will-bes that Democrats are lining up, he is our only hope.

The only senator from New Mexico who clearly understood his role was Domenici (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pete\_Domenici).

Saint Pete was no saint. He brought money to New Mexico. That is the one and only job a senator has — bring home the pork. You get the pork by being tougher, meaner and more ruthless than the scumbags who surround you. Bill is our greatest scumbag. Give him a shot, folks.

One more time, slowly ... Senator Richardson.

Sir, it is not by districts, to my knowledge. One of the changes that was made by the Council with this Ordinance was that members would be chosen by diverse skill set, rather than by District. I am sure Council Staff could give you more details.

Bcc to many

Thanks Joe for mentioning my well justified anger-but I'm not alone and the number here is growing. There is no anger yet by those on the City Council who have many reasons to be angry. It's not with us who are demanding real change and an end to NM's well known culture of corruption but with who many describe as our Fascist dictator R.J. Berry who choose to hide in his bunker afraid to answer for his fiscal irresponsibility and incompetence. Instead he sends out his high paid minions to speak on his behalf.

I hope all addressees read my e-mail yesterday titled, "Dictator Berry tells the Sanchez, Pena and Benton, the promoters of the FWA to "Go to Hell" claiming ruin small businesses while hypocritically promoting ART +Last Monday's Council meeting + Joe Monahan's postings" that referred to your earlier postings this month.

In the e-mail, I was particularly critical of my disgraceful/unethical Councilor Trudy Jones, Berry's "madam" willing to line up the "Johns" in the business community who are more than happy to hire those in our government who are willing to prostitute themselves for the right campaign money or favors.

Recall it was Trudy who arranged to have the irresponsible majority on the Council vote to stay out of BERNCO's decision on Santolina on the west side whose developers will later ask for taxpayer funding as a TIDD.

She also helped sponsor and pass a bill giving our tax dollars away to an out of town developer of the failed Unser Crossing shopping center on the west side so her-then employer-Grubb-Ellis could made a big commission handling the sale of the Unser owned land to the developer.

It was also alleged by a speaker at a recent Council meeting that Trudy was behind the rigged contract award to Geltmore to build a four story primarily housing and retail project misrepresented by the Berry Journal as just as grocery store downtown. Note that none of these scams on taxpayers are located in her/my District 8.

Yet we can't find even one person in District 8 willing to run against her knowing her NAIOP and Greater Chamber of Commerce "Johns" will help her buy her re-election this fall.

I was glad to read today that the Councilors who were insulted by dictator Berry for refusing to even consider a study and amended version of the Fair Housing Act legislation will be supporting an "Ole" petition drive to get it put it to us voters. Are they finally getting angry with the insults of this dictator in the Mayor's chair? Unlike other US Mayors, does Berry feel it's beneath him to appear at Council meetings?

People here should be fed up-have a right to be angry particularly those like me who had their family members or friends gunned down by Schultz's and now Eden's/Huntsman's "death squads" only to have these APD killers walk away unpunished because they-not surprisingly made no recordings showing the actual unjustified shootings.

Such was the again case with the latest APD killing where we are being insulted once again/told despite all of the officers on the scene, there is not even one recording showing the fleeing victim with a gun and pointing it at officers. Likely an APD throw down gun was recorded next to his body.

The one helmet recording made by James Boyd killer Perez was the only instance of an APD murder actually being recorded. The other 40+ officers on the scene including killer cop Sandy either never turned on their recorders or Eden likely had any made destroyed. See again the attached "Live Leak" revelation from an honest cop confirming that "APD Covered Up Production of Videos of Shooting of James Boyd."

This not surprisingly lack of any incriminating recordings was also the case after my (as well as shadow APD Chief Bob Huntsman's) good neighbor/single parent Chris Hinz was murdered at his home by trigger-happy cop Anthony Sedler and another of Huntsman's "finest" on June 10, 2010.

I would soon afterwards be threatened by Schultz to "be careful" after filing IPRA requests and asking why no recordings existed showing the actual shooting despite the virtual army of police officer on the scene for almost two hours.

Those in the Mayor's or APD's office would later lie to the media claiming Chris had a "criminal history" something broadcasted on KOAT by anchor Shelly Ribando. I guess just one traffic ticket constituted a criminal history to APD. Internal Affairs would then lie to the POC later trying to justify Chris' murder.

Mary Han was also likely warned by Schultz (who also threatened others) "to be careful" before she was found dead in her car. APD's and other city leaders would claim (after deliberately contaminating the crime scene and ransacking her home for incriminating information on them) was a suicide. APD also contaminated the crime scene/home of Levi Chavez Jr. so he would escape a murder charge for killing his wife.

To the other addressees to my e-mail yesterday that referred all to all of Joe's earlier August postings, one included the comment of just one of our many retired disgusted honest cop-Tom Grover who exposed as bogus excuse by Eden that he never bothered to read the APD investigative report on the murder of James Boyd by Sandy (who changed his 2014 killer appearance) and Perez.

Another also said about this--"Chief Eden's testimony drew sharp criticism from one of our Legal Beagles: Chief Eden's performance confirmed what most already know: APD's cover-up culture is alive and well. Eden took the stand and claimed he hadn't read the report on the Boyd killing. By claiming he hadn't read it, Eden dodged having to testify about what the report said. The city just paid $5 million to settle the wrongful death lawsuit brought by Boyd's family, but Eden--who is paid $160,000 a year--wants the public to believe he hasn't read his own department's report? Eden also claimed there's an ongoing investigation into why Officer Keith Sandy's lapel camera video disappeared. Eden's had a year and a half to get to the bottom of it. What's the hold-up? The answer is Eden doesn't want to know, or he knows what's on the video and doesn't want the public to see it. Despite former APD Chief Ray Schultz having fled the jurisdiction, APD's past problems remain the same for this "new" APD. When the truth is inconvenient or might make APD look bad, count on the Cover-Up Cops to cover it up."

Now the attorneys for Sandy and Perez have two expert witnesses (translated-prostitutes) hired for big bucks to lie claiming incredulously that Boyd threatened officers and the killing by Perez and Sandy was justified.

Eden is a disgrace to his uniform as is Huntsman and most of APD's senior leadership. If he had one ounce of self-respect, he should resign and take Huntsman, Roseman and others of their ilk with him. But he knows the next mayor won't rehire him. Just look who ignored the impressive qualifications of over 40 other US police Chiefs, deputy chief and others who applied for the Chief's job.

It was none other than dictators Berry and Perry who later never allowed the unqualified/incompetent Eden to participate in the negotiations for APD reform with the DOJ. Instead they hired a DOJ investigated police chief from Cincinnati-Schultz's Taser Inc. buddy Tom Streicher and his partner Scott Greenwood to do it. The cowardly Councilors went along with this thanks in part to Berry's four Republican stooges there.

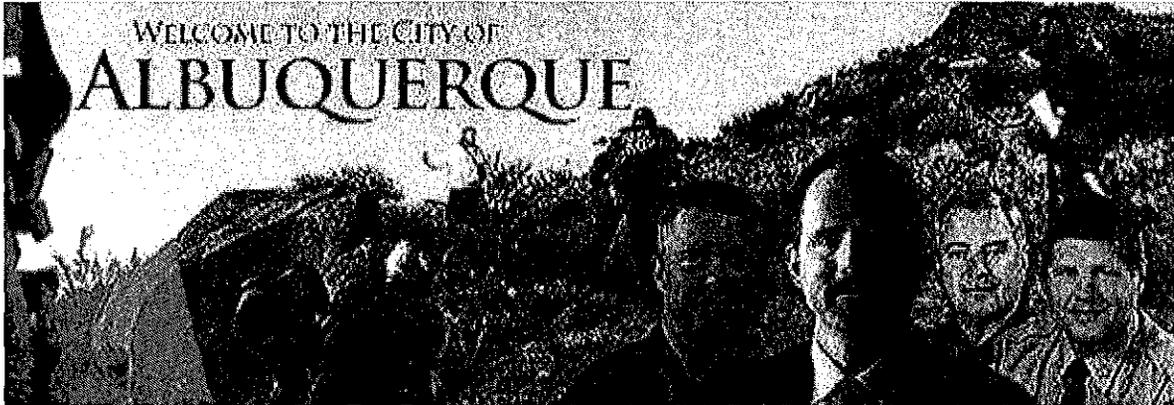

Isn't it time for our New Mexico cowardly legislators-former cops Bill Rehm and Paul Pacheco and others to stop blaming all of the crime here (including those committed by NM police officers) on the judicial system and on the "boomerang thugs" and pass legislation requiring all NM police officers carry body recorders and USE them or get fired? The disgraceful BCSO Sheriff Gonzalez refuses to buy them and the BERNCO Commissioners and County Manager don't care.

Isn't it also time for a personal visit by new US AG Loretta Lynch to see what a joke the DOJ agreement is here? Or does she only care when fellow African-Americans are murdered in US cities? As Tony Pirard said at Monday's council meeting, not only the lives of African Americans are important to save but all others here.

Today's posting by you is shown below for the other addressees.

Trump's White House And The Politics Of Anger

Here's how the White House will look when Donald Trump takes over. Book your room now.

That was some GOP presidential debate last night, wasn't it? Trump had the anger meter hitting 10 and the crowd urging him on. Anger put to work--to spur action-- is a valid political emotion. Trump has not only tapped into the waves of anger rolling across a not so small part of the electorate but also their desire for change.

Who was the angriest political figure we ever encountered in New Mexico? Hands down it was former GOP chairman and 2006 gubernatorial candidate John Dendahl. When he went up against heavy favorite Bill Richardson in '06 we dubbed him "the sacrificial wolf." But Dendahl wasn't mean. Just angry. He left the state in a huff in his later years decrying the attitude of New Mexicans.

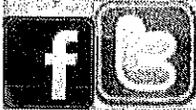

On the current scene there may be some angry politicians but they don't show it. (Actually, we find Gov. Martinez has more than a streak of anger to her political personality). Anger is mostly left to social media, talk radio and citizen activists.

There aren't many of those anymore but ABQ Silvio Dell'Angela is one. For several years, he has been sending out irate email missives to a large audience, decrying the current state of New Mexico and ABQ. Here's a sample from his latest:

"Many here are in denial that New Mexico is compared nationwide to nothing better than a third world city run by corrupt leaders. This is because we continue to elect people whose only goal is not to serve us-the people but to feather their own nests. Even Mississippi is thankful for New Mexico's horrible reputation--now the land of hopelessness and apathy to this culture of corruption.

New Mexico just isn't big on anger. However, you could argue it is often too big on acceptance, denial and apathy.

Thanks for stopping by this week. This is the home of New Mexico politics. E-mail your news and comments: (jmonahan@ix.netcom.com) Interested in reaching New Mexico's most informed audience? Advertise here.

PROOF - APD Covered Up Production of Videos of Shooting of James Boyd

On March 17th 2014 Albuquerque Police (APD) shot and killed a homeless and mentally ill man - whose only crime was a violation of a municipal ordinance against camping in an open space area in the Sandia foothills at the eastern edge of the city.

On March 17th, the day after the fatal shooting, KRQE made a public records request for the videos of that incident. On April 1st, APD unlawfully denied that request.

BUT ... Here is the REST of that Story.

To this day - not only have the Keith Sandy videos mysteriously disappeared - but when the APD finally produced videos claiming to be ALL the videos of the incident - many of the videos were missing INCLUDING almost all that actually show the SHOOTING - most NOTICEABLY - the very videos (from the other shooter - Dominique Perez) from which the now-famous shooting clip was taken and released by APD that week.

On April 2nd, one day after KRQE's request was unlawfully denied, an investigator with the APD interviewed Kevin Fuller, APD Video Unit Supervisor. According to the interview - included in this video - Fuller was instructed on FRIDAY March 21st - to obtain the videos and place them in a Drop Box account.

On Thursday, March 27th - he was instructed to coordinate with several other persons - and to look at all the videos, frame by frame, and identify those parts that the Chief might have an "interest" in BEFORE they were released to the media.

Although those videos have since been released (those that have) WITHOUT being identified by officer or time - Fuller and his team broke down each video by officer and began this work. He was, at this time, told to "take out" all videos in which the audio or video contained the actual shooting.

On Friday March 28th Fuller was instructed to place the videos on another hard drive and provide them to the FBI. BUT ... on Friday evening - Commander Montano on behalf of the Chief contacted Fuller and stated he had "concerns" allegedly about the Chain of Custody. He ordered Fuller to "cease and desist." He was later then told to give Montano the hard drive and to delete the videos from the drop box account.

It is unlawful for the APD to withhold, delay, or deny public records that have no exemption provided by law. The APD clearly DELAYED production in order to find those videos it might find embarrassing - or creating liability - with regard to the act of the shooting of Boyd. It then DENIED unlawfully the production of those videos.

Since then - it has produced videos it has CLAIMED were the complete set. BUT there are several known videos missing - not least being all the videos taken by the second shooter, Dominique Perez, from whose videos the famous clip released by APD initially came. Although several other officers' videos are MISSING from the set produced as well.

It is clear that the APD has and continues to knowingly and willfully withhold those videos. This interview contains proof, at minimum, that the APD had delayed production of the videos, contrary to the Public Records law, in order to try and identify those videos it considered problematic - this specifically was a reference to anything officers may have said to each other during the incident AND anything that revealed either audio or video of the actual shooting of Boyd.

(Info to those shown and Bcc to many including the media, councilors and concerned citizens)

You saw my last e-mail also dated yesterday, not the July 30 one below. It asked for a reply from City Attorney Jessica Hernandez.

I would have thought the names of attendees at these would have been included in the reports but surprisingly they weren't for some reason.

It appears much like these no-bid contracts to local attorneys, you give out contracts over the $75,000 Council approval limit-in this case the $150,000 to UNM and other contracts to them blindly without knowing the qualifications of just who besides the high paid lead will do the work.

Is it just one high paid Dr. Guerin and three low paid warm bodies/UNM graduate students who we taxpayers are paying $150,000 for? As a taxpayer, don't you care or are taxes just play/fun money?

Regarding Ms. Annabelle Romero who is leading the effort who now in the Office of Diversity and Human Rights, I (and likely other taxpayers) wonder just what unique skills she had to fill that likely high paid former "Senior Advisor" job to the Mayor and doing exactly what since he already had Rob Perry, a COO, the head of Constituent Services, Gil Montano and others.

Nothing from UNM-as expected although I copied them on my last response to you.

Is there any wonder those attending placed transparency among the lowest priorities desired to accomplish APD reform. Chief Eden and the Mayor must love it.

Where are you located as I may be in to get the signatures Monday prior to Council meeting? Any complete report on phases 1 and 2 by Dr. Guerin should have included these attendees' names.

Good afternoon Mr. Dell"Angela:

The City has gathered the non-exempt public records responsive to your request. Please contact me to arrange a time to come in to inspect, or copy any of the records. Specifically, I have retrieved the copies of the sign-in sheets showing the attendees at these UNM conducted 22 "dialogues" and the names of those others aside from the four UNM folks who also participated in them for your inspection, which also includes your recent amended request to include Phase 2.

With respect to the portion of your request for "the opportunity to review the resumes/qualifications of Dr. Guerin and this three likely graduate students, Tonnigan, Minssen and Torres..." the City does not maintain those records. The records may be maintained by the University of New Mexico. We are forwarding your request to UNM. To expedite your request, it would be advisable for you to write an additional letter requesting the records to the proper custodian at you earliest convenience. The following information was found at: <http://publicrecords.unm.edu/>.

Good afternoon Mr. Dell"Angela:

This email will acknowledge receipt of your public records request received today July 30, 2015 via email in response for the following:

M004629

1. Request the opportunity to review or provide me with copies of the sign in sheets showing the attendees at these UNM conducted 22 "dialogues" and the names of those others aside from the four UNM folks who also participated in them.
2. Request the opportunity to review the resumes/qualifications of Dr. Guerin and his three likely graduate students, Tonnigan, Minssen and Torres to determine their qualifications to execute these Collaboratives. "

Please be advised we are reviewing your request to determine what public records are responsive and whether any exceptions to their production apply. We will continue our review and will contact you on or before by August 14, 2015 the expiration of fifteen (15) days from the receipt of your request. We appreciate your understanding in the need for some more time to research this request. Should you have questions or concerns, please do not hesitate in contacting me.

Respectfully,

Annabelle

Info also to the media, UNM Regents and others-sent to them Bcc

This Phase 1 effort was worst than a "dog and pony show"-as Nora described it while the referenced Phase I report prepared by UNM and those reports that will follow appear to be a waste of $150,000 of our tax dollars. You avoided answering many of my questions in my July 26 e-mail below but merely sent the website reference to the UNM Phase 1 report.

I had asked for minutes of the meetings that would include the names of those attendees but these were never provided. I guess you now need a NM IPRA request to comply.

Therefore IAW the NM IPRA,

1. Request the opportunity to review or provide me with copies of the sign in sheets showing the attendees at these UNM conducted 22 "dialogues" and the names of those others aside from the four UNM folks who also participated in them.
2. Request the opportunity to review the resumes/qualifications of Dr. Guerin and his three likely graduate students, Tonnigan, Minssen and Torres to determine their qualifications to execute these Collaboratives.

I think UNM's Dr. Guerin was also given a contract to study APD's use of body recorders.

I would have thought rather than tasking UNM's Institute for Social Research, those from the Law School would have been more appropriate/knowledgeable in this reform area.

Preferably, honest retired APD officers like those four I mentioned and others who can make this more than just a data gathering effort resulting in no real changes to APD should have been hired as consultant to do this work. Those good cops if employed by us taxpayers would have had the prerequisite expertise to make this a meaningful outreach effort.

I'm sure you are aware of the tax dollars and the time of good volunteers that were wasted on the 2013 police oversight task force whose most critical January recommendations/reform of the citizens' police oversight process were ignored by both Cincinnati consultant Scott Greenwood, the Council but also the DOJ.

UNM's Dr. Bruce Perlman who was never mentioned in the Council's ordinance creating this oversight task force was nevertheless give the bulk of our tax dollars to manage the effort behind the scenes.

I guess some of us who have been on the front lines writing to and meeting with the DOJ, Council and other city leaders and were the ones who ultimately were the ones (along with the national media) who ultimately brought the DOJ here were somehow not deemed to be the "safe" stakeholders.

I note the name of one of your chosen gatekeepers who authored the July 25 e-mail to fellow activist Isle Biel below extended her the invite to participate in this Phase 2 "Collaborative." I guess not inviting me and likely others known to be active in this long APD reform struggle was just an oversight. Informed people are apparently not welcomed.

Understand my issue is not with the good people at UNM given this task but with those in the Mayor's office and the leadership of APD who are perpetuating this charade trying to convince APD really cares what comes out of this effort.

As I said before, they did these Collaboratives in Cincinnati and reform there took seven long years because the collaborative were also likely just a PR effort with resulting recommendations that their police department, assigned DOJ monitor and DOJ investigators ignored.

Those in the media particularly the ones who attended the dialogues have a responsibility to also question this research effort given to UNM. I can recall them only covering one of these "dialogues." Maybe they thought they were also PR efforts by those in the Mayor's office.

They likely saw how the improper no bid contract by Schultz to employer TASER Inc. was covered up in the amended Internal Auditor's report because the Mayor was also involved by "greasing" this $1.9 million contract for Schultz. As I said in previous e-mails, there is NO room for integrity in this Berry administration.

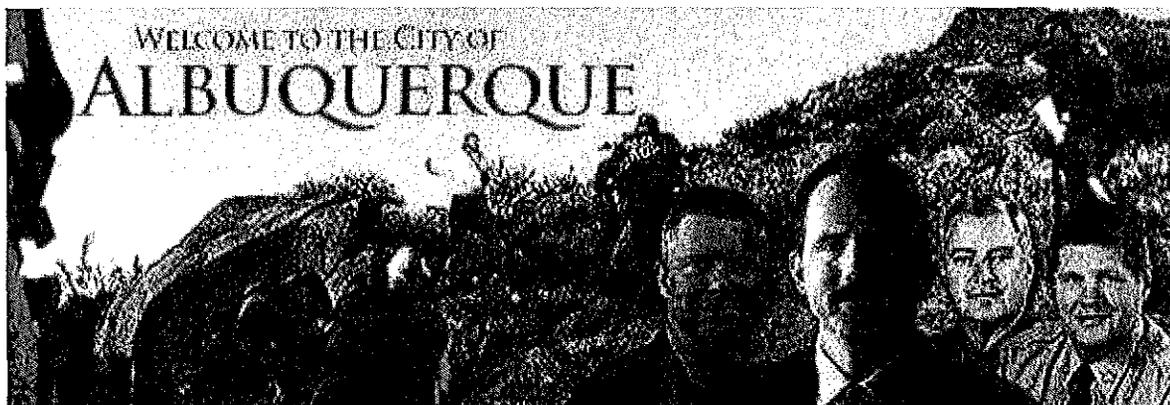

Meanwhile our Mayor remains in hiding, coming out of his cave on the 11th floor only to travel out of the city or to cut ribbons or do other meaningless PR tasks.

I await your reply to my IPRA request

Regards

Silvio

Beth,

The CPOA Administrative Office will be handling the registration for NACOLE. We needed to wait until the new fiscal year to pay for the registration. We have already booked the rooms at the host hotel for POB Members. The City has a new centralized system for booking travel through City Hall beginning July 2015. Michelle Contreras will be the liaison between City Hall and POB Members for the airfare, hotel, shuttle, and per diem arrangements.

Please let me if you have any other questions.

Thanks,

Alan

Thank you Alan. Well said

Councilor Gibson

I suggest you move the November 5 meeting with Dr. Ginger to one of our Community or Senior Centers rather than again at Congregation Albert and that the meeting be confined to just the "community" members and not the APD brass, the APOA, the City/Mayor Berry's Attorney Ms. Hernandez or others in the city who many feel are the ones responsible for the APD mess here. No undercover APD officers there either please.

Others

Apparently the sponsors of the first meeting at Congregation Albert not only required that attendees buy a breakfast there but didn't extend an invite to Councilors as if they were irrelevant. I urge their attendance at the November one. See how the perceived enemies of APD reform were treated during the first meeting.

To give you an idea how non-committed the DOJ, Judge Brack and Dr. Ginger are to reforming APD read the article below in this week's issue of the ABQ Free Press, "Judge OKs APD Delay on 35 Key Reform Changes" <http://www.freeabq.com/?p=3671>. There is no real commitment to APD reform here. It's a sham-a slap in the face to trusting citizens here.

The recent public pronouncements by new US AG Loretta Lynch made it clear just whose side she is on-and it's not our side. It would be nice if she made time to attend the meeting-wouldn't it?

One of the 35 reforms does not include requiring that recordings of all APD serious responses be made mandatory by all APD responders with zero tolerance and serious punitive measures including termination for those not complying. There should also be the requirement that APD can no longer ignore NM IPRA requests for videos and documentation that are requested in order to hide the lies they tell us.

Since October 1, all addressees were told by me in many e-mails that Chief Eden repeatedly ignored my NM IPRA request submitted then to see the videos of the latest APD illegal shooting at a fleeing suspect, videos proving the individual actually pointed a gun at the shooter.

Yet nobody at the DOJ, in PMR Inc or our City leaders even cared. Eden has still not responded- now 22 days later and one week after the required suspense date called for in this State law.

As I pointed out with the exception of the one helmet video (likely inadvertently) released by APD showing the 2014 murder by officers Perez and Sandy of James Boyd, not one other video showing an actual APD officer shooting has ever been made or released by APD because it would reveal the APD shooters and their leaders were lying when justifying it.

APD even withheld other incriminating video of the Boyd murder. See the Live Leak report attached.

Not only was it disgraceful that the Mayor hired Schultz's fellow TASER colleagues-Tom Streicher the former Cincinnati Police Chief whose Department was investigated by the DOJ to negotiate the agreement rather than Chief Eden but also hired Streicher's attorney buddy Scott Greenwood to also negotiate.

While in Cincinnati, Chief Streicher did his best to stonewall every proposed DOJ reform there while Greenwood would recently lie to the Council here claiming his proposed changes to the police oversight Ordinance here represented those of the DOJ. The Police Department reform in Cincinnati took seven years and problems still persist there. Does the DOJ even care?

Judge Brack with the DOJ's blessing even disgracefully ignored the recommended changes by citizens in APD Forward's "AMICUS CURIAE BRIEF OF APD FORWARD REGARDING COURT APPROVAL OF THE SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE CITY OF ALBUQUERQUE AND THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE"-first page of it attached.

With now four former police officers on the Police Oversight Agency including new former Milwaukee cop Ed Harness as its Executive Director, that process is also viewed as even worse/more impotent than the old one-thanks to the City Council and Mayor.

All are anxious to see Dr. Ginger's new dog and pony show in November. I can't wait. I hope the media reporters are there to also see Dr. Ginger's responses.

It should be obvious to all that this entire toothless reform agreement and toothless PMR inc. team made up of mostly former police officers is a sham-a $4.5 + million massive rip off of taxpayers. Federal Judge Brack's recently approved delay for the 35 key APD reform changes is only one indication of that.

Subject: November 5 Public Meeting at Temple Albert

To: Jim Ginger <pmrinc@mac.com>, Diane Gibson <dgibson@cabq.gov>

Dr. Ginger, Councilwoman Gibson:

I am pleased to see that the public meetings concerning the DOJ/APD lawsuit will continue. I am concerned, however, that the next meeting -- to be sponsored by you, Councilwoman Gibson -- will be held at Temple Albert. Temple Albert has a troubling history of suppression of speech concerning this issue.

Last month, on September 20, Temple Albert's Brotherhood and Sisterhood jointly hosted a brunch and presentations about the settlement agreement, featuring Mayor Berry, U.S. Attorney Damon Martinez, Assistant U.S. Attorney Paul Killebrew, and APD Deputy Chief Huntsman (filling in for Chief Eden). A group of people, including me, prepared an information flyer on issues of concern about the settlement. Three people -- again including me -- were passing out flyers at the door of Temple Albert to people coming in to attend the event.

Jeffrey Paul, president of Temple Albert Brotherhood, came to the door, saw the other two people handing out flyers, and ordered those two people away from the door. Mr. Paul then attempted to take flyers away from people who had accepted them. Below are two accounts written by people involved in the incident about their encounter with Mr. Paul:

"A small group decided to prepare flyers with pertinent questions and background to inform the audience. . . . [Three of us] handed out some of the flyers outside the building. Then things went a little weird. I had handed Damon Martinez and Paul Killebrew, both panelists, a flyer each and bantered a bit with them. They were perfectly happy that we were getting information disseminated. The Congregation's MC -- and seeming gatekeeper -- for the event rushed out just after Martinez and Killebrew had moved on to greet [the other two people handing out flyers]. [Mr. Paul] did not recognize Martinez as the NM US attorney and started accosting the two well-suited DOJ reps about the flyers they were holding . . . [until U.S. Attorney] Martinez introduced himself and [Mr. Paul] backed down. [Mr. Paul] still insisted we [leave] the premises."

Dr. Ginger, Councilwoman Gibson, I can attest to the complete accuracy of this description. I was standing right there during the entire time. It was only happenstance that Mr. Paul had not seen me handing out flyers. I probably was not handing out flyers at that moment because I was greeting U.S. Attorney Martinez and Assistant U.S. Attorney Killebrew, both of whom I know from numerous meetings with the Department of Justice about police reform and from participation in court hearings on the lawsuit.

The account actually stops short of the full extent of Mr. Paul's suppression of speech. When the two people left without incident, Mr. Paul followed them to the parking lot, where he accosted them and ordered them off the property. (Caveat: I did not hear what he said to them in the parking lot, but I did see him pursue them, catch up with them as they were walking, and speak to them; they later told me what he had said.)

Although Mr. Paul desisted from his attempts to take flyers away from the Department of Justice representatives, he was not similarly shy with others who had accepted flyers. Here is an account from an individual who had taken a flyer:

"This morning a public forum including Mayor Berry, APD and the USDOJ was held at Congregation Albert on Louisiana near Montgomery. I had never been there before today. I walked in and I was standing in line along with well over 100 people when a Board Member of Congregation Albert named Jeffrey Paul walks straight up to me and asks me, 'Who are you, what is your name and what are you doing here?' I politely introduced myself and that I was there to attend the public forum like everybody else in line was doing.

Then he angrily asks me, 'Well did you make reservations?' I said yes I did but there is also a list here for those who have not made reservations and must pay $12.00 - so I plan to pay my $12.00. Then he said, 'Well what do you have in your hand?' I said, 'It's a brochure I was handed outside before I walked in here.' He said, 'Well you can't bring that in here so let me have that.' So I handed the brochure to him."

Dr. Ginger, Councilwoman Gibson, I was standing right there during that exchange as well, and I can attest to its complete accuracy.

The gentleman from whom Mr. Paul so unceremoniously took the flyer was Ralph Arellanes. Mr. Arellanes is the president of the local chapter of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC). LULAC is a major civic organization in Albuquerque and around the country. Mr. Arellanes also served with me on the Police Oversight Task Force, which advised City Council on the Police Oversight Ordinance which passed a year ago and created the Civilian Police Oversight Agency. I must add that Mr. Arellanes was very acceptably dressed and was not doing anything to draw attention to himself when Mr. Paul singled him out. Mr. Paul may have had a legitimate reason for picking on Mr. Arellanes, but I do not know what it could have been.

In fairness, I must acknowledge that Mr. Paul did not appear to be concerned about whether the flyer was in favor of or opposed to the settlement agreement or any of the parties to the agreement. His interest in suppressing speech appeared to be content neutral. It also was within the legal right of Temple Albert to restrict speech on its premises. But that it was within legal rights does not make it right or proper, and it does not instill confidence in Temple Albert as a venue for any meeting about these issues.

The police reform community is not unaware of what transpired on September 20. That community may well be reluctant to trust any event taking place in that venue will provide a fair hearing. Ameliorative action may be necessary if this event is to attract a broad-spectrum of the community as an audience.

For the record, I am attaching a pdf of the flyer Mr. Paul was at such great pains to suppress.

Very truly yours,

Alan Wagman

JUSTIFYING THE UNJUSTIFIABLE: SHOOTING AT CARS

The Department of Justice Findings Letter of April 10, 2014 called for and the Consent Decree mandates elimination of the APD policy that allows shooting at motor vehicles. Bullets could hit bystanders or other officers, and a vehicle with a wounded driver becomes an unarmed but very deadly weapon. On Memorial Day this year, the policy still had not changed, and an APD officer shot at an SUV in an apartment parking lot. Passengers in the SUV included two women and a five-year old child. Fortunately, the officer did not hit anyone. Nonetheless, Chief Eden went on television and justified the shooting – even though the officer avoided being hit by the SUV not by shooting at it but by merely stepping aside.

Question for Mr. Martinez or Mr. Saucedo:

What does the failure of APD to change this policy which had been directly singled out for change in the Findings Letter and the Consent Decree signify about the City's commitment to change? How has DOJ addressed this, or how will DOJ address this?

Question for Mayor Berry:

APD could easily have changed this policy within weeks of the DOJ report. What does the failure of APD to change this policy for over a year say about the City's commitment to real change?

Question for Chief Eden: Why, over a year after the DOJ report, was this policy not changed? Why, over a year after the DOJ report, do you still justify police actions that endanger innocent lives?

PUTTING INNOCENT PEOPLE IN DANGER

It has been in the news this year that an APD officer accessed a federal law enforcement data base to get the address of a victim of domestic violence. In violation of federal law, the APD officer then gave the woman's address to the man who had abused her, even though the woman had a restraining order in place. Armed with the address the APD officer illegally obtained and gave out, the man went to the woman's home . . . with a gun. The APD officer is still employed.

Question for Chief Eden:

Why is the officer who broke federal law and endangered an innocent woman's life still working for APD?

Question for Mayor Berry:

What will you do about this?

Question for Mr. Martinez or Mr. Saucedo:

Will DOJ prosecute the officer involved? Will DOJ address the internal process of APD that allows this to happen with impunity?

DID APD REALLY
CONSENT?

DID DOJ REALLY DECREE?

Food for thought and
Food for questions

*For more information, please contact:
apd.doj.info.project@gmail.com*

KEEPING THE PUBLIC IN THE DARK

Clearly public trust is a vital part of the equation. Transparency is a clear and necessary tool to gain public trust. Yet repeatedly APD refuses to provide or delays in providing information that it is legally required to provide under New Mexico Inspection of Public Records Act (IPRA). The ACLU has sued APD for failure to provide requested information. The ACLU won. Local news outlets repeatedly have sued APD to get information APD is required to provide but won't—until there is a court order. Local citizens sue APD to get access to information. The ABQ Free Press recently won an award of over $50,000 because APD failed to provide information it was required to provide. When APD loses these lawsuits, it not only has to provide the information it should have given out to begin with, it costs the city tens of thousands of dollars in legal fees and penalties. Paragraph 226 of the Consent Decree requires that "APD policies shall comply with all existing laws and regulations, including those governing . . . public disclosure of information. . . ."

Question for Chief Eden: What specifically will you do to change both the reality and the appearance of APD hiding information from the public?

Question for Mayor Berry: What specifically will you do if APD continues its pattern of noncompliance with IPRA?

Question for Mr. Martinez or Mr. Saucedo: What will DOJ do to enforce paragraph 226 of the Consent Decree?

ENSURING OVERSIGHT IS BLIND

One of the headings in the April 10, 2014 DOJ Findings Letter stated plainly, "The Department's Limited External Oversight Contributes to the Pattern or Practice of Unconstitutional Uses of Force." One of the primary limitations on external oversight is the city's police union contract. Nonetheless, after the Findings Letter came out, the city negotiated a new contract with police officers which kept in force a provision that discipline be imposed within ninety days of an infraction. The purpose of the civilian oversight process is to provide external input into disciplinary decisions, and the process takes more than ninety days. The ninety-day deadline makes external oversight meaningless. The city is engaged in contract negotiations yet again, and there is no sign that the city is even trying to change the deadlines that block external oversight.

Question for Mayor Berry or Chief Eden: Will you insist that disciplinary deadlines be changed in the new contract so that civilian oversight does not continue to be sabotaged?

Question for Mr. Martinez or Mr. Saucedo: What specifically will you do to ensure the city administration avoids contracts that undercut effective external oversight?

IT STARTS AT THE TOP

The April 10, 2014 DOJ Findings Letter was very critical of APD's chain of command, from bottom to top. The Findings Letter repeatedly referred to shortcomings all the way up the chain of command being a major cause of APD's failings and a significant roadblock to finding a solution. And, yet, in spite of this, APD's consistent pattern and practice in the nearly 18 months since release of the Findings Letter has been to promote from within this same compromised chain of command. It was even reported recently in the Albuquerque Journal that APD is giving retention bonuses – perhaps even illegally – to these very same command officers. Some City Council members indicated that they were offended by the APD top command.

Question for Chief Eden: How will things change if personnel decisions ignore the DOJ critique? How does retaining a chain of command which has lost the city's trust serve to build trust?

Question for Mayor Berry: The city's Chief Administrative Officer Rob Perry – who reports to you & who supervises Chief Eden – has justified the retention bonuses for command officers. Do you support these decisions? Why or why not?

Question for Mr. Martinez or Mr. Saucedo: In light of the identified problems with the APD chain of command, how will DOJ address the perpetuation of the same chain of command?

PROOF - APD Covered Up Production of Videos of Shooting of James Boyd

On March 17th 2014 Albuquerque Police (APD) shot and killed a homeless and mentally ill man - whose only crime was a violation of a municipal ordinance against camping in an open space area in the Sandia foothills at the eastern edge of the city.

On March 17th, the day after the fatal shooting, KRQE made a public records request for the videos of that incident. On April 1st, APD unlawfully denied that request.

BUT ... Here is the REST of that Story.

To this day - not only have the Keith Sandy videos mysteriously disappeared - but when the APD finally produced videos claiming to be ALL the videos of the incident - many of the videos were missing INCLUDING almost all that actually show the SHOOTING - most NOTICEABLY - the very videos (from the other shooter - Dominique Perez) from which the now-famous shooting clip was taken and released by APD that week.

On April 2nd, one day after KRQE's request was unlawfully denied, an investigator with the APD interviewed Kevin Fuller, APD Video Unit Supervisor. According to the interview - included in this video - Fuller was instructed on FRIDAY March 21st - to obtain the videos and place them in a Drop Box account.

On Thursday, March 27th - he was instructed to coordinate with several other persons - and to look at all the videos, frame by frame, and identify those parts that the Chief might have an "interest" in BEFORE they were released to the media.

Although those videos have since been released (those that have) WITHOUT being identified by officer or time - Fuller and his team broke down each video by officer and began this work. He was, at this time, told to "take out" all videos in which the audio or video contained the actual shooting.

On Friday March 28th Fuller was instructed to place the videos on another hard drive and provide them to the FBI. BUT ... on Friday evening - Commander Montano on behalf of the Chief contacted Fuller and stated he had "concerns" allegedly about the Chain of Custody. He ordered Fuller to "cease and desist." He was later then told to give Montano the hard drive and to delete the videos from the drop box account.

It is unlawful for the APD to withhold, delay, or deny public records that have no exemption provided by law. The APD clearly DELAYED production in order to find those videos it might find embarrassing - or creating liability - with regard to the act of the shooting of Boyd. It then DENIED unlawfully the production of those videos.

Since then - it has produced videos it has CLAIMED were the complete set. BUT there are several known videos missing - not least being all the videos taken by the second shooter, Dominique Perez, from whose videos the famous clip released by APD initially came. Although several other officers' videos are MISSING from the set produced as well.

It is clear that the APD has and continues to knowingly and willfully withhold those videos. This interview contains proof, at minimum, that the APD had delayed production of the videos, contrary to the Public Records law, in order to try and identify those videos it considered problematic - this specifically was a reference to anything officers may have said to each other during the incident AND anything that revealed either audio or video of the actual shooting of Boyd.

Subject: Personnel Subcommittee Meeting - likely vacated

All: Since the POB will be meeting on Tuesday, August 4th at 5pm, I don't see any need to have a personnel subcommittee meeting as we had scheduled it tomorrow.

If you can think of a compelling reason to have it, please let me know, however, I am unaware that an agenda was correctly posted. I was supposed to get an agenda reminder for that from the Ms. Hammer or someone at the CPOA Office, and that didn't happen, and I didn't remember, either. So I think between the lack of need and the lack of posting of the agenda, it makes sense to cancel.

Thanks, -B

Subject: RE: Please register CPOA Staff for NACOLE at once
Date: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 9:11:02 AM

Dear Ms. Mohr:

Thank you for your email on Friday requesting that I register the CPOA Staff for the National Association of Civilian Oversight (NACOLE) Conference in Riverside, California from October 4 to 8, 2015. Before I address the specific allegations, I want to note my disappointment about the personal, non-business like nature of this and other recent correspondence.

Besides the incorrect nature of your allegations, the tone and broad dissemination of your email is difficult to comprehend. Why would you not call me or send a civil email first before sending it to the entire Police Oversight Board, the City Attorney, an Assistant City Attorney, the CPOA's contract attorney, and all members of the CPOA staff? Earlier on Friday morning, I was engaged in a business-like email dialog with Chair Waites and contract attorney Mr. Baker about this issue, trying to resolve the matter in the way that professionals solve problems. I'll address this point further, but to get to the issues:

You make several wrong accusations in your email, including the lack of need for me to consider the CPOA budget in making decisions about training the necessity of sending 16 members of the CPOA staff and Police Oversight Board to the NACOLE Conference; and my getting DOJ-approval for CPOA investigators to attend the NACOLE Conference.

A. Considerations Prior to Sending the CPOA Investigative Staff to NACOLE Conference

Prior to agreeing to send the four CPOA Investigators to the NACOLE Conference, I was awaiting approval from the DOJ Monitoring team, from either my earlier inquiries, or from the July 24, 2015 email you sent Assistant United States Attorney Elizabeth Martinez and Dr. Ginger and copied me on. I have not received any emails from you, DOJ staff or Dr. Ginger indicating whether your request has been approved.

The Department of Justice (DOJ) Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree mandates that the Investigators receive 40 hours of training by November 2015. (DOJ Settlement Agreement at ¶200). I have been told by several members of APD staff and the DOJ Monitoring team that the Federal Monitor or a team must approve those classes in advance.

When the DOJ Settlement Agreement was adopted in April 2015, I asked all members of the CPOA Investigative Staff for their suggestions regarding training that would help with them with becoming better investigators. Assistant Lead Investigator Skotchdopole suggested the Reid School course on Interviewing, a section of which will be held in Albuquerque. Investigator Diane McDermott suggested a four and a half-day training on conducting proper and effective administrative investigations, put on by the Daigle Law Group, and held in Connecticut. I believe that the current training budget would not permit the four CPOA Investigators to attend these two trainings and the NACOLE Conference. Perhaps with an abundance of caution, I have been seeking confirmation from the DOJ Monitor about which trainings they would approve as to the Court-ordered training.

Before receiving your email on Friday, August 7, earlier that morning POB Chair Leonard

Waites, attorney Mark Baker and I were engaged in a discussion regarding the status of the CPOA Investigative staff attending the NACOLE Conference. In my reply to Mr. Baker's inquiry, I noted that there was a finite budget for training and that I was waiting for approval from the DOJ from either your inquiry to Ms. Martinez and Dr. Ginger and/or my separate inquiries to the DOJ Monitoring team. Before spending the training budget on an expensive out-of-state conference, I wanted to confirm compliance with the Settlement Agreement requirements. I am concerned that we may run out of budget before required training is complete. I also indicated to Mr. Baker and Mr. Waites on Friday that I would be emailing Dan Giaquinto, the DOJ Monitoring Team member responsible for oversight of the CPOA, that same day to request he expedite the Monitoring Team's response to your email on the training issue. Immediately after receiving my email, Mr. Baker e-mailed Mr. Giaquinto, requesting the training approval, and copied me.

Monday morning Mr. Giaquinto emailed Mr. Baker, copying me, clarifying the Monitoring Team's position regarding training:

[The] CPOA does not need approval of monitoring team before sending investigators or other staff to training. What is necessary is that the training requirements of settlement agreement/consent decree as applied to CPOA be met by this or other training. To the extent possible if CPOA can send us information on the training up front for our review that would make your decision whether to engage in such training easier, but again we will not technically approve/disapprove of training. Conceivably CPOA can be involved in training that may not meet requirements of decree but would still be beneficial, and therefore that is a CPOA decision. We will scrutinize CPOA training efforts and related information in order to gauge compliance with applicable paragraphs of decree. I'm generally in office all this week except Friday if you wish to discuss.

Mr. Giaquinto seems to be stating that the CPOA Investigators may attend as many training sessions as the City is able and willing to send them to, and the Monitoring Team will let us know at some future date whether the training complies with the requirements of the Settlement Agreement. Because funds are finite, it important to select training that would qualify under the Settlement Agreement.

Regarding my concerns for the CPOA budget, there remains only $1,000 of the $23,000 increase in the training budget for CPOA personnel to attend the NACOLE conference. Eight Police Oversight Board (POB) members are set to attend the NACOLE Conference, at an average cost of approximately $2,000 each, for a total cost to the City of about $16,000. After they are hired, sending the Executive Director, Analyst and Outreach Coordinator to the NACOLE Conference will add another $6,000 to these costs, depending on when their airfare is purchased. While I have yet to receive confirmation for the total training budget from the City Department of Finance and Administration, if as you say City Council added $23,000 to the training budget for the NACOLE conference costs, $22,000 has been ear-marked for non-investigative staff and POB Members' travel costs.

It is my belief that it was not essential for the investigators to attend this year's NACOLE conference to assist with next years' conference preparation. Three of the four CPOA Investigators have previously attended the NACOLE Conference and have gone to many other conferences. If the CPOA Investigators missed this year's conference, it would not greatly impede their ability to assist in planning next year's conference. Right now 11 members of the CPOA are slated to attend the conference and certainly could provide 11 person's input into next year's conference.

As you know, some members of the Investigative Staff are not current with their investigative caseload. You have indicated that is another of your concerns. These investigators may not have time to assist with the planning of next year's NACOLE Conference if they ever hope to get current with their caseloads. My guess is that the Executive Director, Analyst and Outreach Coordinator, along with assistance from POB Members will be primarily responsible for the planning and execution of the NACOLE Conference.

I spoke with Chair Waites on Monday, explaining my concerns about sending the Investigative staff to the NACOLE Conference. Chair Waites acknowledged my concerns and stated that he would be willing to take the risk of not having funds in the current budget for future training and gamble on whether the DOJ Monitors would approve the conference. After speaking with Chair Waites, I agreed to begin the process with the City to send the CPOA Administrative Staff to the NACOLE Conference.

B. Communications and Effects on Management

As noted above, your email, like so many of your written communications to me, seems to have been written in anger, accusing me of not doing my job, and implying I am dishonest. And like many of your written communications, you appear to broadcast your derogatory comments to as many people as possible. Your attacks seem personal and go far beyond normal professional behavior. I don't understand why this is the way you choose to communicate with and about me.

Sending such messages to my staff has become especially problematic. You and some other Board members have communicated directly with them, and have hindered, if not totally undercut, my efforts to manage and supervise. You have helped create an environment which directly or indirectly tells staff any time they don't like a job assignment or something else about office management, they can go to you or another Board member. As an added incentive, they may even get copied on an insulting email to me like the one you sent Friday.

I am sure most Board members understand organizations and modern management practices and would never interfere with the day-to-day management of an office like that now going on at the Agency. That's why it is so bewildering that the Board lets some members meet privately with my staff, and give out work assignments without my knowledge, involvement or approval. Much of this activity is contrary to City personnel and Police Oversight ordinances. Once Board members started acting this way, quite quickly the office developed into an unproductive and hostile place to work.

You have engaged in other behavior to undercut me. You wrote a lengthy letter accusing me of possible crimes, bad motives, incompetence and threatening--again--to fire me. You sent it to Board Members, City employees, lawyers, DOJ attorneys, etc. I have also been made aware of other statements you have made publically attacking my integrity and work product, including speaking to on-duty police officers at a police briefing.

I think the aggressive letter of reprimand which was given to me with the 30-day deadline to complete all pending cases is an example of all these concerns. The tone is harsh, the criticism unfounded, and the remedy unrealistic – particularly in light of the message you and others have given to my staff. You have an idea what can and cannot be accomplished within 30 days, and you know that I would not be able to complete the task no matter how hard I tried. There was no legitimate basis for the completely arbitrary deadline.

You can see the effort I made to get the staff to meet your demands, and you can see the work that has been accomplished – at least by most. There is, however, no way the unreasonable and unrealistic deadline could be met.

I think this demand, along with all the other actions I've set out in this email, unfortunately just demonstrate the lack of good faith in your dealings with me. I assume you will try to use my not meeting this deadline as reason to take some further disciplinary action, perhaps even termination, but I assume somebody must see this effort for what it really is - pretext for the retaliatory actions you are taking against me.

Your actions and those of a few others reinforce my belief that my reporting violations of the Open Meetings Act law (which I was required to report under the City's Inspector General ordinance) and raising other concerns have caused an overwhelming retaliation - not just the illegitimate and unjustified reprimand, and the decision not to renew my contract, but also the hostile work environment those actions have created.

I realize these problems soon will be in my past, but this is the bed you are making for my successor. No manager can succeed in the current environment the Board is creating. I further hope the Board will take a look at the its failing management model and reform itself before the new Executive Director arrives.

Despite this, I am trying my absolute best to do a good job for the CPOA, the City and the community during my last weeks of work. I would appreciate it greatly if you could refrain from the heated rhetoric and continuing harassment so I may lead the administrative office until my departure.

Subject: Please register CPOA Staff for NACOLE at once

Ms. Hammer -

In the POB Personnel Subcommittee meeting, a recorded public meeting, we previously directed you to register the CPOA Staff for NACOLE. As I stated at that time, the reasons were two-fold, one was for staff training, the other and more important reason is because NACOLE will be coming to Albuquerque next year for their annual conference; the City and the CPOA will be hosting that event.

At that time, you stated on the record that you were only waiting for the DOJ to approve the training. I wrote the DOJ and requested that approval; it is my understanding that such approval was given, yet completely unnecessary.

Because NACOLE will be coming to Albuquerque in 2016, it is important that the permanent staff of the CPOA have developed relationships with NACOLE staff in order to be good hosts, as well as being adequately prepared to host the 2016 meeting. The City of Albuquerque has been trying to bring the NACOLE Conference to Albuquerque for 12 years now, and it is important that we be good hosts. It simply looks bad to have the entire CPOA agency staff shun the annual meeting the year prior to being hosts. This is a City of Albuquerque matter, having nothing to do with the DOJ.

Despite all this, which you had previously been told, and despite being directed yet again to register the staff, you failed to follow this direction. Your newest set of excuses include the previous excuse about the DOJ, as well as some notion that you have allegedly found some superior training for staff in Connecticut, along with your supposed concern for budgetary limitations.

There is more than adequate budget set aside for POB and staff training. Training budget existed in the original CPOA budget and issues papers, and City Council added another $23,000, at my request, specifically earmarked for NACOLE training. I am unaware that ANY of that budget has been expended; it should therefore be more than adequate for all the staff to attend NACOLE this year, in addition to any other training that the new Executive Director deems appropriate. If the POB needs to request additional funding from Council later during the 2016 fiscal year, the POB will address that as needed; that is a matter with which you need not concern yourself.

Unfortunately, because you failed to register staff at the time directed, the CPOA therefore missed both the "early bird registration deadline", and the "early member registration" deadline of July 31 for the CPOA staff; as a result of your actions the City will have to bear the additional cost of full-priced registration. That would have been a substantial savings for the City, instead that opportunity has been lost.

Neither your alleged concern for the quality of the staff's training, nor the DOJ's permission, nor your supposed budgetary concerns address the reason that it is so important for the CPOA staff to attend this year's NACOLE conference, which is that they will be the City's full-time permanent staff as the Agency hosts the 2016 NACOLE Conference.

Kindly register the CPOA staff for the NACOLE Conference at once, and report to the entire POB that you have complied with this direction prior to or at our meeting on Thursday, August 13th.

Thank-you for your cooperation.

Here's my understanding, for what it's worth...

The settlement agreement requires APD to send us (the board) any changes in their policy/procedures for review. It is my impression that this is what the Policies and Procedures committee was created to do. The past meeting, for example, was scheduled to review APD's new harassment/retaliation policy.

The rules and regulations committee was created before Mark was on board, and was set up to create the settlement agreement mandated rules and procedures for the Board hearing CPC's, etc. Mark is now handling that, so I'm not sure if this committee is necessary; however, I am still interested in being part of that review, whether through the committee or as part of the Board as a whole.

All: The enclosed document (same thing in PDF and Excel) is my proposal for consideration at tomorrow's Personnel Subcommittee meeting to help us select candidates to go on in the process.

I am NOT suggesting that we score people using any point system based on this as a rubric, this just is something I came up with based on NACOLE's qualifications for a civilian oversight executive, combined with our job description, combined with basic attributes that we all wish to have in any leader.

Samantha, if there is some legal reason that we cannot use something like this, without scoring people, please let me know ASAP.

The Personnel Subcommittee can decide not to use this, edit or alter it in any way, as you all see fit. I just wanted to have something for us to refer to as we discern which candidates belong in the Yes, Maybe or No piles.

Thanks much, -B

Thanks Susan

It may have not been secret to some but I saw nothing about it on TV or Journal-the reason for my e-mail to James Ginger. He may be a good guy but he knowingly is powerless under the agreement but he got his $4.5 million. Like these bogus $15K UNM run collaboratives, is this just more of the same City directed PR scams to pretend they really care what we say about APD?

I would have thought that the P&J folks would have put something out on it with those of us to the stop violence in abq address list.. What is Friday's agenda? Just an update by Ginger and Rickman or more?

Nothing has really changed for the better in APD since James Ginger and his fellow former cops in PMR Inc were hired and Greenwood rehired. APD still shoots people and don't release recordings. Now they are in an outrage that both Sandy and Perez were charged with murder. The smug two killers thought the judge would be intimidated-wouldn't have the guts to charge them.

Hope media picks up on P&J meeting Friday. Who is Steve Rickman? Who is this "someone" who asked Rickman to come? More divide and conquer tactics?

Seems like the Councilors couldn't care less whether APD reform ever occurs. Nobody even dared challenge the Mayor's $120+ million ART, his dictatorial position on even a changed version to the Fair Workweek Act, and the much needed ban on kids out at 2PM in the morning that Joline in Journal today tried to claim is somehow beyond a loving mother's control. Really?

Unlike allowing them to negotiate with their parents as equal decision makers, as Dianne Goodman said was necessary Monday in her/this new/misguided approach to parenting, good parents don't negotiate.

See also how a deputy city attorney I met with today somehow couldn't justify why the attendees at the collaboratives weren't in the $10K UNM reports and why I have to go to UNM to find out the qualifications of those who were their facilitators. Meanwhile Berry's new version of Dave Tourek-another Guv discard-Jessica Hernandez remains in hiding like her boss. She is another high paid City embarrassment!

APD's leadership beginning with those in the Mayor's office are like a cancer that we have been forced to live with too long. The DOJ agreement won't fix it.

Anyone bet that when Sandy and Perez go to trial that the jury will have enough courage to convict them? Not here! The jurors will be afraid of APD retaliation, just like the very few honest councilors.

Thanks

Silvio

P.S.

Below is what shadow Mayor Perry again looked like at Monday's Council meeting along with his protégé Jessica Hernandez. Do you think he has a drinking problem as does the District 9 Councilor who also shows up with a flushed red face?

Citizens want to believe the $4.5+ million of our taxes given you is being well spent. Yet there has been too much avoidance by you and your people of us who have been on the front lines in this reform effort. Just what are you doing with Scott Greenwood and Tom Streicher from Cincinnati whose paycheck is now at $650K? Why wasn't your secret planned meeting to be held Friday at the Peace and Justice Center publicized? What is agenda? Is it just another PR scam/stunt like the tax-wasting $15K City/UNM run outreach collaboratives? At one of these outreach collaboratives one speaker at Monday's Council meeting confirmed they were indeed scams and mentioned a talk by an APD cop attendee who berated citizens saying we must accommodate APD-not the opposite. He also said APD didn't need the DOJ or you here. They could reform themselves. A former San Diego police officer sitting on the Police Oversight Board-POB is now trying to justify making a former Milwaukee police officer (who is clueless about Albuquerque and the oversight process) to be the new Executive Director of the new police oversight agency-POA. What else is new? We continued to get stonewalled on NM IPRA requests and seemingly you don't care. No police recordings-no accountability. The murder of James Boyd was the only exception and that recording likely leaked out. The media continues to give credibility to another embarrassing/disgraceful police officer-APD union VP Willoughby who was outraged as was attorney "Saul" Bregman that the judge yesterday. Judge Candelaria properly ignored all of the lying and other BS thrown at him by the killer cops' attorneys and their paid to lie "experts" defending Perez and Sandy who murdered homeless camper James Boyd. This was the first APD officer ever charged here in 50 years despite the APD bloodbath that has been going on first under Schultz and now under the incompetent Eden. See Willoughby's beliefs in the attachment. As a former cop, are you part of the solution or part of the problem? We wonder.

Dear Ms. Mohr,

Thanks for your email. I can understand the Board's frustration regarding the timing of the selection of the Executive Director - it does seem as though it has taken a long time to get to this point. The Council is aware of, and certainly appreciates the dedicated efforts of the POB in reviewing and recommending candidates for the Director position.

The City Council would have received the Board's recommendations for the Director at its August 3rd meeting, but the recommendation was not transmitted to the City Council until August 10th. Thus, the Council could not have taken up this issue on August 3rd. When the Council received the Board's recommendations, Council President Garduño initially gave permission for the recommendations to be placed on the Council agenda for "immediate action" on August 17th, and that was communicated to Mark Baker as well as to some members of the Board.

Since then, however, based on comments from multiple City Councilors, President Garduño has determined that the Council needs additional time to review the recommendations of the Board and an opportunity to meet with the candidates personally. An additional three weeks of consideration at the end of a five-month process is not excessive, and the additional time is a reflection of how important the Council feels this appointment is.

Council staff has informed all the candidates of the President's decision, and they all expressed a desire to attend the September 9th Council meeting. Indeed, I'm told that they all have already made travel arrangements to do so, so that they can discuss their candidacies with the Council.

As far as an "agreement" that the Council would respect the Board's first choice and select that candidate for the position, you know that deliberative public bodies such as the Police Oversight Board and the City Council do not make decisions such as that outside of a public meeting. And they certainly do not make, nor should they be expected to make, tacit agreements regarding public decisions.

The Police Oversight Ordinance provides for the POB to "review the applications and interview candidates, and submit to the City Council a ranked list of the three candidates that it finds to be the best qualified to be the Director" and for the City Council to "appoint the Director from the three by majority vote." [Emphasis added]. Of course, the City Council will give great credence to the ranking of the Board and to the opinion of the Board regarding the candidate that it finds to be the best qualified to be the Director. Ultimately, though, the Council will make its choice in an open meeting after deliberation and discussion.

Police Oversight Board Members,

City Council President Rey Garduño has decided to introduce OC-15-25, Selection of the Executive Director of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency, at the City Council meeting on Monday, August 17th and hold it over to the following City Council meeting on September 9th for Final Action.

President Garduño understands the urgency in filling this position, but wants to ensure that the Council has adequate time for each Councilor to review each candidate's material and possibly meet with them. Councilor Garduño also wants to allot enough time for the candidates to arrange their schedules to attend the City Council meeting and be available to answer any questions from City Councilors.

President Garduño appreciates the diligent work of the Police Oversight Board on this issue and he understands the importance of the position, however, he also wants to ensure the Council makes the right decision in order to continue to move civilian oversight in Albuquerque in the right direction.

Thank you for your thoughtful note. To be clear, we were told that though we had met extra times in July and had significantly shortened our time line so we could have the information available for Council review at their Aug 3rd meeting, that the Council would not be including our work product on their agenda until Aug 17th. So, to now hear otherwise is indeed frustrating, Sir.

There is not a single member of the POB who is not clear that the selection is the choice of the Council and that that selection is significantly important to the work we are all collectively committed to doing. We hope that our diligent efforts are valued by the Council as they make their final selection.

We all look forward to moving the needle on improving the relationship between the people of Albuquerque and the Albuquerque Police Department. Let's get going and avoid any future delays.

Sincerely,

Police Oversight Board Members,

City Council President Rey Garduño has decided to introduce OC-15-25, Selection of the Executive Director of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency, at the City Council meeting on Monday, August 17th and hold it over to the following City Council meeting on September 9th for Final Action.

President Garduño understands the urgency in filling this position, but wants to ensure that the Council has adequate time for each Councilor to review each candidate's material and possibly meet with them. Councilor Garduño also wants to allot enough time for the candidates to arrange their schedules to attend the City Council meeting and be available to answer any questions from City Councilors.

President Garduño appreciates the diligent work of the Police Oversight Board on this issue and he understands the importance of the position, however, he also wants to ensure the Council makes the right decision in order to continue to move civilian oversight in Albuquerque in the right direction.

Thank you,

I thought your POB did this review at their executive session without the public following your last meeting. Since current EO Robin Hammer was not interviewed, I assume she is not being considered for the job.

Your selection is a no-brainer. After the interviews of the five only Jay Rowland is qualified- demonstrated any knowledge of what this job requires, what are the issues ("Garrity" Supreme Court ruling and others) in having credible police accountability- and not having the Agency be a sham again. APD is likely afraid of Jay.

Another "closed discussion?". Why? Only Jay's name should be sent to the Council. Don't let them pick someone else that is unqualified but will do APD's and the Mayor's bidding.

"Residents spearhead change in APD Community policing councils provide

M004715

new suggestions-updated 7:12 AM MDT Jul 27, 2015

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. —A major overhaul is in full swing for Albuquerque police. Last year, the Department of Justice found APD had a pattern of deadly force and ordered several changes, including a push for APD to be more community-oriented. To Michael Mora, that means, "doing more within the neighborhood." APD agreed, so it created what's called "community policing councils" across the city to find out what people think the department needs to change. Police said residents have already come up with some pretty interesting ideas." Just "interesting"? How about more than just interesting ideas like APD not editing and releasing full recordings of officers acts of excessive force including shootings rather than stonewalling NM IPRA requests? How about holding the far too many bad cops and their bad leadership accountable by charging and firing them? How about giving the citizens' Police Oversight Board real power? How about putting meaningful information into the current meaningless reports issued by Robin Hammer for the new Police Oversight Agency? Today's Journal article documenting the $13k taxpayers spent to send not one-but four Cultural Services employees to an April Jazz Fest in New Orleans while running up lavish expenditures there that was first reported in a April or May KRQE story-a trip the four failed to report. Today's article also mentions two trips by Councilor Benton to attend conferences on civilian oversight-I assume the meetings were hosted by NACOLE. Apparently no changes to our weak oversight process resulted from those conferences after he came back. How about putting dash-cams back in APD vehicles. Mayor Chavez had them removed after they captured too much incriminating information shown on the "COPS" TV show that he also banned? How about clarifying the limitations of "privileged immunity" for officers really means? How about clarifying the limited protections offered officers by the 1967 Garrity vs. Supreme Court ruling as the DOJ did following their investigation of the Seattle PD. See page 1 of their letter attached. How about implementing the changes proposed by APD Forward in the Amicus Curiae sent to Judge Brack on 1/14/15 that Brack ignored? See page 1 attached "First, people said they thought the tint on some APD patrol cars was too dark. "You can't see the police officer inside," said Albuquerque resident Robert Page. He said when you can't see the officer inside, it's hard to get to know who is patrolling the neighborhood."You know, you can't wave or smile at them, you have no idea and you miss that chance to interact," said APD spokesperson Celina Espinoza." APD officer Celina Espinoza who was interviewed has thus far been an embarrassing spokesperson for APD as has Tanner Tixier-the former partner/accomplice of trigger happy and never make recordings cop Jeremy Dear in the murder of Mary Hawkes. We are getting tired of hearing from both. "So APD measured the tints on all their car windows. It actually found some were too dark, so those windows are being fixed at the officers' expense. Why were the window tinted by the officers in the first place-something known by their leadership? "Another suggestion had to do with the department motto on the cars. Instead of "In Step With Our Community," residents requested "To Protect and Serve. APD officials said they think that's a "pretty good idea" too so the motto will change on the vehicles next year." Why wait until next year? I suggested this change numerous times to APD beginning in 2011. Previously all APD vehicles had "To Protect and Serve" on them but this was changed. Many believe because of their oppressive blue code of silence that punishes honest officers, the only "Community" APD has been in step with has been their own-the reason for the DOJ investigation. Further the new almost black $40K Dodge Charger low reliability muscle cars don't even have a slogan on them. Any slogan means nothing if only there for PR purposes if APD ignores it-doesn't walk the talk. I also recommended why did APD not keep all of the APD cars white as were those earlier vehicles bought? At a Council meeting SW Mesa leader Louie Tafoya was also openly critical of the change to the black color but like me was ignored. Was the old white color not deemed intimidating enough by then Chief Schulz? "So while the top brass make a lot of huge reforms," What "huge reforms"? "the department wants you to know the little things matter, too." "We can't transform the community ourselves," said Espinoza. APD'S job is not to transform the community but to transform themselves and now serve and protect the community.

Some added comments-questions.

It seems kind of late to invite we-the people to now "collaborate" after the words of the DOJ agreement defining its limitations and the limitations of the monitoring team have already been put in concrete. Not stated by you are the specific goals, what is the agenda and just what powers this "action planning session" of the Albuquerque Collaborative on Police Community Relations really has.

You mention 22 community dialogues already held. I'm not aware of any of them but only one public meeting hosted by Dr. James Ginger.

Shouldn't the city website post the minutes of these 22 dialogues? Just what is to be determined during these Community Education, APD/Community Communication & Collaboration sessions?

More importantly, to what extent with this third group have any real influence over any "improvements to APD" since it was made quite clear to all including our City Councilors that the monitoring team PMR Inc. work for only those in the DOJ and Federal Judge Brack and have no obligation to listen to the Councilors or we-the people who they are supposed to represent.

The Councilors have been willing bystanders in the whole reform process thus far and have essentially ignored what changes to APD we have demanded.

Nor is consultant Scott Greenwood-and if still involved, his partner Tom Streicher obligated to comply with our demands but only to the wishes of the Mayor who contracted for their work over our objections.

Further, will local NAACP boss-now another of the Mayor's consultants- Harold Bailey be involved and if so, how?

It begs a question of skeptics like me whether this is just another Mayor Berry public relations ploy to give the illusion of real citizen involvement in the reform.

As the saying goes-fool me once-shame on you. Fool me twice-shame on me.

More specifics/details are needed Annabelle. I'm sure you have them to prove we will not be wasting our time if we choose to volunteer.

Thank you

Annabelle

I did a cursory review of the lengthy UNM document posted on the website regarding Phase I effort that allegedly began on October 27, 2014 and lasted until June 6, 2015.

This Collaborative study directed by the City Council (who unfortunately thus far has shown no real interest in real reform and involvement in the negotiation process with the DOJ), was seemingly assigned/contracted to the wrong people-your office and to UNM.

Much like tasking some unqualified but apparently needing work researchers at UNM to do a study on proper use of APD recorders that apparently has not yet been completed, it is questionable now that the good folks at UNM's Institute of Social Research had any more competence in evaluating just what were the key priorities in police reform are here.

Note in the charts in this Phase I report that that police accountability 3.4% and administrative /leadership changes-4.5% and transparency-3.1% were given low priorities although these are the key elements in any police reform. It demonstrates the UNM facilitators lack of knowledge.

A lot of taxpayers' dollars could have been saved on the APD recorder study by merely adopting the policies in Rialto, California or in an another US city where SOPs were in place and there was zero tolerance on rogue officers like killer cop Jeremy Dear and his partner Tanner Tixier who don't record.

UNM has never been involved in offering reform remedies, thus, as this Phase I study document shows, those from UNM running it clearly lacked the expertise in evaluating what's are the real problems and solutions.

We who have been deeply involved since the APD bloodbath that began in earnest under our still in hiding-MIA Mayor Berry and Chief Schultz know the tough decisions that have to be made to clean up the cesspool in APD. Chief Eden has no clue or is unwilling to do any reform.

As asked for no names of participants during the Phase I effort are listed in the report. It appears that much like the earlier APD recorder study given to UNM, this $150,000 one was just a reward for UNM's support of the Mayor's "Innovate ABQ" and did not seek the most qualified people to do this community outreach effort.

UNM recently embarrassed itself when first firing outspoken APS Board member Kathy Korte for daring to criticize-call a well connected NM legislator a traitor for betraying his and her constituents and her criticism of the Governor's seemingly questionable APS testing policy. Kathy had to be shut up and every effort done to make sure she was not re-elected. The power brokers succeeded.

Further the UNM Law School's acceptance of an APD (screw around on his wife) fired APD cop with a checkered past that included escaping a murder charge of his wife and his alleged false claims of a his stolen truck found in Mexico with his keys also showed where UNM's leadership lies and it's not with the people. This was also disappointing to all.

We citizens would have been better served if honest retired APD officers like Dan Klein, Tom Grover, Paul Heh, Sam Costales and others were contracted to conduct these 22 sparsely attended "dialogues" many scheduled during working hours. They knew where the skeletons in APD were.

This outreach effort was modeled after those done in Cincinnati where it took seven long years after the DOJ's investigation of their police department to accomplish any meaningful reform.

Why would anyone except the naïve volunteer to serve on this next Albuquerque Collaborative on Police Community Relations Phase 2 Event 2 Action Planning effort?

A reading of your referenced Phase One Report seems to confirm that nothing meaningful will come from their efforts. Sorry for my skepticism. I won't be part of this charade!

Info those shown and not shown including many neighborhood leaders. I await your response to my questions below.

Related to this matter was last night's story by KOAT's reporter Megan Cruz below showing that those interviewed mentioned only superficial-merely "interesting" proposed changes. My comments to it are highlighted below.

Among the info I asked for below is just who were those involved in these "22 dialogues" that you mentioned in your invite below? You should have a record of them and when they occurred

I await your response. Thank you

"Residents spearhead change in APD Community policing councils provide new suggestions-updated 7:12 AM MDT Jul 27, 2015

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. —A major overhaul is in full swing for Albuquerque police. Last year, the Department of Justice found APD had a pattern of deadly force and ordered several changes, including a push for APD to be more community-oriented. To Michael Mora, that means, "doing more within the neighborhood." APD agreed, so it created what's called "community policing councils" across the city to find out what people think the department needs to change. Police said residents have already come up with some pretty interesting ideas." Just "interesting"? How about more than just interesting ideas like APD not editing and releasing full recordings of officers acts of excessive force including shootings rather than stonewalling NM IPRA requests? How about holding the far too many bad cops and their bad leadership accountable by charging and firing them? How about giving the citizens' Police Oversight Board real power? How about putting meaningful information into the current meaningless reports issued by Robin Hammer for the new Police Oversight Agency? Today's Journal article documenting the $13k taxpayers spent to send not one-but four Cultural Services employees to an April Jazz Fest in New Orleans while running up lavish expenditures there that was first reported in a April or May KRQE story-a trip the four failed to report. Today's article also mentions two trips by Councilor Benton to attend conferences on civilian oversight-I assume the meetings were hosted by NACOLE. Apparently no changes to our weak oversight process resulted from those conferences after he came back. How about putting dash-cams back in APD vehicles. Mayor Chavez had them removed after they captured too much incriminating information shown on the "COPS" TV show that he also banned? How about clarifying the limitations of "privileged immunity" for officers really means? How about clarifying the limited protections offered officers by the 1967 Garrity vs. Supreme Court ruling as the DOJ did following their investigation of the Seattle PD. See page 1 of their letter attached. How about implementing the changes proposed by APD Forward in the Amicus Curiae sent to Judge Brack on 1/14/15 that Brack ignored? See page 1 attached "First, people said they thought the tint on some APD patrol cars was too dark. "You can't see the police officer inside," said Albuquerque resident Robert Page. He said when you can't see the officer inside, it's hard to get to know who is patrolling the neighborhood. "You know, you can't wave or smile at them, you have no idea and you miss that chance to interact," said APD spokesperson Celina Espinoza." APD officer Celina Espinoza who was interviewed has thus far been an embarrassing spokesperson for APD as has Tanner Tixier-the former partner/accomplice of trigger happy and never make recordings cop Jeremy Dear in the murder of Mary Hawkes. We are getting tired of hearing from both. "So APD measured the tints on all their car windows. It actually found some were too dark, so those windows are being fixed at the officers' expense. Why were the window tinted by the officers in the first place-something known by their leadership? "Another suggestion had to do with the department motto on the cars. Instead of "In Step With Our Community," residents requested "To Protect and Serve. APD officials said they think that's a "pretty good idea" too so the motto will change on the vehicles next year." Why wait until next year? I suggested this change numerous times to APD beginning in 2011. Previously all APD vehicles had "To Protect and Serve" on them but this was changed. Many believe because of their oppressive blue code of silence that punishes honest officers, the only "Community" APD has been in step with has been their own-the reason for the DOJ investigation. Further the new almost black $40K Dodge Charger low reliability muscle cars don't even have a slogan on them. Any slogan means nothing if only there for PR purposes if APD ignores it-doesn't walk the talk. I also recommended why did APD not keep all of the APD cars white as were those earlier vehicles bought? At a Council meeting SW Mesa leader Louie Tafoya was also openly critical of the change to the black color but like me was ignored. Was the old white color not deemed intimidating enough by then Chief Schulz? "So while the top brass make a lot of huge reforms," What "huge reforms"? "the department wants you to know the little things matter, too." "We can't transform the community ourselves," said Espinoza. APD'S job is not to transform the community but to transform themselves and now serve and protect the community.

Annabelle

Some added comments-questions.

It seems kind of late to invite we-the people to now “collaborate” after the words of the DOJ agreement defining its limitations and the limitations of the monitoring team have already been put in concrete. Not stated by you are the specific goals, what is the agenda and just what powers this “action planning session” of the Albuquerque Collaborative on Police Community Relations really has.

You mention 22 community dialogues already held. I’m not aware of any of them but only one public meeting hosted by Dr. James Ginger.

Shouldn’t the city website post the minutes of these 22 dialogues? Just what is to be determined during these Community Education, APD/Community Communication & Collaboration sessions?

More importantly, to what extent with this third group have any real influence over any “improvements to APD” since it was made quite clear to all including our City Councilors that the monitoring team PMR Inc. work for only those in the DOJ and Federal Judge Brack and have no obligation to listen to the Councilors or we-the people who they are supposed to represent.

The Councilors have been willing bystanders in the whole reform process thus far and have essentially ignored what changes to APD we have demanded.

Nor is consultant Scott Greenwood-and if still involved, his partner Tom Streicher obligated to comply with our demands but only to the wishes of the Mayor who contracted for their work over our objections.

Further, will local NAACP boss-now another of the Mayor’s consultants- Harold Bailey be involved and if so, how?

It begs a question of skeptics like me whether this is just another Mayor Berry public relations ploy to give the illusion of real citizen involvement in the reform.

As the saying goes-fool me once-shame on you. Fool me twice-shame on me.

More specifics/details are needed Annabelle. I’m sure you have them to prove we will not be wasting our time if we choose to volunteer.

Thank you

Joanne,

We have just been informed by APD Audio-Visual staff that they are tied up filming a week-long DOJ-mandated training for APD and will not have our video ready until close of business on Tuesday, July 14. We could mail you the video on Tuesday or if you prefer, you could pick it up next time you're near downtown. Let us know what works for you.

Thanks,

See my September 6 e-mail-attached and one sent you today on the fox.

Do we need yet another former cop (fox) this time from Milwaukee chosen to guard the hen house Wednesday?

Only one of the three final candidates-Jay Rowland is credible. Don't make the oversight process any more of a sham than it already is.

Subject: FW: Permitting the foxes to guard the hen house. Will it be more of the same at Wednesday's Council meeting? Bill OC-15-25

TO: All

Haven't the DOJ, Judge Brack and Berry insulted us enough by hiring foxes (former police officers) to stonewall any real APD reform?

THE FOXES NOW GUARDING THE HEN HOUSE

Who were the ones negotiating on behalf of us citizens with the DOJ? None other than Cincinnati's liar to the Council on needed police oversight ordinance changes-Scott Greenwood and his partner former police chief Tom Streicher whose Cincinnati PD was also investigated by the DOJ.

Who do we have as the DOJ's and Judge Brack's assigned toothless "auditors" of APD reform? They are mostly retired cops in PMR Inc. who only report to the Judge once a year and the DOJ and not to us.

Who is now the Police Oversight Board's (POB) first choice to be the next Executive Director (EO) of the new citizens Police Oversight Agency (POA)? It's a clueless former Milwaukee cop Edward Harness that the Council will likely approve at its September 9 Council meeting-Bill # OC-15-25.

LACK OF RESPECT FOR US AND DUE DILIGENCE BY THE COUNCIL

The Councilors never bothered to review the outstanding resumes of the 40+ other outstanding candidates for the APD Police Chief's job before blessing Berry's choice-the unqualified Eden.

Have any of the Councilors now taken the time to review the Gov TV broadcasted (and also YouTube sent to them by me) interviews with these three nominated POB candidates for the Agency's Important Executive Director's (ED) position?

The video would show that this former Milwaukee cop Edward Harness was clueless-only a master of doubletalk. Ed said that he believed a cop's life was much more important to save than that of any citizen.

Apparently the Journal's Editorial Board shares this belief parroting the recent words of an embarrassing former Schultz Commander-now US Marshal Conrad Candelaria at a recent police officers' "heroes" luncheon.

Candelaria and the recent editorial called for all killings of cops here-a rare occurrence in NM to now be deemed hate crimes. That will be the subject of another of my e-mails soon.

FORMER COP HARNESS JUST ANOTHER FOX

The posted Council resumes of all three ED nominees also showed that that the only references listed by Harness except for one, were senior police officers. Harness would further say in his resume that police have a "special place in our society"-are not mere public servants here hired to serve and protect us.

After the first public meeting with the interviews of five candidates, with only one public speaker-Alan Wagman there, the POB could have made an easy decision during their three hour + closed door executive session and only send the name of Jay Rowland to the Council.

Jay showed that having been in the job clearly understood how a good oversight process works including the much required limitations of the Supreme Court's "Garrity vs. NJ" ruling on compelled officer statements. The DOJ report to the Seattle Mayor made these limitations on "Garrity" very clear.

POB STILL NOT INDEPENDENT AND NOT SERVING US

Instead the POB members apparently were told to check first with the Mayor, CAO Perry and APD Chief all of whom the last IRO/then interim EO Robin Hammer worked for-according to a written memo by former Berry/Perry personal City attorney Dave Tourek.

Clearly these ethically corrupt three only wanted this former cop Harness, who like Robin Hammer, would continue to make the entire citizen oversight process a sham.

Was the Council ever surveyed on their preferred ED? They seem to be part of the problem. Their first actions after the new oversight agency was formed would be to ignore most of their January 2014 recommendations of the police oversight task force based on the lies told them by Greenwood claiming what he recommended represented that of the DOJ.

The Council later then tried to further limit the Agency's powers.

So after the second POB meeting was held with not even one citizen showing up to speak-all of us finally disgusted with the POB, former cop Harness not surprisingly became their first choice.

Former retired San Diego cop Beth Mohr who ran the ED selection interviews for the Chairman would then try to defend to the media their selection of her fellow retired cop Harness with some insulting B.S.

OVERSIGHT AGENCY STAFF ALREADY A PROBLEM AND INTERNAL AFFAIRS A SICK JOKE

The new Police Oversight Agency already has a senior former pro-bad APD cop biased Belen cop as one of its investigators. The two other POA investigators' previous jobs were at Lowe's and Target.

APD's Internal Affairs investigations of Citizen Police Complaints are also shams as they always lie when doing their investigations.

Even APD cops are allowed to review video recordings before making their statements. No incriminating videos are ever released to the public or POB.

A NO-BRAINER DECISION

Only the POB's second choice former IRO Jay Rowland was even qualified for the ED job. Jay was apparently deemed too experienced/committed to the citizens and POB and far too honest for APD and the Mayor.

Those on the POB should be ashamed of themselves. Any with self respect should resign as three honest POC members did when Tourek make his disgraceful proclamation in 2013 that they were powerless.

The Council's selection of Harness would be yet another insulting fox being asked to guard the hen house and further disrespect us.

Disgusted-as are many here

Debra

I recall being at a late 2013 Council meeting where Ken Sanchez had asked the IG after the revelation of the deal/greased contract was revealed in the Eye on Albuquerque blog and other sources. Apparently he changed his mind when writing the 2014 letter to your office. IG Peter Pacheco was the one asked about the progress of his investigation-not you in 2014 and 2015 and he sat on it.

If I'm wrong and Ken said that in 2014 and then wrote the letter, is your office waiting until 2015 REALLY "expediting" this audit? Why wasn't IG Pacheco also involved as his office was created to address possible criminal behavior by city employees?

Keeping the IG office toothless, the Mayor would contract out most of the IG work to his special contracted investigators/secret police-RCI-likely campaign contributors. He/RCI also went after an honest IG Neftali Carrasquillo who got fed up and resigned.

Ken Sanchez likes to pontificate in front of the media pretending he really cares/wants change but that's just political posturing. Most intelligent people knows what a weak/publicity hound Councilor this man really is. Some in our movement for change have even called his a B.S. artist.

After the TASERGATE revelations, the other Councilors asked the NM auditor Hector Balderas to do it but he apparently sat on it while in office and Tim Keller later did it.

WHITEWASH

Your audit focuses only on the alleged secret "pilot" program-limited buy to test the AXONs on TASER's-his future employer's behalf so Schultz can help market these costly cameras to other police forces-something Schultz would do with his Cincinnati buddies Streicher and Greenwood later.

In a magnanimous gesture, TASER Inc. who refused to discuss-had "no comment" on their deal with Schultz has been likely bribing police chiefs throughout the country and hiring them, now decided to stop doing it for just a year.

Aside from the AXON recordings being hard to erase, they were far more expensive than the 1100 "Scorpion" cameras APD bought in 2010 and 2011. The AXONs were also tied to TASER's proprietary software and the $1.9 million included that software support for five years.

As you know APD sent cop Jeremy Dear's camera back to TASER trying to have them come back with Deputy Chief Roseman claiming a cable broke loose -the reason that there were no recordings made of Dear's murder of Mary Hawkes.

Ignored was the fact that Dear's accomplice Tanner Tixier also failed to record-yet bad cop Tixier is still Eden's PIO. Deputy Chief Bill Roseman -another PIO was sent out by Eden to lie to protect Dear.

Other police departments chose cameras made by other companies because their honest (unlike here) police chiefs likely refused to be bribed by TASER and the promised jobs with them later.

Rather than this forced amended report cited below, I would have liked to see your original report that was likely very damning. But the Mayor wouldn't allow it.

EARLIER COVER-UPS

I appreciated your support of me in 2002 and 2003 when two others and I who sat on the Albuquerque Citizens' Team-ACT exposed the corruption-likely pay to play in the DFCS-run HUD funded housing rehabilitation program that subsequently led to a HUD audit and corrective actions.

Like your audit of TASERGATE, nobody was ever punished for that because the local HUD representative was implicated-looked the other way and his daughter was hired by the DFCS in another pay to play. Afterwards the then District 2/downtown Councilor had a resolution passed creating the new IG office first under your office and later allegedly it was made independent which it still isn't.

After my Councilor Greg Payne honored me with a plaque in January 2003 for writing most of the secret 30 page report to HUD in Washington DC, another writer and me of the secret investigation report were retaliated against/both removed from the ACT in late 2003 by Mayor Chavez and former APD Captain-my new City Councilor Craig Loy and the District 7 Councilor.

The third author of it resigned from the ACT in disgust. No good deed here goes unpunished.

Your audit that focuses on this phony pilot program and not how it was later used to justify the eventual $1.9 million award to TASER. You attempted to describe this corruption as merely "an opportunity to strengthen its controls" or in APS terms as merely a teaching moment. REALLY? No punishments of Schultz was deemed warranted as he might sue-something that would implicate the Mayor.

DO MORE AUDITS

Suggest you audit the unjustified Schultz buy of the Dodge Chargers, the rigged contract to Streicher and Greenwood, the rigged contract award to Planning Department boss Suzanne Lubar's former employer-Paul Silverman/Geltmore for the four story apartment complex called merely a grocery store, the rigged award to uPublic rather than lower cost incumbent Quote-Unquote for the public TV. The Mayor won't allow you to do any of this.

Much of your tips for audits come from postings on the Eye on Albuquerque and the ABQ Free Press and other sources-not the Berry Journal.

As I said, this is the most corrupt administration in the city's history and the Mayor and Perry likely say to you and other employees-like it or leave.

Regards

Silvio

For WE THE PEOPLE

P.S.

All of this is no different than Brad Winter likely convincing the APS police to not charge buddy Tom Knauber for trying to frame Sandia HS basketball coach Alvin Broussard. See Journal today.

Likely, the Mayor tells all just forget about all this corruption and go skate on his new skating rink downtown or look at the clock and big chair on the Plaza-but forget about the corruption.

Ms. Yoshimura

Below is the first page of your amended audit report regarding former Chief Schultz's illegal actions regarding his eventual no-bid purchase of $1.9 million of TASER Inc. body cameras and five years of proprietary software support from employer TASER Inc-something that occurred in 2013 while Schultz was still on the City's payroll-a blatant conflict of interest contract by Schultz who said it was "greased" by the Mayor.

This egregious action by Schultz with the Mayor's "help-"greasing" is now essentially being swept under the rug-as are all of the other illegal or unjustified no-bid or rigged contracts that rip off us taxpayers.

The other question is why was Councilor Sanchez willing to wait for over 18 months for any IG or Internal audit to be done and why weren't any of the other Councilors concerned? Afraid of retaliation by APD?

Yet no recommended actions are to be pursued against Schultz-only since "APD was charged $25,243 for overlapping Evidence.com services associated with the Pilot Purchase from August 15, 2013 to March 27, 2014 and should request a refund from TASER."

This corrective action is an insult to the sensibilities of all of us taxpayers and yet is another example of the culture of corruption that permeates this Berry administration I guess your hands are tied and both your office and that of the IG's should be viewed by us taxpayers as just toothless window dressing for Berry to give the illusion of internal controls.

Was the Mayor's also likely "greased" hiring of the newly formed in 2013 Greenwood-Streicher consulting company at fellow TASER Inc. employee Schultz's urging for initially $70,000 intentionally kept under the Council's approval limit also deemed just a pilot programs knowing there would be another $680,000 to be given to the two?

While Schultz headed APD there were many other unjustified no-bid multi-million dollar contracts. One was millions to a local Dodge dealership for their knowingly low reliable Dodge Charger muscle cars for $40,000 each that included a clearly needed maintenance contract with Melloy. These Chargers even had emissions leaking into its cab that had to be recalled and corrected.

Was seller Melloy Dodge a big campaign contributor to the Mayor and/or Councilors in a pay to play?

While other police forces were wisely buying the highly reliable Chevrolet Impalas that apparently to Schultz didn't have the fearsome/intimidating look of the primarily black Dodge Chargers, these Chevrolet Impalas automobiles were apparently not even considered even as part of a small pilot program. Was the local Chevrolet dealer also on the State's GSA list unwilling to pay to play?

I hope the media including KRQE's Larry Barker picks up and pursues this.

Background

Albuquerque City Councilor Ken Sanchez (Councilor Sanchez) requested an audit (IN FACT HE REQUESTED AN IG INVESTIGATION) of the Albuquerque Police Department's (APD) body-worn camera procurement process.

Councilor Sanchez stated that it was his understanding that the contract was awarded on a "no-bid" basis and there have been concerns expressed about the relationship between TASER International (TASER) and APD's top management.

Based on these concerns, Councilor Sanchez asked the Office of Internal Audit (OIA) (AGAIN-SANCHEZ REQUESTED AN IG INVESTIGATION) to "conduct a thorough and detailed audit of the entirety of the procurement process leading up to the signing of the TASER contract."

APD's direct relationship with TASER began in 2007, when the City contracted directly with TASER for the purchase of electronic control devices and ancillary products. Beginning in October 2012, APD performed testing and evaluation of TASER's camera products and services, including the Axon Flex cameras. The products for that testing were supplied by TASER at no cost to APD. (NOBODY WAS EVER INFORMED OF THIS)

Findings

APD's initial purchase (Pilot Purchase) from TASER, for the pilot test of 75 Axon Flex body-worn cameras and Evidence.com data storage services, was made on March 27, 2013. This $106,855 purchase did not comply with the City of Albuquerque's (City) competitive procurement process. APD personnel bypassed purchasing regulations and approvals and compromised the integrity of the procurement process. They neglected their responsibilities as government employees to determine the Department's specific needs and then initiate a competitive procurement process to get the best product at the lowest price.

The Pilot Purchase was then used as the basis for justifying the non-competitive purchase of Evidence.com and associated products on September 30, 2013. The non-competitive procurement was processed as an "Other Exempt Purchase (OEP)" and totaled $1.9 million.

The City signed TASER's standard services contract, with a few modifications, for the OEP purchase. By signing TASER's services contract, five mandated clauses that limit risk to the City and allow independent contract oversight are excluded from the $1.9 million contract.

APD's Former Chief of Police entered into a contractual relationship with TASER in October 2013, while on early retirement, and still technically employed by the City. The Former Chief continued to serve as a contractor after his official retirement date of December 31, 2013. City employees are prohibited from representing businesses in connection with matters in which they performed official acts, for one year after retirement.

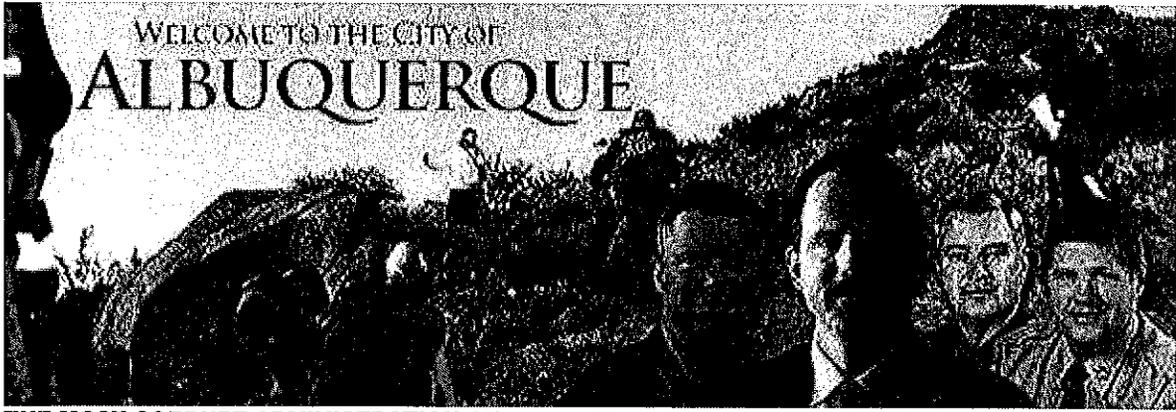

The Former Chief's contract with TASER may have ???violated the Ordinance. In addition, other APD personnel accepted meals, travel, and lodging from TASER. APD personnel also solicited sponsorship donations from TASER. The acceptance of meals and other gratuities, and the solicitation of funds from vendors are not consistent with City conflict of interest regulations.

APD was charged $25,243 for overlapping Evidence.com services associated with the Pilot Purchase from August 15, 2013 to March 27, 2014 and should request a refund from TASER.

Really? My comments were dismissed by you as merely "horrid comparisons" between your selective choice of the families of the victims of mentally ill John Hyde and the many, many victims of APD's "death squads"? You added that my comment was a "low blow and extremely thoughtless to people who don't deserve your rage." My "rage"? Really?

Berry's election and re-election led to all the deplorable situation here that or don't you see the correlation?

That was my point-or did you intentionally choose to ignore it?

What about those hundreds of grieving family and friends of those killed by APD including the mentally ill including those with PTSD without any of the trigger-happy APD officers ever being held accountable?

Did you ever see death first hand or smell burning bodies of our real heroes-our combat vets? I have. How many grieving families of those vets who return from war with PTSD do you write/care about?

Specifically, how about the grieving family of homeless African American and fellow Vietnam vet Vincent Wood who came back from that horrible war with PTSD? He was murdered by APD in 2013 with his two killer cops never held responsible because the DA won't release the incriminating recordings made-recordings I first asked for using the IPRA over two years ago? Still no compliance.

Are the grieving families of James Boyd, a homeless and also mentally ill person that two cops murdered in March 2014 also not as important?

This was all part of Berry's legacy or are you-like your irresponsible editorial board members there unwilling to blame Berry for anything?

I meant no disrespect to the grieving families of his victims. Since the victims of Hyde included two cops, I guess in your mind this made this killing more important than the others.

You also know that the vindictive father of killed State police officer Jim McGrane help sponsor and an unpunished APD Lt. endorsed a "killology" course for all cops here telling them that this is a war zone. Cops here don't know what a real war zone is!

They are being told that only cops' lives are important-not the lives of those of us including the mentally ill who they are hired to serve and protect. See my 11-21-14 e-mail on this killology course attached and read KRQE's report. Berry sanctioned and never criticized it. Gutless.

Why not also ask APD to go through APD's Firearms Training Simulator (FATS) that predisposes officers to shoot first? You might learn something. Berry still blesses that shoot-first brainwashing.

Don't you think Berry wants a former Milwaukee cop to be Executive Director of the new Police Oversight Agency rather than Jay Rowland who might hold APD's feet to the fire?

Try reading alternate news sources like the ABQ Free Press, Joe Monahan's commentaries, the Eye on Albuquerque and see incriminating stories on TV that we will never read about in your Berry controlled Journal. You might learn something.

Sorry, but Hyde's killing was NOT "ABQ's worst day" unless you have been living in a cave.

Get off your high horse and lose your thin skin or get out of journalism. Read carefully what readers-even critics say.

An apology to me is in order for your disrespectful reply! I'm waiting.

Oh lay off, Silvio. That you could think the murder of five people in a single day and the devastation to these families is not as bad as the election of a guy you obviously don't like is just nuts. I appreciate your railing on and on (and on) about the injustices you see in this community, but you lose me when you make such a horrid comparison. This is not a competition on what is worse, and just because you think there are other things to write about does not give you the right to denigrate what happened on Aug. 18, 2005. Those families have shown such courage and strength; might be nice to see them as a good example to follow. I'm sorry, but your comment is a low blow and extremely thoughtless to people who don't deserve your rage.

John Hyde's rampage 10 years ago was bad but yet just one of many bad days here-clearly not the worst one. ABQ's worst day was electing Mayor Berry in 2009 who later rehired Schultz. The other worst day was the only 13% of the registered seemingly apathetic voters who re-elected Mr. Berry in 2013 and then Berry replacing Schultz with Eden. It's interesting that except for your questioning of the murder of attorney Mary Han that likely APD or others who were threatened by her tried to portray as a suicide after APD deliberately contaminated the crime scene and you criticizing the admission of likely wife killer former APD cop Levi Chavez Jr. into UNM law school, little attention was given by you to APD's many murders of the mentally ill-only the few cops here killed. Two articles on today's Op-Ed page tells all why we in NM particularly in Albuquerque have become the disgrace of the nation. "MIA 'leaders' fiddle as society falls apart." properly says that we have no leadership in our corrupt "oligarchy" here. So true beginning with those representing us in Santa Fe, to our County and City leaders. An example of this is the second article "ART is a big step in developing a vibrant Downtown" written by one of Berry's developer propagandists and the former longtime executive vice president of the Home Builders Association of Central New Mexico. The author insults everyone's intelligence by merely parroting the bogus reasons that Mayor Chavez used to try to justify his "modern streetcar" down Central. I wonder whether the writer will be one of the contractors helping to build this tax wasting white elephant. What say you-COO Mike Riordan? Anxious to see your follow-up articles but this introduction citing only Hyde's killing was disappointing to say the least.

Councilors

(info to all shown and not shown)

Tina Jensen-pass this to McGrane if you have his e-mail address. I'd like to say it to his face!

Reference my e-mail yesterday "ARE YOU AND THE DOJ OUTRAGED YET AFTER SEEING YESTERDAY'S KRQE REPORT- "KILLOLOGY" INSTRUCTOR'S CLASS?"

Apparently you nine Councilors, Eden, Berry, Huntsman or anybody else downtown are not outraged with this killology training being given here. Now we see another arrogant affront to citizens by Jim McGrane who commented on the KRQE report. Not surprising that the Berry Journal never covered this "Killology" instruction.

There were many, many comments to this excellent report by Tina Jensen. But the following from Jim McGrane tries to justify this "killology" class was outrageous! He places the value of police officers' lives above that of citizens.

Jim McGrane, OSST · 20 hours ago

Tina, if you would have covered our Officer Street Survival Training last year you would of had an opportunity to listen to Lt Co Grossman. He did our ??? first day of training to over 500 police officers from the State of New Mexico. The training was designed to save officer's lives so they would be able to return to their families at the end of their tour.

The phrase are you ready for battle was meant are you physically ready. NO-This is B.S. It meant mentally ready.. It meant are you willing to kill? Recall the APOA paid a bounty to APD officers for each killing, something Schultz pretended he didn't know about. Then Eden buys 350 AR-15s to make the APD officers on the street as dangerous as Huntsman's trained "Death Squads" and then lies to us when saying the DOJ required it. Is Eden a graduate of the OSST?

A good example is the Deputy that was beat up last night while conducting a traffic stop. He talks about officers taking care of the physical, mental health and their families. He is a highly sought after instructor. BY WHO-killer cops? Just like any other news item involving Police officers KRQE always takes the negative side. NO

You seem to forget what happened in the North Valley last year. What if the officers involved were not ready for battle?

As far as the ACLU, they are always negative when police officers are involved.NO

Who is this character- Jim McGrane? Is he a relative of James McGrane, the NM State cop killed in 2006? Is he one of NM Law Enforcement Academy boss Jack Jones' training consultants or an officer? Is he an APD cop? Not surprisingly, Jim doesn't identify himself except to say he is part of the Officer Street Survival Training (OSST) Course for NM officers.

He mistakenly believes that police officer training should only be focused on saving their own lives so only they can go back to their families each night, something this mayor said was also his only priority.

This thinking is why we have had a bloodbath here at the hands of APD cops. The last APD officers (King and Smith) killed in the line of duty occurred more than nine years ago at the hands of John Hyde.

How about trying police officer training that allows both the officers and those citizens who they have contact with to all go back to their families each night?

We pay officers to be public servants to be held to a higher standard of conduct and not lower standard as they are here in NM. Their badges do NOT give them a license to kill.

See the attached Nov 5 article in the ABQ Free Press that has comments from former Chief Galvin and Mayor Baca. "We changed the training curriculum. Instead of trying to turn out US Marines, we were trying to turn out public servants."

Jim McGrane and those who think like him are dangerous. Has he ever worn a military uniform and saw what real warriors are? I'm tired of this propaganda that cops deserve to be put on a pedestal.

There was even a hero's funeral procession recently for a Rio Rancho cop who was speeding, lost control of his car and killed himself because he wasn't wearing his seat belt. Hero? No! Then we had another honored Santa Fe cop involved in a drunken fight with a fellow cop before he was killed. Hero? NO!

Are GI's who return from home from combat (some with PTSD) who actually serve and protect honored with a hero's ceremony with a long procession for their funeral when they die? NO! When I die after serving in 'Nam, will there be a long funeral procession for me? I don't think so.

It's time to stop this hero worship of all cops. The good ones don't want to kill. They consider themselves public servants-not above the law. It's also time to be outraged with this killology course.

Some added comments-questions.

It seems kind of late to invite we-the people to now "collaborate" after the words of the DOJ agreement defining its limitations and the limitations of the monitoring team have already been put in concrete. Not stated by you are the specific goals, what is the agenda and just what powers this "action planning session" of the Albuquerque Collaborative on Police Community Relations really has.

You mention 22 community dialogues already held. I'm not aware of any of them but only one public meeting hosted by Dr. James Ginger.

Shouldn't the city website post the minutes of these 22 dialogues? Just what is to be determined during these Community Education, APD/Community Communication & Collaboration sessions?

More importantly, to what extent with this third group have any real influence over any "improvements to APD" since it was made quite clear to all including our City Councilors that the monitoring team PMR Inc. work for only those in the DOJ and Federal Judge Brack and have no obligation to listen to the Councilors or we-the people who they are supposed to represent.

The Councilors have been willing bystanders in the whole reform process thus far and have essentially ignored what changes to APD we have demanded.

Nor is consultant Scott Greenwood-and if still involved, his partner Tom Streicher obligated to comply with our demands but only to the wishes of the Mayor who contracted for their work over our objections.

Further, will local NAACP boss-now another of the Mayor's consultants- Harold Bailey be involved and if so, how?

It begs a question of skeptics like me whether this is just another Mayor Berry public relations ploy to give the illusion of real citizen involvement in the reform.

As the saying goes-fool me once-shame on you. Fool me twice-shame on me.

More specifics/details are needed Annabelle. I'm sure you have them to prove we will not be wasting our time if we choose to volunteer.

Attached is an invitation to participate in an action planning session of the Albuquerque Collaborative on Police Community Relations. The outcome of the 22 community dialogues conducted in the past year resulted in recommendations that fell into three major categories, Community Education, APD/Community Communication & Collaboration, and Improvements to APD. If you wish to participate in and work on the action planning of the category of your choice as referenced you must register on line at <http://www.cabq.gov/mayor/police-outreach/community-outreach-meetings-application>.

The courtesy of a response is required no later than Monday, August 3, 2015 to ensure enough food is ordered for everyone. RSVP by responding to this email or calling 505-768-4712.

For more information or if you are a person with a disability and require a reasonable accommodation to observe or participate in this meeting, please contact Ms. Shannon Triplett as soon as possible at 505-768-4712 or email at odhr@cabq.gov.

This is absolutely correct. Even though we were misled, we found Ms. Ngoran-Nguessan to be a great presenter and found her information useful. It would have been nice to have attended as actual trainees and given credit for the session. Perhaps the staff can get the same training later on under our new Executive Director. Best regards to all. We are certainly looking forward to working with you all.

Subject: agency staff purposefully mislead

Dear Leonard and POB members,

You were glad, no doubt, as I was, to see the agency staff tonight; we've become used to their presence at our gatherings, and to appreciate their input. Tonight, however, they were not at our late-in-the-day 2.5 hour training out of choice as they are at most of our meetings. Rather, they were there because Ms. Hammer sent them an email telling them that tonight's meeting was a "mandatory training" session for them.

Consequently, each member of the staff came to our mandatory training session (as all our training sessions have been), rightly expecting that they had been planned for as trainees. To their immediate confusion, and then subsequent growing frustration, they were not seated at the table, provided materials, or included in the discussion.

Neither you or I, nor Ms. Ngoran or Mr. Baker, were made aware of the directive Ms. Hammer gave her staff. In the absence of this knowledge, we obviously could not have planned for their inclusion (though we all would have been glad to have them train with us). No one involved could have had any reason to believe, or even suspect, that of all the Board's mandatory training, Ms. Hammer would direct her staff to participate in this particular session. Strangely, this has not stopped Ms. Hammer from pointing the finger at Mr. Baker and I (?) as the architects of the misinformation.

Although we are not unused to this type of machination by Ms. Hammer, apparently designed only to undermine and to introduce friction, it is appropriate today that we ask Ms. Hammer to apologize to her staff, to us, and to our guest for this purposeful harm.

Also, please note that arrangements for the staff's participation in the NACOL conference still have not been made. It seems this lateness will not only have the effect of displacing staff members from accommodation in the conference hotel, but will also cost the City a great deal more in late airline reservations. Or, will staff be expected to make up for this unnecessary cost out of their own pockets? Should this be an agenda item?

Thanks, Mr. Waits, for any leadership you can offer; I'm at wit's end.

In the spirit of transparency, clarity, and true collaboration,

Moira

Thanks Ilse.

I'll try to make it tomorrow. I hope the media also attends.

Those like Journal reporter Boetel who attended at least one of these PR only/bogus $15,000 outreach collaboratives run by UNM's facilitators for the city's Annabelle Romero, know they were well-orchestrated "city controlled" meetings to give the illusion of real outreach.

Activist Earnest Sterdevant (sp?) who spoke at Monday's Council meeting and attended at least one collaborative blasted/confirmed these meetings as a mere orchestrated shams (much like the City's Goals forums). Earnest also mentioned the one arrogant Eden cop who spoke there saying we citizens have to accommodate APD and they not us-a belief Eden shares when never condemning it.

APOA VP Willoughby is cut from the same cloth as that arrogant cop and the entire APD leadership that begins with Berry. See attached again on Willoughby. The APOA's President Stephanie Lopez remains in hiding while sending her disgraceful VP to speak for the rank and file.

Were merely removing tinted windows (as Eden mentioned to the Council Monday) and restoring the "to serve and protect" slogan on APD cars the best changes being proposed?

You saw that now deputy city attorney Duran who apparently is the new IPRA responder/stonewaller for APD wants to charge me $138 just to get copies of all of the Phase 1 and 2 attendee lists while her boss Jessica Hernandez remains in hiding. These lists should have been included in the UNM reports for the $15,000 we are paying them.

PMR Inc's Steve Rickman is probably a good guy but he knows as do the others in PMR Inc that they are powerless to force any real change as long as Berry, Perry and Eden are there..But they have their $4.5 million.

The Councilors don't care as they have abandoned their role as our legislative body of government a long time ago and allowed this city to be run by a dictator. They are a disgraceful lot and not one deserves to be the next Mayor.

My thoughts

Hi Silvio, again, I do apologize that you did not know about Friday's meeting. This bout of flu came at just the wrong time and I did not get nearly as much done for this event than I had planned. It was, however, always intended to be a community meeting first and foremost. I hope you will be able to attend. Mike Swick will hopefully be able to film the discussion just in case you can't make it. Sorry again and go well

Find out more about the monitoring process of APD's reform and whether there is a role for the community to play.

*Friday 21 August from 3:30 pm
Peace Hall at Peace and Justice Center
202 Harvard SE*

Community Meeting with Stephen Rickman

Stephen Rickman is the police-community relations specialist on the monitoring team that has been charged with overseeing the implementation of the settlement between APD and the DOJ following the scathing DOJ report on APD's pattern of using excessive force. Rickman will outline the function of the monitoring team and especially what his portfolio entails. The majority of the meeting will be devoted to a question and answer session.

Free and open to everyone. If possible, bring a dish to share on the potluck table.

FYI is a recent appeal sent out to all APD union officers in response to a recent Eye on Albuquerque.com posting. It was sent out to all APD/APOA union members by Shaun Willoughby -the current APOA VP and its Political Action Committee Chairman. The disgraceful Shaun pretends that another APD officer authored it. It was directed against all honest officers and retired APD Sergeant mayoral candidate Paul Heh who dared break Schultz's and now Banks' oppressive blue code of silence on former Union President Joey Sigala's misuse of APOA dues. One honest officer recipient disgusted with Shaun's "it's us against them" appeal for all to shut up, leaked it to the "Eye" and TV reporter. Note the misuse of grammar and failure to proofread.

Prior to last night's 8/19 Council meeting new Chief Banks apparently asked a number of Councilors who are the willing enablers of police misconduct like Janice Arnold Jones, Trudy Jones and others to honor APD officers for some routine actions. Among the officers recognized was the Leah Kelly-Acata, the shooter of a young man downtown who was only cutting himself with a six inch round-tip butter spreader. The former Leah Kelly-now married, has also been the subject of numerous citizen public complaints (CPC) to the POC and because no recordings were made she was always exonerated. I pointed out to these councilors that they never bother to honor returning military vets who truly put their lives at risk. I am a Vietnam vet.

The disgusting letter from this disgraceful cop/union officer follows:

Disappointed board member. said... Hello,

I would like to say this to all officers. I would first like to voice my displeasure at the comments here and at work by officers against the APOA and it's staff present and past.

Everyone wants to judge what we do here. I am sick of it. I am sick of hearing you needy complaining officers bash us, the department, the city and it's leadership. You are all worthless. We work hard at keeping stability and you all do nothing but attack the place and tear it down. You all are the reason for things falling apart. Don't cry about how your money is spent when you all never show up for union meetings.

We know who is speaking out against us and you will see. All of you air our dirty laundry. Laundry that should be kept in house. You all give the community ammunition against us. You should know better. This liberal retarded band of vengeful activists called Albuquerque makes me sick. You are no better than them. These bunch of uneducated subhuman animals that constantly attack us, march against us and sue us for no other reason than to fill their greedy pockets so that they can buy more drugs to smoke up and shiny rims for their ghetto rides.

You have lost sight of the big picture. We should be backing eachother. For your information, it is us against them! Do half of these so called citizens have jobs? Probably not. They probably have EBT cards though. These entitled lowlifes have the guts to insult us in our house? But you all attack the APOA? As for money being stolen, that should have been handled in-house. There was no reason_ for that to get out. That was just plain stupid. Everyone here is angry and hateful. I will not standby and accept the trash talking just because we are not backing Paul. He should have left well enough alone. He decided to cross the blue line when he made complaint against a fellow board member. You don't turn on eachother. A rat is a rat. Period. Joey may have been a bonehead, but he was our bonehead. We could have taken care of it, but Paul had to be the hero and take the official route. This caused so much aggravation. Paul is also supported here. This is why we voted not to support him. He betrayed us just as all of you shit talkers here do. You cry about representation. You don't deserve representation and he doesn't deserve support. Be happy you have jobs. If you don't like it, quit and join the jobless moochers called Vecinos United and the rest of the entitlement crowd sucking the city dry. Go join the crybabies and see if anyone cares. Just like all of you complainers, these worthless whiners will eventually lose interest when their circus loses it's followers.

In closing, I will say this, nothing is perfect and nobody said life was fair. Get over it! You all deserve what you get. Crybaby people constantly bitching about the police when they contribute nothing to society and cops who are snitches who sell out their own. Sleep in the bed you all made. We do our jobs. Shame is you all have no idea because you are never at a damn meeting.

Folks,

The same thing happened to me. Below is a bit of the letter I have DRAFTED for a strong LULAC action we are currently going to vigorously address with Congregation Albert.

Thank you all for your collective efforts and dedication.

Ralph Arellanes

This morning a public forum including Mayor Berry, APD and the USDOJ was held at Congregation Albert on Louisiana near Montgomery. I had never been there before today. I walked in and I was standing in line along with well over 100 people when a Board Member of Congregation Albert named Jeffrey Paul walks straight up to me and asks me "Who are you, what is your name and what are you doing here?" I politely introduced myself and that I was there to attend the public forum like everybody else in line was doing. Then he angrily asks me "well did you make reservations?" I said yes I did but there is also a list here for those who have not made reservations and must pay $12.00 - so I plan to pay my $12.00. Then he said "well what do you have in your hand?" I said "it's a brochure I was handed outside before I walked in here." He said "well you can't bring that in here so let me have that". So I handed the brochure to him. After the forum, we were allowed to ask questions.

Guess who is the moderator with the microphone - yup same guy. Even though I sat in front with my hand raised, he refused to acknowledge me. Finally after most who had raised their hand were picked, this guy allows me to ask my question. I began by introducing myself and he immediately interjected and said "Do you have a question to ask?" Then I asked my question about the lack of Hispanics on the APD Monitor Team. The response was there was one and they were going to hire another Hispanic. After the forum ended, I spoke with the Executive Director of Congregation Albert about how I was treated by Mr. Jeffrey Paul. She told me she was sorry about this. I told her "thank you ma'am, this is the first time I've set foot in this place and I hope it's my last time." Once again, there are many in the Jewish community who are ignorant of the fact that over 500,000 Hispanos fought in WWII to defeat Hitler and free the Jews. Lest they forget!!

On Sunday morning the Congregation Albert hosted a brunch/panel, The Department of Justice vs. Albuquerque Police Department “They Say It’s Settled - Is It Really?”

A small group decided to prepare flyers with pertinent questions and background to inform the audience. Alan Wagman wrote the copy and Tina Kachele did the fine graphic design. Alan, Sayrah, and I handed out some of the flyers outside the building.

Then things went a little weird. I had handed Damon Martinez and Paul Killebrew, both panelists, a flyer each and bantered a bit with them. They were perfectly happy that we were getting information disseminated. The Congregation’s MC -- and seeming gatekeeper -- for the event rushed out just after Martinez and Killebrew had moved on to greet Sayrah and Alan. The MC dude did not recognize Martinez as the NM US attorney and started accosting the two well-suited DOJ reps about the flyers they were holding, apparently confusing them for the perpetrators of this bad, bad information crime. Martinez introduced himself and the MC backed down but still insisted we, the real rabble, left the premises, unless we paid to attend the brunch. Oh well. Charlie Arasim reports that he had to negotiated with the Congregation’s lawyer before he could start filming the proceedings.

Here is Charlie's video footage of the meeting:

And here is a pdf of the tri-fold flyer (as you can see the line-up of panelists had changed somewhat from the original plan with Huntsman standing in for Eden and Killebrew for Sauceda (Luis Saucedo?):

Silvio,

Thanks for adding me to this email.

We filed an IPRA for the 19 applicants- an IPRA was required because, well, to be honest it was us. The Records request process allows 15 days ( legitimate days) for records to be produced. Of course for us, ( and by 'us', I mean the people, community, YOU or I) the process took the maximum time allotted.

For media, and guys like Dan McKay, that process is, I'm guessing here, but probably easier. Submitting an IPRA is not a requirement in receiving public documents as much as it is the process to ensuring due process afforded in NM Sunshine Laws. Often mainstreamers

Your article today parroting the half truths or outright lies told to the Council trying to justify the POB's and Council selection of Ed Harness was inexcusable. This was much like Ryan Boetel joining the defense team for James Boyd's killer Dominique Perez. Did you ever take the time to look at the POB interview with Harness? Did you bother to read his posted resume?

Did you or anybody there bother to ask why this former Milwaukee cop Harness even applied for the job? Did we taxpayers pay for a nationwide search for the new Agency's Executive Director or did APD or former cop-POB member Beth Mohr just conveniently find him?

Scotchdopole, the Oversight Agency has lost all credibility with the people. Why even file a complaint against an APD officer as it would be a waste of time as the process has been corrupted?

The situation we have now in the Agency is comparable to having the judge, the prosecutor and two members of the jury all family members of bad cops against whom charges by the people are filed-CPCs or other.

You and other reporters there could take some lessons from the objective reporters at the ABQ Free Press on TV, bloggers and other news sources who have more credibility than any of you Journal reporters or your editorial board. You should be ashamed.

We expect soon to see an Journal editorial blessing the selection by the POB and Councilors of Harness-clearly the wrong as well as unqualified man for the job

Maybe if your Journal predecessor Jim Ludwick leaves the Animal Welfare Department, Berry might hire you to replace him as a reward to your loyalty to him and APD.

As for the Department's head Barbara Bruin, the only experience I had with her was to see the professionalism and integrity she showed to me and my neighbors to personally resolve a barking dog problem in our neighborhood.

Time to think of another profession Dan and/or look yourself in the mirror. You are an embarrassment to the news/journalistic profession.

YOUR DISRESPECT FOR US AND THE CITY'S DISRESPECT SHOWN TO COUNCILOR

GIBSON

Last night during the first 2 ½ hours, you tolerated the idiot treatment given to Councilor Gibson by Berry's disgraceful personal (not our City) attorney Jessica Hernandez and by CAO Perry trying to justify giving pay increases to the already overpaid Command staff while denying it to the rank and file.

Cops on the beat who talk to me knowing I would not reveal who they are, have told me what is really needed in APD is for all of the Command staff to retire or be fired- not have their already high pay raised. The presence of the disgraceful Eden and his fellow contemptuous of you command staff thugs in the back of the room was nothing but pure intimidation of you

After waiting 3 ½ hours along with others who signed up to speak last night (many of whom left in disgust including POB chairman Leonard Waites), I stayed.

Had we been given more than 2 minutes, all would have condemned the over 2 ½ hours you wasted on far too many long proclamations, the Q&A and considering Councilor Harris' bill before the public comment period. During the 2 ½ hours before you took your dinner break it's clear that you obviously like to hear yourselves talk/pontificate on local issues things that could have been resolved with the administration in non Council meeting communications.

But instead we public speakers were deemed by you to be unimportant much like APS's School Board's blatant disrespect of other citizens over the Valentino affair of which Councilor Brad Winter while still at APS was complicit in what Valentino had done.

One of the questions you chose to never ask of the arrogant Chief Eden was just what specifically were the alleged 3,400 APD calls for service over the past weekend by APD as reported in the September 9 Albuquerque Journal? How many of these were just calls to 911? Did these calls to 911 constitute 90% or more of the calls for service and not actual police responses? Or didn't you care?

The Journal article cited only five incidences over the weekend that APD responded to. Yet fiscally irresponsible Councilor Sanchez who seemingly treats our taxes as nothing more than play or fun money claims in the absence of a long overdue resource allocation study by the Chief says that we ought to increase APD's manpower to possibly as high as 1500 as the Chief wants but can never justify.

THE EYE AND ABQ FREE PRESS

See the September 9 (previously dormant since July 7) Eye on Albuquerque posting "The Thin Blue Line" at <http://eyeonalbuquerque.blogspot.com/>. It properly places the blame for all of the APD problems squarely on the "politicians who have created this mess and have no clue how to fix it."

"Having no clue" was too nice a description for the damned politicians here who do have a clue/know how to fix it but don't have the guts or integrity to do it. You know that this criticism includes you but you choose to be in denial about this "uncomfortable truth." One local journalist properly said you nine-like this Mayor are the worst of any in this city's history. .

Also check out the latest September 9 issue of the ABQ Free Press that includes columns by another disgusted retired cop Dan Klein and articles by Joe Monahan and other writers. This ABQ Press issue (unlike the Berry Journal) speaks the truth about the complicit Berry Journal, Mayor Berry, Governor Martinez and her machine.

It also has articles about APD's former IPRA directed stonewaller and now whistleblower Reynaldo Chavez, the top APD brass worrying that their illegal bonuses are on the front burner and Berry's Convention Center insider the ACRV who has been ripping taxpayers off for years despite their abysmal performance.

Seems like you nine couldn't care less with any of this-nor do the other politicians in NM.

MY AND OTHERS' TALKS MONDAY

Before I spoke, Tony Pirard gave you an earful but you brushed him off as you do with all of us. Tony, like me is far too blunt-won't mince words about his disgust with the culture of corruption here. It extends to US Attorney Damon Martinez and Judge Brack-the reason he was visited twice by Damon's US Marshals for daring to criticize Martinez, Brack and others here.

When I finally spoke, you again showed disrespect to me when my upside down flag-an official US Flag code signal of distress-something that this city is in was put on the overhead projector and again was not shown on GOV-TV as yet another blatant example of censorship. Neither did you show any of the other public speakers' overhead projector presentations on GOV-TV.

In addition to the many earlier e-mails sent you opposing the selection of former cop Ed Harness who was clearly unqualified to be the POB's first choice to be the next POA Executive Director (ED) my talk was again critical of all of the previous foxes (former cops) assigned to guard the hen house.

I expressed my disgust for the POB preference for Harness who as Tony Pirard also said was not only clueless about our city's oversight process but was an embarrassing choice. Ed's only job as a mediator in Milwaukee was in a chump change paying job working for the Better Business Bureau. His only claimed police oversight experience was confined to his local village.

MORE FOXES GUARDING THE HEN HOUSE

After abdicating your responsibility to us when choosing to be MIA in the negotiations with the DOJ, you first blessed the Mayor's hiring of Schultz's Taser buddies former Cincinnati police Chief Tom Streicher whose Department was also a mess and investigated by the DOJ. This was yet another fox guarding the henhouse. You also hired his and Schultz's lying to you attorney buddy Scott Greenwood. .

You also cared little that Judge Brack chose the toothless PMR inc made up mostly of former cops to merely monitor-"audit" APD. Yet even more foxes guarding the hen house. Then-not surprisingly last night you chose yet another former cop/fox Ed Harness to be the new Executive Director of the Police Oversight Agency never really challenging his sweet sounding B.S-eloquently blowing the same smoke at you that he had done earlier to the POB during their interviews with him and the four others.

Your failure to use due diligence in his selection was the very same thing you did when never bothering to check the resume of all 40+ applicants for the APD Chief's job (most with eye-watering qualifications) before you blessed Berry's clearly unqualified Eden.

Many or most of you apparently never bothered to see the POB interviews with the five then candidates for the important ED job and never questioned the lack of experience of Ed Harness before approving him. Another fox guarding the hen house.

After me, Barbara Grothus also told you how you have willing become part of the problem rather than the solution here but you brushed her off as well. She made the same points as in the Eye posting. You nine, Jessica Hernandez and Perry also gave the idiot treatment to Dianne Goodman regarding a bond question to be put on the ballot.

THE KNOWINGLY CLUELESS-EVEN ARROGANT CITIZENS YOU NAMED TO THE POB INCLUDED ONE CONDESCENDING ELITIST AND TWO FORMER POLICE OFFICERS

Rather than former LAPD police officer Beth Mohr who conducted the POB's interviews and promoted Harness for the job in the press showing up to talk, it was Dr. Moira Amado McCoy. She, like Beth and the others on the POB have never been involved in the old oversight process was the first to speak trying to defend their selection of Harness. You councilors were afraid of appointing knowledgeable people like us to the POB.

In McCoy's presentation, she demonstrated to all that she was an elitist who would repeatedly talk down to you and the rest of us as if we were all idiots-not up to her perceived PhD intellect. She would say that being an attorney was important for the ED although the POB already has an attorney. She incredulously deemed experience here irrelevant but claimed Harness was instead a "transformational leader-a collaborator." She also questioned our allegedly "dichotomous thinking" saying police are not enemies of the people.

She either naively or intentionally ignored the fact that bad-unaccountable APD officers and their leaders do in fact view themselves as enemies of the people. It's "them vs. us" as APOA VP Willoughby reminded the union rank and file in his secret 2013 memo previously sent you.

McCoy would further claim that being a collaborator (even working for the BBB in Milwaukee), rather than having relevant police oversight experience here was very important. (Memo to Maiora-That's NOT what the key job of the ED job is.)

Then it was POB member Joanne Fine who also said that experience here particularly in the past and current oversight process was also not that important. As I said POB President Waites left rather than speak.

Now with Harness, you have three other former cops in the Police Oversight Agency. This includes POB member and another strong Harness advocate former LAPD cop Beth Mohr, POB member Jeff Wilson and even one Executive Director's investigator-a former Belen senior police officer. It's clear where their loyalties lie. You know it but don't care.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR CANDIDATES SPEAK

Candidate and current NM prosecutor Ms Sprague during her talk pointed out that it was vitally important that people know the situation here and also that she is not a former police officer. That was right on.

The most qualified candidate Jay Rowland who was urged by the former IRO Judge Deaton to succeed him years ago proved from his interview with the POB and talk before you that he was the best man for the job. Likely he wasn't the Chief's or Mayor's choice who likely the POB first checked with as Jay was viewed as too knowledgeable-thus too dangerous.

During his talk, Harness claimed that being "empathetic and not intimidated" was his "persona." He then incredulously claimed the toothless settlement agreement between Berry's Cincinnati mercenaries and DOJ signed by Judge Brick was credible.

Ed also talked about APD's "core values" but never mentioned or discussed them.

Any core values APD has are a joke-mere propaganda. He said the police nationwide are going through a "paradigm shift." Translated-this means there is now citizen and DOJ pressure to make them accountable, forcing them to wear body cameras and no longer above the law as our police officers have been here for far too long and still are.

While claiming he "empathizes" with police officers, Ed claimed he never said an officer's life was more important than that of a citizen. In fact contrary to his interview with the POB and what's in his resume, this man has shown himself to be dishonest regarding this. He is part of the brotherhood.

Ed showed no understanding that under the new Ordinance that APD Chief Eden still has the final decision in any police officer's punishment and can essentially ignore the POB as Schultz did to the old POC. A citizens' only recourse is to file a civil lawsuit.

I don't know who found Ed Harness in Milwaukee if not APD but it was clear Ed was making chump change working for the BBB there.

It's not clear why there had to be a secret ballot rather than have us see last night just who of you voted for Harness as the first choice. It showed your cowardice. Yet one Councilor claimed your votes would be later revealed.

POB'S VIOLATION OF THE OPEN MEETINGS ACT

Below is an e-mail you received yesterday from Attorney Paul Livingston with his attachment. It demonstrates just how bad this Police Oversight Agency Executive Director selection process was corrupted-but you don't care. It's really the way it is here as corruption is a part of our NM culture and few care while most feel that nothing they do will ever change it..

Disgusted with all of you and Berry's traitors of we the people

Subject: Notice of Violations of NM Open Meetings Act by the CPOA

Dear City Councilors,

Attached is a letter giving notice of violations of the New Mexico Open Meetings Act by the Citizens' Police Oversight Agency concerning the selection of an Executive Director. As the attorney representing Mark Bralley and Vecinos United, I sought and secured a Writ of Mandamus ordering the Police Oversight Board to hold its selection of an Independent Review Officer "openly and in public in accordance with the mandatory provisions of the New Mexico Open Meetings Act." That was sixteen years ago, in 1999.

Unfortunately, City attorneys and officials are engaging in the same misconduct now with respect to selection of an Executive Director of the new Citizens' Police Oversight Agency. Please review the attached letter, and consider whether the City would be making the same mistake it made 16 years ago and whether the selection of a Director today would be in accordance with law and the rights of the people to know about the operations of their government. Thank you.

That's all well and good.

But I'm sure you understand that not only these outreach collaboratives run by the City that we paid UNM $15,000 to conduct were mere shams. The meeting later held at the Peace and Justice Center with one of the PMR Inc. powerless "auditors" likely disappointed all there as it gave the illusion that PMR Inc is listening.

Note that the Phase 1 report of the 20+ collaborative meetings held gave transparency and accountability the lowest % of importance. APD's attorneys even wanted to charge me over $150 to get the list of names attending these collaboratives.

There is no credibility in this reform process as there is still APD defiance of IPRA public records requests-no transparency and no accountability. The Journal did a fluff piece on Boyd killer Perez portraying him as a hero claiming he will be bankrupt defending himself-never blaming his attorney for ripping him off.

Then you have the two propaganda pieces by two former-now retired senior Schulz's cops saying to essentially leave the cops alone-let them use excessive force. They are blaming us not the bad APD leadership.

Writers to the Journal believed all this pro-killer cop propaganda as evidenced by the latest letter in the Journal today portraying Boyd as a crazed potential killer. I guess you get one free murder of a citizen when wearing a badge and deemed a hero..

APD Forward has been a disappointment and the African-American Bishops haven't taken the time to find out what's really going on. Berry even hired NAACP's Harold Bailey as a consultant to give him credibility-give the impression he cares about black citizens here. Bailey sold his soul to the devil. Another Judas just to get his 30 pieces of silver

How many of these black leaders came out publically against the unjustified shootings of Vincent Wood and other black citizens? NONE! Why doesn't our new black attorney general who replaced Eric Holder in Washington DC care about us? Only when black citizens in other cities are killed? Where is Vanita Gupta?

Neither APD nor the DA will release the video showing the two cops murdering Wood after only five minutes yet deemed their shooting justified. Except for the Boyd murder, APD has not released any video showing their other murders.

Do the black leaders care about those of other color? All some black leaders worry about is taking down the old stars and bars of the Northern Confederate Army in Old Town and the Mayor rolled over for/pandered to them.

You can't give credibility to a reform process that has no credibility. You like the others are being used in my opinion. You also need to show up at Council meetings and write to the Council demanding more than just lip service.

Did you volunteer to serve on the 2013 police oversight task force whose recommendations were ignored? Did you volunteer for the POC or new POB? I did. Now the POB wants to make a Milwaukee cop its first choice to be the new Executive Director of the Police Oversight Agency. Lunacy

Just my opinion. Thanks for writing

Silvio

Hi Silvio, I did not volunteer to be part of Dr. Ginger's monitoring team. I like other advocates have chosen to host community forums for community participation. I am giving credibility to the reform process. Once we get over the "divide and conquer" , we can start the real work.

Other organizations have sponsored forums, Peace and Justice Center, APDFORWARD, African American Bishops, ...do you feel the same way about them as you do about me? Maria

The Agenda for the 29th should be posted as quickly as possible. Particularly for a special meeting, the 72 hours is the minimum, not the goal.

Subject: Agenda setting in the future

Ms. Hammer - In the future, we need to avoid the situation which happened this week - where I sent an emailed agenda for the personnel subcommittee for posting well before the deadline, but you didn't receive it, and it wasn't posted 72 hours prior to the meeting.

As staff for the POB, we all need you to be the person primarily responsible for staying on top of these deadlines with agendas and posting. Volunteer Board members shouldn't be the ones primarily responsible for this task.

To be clear, the failure is not that you didn't receive my email, as that technology is beyond our control. The issue was that when you didn't receive the agenda in plenty of time for posting, that you neither emailed, called nor texted me to find out the status of the agenda. As I had previously disclosed, I was working out of state, in 3 locations involving both coasts between June 13th and yesterday evening. Had I received any communication from you that you hadn't yet received an agenda, I could have resent it prior to the deadline.

In the future, to ensure there isn't a repeat of this issue, you will follow the protocol listed below:

5-days prior to meeting - email the Chair of the POB, or subcommittee chair, requesting an agenda, and asking if they would like your assistance to format a draft agenda; please CC the committee members, or in the case of the full POB, cc the co-vice chairs. This is also the last point where the most recent minutes should be sent out in draft form.

4-days prior to meeting - if you haven't received a response, call the Chair and follow up to ensure that an agenda is forthcoming.

3-days prior to the meeting - verify the receipt of an agenda and post. If for whatever reason the chair is unable to put together an agenda, and you haven't received an agenda or any response from anyone else, please post an updated version of the most recent agenda for that body. For the personnel subcommittee, just update the last agenda with the upcoming agenda's date and post it, so at least the meeting won't need to be cancelled.

2-days prior to the meeting, verify the room reservation and email a reminder to the full POB inviting/reminding everyone of the meeting or subcommittee meeting.

Following this timetable for all future meetings will ensure that we are able to smoothly conduct business. If you'd prefer to assign one of your staff members to this task, please let us know who will be primarily responsible. Feel free to call with any questions. Thanks much, -B

Alan - Enclosed is the complete set of signed releases.

The POB spent quite a long time last night considering candidates. Our top three are very closely matched. We decided that we want to spend some time checking references and having the City do employment verifications and criminal history checks, we will then reconvene at another special meeting on Tuesday, August 4th, at 5 pm, in order to review reference checks and take a vote to rank the candidates. City Council staff indicated that they would not likely be able to approve a candidate on August 3rd anyway, so we decided to spend this time on reference, employment and background checks, and ask Council to do final consideration at their meeting of August 17th. We take our responsibility to select the next Executive Director of the CPOA very seriously, and we want to ensure that we are selecting someone who will be able to move the community forward in a positive direction with respect to civilian oversight.

Please check the top 4 candidates for us, this is everyone except for Duncan Bradley, who will not receive further consideration. That way if one of our top three has significant issues revealed during reference checks we can replace them with the 4th place person, who is also an excellent candidate.

Alan, we will need you to be there on Thursday at 5pm to go over the results of the reference checks with us. If you are unable to attend, please see if Loc could be there in your stead, but we will need someone there from HR with adequate authority to answer questions.

If you have any questions, please call my cell, I'm teaching to a group of government auditors most of today and won't be particularly available until after 4:30, but I have some availability tomorrow.

It normally takes 2-3 business days for them to be completed. If August 3rd is still the target date for the City Council appointment I should start the background checks as soon as I can get them. If you can scan and email them I can get started.

Background Investigation Waiver and Release Form

In connection with my application of employment with the City of Albuquerque, hereby known as "Hiring Entity" I understand that investigative reports may be requested that will include information as to my performance and experience along with reasons for termination of past employment from previous employers. Further, I understand that information may be requested concerning my motor vehicle registration history and criminal history from various states, private insurance sources along with other public records available.

I voluntarily and knowingly authorize any present or past employer or supervisor, institution of learning; administrator, law enforcement agency, local or state agency, Federal agency; private business; military branch or the National Personnel Records Center to give records of information they may have concerning information requested as part of my background investigation. I voluntarily and knowingly unconditionally release any named or unnamed format from all liability resulting from the furnishing of this information. A photocopy of this Designation and Authorization for Release and Redisclosure of Information shall be considered by the recipient to be a signed original, as long as it is transmitted to the recipient by the Hiring Entity and is received within one year of the signature date,

I understand that a thorough and complete background investigation will be conducted to determine my fitness and desirability as a candidate for employment or as a volunteer. I hereby release from liability and agree to hold harmless; under any and all possible cause of legal action, including negligence, the City of Albuquerque, the Agency and any of its officers, agents or employees for any neglect or wrongful statements, acts, omissions made or recorded in the course of my background investigation.

If I am denied employment, either wholly or partly because of information contained in resulting reports, a disclosure will be made to me of the name and address of the consumer reporting agency making such report. If the report contains information about me that is matter of public record, such as arrests, indictments or convictions, I may also be informed of the name and address of any person to whom the information is reported.

Good morning Beth,

I hope all went well with the interviews last night. I am following up on the background waivers. The normal procedure for these is to do the background check for the finalist only. In this case we can get do them for the three finalists or even the group of six. It normally takes 2-3 business days for them to be completed. If August 3rd is still the target date for the City Council appointment I should start the background checks as soon as I can get them. If you can scan and email them I can get started.

Thanks.

Dear Candidates: (BCC'd in this email)

The POB spent quite a long time last night considering candidates. Our top three are very closely matched. We decided that we want to spend some time checking references and having the City do employment verifications and criminal history checks, we will then reconvene at another special meeting on Tuesday, August 4th, at 5 pm, in order to review reference checks and take a vote to rank the candidates. There is no need for candidates to attend this meeting. I will contact you with our final decision.

City Council staff indicated that they would not likely be able to approve a candidate on August 3rd anyway, so we decided to spend this time on reference, employment and background checks, and ask Council to do final consideration at their meeting of August 17th.

The POB takes our responsibility to select the next Executive Director of the CPOA very seriously, and we want to ensure that we are selecting someone who will be able to move the community forward in a positive direction with respect to civilian oversight.

If any of you have given this position further reflection and have changed your mind and would NOT be amenable to accepting this position if called upon, please let me know right away. We want to confidently submit the top three ranked names to Council, knowing that they could select anyone off that list and we would have our new Executive Director.

If you have any questions or need to chat, please feel free to call me at [REDACTED] - [REDACTED] (cell) or 505-554-2968 (office). I am teaching much of today to a statewide group of professionals, so I will have limited availability until after 4:30 today. The other person to call with questions would be our Independent Counsel, Mark T. Baker. Mr. Baker is included on this email if you wish to contact him, or his cell is [REDACTED]

Thank-you again for your willingness to serve our community in this position. -

Hi, Leonard and Joanne.

I've just finished reading all 126 of the cases/letters from the last time we reviewed to the end of Ms. Hammer's tenure. Would you be able to meet for a CRC meeting on Monday, 12th October at 12:00 noon?

We'd then meet again on the 30th of October (15 days after our October full board meeting).

Just want to check your availability before I send agenda items to Michelle and Paul.

Please have Robin print this for us double sided and hand it to us. While I appreciate all of the work the staff has done on this report, it is too important and too large to leave it to us to print. It seems to me the CPOA budget should be able to include the printing of the report of the work product for the agency.

Dear Board Members:

Attached please find the 2015 Semi-Annual Report. It is complete, with the exception of the executive director's executive summary. Once the executive director includes the summary, the page numbers on the table of contents will need to be added/adjusted.

Unfortunately, the combination of CIRIS' unreliability concerning exporting data, along with its utter inability to export data on the DOJ mandated demographic information, forced me to do a lot of work by hand. Thus, I have included the spreadsheets to "show my work."

I have also included a list of the data information I enter/verify for opening and closing cases per Ms. Hammer's request.

IA Pro

IAPro, at least at this point, has almost no ability to report out accurate information concerning the CPCs. These issues have been raised with APD's IT division, and specific documentation to show the program's deficiencies has been given to Rishma Khimji at APD. She is working with IAPro to remedy this situation. My work on this issue has been saved to the share drive under Rishma.Projects and IAPro.

Blue Team/IAPro

The CPOA data has limited statistical value because of the limited amount of CPCs received. Thus, access to APD's data will be crucial in determining trends and providing analysis of APD's interactions with the public.

Eric Daigle's writings/blog <https://www.daiglelawgroup.com/attorneys/eric-p-daigle/> would be an excellent resource for what data would be the most useful the CPOA in meeting its purpose.

Arrest to injury ratio

Force to injury ratio

Focus on front line sergeant actions (including who is getting their reports in on time)

Civil lawsuit data (settlements compared to injury)

Cleveland just signed off on a similar consent decree/settlement agreement, so it may be worthwhile to follow their progress, esp. regarding use of force

Suggested Policy changes:

Revisions of office policy concerning when Garrity warning is read.

Require the downloading of pictures immediately to a cloud or other hard drive.

Requirement to tag in video any time use of force is used.

Requirement to list all persons involved in tact plan, even training tact plans.

Revise lapel camera policy following UNM study.

Customer service training for officers (perception problem)

Executive Director of the Oversight Agency. What's the message that it sends to the people if the Councilors approve him?

TO: POB Members

Info to Councilors, media and others not shown

Reference my earlier e-mail shown below that expected you to respect the people and select the only candidate that was truly qualified to serve as the next Executive Director (ED)-Jay Rowland. You interviewed the five on July 29 and after conferring for hours should have announced your ranking then. You did not. The public had lost confidence in the oversight process as only attorney Alan Wagman spoke on July 29.

Rather than making your choice(s) on the 29th many believe you instead chose to ask APD, those Councilors who wanted to keep the oversight process a sham, the City's dictatorial Mayor and CAO just who they wanted. Of course these who wanted no real APD reform wanted a former cop even though Harness was completely unqualified for the job-had absolutely no related experience.

You then held another unnecessary POB meeting last night where not even one citizen was willing to speak to you knowing it would be a waste of time. This says that you have lost our confidence. You again went again into secret executive session/discussions.

You came out incredulously saying that former Milwaukee cop Edward Harness was your first choice followed by very experienced (but likely feared by APD Jay Rowland) and then made the also unqualified Edna Sprague your third choice. Those close to Edna say she has blessed everything cops do.

After once again reviewing Harness's responses to you last week it was again clear he had no clue of the problems with the oversight old process but spoke only in generalities trying to cover up his lack of qualifications for the job.

Does working for the Better Business Bureau show the proper police investigative experience? Neither Ed nor the others were ever asked what they thought was wrong with the old and current oversight process some of which the knowledgeable Jay Rowland discussed in detail without being asked.

Both the DOJ and Judge Brack ignored some of the required changes to the still flawed process documented in APD Forward's filed Amicus Curiae last January-first page of it is attached. Unlike Jay Rowland, neither Harness nor the other three ever discussed what should be the limitations of the 1967 "Garrity vs. Supreme Court" ruling that the DOJ opined to the Seattle Mayor but was ignored by the DOJ here. See page 1 of that opinion-attached. Nor did Ed or the other three discuss the police officers' "qualified immunity" that essentially gives them the benefit of doubt in any of their killings.

Harness restated his belief that a cop's life is more important than that of the average citizen-something it is NOT. Do you agree with that belief? This essentially gives cops the right to kill using the bogus excuse that they "felt threatened." Look at these same lies being told in court this week to try to justify Sandy's and Perez's murder of James Boyd.

Ed apparently never knew that under the current changed Ordinance that the Director and the POB cannot dictate discipline but that the APD Chief can ignore your recommendations offering up only some ridiculous excuses.

I guess Ed's only claim to fame was his alleged outreach ability-trade shows, police work with his local village association and his teaching of good financial practices to the poor. Again-he has no investigative experience other than responding to Better Business Bureau (BBB) complaints.

We already have one pro bad APD cop hired as a police oversight investigator while the two others were former employees of Target and Lowe's and have none. Robin Hammer who was sued for judicial misconduct while working for the DA was a bad enough selection by the Mayor (who she worked for) and Council and now you want a former out of town clueless cop Harness to replace her?

The Councilors likely bothered to read the resumes of those many extremely qualified applicants for the APD Chief job before blessing the incompetent bureaucrat Eden. Likely the Councilors also never read the resumes of the five applicants for this Executive Director position-resumes we were not allowed to see for some unknown reason.

Realizing that this is a dictatorship here with the Councilors choosing to abdicate its role as an integral part of our government, the nine likely never reviewed the GOV-TV interviews with the five (handpicked by who?) candidates to see how they responded to the often too broad questions posed them by you on the 29th.

Choosing the clearly unqualified Edward Harness to be your first choice was disappointing to say the least. If this former cop is chosen, the oversight process will still be toothless-yet another example of disrespect shown to us citizens-the real stakeholders who want real reform from the ED-not the ones the Mayor chooses.

Time to rethink your choice.

TO: The Honorable Police Oversight Board Members

Info to City Councilors and Bcc to others

After viewing your meeting on GOV-TV last night that included interviews of five candidates for the "Executive Director of POA, the following are some of my observations/questions:

- 1. I assume that since current interim Executive Director Ms. Hammer was not interviewed, she did not apply for this POA Executive Director position or being considered as a sixth candidate
- 2. The talk by attorney Alan Wagman was right on target saying essentially that this selection is critically important-that we don't need more of the same (translated-not another Robin Hammer)
- 3. This position never required that it be an attorney when Ms. Hammer was hired for the IRO job since an attorney is already assigned to the IRO-yet all were attorneys.
- 4. Who chose these five candidates who you interviewed and more importantly who decided that you had to send three of the five interviewed to the Council to pick one? Only one stood out!
- 5. You saw their resumes-something that should have also been posted on the website. One candidate-a former Colorado sheriff's deputy had conflicting-erroneous information on his resume
- 6. Two of the applicants were former law enforcement/police officers both of whom had beliefs like Ms. Hammer.

Your selection decision is easy.

The only candidate that stood head and shoulders above the other four was former IRO during 2002-2007 Jay Rowland.

Based on his demonstrated knowledge of this job and expected respect by both the many APD honest police officers and the people, only Jay should be nominated to the City Council.

The only other even remotely credible candidate of the other four interviewed was Edna Sprague.

After Edna has the opportunity to review all of the GOV-TV interviews today, she too would likely believe that Jay would be the right choice.

All: Ryan Boetel of the ABQ Journal called me and did a quick interview regarding the CPOA Executive Director candidates (3 min and 41 seconds, to be exact).

Ryan asked about the three candidates, how we chose and why we ranked them the way we did. I told him that had an excellent group of candidates from which to choose, that we reviewed applications and a writing assignment from each one, followed up by interviews of 5 people. I said that Mr. Harness was our first choice based on his experience with Values Based Policing, his experience with successful oversight elsewhere, and being a fresh set of eyes to see the issues in ABQ. I said that Jay Rowland was the former IRO, and a fine candidate with experience under the prior system, and I said that Edna Sprague was an excellent lawyer with a successful background as a prosecutor who rounded out the group, and that the entire group was excellent, but that we were required to rank them and we did.

He asked about whether Robin Hammer applied and why she wasn't selected. I told him that it wouldn't be right for me to discuss any of the candidates who weren't selected, that not being selected wasn't a slight against any of them. He then said, "But I know that Ms. Hammer did apply, was she interviewed?" And I said that we had a very good group of candidates, and that not being selected wasn't a slight against any of them, including Ms. Hammer, that it was extremely competitive and that we selected the three to send to Council that we thought would be the best. He asked a different way about why Robin wasn't selected, and I repeated myself word for word, after which he gave up.

He asked how soon the new person would be in place, and I told him that we hoped that Council would move for immediate action and select their choice on August 17th.

He asked my position on the POB, and I said "co-Vice Chair" and "Chair of the Personnel Committee", this seemed to confuse him, but he just said, "Okay, uh, thanks", and the interview was done (incoming call at 2:39 pm, lasting 3 min and 41 seconds)..

I just wanted to let everyone know that I did speak with him. Hopefully he won't misquote me too badly. I aspired to be thoughtful in my answers, and take the high road. -B

Dave -

I appreciate your concern, but I think that all your concerns are all based on a misunderstanding of this process, so perhaps that means I have been unclear in trying to provide you with all of the information and procedures involved, and you're now confused. Let me try again.

To answer your questions: There were 7 "Yes", applicants, 3 "Maybe", and 8 "No". One "Yes" person withdrew, leaving the 6 remaining, which correspond with the 6 sets of materials which I previously sent out. I don't think I ever said there were 8 "yes" candidates, but if I said that, it was in error.

I thought that I already sent out the interview questions, but maybe I didn't attach it. There are six questions, plus one which is an opportunity for the applicants to tell us anything they wish. The questions are attached to this email. These questions were approved by the Personnel Subcommittee in a public meeting.

The questions as formatted presume a simple scoring method, as I've discussed, but that is just a proposal. The POB will decide in the public meeting to use the proposed scoring or a scoring system of our own design at the meeting; if we change the scoring system, we will have to hand-write the new scoring system on the sheets, but that is easily done. All I ask is that whatever scoring system we use be easy to understand, unweighted, add up to some even number as the best possible attainable score, and have odd numbers as the individual components. (It's a statistical thing, with which you need not concern yourself).

Protocols for asking questions, including who will ask which question, along with any change to the scoring, and so on, will be the first task of the POB in our meeting on July 29th.

Your concern about employer liability is because you have combined verification of employment with reference checks, but those things are done separately, and should not be a concern. Verification of employment (did they work there, are they eligible for rehire) may be done by POB members, or we may ask the City HR department to take care of that for us; I had originally said that I could do it, but this thing has turned into a huge amount of work for me, so I'm taking back my offer to do the whole thing. I would propose that the City can do their own employment verification - there's not that much too it. Also, the City has a background check release form, which some candidates have already signed, and others will be asked to bring to their interview, which covers the City's liability, and by extension us.

As a separate issue, each candidate gave us references - those references will be asked the reference questions. Some of the references may also be employers, but most are not. The applicants gave us these references with the understanding that we'd be asking reference questions of them, one would hope that they'd pick a reference who wouldn't say anything that would cause the applicant to sue their own reference, but one never knows. I'm not worried about it.

As for Mark looking at our questions, he already looked at the raw proposed questions and had input, but the fact is that Assistant City Attorney Samantha Hults is our only lawyer for employment matters, and she had already taken a look at our entire process, including the questions for the interview and references, so I think we're good. She will definitely let us know if there's a problem.

Hopefully this clears up everything. I know we're all looking forward to getting to the successful conclusion of this hiring process, and getting back to what we actually signed up for, which is civilian oversight.

Please, all, be careful about replying to this email - we are not crafting this process via email, this process was crafted during the public Personnel Subcommittee meeting, and will be refined during the public POB meeting on Wednesday.

Beth, Thanks for the clarification. I understood that one person had withdrawn, but thought that was from the original 8 which your subcommittee had approved, leaving 7. I did not realize that there was an additional withdrawal since. But 6 are certainly easier than 7, so I've no complaint.

I realize you're doing a massive amount of work and much appreciate such. Notwithstanding, I have two further items for clarification. You make reference to "six questions" that each interviewee will be asked at our upcoming Wednesday night meeting. I'd like to see those six questions in advance in order to be better prepared to evaluate the answers thereto. Who will be asking those questions; will we each and all take turns?

Second, I looked over the post-interview reference check form that you prepared and with which you'll be asking some of us to help. And I'm somewhat amazed by it. As someone who's done a fair amount of hiring over the years I long ago came to understand that, for legal liability reasons, reference request responses should be limited to: 1. The person actually worked here -- yes or no? 2. Date placed on payroll and date removed from payroll. 3. Eligible for rehire -- yes or no?

Anything further, such as almost all the reference questions you plan for us to ask, exposes a former employer to possible legal action by the former employee. So I must say you should check out those questions with our attorney Mark Baker before you actually have us use them. Sorry, but that's reality as I've known it.

Blessings, Beth. You're doing wonderful work overall! -- Dave Ring

Hello -

I am writing to you because I have been in discussion with community members and organizations regarding an upcoming exhibition that at the UNM Art Museum "Necessary Force: Art in the Police State" (see description below). I am organizing educational programming that will invite a diverse range of topics to be discussed and we would like to include a voice that represents how local law enforcement is working with the ABQ community. Is there anybody that I can meet with regarding this? I want to explain the exhibition in further detail and also talk about programming.

The bridge between the community and law enforcement is an important one - and I feel like the work you are doing is crucial to building solutions.

Good morning Beth,

Yes, this is exciting news! Thanks to all who have worked diligently to bring the NACOLE conference to Albuquerque in 2016. Having worked at the National level on conferences, I know this is quite an honor and privilege.

As chair of the Outreach Subcommittee, I am happy to work closely with you to discuss preliminary planning. I agree, it is a good idea to schedule a time to meet with NACOLE Board members during the conference this fall. This should be a topic of discussion during our next Board meeting; that is, if it is "official" by then.

Have a wonderful day,
Jeannette

The other choice was Detroit, but Detroit dropped the ball and missed a deadline, so ABQ was chosen.

Jay Rowland originally put in for the NACOLE conference about 10 years ago, and folks have been trying every since, so it's very exciting that this is finally going to happen. Cudos to Robin and the CPOA Staff for continuing to work on this with the Convention & Visitor's Bureau folks.

Cameron stated that they normally don't select a City when there is a potential change in Executive Directors, but she told me that since so many of the NACOLE Board members still keep in touch with me, and they knew I was one of the POB members, that they decided to select Albuquerque anyway. They are a really nice group at NACOLE, and it was very kind of her to say that.

Carmon is looking forward to meeting many of you this fall at the NACOLE conference in Riverside. We should schedule a time for POB and CPOA Staff members to meet with NACOLE Board members and do some advance planning. We will be expected to speak at the Conference in at least one slot, and I've already spoken there a couple of times, so we need other POB members who are willing to participate to think about doing that.

Thanks again to all who made this possible - the official announcement will be forthcoming in the next few weeks. Thanks, -B

All: On July 24th, the POB's Personnel Subcommittee met and evaluated the candidates supplied to us by City HR. To guide our decisions, we utilized a matrix based on the job description you all created, the NACOLE standards for executives, and discussion that the POB and Subcommittee had about the traits we desired in a candidate. We did not score applicants, but used these documents as a guide, along with the applicant's application, writing assignment and any other materials they provided. We divided candidates into "Yes", "Maybe" and "No" piles based on this protocol. The City asked us to invite one candidate for an interview based on Military Service, per a City policy. In the end, we had 8 "Yes" candidates, 3 "Maybe" candidates and 8 "No" candidates, as listed below. We further decided that if 3 or more of the "Yes" candidates withdrew, we would invite the "Maybe" candidates.

The list of "Yes" candidates below have been invited to the interview on Wednesday, July 29th. I have spoken with all of them. IT took a couple of days to reach everyone. Only one candidate has withdrawn. After some consideration, J. (James) Richard Brown has decided to withdraw, I will forward his email of explanation to you. At this point, we have 7 candidates to interview on July 29th, therefore, we will not be inviting the "Maybe" candidates.

The subcommittee also went through interview questions proposed by us, other members of the POB, Mr. Baker, Ms. Hults, APD officers, and a few others. All proposed questions were considered. In the end, 6 questions were selected, hopefully these questions will help us discern which of these candidates are our top three, and rank them for City Council to select one. I will send you the questions, and I will bring print-outs for everyone to use at the July 29th meeting. We propose that each answered question be scored by each POB member during the interviews. After the interviews are conducted, we will have a brief Executive Session (if so approved by the POB during the meeting) where we can discuss the relative merits of the candidates and tally scores. We will then return to the public meeting and vote to rank the top three candidates, and send their names to Council.

After that, the City will conduct a background check on the top three candidates, prior to any vote by Council. The Personnel Subcommittee also created a set of questions to ask references. The POB can decide how to divide up the task of reference checks at the meeting. There is a July 31st Personnel Subcommittee meeting during which we can discuss any findings of the reference checks which require further action.

I have committed to contact all of the candidates who will not be offered an interview, and let them know the status. I didn't want them to find out that they weren't selected when they saw the other candidates interviewing on TV or read about it in the newspaper.

I will send you the complete packets for each of the 7 remaining candidates. Please spend some time reviewing their qualifications, as that is still a relevant part of your decision, along with the interview. I will also send you the questions we'll be asking at the interview, so you can review them.

I know there's one or two of you who will not be able to attend the meeting, it is very important that everyone who possibly can be there to participate in this process.

Please avoid hitting "reply all" or communicating about this outside of the public meeting. We will deal with questions and any housekeeping matters at the beginning of the meeting to ensure that we're all on the same page before we take our first interview. I'll see you all on July 29th, we begin promptly at 5:30.

Thanks much, -B

Dear Candidates: (BCC'd on this email)

Today the Police Oversight Board held a special meeting and ranked our top three Executive Director candidates to sent to Council. The POB is acutely aware that our selection for Executive Director will have an impact on this community for years to come. Therefore, with much deliberation, we selected the following candidates to forward to Council for their ultimate selection:

1. Edward Harness
2. Jay Rowland
3. Edna Sprague

The POB extends a sincere thanks to all of the candidates. Every candidate was given consideration, and our selections were as the result of several hours of thoughtful discussion and deliberations.

City Council is free to selected any one of these names, without regard to our ranking of them, and offer that person the position. If Council's first choice does not accept the position, they may offer to a second choice; if their second choice does not accept the position they are obligated to ask us to start the search over again. We have no idea what action Council will take; it is difficult to predict the actions of those over whom we have no control.

We expect that Council will take up this matter for a vote at their August 17th meeting. I'm not exactly sure how you will be contacted about their choice, but presumably someone from Council staff will take care of that detail.

In the mean time, if each of the top three candidates would kindly let me know how soon you could start if you are selected, that would help the POB with our short-term planning.

If any of you would like to discuss this matter with me, please feel free to call me at [REDACTED]

Sue - Questions like this are public record requests, so we'll let Mark Baker respond officially. Anything the POB reviews during a police meeting becomes public record after the meeting. We are not handing out people's CVs at all, any request for those would be directed to the City. We are also not going to discuss candidates and who did or not did receive an invitation to interview. Anything about Ms. Hammer might also be protected personnel information. In other words, we at the POB will not be releasing any of this information. If someone wants to make a public record request that will be handled by Mr. Baker on our behalf. Thanks, -B

Hi Sue,

I heard that the POB is interviewing a new exec director. For the July 29, 2015 meeting for interviews of a new executive Director for the POB, is there any info available as to who the candidates are who who have made it to the interview stage ? And have copies of their applications and CV's been made available to the public ? The city web sites indicates that the meeting time is from 5:30 to 9:30 PM. Is there any indication of if this means that once a new Executive Director is hired that Robin Hammer will be terminated? Is Hammer a candidate for this ED position ?

Will there be any public comment allowed at this meeting ?

Lots of questions and lots of interested community members!

Thank you for any info!

POB Members - Just for your information prior to the meeting so you can have time to read and digest this.

This is the one Grubestic article that really bothers me: This was written by him in the Spring of 2011, just a few years ago. I'm sure this was intended to be political satire, but it's still disturbing due to its violent imagery. I quote:

"New Mexico needs someone who can gut his own mother and eat her liver, chase it with a bottle of '82 Chateau Lafite and still have an appetite for a bucket of Häagen Dazs."

"New Mexico needs a senator with the morals of a tapeworm, the energy of a drug-addled mongoose and the cajones of a rutting moose. Somebody who can down a gallon of vodka, bed an intern and finagle funding out of an economy that is sputtering like an accountant with a speech impediment at an IRS audit."

After giving this some good thought, and in consideration of my other responsibilities as a member of the POB, I am writing to let you know I have decided it best to resign my position on the Policies and Procedures subcommittee this year, effective immediately.

As you and I have observed in discussions over the past month, Policies and Procedures is currently one member larger than other subcommittees. Given this fact, plus the observation I've articulated in several forums, and with which I know you agree--that the other subcommittees should be continually feeding into Policies and Procedures as a matter of course--I resign this committee knowing that the work is well covered and that we will be working closely on these tasks in any case. I do believe that my particular strengths and expertise are probably best suited for, and therefore best focused, on the committee I already chair, Case Review.

Thank you, Sue, for the work you've already accomplished to get this committee of the ground, and in advance, for the excellent work that I know will emerge from this committee as we move along. I look forward to working in close collaboration with you over the coming year.

Thanks, Robin. Thanks, Beth.

As I understand this, and as I've been moving forward myself as Chair of the Case Review Committee, the Board is working on policies and procedures through the already working subcommittees. I am, for instance, contributing to the work of outlining a hearty and final version of the "training" required before we are able to review cases at all, procedures for tracking the movement through the agency, policies regarding appropriate and timely delivery of investigated cases to the CRC and then the full POB, and policies and procedures regarding expedient and appropriate coordination of case review between the POB and APD.

As far as I know, Policies and Procedures has not yet met. Meantime, the working committees have found it necessary to spend most/all of their time in these first months of the Board's existence specifically on policies and procedures. My sense is that it's not necessary to convene the Policies and Procedures committee itself until the committees currently relegated to doing only policies and procedures work complete their preliminary tasks.

I'm reviewing the CPOA Web site this morning, and see that we are responsible for both a "Policies and Procedures" subcommittee and a "Rules and Regulations" subcommittee.

Did we actually do this to ourselves, or is this a miscommunication somehow?

Good to have this clarified in public, for sure, but my question is less one of our defined responsibility, and more pointing to questions of efficiency.

Neither of these committees is meeting, as far as I know, and now that we see clearly (see my two emails this morning) how 1) there is a definite overlap of activity at least for the short term (the question of whether Policies and Procedures is meeting and what we're actually doing in subcommittee meetings right now: investigating and recommending policies and procedures) and 2) there seem to be two committees afoot where one would/might suffice, I wonder if this isn't a necessary conversation for the Board now.

Either, as Scott says, whether to review the two (?) purpose/s given the changes since Mark arrived (this is the umbrella under which CRC, for instance, is considering a definitive schedule of training for POB members present and future), AND, now, I think, the question of whether we really need two separate committees (and if so, how to define the separate scope/s of their work).

That is helpful Scott. Thank you. Is it not also true that policy and procedure recommendations from POB to APD (51% of our output) be vetted thru the Policy and Procedures Committee prior to coming to the full POB?

Here's my understanding, for what it's worth...

The settlement agreement requires APD to send us (the board) any changes in their policy/procedures for review. It is my impression that this is what the Policies and Procedures committee was created to do. The past meeting, for example, was scheduled to review APD's new harassment/retaliation policy.

The rules and regulations committee was created before Mark was on board, and was set up to create the settlement agreement mandated rules and procedures for the Board hearing CPC's, etc. Mark is now handling that, so I'm not sure if this committee is necessary; however, I am still interested in being part of that review, whether through the committee or as part of the Board as a whole.

As I understand this, and as I've been moving forward myself as Chair of the Case Review Committee, the Board is working on policies and procedures through the already working subcommittees. I am, for instance, contributing to the work of outlining a hearty and final version of the "training" required before we are able to review cases at all, procedures for tracking the movement through the agency, policies regarding appropriate and timely delivery of investigated cases to the CRC and then the full POB, and policies and procedures regarding expedient and appropriate coordination of case review between the POB and APD.

As far as I know, Policies and Procedures has not yet met. Meantime, the working committees have found it necessary to spend most/all of their time in these first months of the Board's existence specifically on policies and procedures. My sense is that it's not necessary to convene the Policies and Procedures committee itself until the committees currently relegated to doing only policies and procedures work complete their preliminary tasks.

Good to have this clarified in public, for sure, but my question is less one of our defined responsibility, and more pointing to questions of efficiency.

Neither of these committees is meeting, as far as I know, and now that we see clearly (see my two emails this morning) how 1) there is a definite overlap of activity at least for the short term (the question of whether Policies and Procedures is meeting and what we're actually doing in subcommittee meetings right now: investigating and recommending policies and procedures) and 2) there seem to be two committees afoot where one would/might suffice, I wonder if this isn't a necessary conversation for the Board now.

Either, as Scott says, whether to review the two (?) purpose/s given the changes since Mark arrived (this is the umbrella under which CRC, for instance, is considering a definitive schedule of training for POB members present and future), AND, now, I think, the question of whether we really need two separate committees (and if so, how to define the separate scope/s of their work).

I completed my first ride-along with Eric Nelson during the weeks of the Academy. I don't have the exact date easily accessible, but I'd imagine ABD is keeping track. Lt. Rodgers doesn't have these?

The second is to be scheduled this month, though I had to tell Lt. Rodgers that I wasn't available until after the week of July 13th; I believe he is working on the last week of August. Lt. Rodgers has been responsive and proactive in this work, but I've had scheduling issues.

I will let Paul know as soon as the 2nd is complete.

After you sent me that information, I emailed Eric. When I learned that neither he nor Joanne could attend I cancelled the meeting. I would not have cancelled based on the posting time without first consulting with the City Attorney, but that wasn't necessary since there wouldn't be a quorum anyway.

Dear POB Members:

Last Thursday I wrote a letter to the City's Chief Administrative Officer (CAO), Robert Perry, stating why I thought the Board's reprimand was invalid based on my appointment contract, city ordinances and regulations. It occurred to me over the weekend that I should probably share briefly what I wrote him. I wanted to make sure the full POB was also aware of my contract terms, the controlling laws, and rules for my remaining time as a unclassified, department director with the City.

Under my employment contract with the City the POB can only recommend termination to the City's Chief Administrative Officer, and even then, only after giving me notice, holding hearing, and allowing an opportunity to be heard. Pursuant to Sections 3-1-2(C) and 3-1-2(C) (3) of the City ordinances "the Chief Administrative Officer shall have the following authority: ... (3) To reprimand, suspend, demote or discharge unclassified employees and to reprimand, suspend, demote or discharge classified employees for just cause. (emphasis added). No one has delegated the CAO's exclusive authority to the POB. See also City Personal regulation 902.3- The City Personal Regulations confirm this exclusive authority of the CAO to discipline department heads, such as myself, "No person except the Chief Administrative Officer shall discipline directors or the Internal Auditor." See also the City's Charter, Article X.

Out of an abundance of caution, as you may know, I have filed a grievance with the City Human Resources Department to appeal the Letter of Reprimand, both upon the facts and the law. (Just as the POB had no authority to issue me a reprimand, the Human Resources Department has no authority to review the discipline issued to department heads.)

As you know, the POB Personnel Subcommittee chose not to forward my application to the full POB for consideration to be selected as the Executive Director. I will continue to diligently work in my position Acting Executive Director until my contract expires. I would appreciate the Board respecting what are clearly my legal rights until that time.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Robin

Silvio, I contacted Mr Rickman and got this community meeting together. I, therefore, accept responsibility for the fact that the publicity was not concluded in the manner you expected. I will explain further in my following message to you personally as this particular meeting was never envisaged to involve most of the people on this distribution list. I'll write to you personally now.

Go well

It may have not been secret to some but I saw nothing about it on TV or Journal- the reason for my e-mail to James Ginger. He may be a good guy but he knowingly is powerless under the agreement but he got his $4.5 million. Like these bogus $15K UNM run collaboratives, is this just more of the same City directed PR scams to pretend they really care what we say about APD?

I would have thought that the P&J folks would have put something out on it with those of us to the stop violence in abq address list.. What is Friday's agenda? Just an update by Ginger and Rickman or more?

Nothing has really changed for the better in APD since James Ginger and his fellow former cops in PMR Inc were hired and Greenwood rehired. APD still shoots people and don't release recordings. Now they are in an outrage that both Sandy and Perez were charged with murder. The smug two killers thought the judge would be intimidated-wouldn't have the guts to charge them.

Hope media picks up on P&J meeting Friday. Who is Steve Rickman? Who is this "someone" who asked Rickman to come? More divide and conquer tactics?

Seems like the Councilors couldn't care less whether APD reform ever occurs. Nobody even dared challenge the Mayor's $120+ million ART, his dictatorial position on even a changed version to the Fair Workweek Act, and the much needed ban on kids out at 2PM in the morning that Joline in Journal today tried to claim is somehow beyond a loving mother's control. Really?

Unlike allowing them to negotiate with their parents as equal decision makers, as Dianne Goodman said was necessary Monday in her/this new/misguided approach to parenting, good parents don't negotiate.

See also how a deputy city attorney I met with today somehow couldn't justify why the attendees at the collaboratives weren't in the $10K UNM reports and why I have to go to UNM to find out the qualifications of those who were their facilitators. Meanwhile Berry's new version of Dave Tourek-another Guv discard-Jessica Hernandez remains in hiding like her boss. She is another high paid City embarrassment!

APD's leadership beginning with those in the Mayor's office are like a cancer that we have been forced to live with too long. The DOJ agreement won't fix it.

Anyone bet that when Sandy and Perez go to trial that the jury will have enough courage to convict them? Not here! The jurors will be afraid of APD retaliation, just like the very few honest councilors.

Thanks

Silvio

I am terribly disappointed by the delay recommended by City Council President Rey Garduno to act on the CPOA Executive Director position. As a member of POB, I feel as if we have been in a "holding pattern" for months; despite the numerous hours of service we have provided the citizens of Albuquerque.

As chair of the POB Outreach Subcommittee, be advised that we are in the process of hiring a Community Engagement Specialist [as required by the consent agreement]. Because the Executive Director is required to hire the Community Engagement Specialist, filling this position will also be delayed. The advertised position closed on July 13th. I'm concerned that, as with the Executive Director position, the most qualified candidates may withdraw (or possibly have withdrawn) due to the excessive delay.

I respectfully ask President Garduno to reconsider his decision and lift this "holding pattern" by acting on the Executive Director position tomorrow so we can move forward as a Board.

Thank you in advance for your consideration.

Jeannette Baca, Ed.D., LPC

City Council President Rey Garduño has decided to introduce OC-15-25, Selection of the Executive Director of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency, at the City Council meeting on Monday, August 17th and hold it over to the following City Council meeting on September 9th for Final Action.

President Garduño understands the urgency in filling this position, but wants to ensure that the Council has adequate time for each Councilor to review each candidate's material and possibly meet with them. President Garduño appreciates the diligent work of the Police Oversight Board on this issue and he understands the importance of the position, however, he also wants to ensure the Council makes the right decision in order to continue to move civilian oversight in Albuquerque in the right direction.

Any insight you all can share with me on this? I know there are Board members pretty upset.

City Council President Rey Garduño has decided to introduce OC-15-25, Selection of the Executive Director of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency, at the City Council meeting on Monday, August 17th and hold it over to the following City Council meeting on September 9th for Final Action.

President Garduño understands the urgency in filling this position, but wants to ensure that the Council has adequate time for each Councilor to review each candidate's material and possibly meet with them. Councilor Garduño also wants to allot enough time for the candidates to arrange their schedules to attend the City Council meeting and be available to answer any questions from City Councilors.

President Garduño appreciates the diligent work of the Police Oversight Board on this issue and he understands the importance of the position, however, he also wants to ensure the Council makes the right decision in order to continue to move civilian oversight in Albuquerque in the right direction.

Julian, We were first told that Council would "absolutely" take this up on August 3rd. That promise was broken. Then we were told to just be patient and you all would handle this on the 17th. Again, those words meant nothing. Now we're told to wait again, meanwhile, we may lose our top candidate to another position. We have certainly lost additional momentum and time with these needless delays. The community has all but given up hope that we will be meaningful.

We were also told that Council would absolutely respect our first choice and want to select that person. Is that agreement meaningless as well?

I can't speak for the rest of the POB members, but I've invested over 300 hours of my time since being appointed, and have very little to show for my efforts. I'm extremely disappointed in Council's lack of support for our efforts.

For some time now, my email quote for the POB has been the following:

Good morning,

If you are taking the SuperShuttle from the Airport to your hotel, they are usually readily available at the airport. The cost of the Supershuttle is $39.00 for the first passenger and $9.00 for each additional. They take cash and Credit Cards. You can also go to their website at <http://www.supershuttle.com/> and reserve your spot in advance. I spoke with a representative at Supershuttle, and they confirmed that reservations are recommended but not required.

In the event there is no Supershuttle at the airport when you arrive, there is a Kiosk that you can utilize to call for a ride. I have confirmed with both the Mission Inn Hotel and the Marriott Riverside at the Convention Center that the SuperShuttle does pick up and drop off at their hotels.

There is also taxi service available.

If you have questions, please let me know.

Thanks.

I'm just seeing this now, so you've probably already got this solved, but wanted to respond. The links work fine from my compute, Joanne, so maybe just cut and paste the URLs? And/or, you can go to the TED site, and search for the relevant talks by the speaker's name and talk title, which are part of each URL.

Hi, Leonard.

Here are the two documents Ms. Ngoran has provided as pre-work for our Sept. 3rd training. Will you please make sure all board members receive these documents. She has asked that the appropriate pieces ("inventory") be returned to her by 8/29.

Thank you. I'm excited about the work here; I think it will be a useful and meaningful part of our continuing work together. We'll certainly have the potential to be a very well-oiled machine when all is said and done!

Best,

Moira

Silvio,

Thanks for adding me to this email.

We filed an IPRA for the 19 applicants- an IPRA was required because, well, to be honest it was us. The Records request process allows 15 days ( legitimate days) for records to be produced. Of course for us, ( and by 'us', I mean the people, community, YOU or I) the process took the maximum time allotted.

For media, and guys like Dan McKay, that process is, I'm guessing here, but probably easier. Submitting an IPRA is not a requirement in receiving public documents as much as it is the process to ensuring due process afforded in NM Sunshine Laws. Often mainstreamers

You and other reporters there could take some lessons from the objective reporters at the ABQ Free Press on TV, bloggers and other news sources who have more credibility than any of you Journal reporters or your editorial board. You should be ashamed.

We expect soon to see an Journal editorial blessing the selection by the POB and Councilors of Harness-clearly the wrong as well as unqualified man for the job

Maybe if your Journal predecessor Jim Ludwick leaves the Animal Welfare Department, Berry might hire you to replace him as a reward to your loyalty to him and APD.

As for the Department's head Barbara Bruin, the only experience I had with her was to see the professionalism and integrity she showed to me and my neighbors to personally resolve a barking dog problem in our neighborhood.

Time to think of another profession Dan and/or look yourself in the mirror. You are an embarrassment to the news/journalistic profession.

See my e-mail below and that from Paul Livingston.

TO: COUNCILORS

(info to those shown and not shown)

YOUR DISRESPECT FOR US AND THE CITY'S DISRESPECT SHOWN TO COUNCILOR GIBSON

Last night during the first 2 ½ hours, you tolerated the idiot treatment given to Councilor Gibson by Berry's disgraceful personal (not our City) attorney Jessica Hernandez and by CAO Perry trying to justify giving pay increases to the already overpaid Command staff while denying it to the rank and file.

Cops on the beat who talk to me knowing I would not reveal who they are, have told me what is really needed in APD is for all of the Command staff to retire or be fired- not have their already high pay raised. The presence of the disgraceful Eden and his fellow contemptuous of you command staff thugs in the back of the room was nothing but pure intimidation of you

After waiting 3 ½ hours along with others who signed up to speak last night (many of whom left in disgust including POB chairman Leonard Waites), I stayed.

Had we been given more than 2 minutes, all would have condemned the over 2 ½ hours you wasted on far too many long proclamations, the Q&A and considering Councilor Harris' bill before the public comment period. During the 2 ½ hours before you took your dinner break it's clear that you obviously like to hear yourselves talk/pontificate on local issues things that could have been resolved with the administration in non Council meeting communications.

But instead we public speakers were deemed by you to be unimportant much like APS's School Board's blatant disrespect of other citizens over the Valentino affair of which Councilor Brad Winter while still at APS was complicit in what Valentino had done.

One of the questions you chose to never ask of the arrogant Chief Eden was just what specifically were the alleged 3,400 APD calls for service over the past weekend by APD as reported in the September 9 Albuquerque Journal? How many of these were just calls to 911? Did these calls to 911 constitute 90% or more of the calls for service and not actual police responses? Or didn't you care?

The Journal article cited only five incidences over the weekend that APD responded to. Yet fiscally irresponsible Councilor Sanchez who seemingly treats our taxes as nothing more than play or fun money claims in the absence of a long overdue resource allocation study by the Chief says that we ought to increase APD's manpower to possibly as high as 1500 as the Chief wants but can never justify.

THE EYE AND ABQ FREE PRESS

See the September 9 (previously dormant since July 7) Eye on Albuquerque posting "The Thin Blue Line" at <http://eyeonalbuquerque.blogspot.com/> . It properly places the blame for all of the APD problems squarely on the "politicians who have created this mess and have no clue how to fix it."

"Having no clue" was too nice a description for the damned politicians here who do have a clue/know how to fix it but don't have the guts or integrity to do it. You know that this criticism includes you but you choose to be in denial about this "uncomfortable truth." One local journalist properly said you nine-like this Mayor are the worst of any in this city's history. .

Also check out the latest September 9 issue of the ABQ Free Press that includes columns by another disgusted retired cop Dan Klein and articles by Joe Monahan and other writers. This ABQ Press issue (unlike the Berry Journal) speaks the truth about the complicit Berry Journal, Mayor Berry, Governor Martinez and her machine.

It also has articles about APD's former IPRA directed stonewaller and now whistleblower Reynaldo Chavez, the top APD brass worrying that their illegal bonuses are on the front burner and Berry's Convention Center insider the ACRV who has been ripping taxpayers off for years despite their abysmal performance.

Seems like you nine couldn't care less with any of this-nor do the other politicians in NM.

MY AND OTHERS' TALKS MONDAY

Before I spoke, Tony Pirard gave you an earful but you brushed him off as you do with all of us. Tony, like me is far too blunt-won't mince words about his disgust with the culture of corruption here. It extends to US Attorney Damon Martinez and Judge Brack-the reason he was visited twice by Damon's US Marshals for daring to criticize Martinez, Brack and others here.

When I finally spoke, you again showed disrespect to me when my upside down flag-an official US Flag code signal of distress-something that this city is in was put on the overhead projector and again was not shown on GOV-TV as yet another blatant example of censorship. Neither did you show any of the other public speakers' overhead projector presentations on GOV-TV.

In addition to the many earlier e-mails sent you opposing the selection of former cop Ed Harness who was clearly unqualified to be the POB's first choice to be the next POA Executive Director (ED) my talk was again critical of all of the previous foxes (former cops) assigned to guard the hen house.

I expressed my disgust for the POB preference for Harness who as Tony Pirard also said was not only clueless about our city's oversight process but was an embarrassing choice. Ed's only job as a mediator in Milwaukee was in a chump change paying job working for the Better Business Bureau. His only claimed police oversight experience was confined to his local village.

MORE FOXES GUARDING THE HEN HOUSE

After abdicating your responsibility to us when choosing to be MIA in the negotiations with the DOJ, you first blessed the Mayor's hiring of Schultz's Taser buddies former Cincinnati police Chief Tom Streicher whose Department was also a mess and investigated by the DOJ. This was yet another fox guarding the henhouse. You also hired his and Schultz's lying to you attorney buddy Scott Greenwood. .

You also cared little that Judge Brack chose the toothless PMR inc made up mostly of former cops to merely monitor-"audit" APD. Yet even more foxes guarding the hen house. Then-not surprisingly last night you chose yet another former cop/fox Ed Harness to be the new Executive Director of the Police Oversight Agency never really challenging his sweet sounding B.S-eloquently blowing the same smoke at you that he had done earlier to the POB during their interviews with him and the four others.

Your failure to use due diligence in his selection was the very same thing you did when never bothering to check the resume of all 40+ applicants for the APD Chief's job (most with eye-watering qualifications) before you blessed Berry's clearly unqualified Eden.

Many or most of you apparently never bothered to see the POB interviews with the five then candidates for the important ED job and never questioned the lack of experience of Ed Harness before approving him. Another fox guarding the hen house.

After me, Barbara Grothus also told you how you have willing become part of the problem rather than the solution here but you brushed her off as well. She made the same points as in the Eye posting. You nine, Jessica Hernandez and Perry also gave the idiot treatment to Dianne Goodman regarding a bond question to be put on the ballot.

THE KNOWINGLY CLUELESS-EVEN ARROGANT CITIZENS YOU NAMED TO THE POB INCLUDED ONE CONDESCENDING ELITIST AND TWO FORMER POLICE OFFICERS

Rather than former LAPD police officer Beth Mohr who conducted the POB's interviews and promoted Harness for the job in the press showing up to talk, it was Dr. Moira Amado McCoy. She, like Beth and the others on the POB have never been involved in the old oversight process was the first to speak trying to defend their selection of Harness. You councilors were afraid of appointing knowledgeable people like us to the POB.

In McCoy's presentation, she demonstrated to all that she was an elitist who would repeatedly talk down to you and the rest of us as if we were all idiots-not up to her perceived PhD intellect. She would say that being an attorney was important for the ED although the POB already has an attorney. She incredulously deemed experience here irrelevant but claimed Harness was instead a "transformational leader-a collaborator." She also questioned our allegedly "dichotomous thinking" saying police are not enemies of the people.

She either naively or intentionally ignored the fact that bad-unaccountable APD officers and their leaders do in fact view themselves as enemies of the people. It's "them vs. us" as APOA VP Willoughby reminded the union rank and file in his secret 2013 memo previously sent you.

McCoy would further claim that being a collaborator (even working for the BBB in Milwaukee), rather than having relevant police oversight experience here was very important. (Memo to Maiora-That's NOT what the key job of the ED job is.)

Then it was POB member Joanne Fine who also said that experience here particularly in the past and current oversight process was also not that important. As I said POB President Waites left rather than speak.

Now with Harness, you have three other former cops in the Police Oversight Agency. This includes POB member and another strong Harness advocate former LAPD cop Beth Mohr, POB member Jeff Wilson and even one Executive Director's investigator-a former Belen senior police officer. It's clear where their loyalties lie. You know it but don't care.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR CANDIDATES SPEAK

Candidate and current NM prosecutor Ms Sprague during her talk pointed out that it was vitally important that people know the situation here and also that she is not a former police officer. That was right on.

The most qualified candidate Jay Rowland who was urged by the former IRO Judge Deaton to succeed him years ago proved from his interview with the POB and talk before you that he was the best man for the job. Likely he wasn't the Chief's or Mayor's choice who likely the POB first checked with as Jay was viewed as too knowledgeable-thus too dangerous.

During his talk, Harness claimed that being "empathetic and not intimidated" was his "persona." He then incredulously claimed the toothless settlement agreement between Berry's Cincinnati mercenaries and DOJ signed by Judge Brick was credible.

Ed also talked about APD's "core values" but never mentioned or discussed them. Any core values APD has are a joke-mere propaganda. He said the police nationwide are going through a "paradigm shift." Translated-this means there is now citizen and DOJ pressure to make them accountable, forcing them to wear body cameras and no longer above the law as our police officers have been here for far too long and still are.

While claiming he "empathizes" with police officers, Ed claimed he never said an officer's life was more important than that of a citizen. In fact contrary to his interview with the POB and what's in his resume, this man has shown himself to be dishonest regarding this. He is part of the brotherhood.

Ed showed no understanding that under the new Ordinance that APD Chief Eden still has the final decision in any police officer's punishment and can essentially ignore the POB as Schultz did to the old POC. A citizens' only recourse is to file a civil lawsuit.

I don't know who found Ed Harness in Milwaukee if not APD but it was clear Ed was making chump change working for the BBB there.

It's not clear why there had to be a secret ballot rather than have us see last night just who of you voted for Harness as the first choice. It showed your cowardice. Yet one Councilor claimed your votes would be later revealed.

POB'S VIOLATION OF THE OPEN MEETINGS ACT

Below is an e-mail you received yesterday from Attorney Paul Livingston with his attachment. It demonstrates just how bad this Police Oversight Agency Executive Director selection process was corrupted-but you don't care. It's really the way it is here as corruption is a part of our NM culture and few care while most feel that nothing they do will ever change it..

Disgusted with all of you and Berry's traitors of we the people

Subject: Notice of Violations of NM Open Meetings Act by the CPOA

Dear City Councilors,

Attached is a letter giving notice of violations of the New Mexico Open Meetings Act by the Citizens' Police Oversight Agency concerning the selection of an Executive Director. As the attorney representing Mark Bralley and Vecinos United, I sought and secured a Writ of Mandamus ordering the Police Oversight Board to hold its selection of an Independent Review Officer "openly and in public in accordance with the mandatory provisions of the New Mexico Open Meetings Act." That was sixteen years ago, in 1999.

Unfortunately, City attorneys and officials are engaging in the same misconduct now with respect to selection of an Executive Director of the new Citizens' Police Oversight Agency. Please review the attached letter, and consider whether the City would be making the same mistake it made 16 years ago and whether the selection of a Director today would be in accordance with law and the rights of the people to know about the operations of their government. Thank you.

All: After the POB meeting on the 29th, but before the Personnel Subcommittee meeting on July 31st, we will need to check references on our top three candidates. Because time is so short, we'll need to divide these up and have folks call on all of the references, and report anything unusual to the Subcommittee. If all of the references are fine, we'll probably just cancel this personnel subcommittee meeting, and Council will select their choice of candidates, hopefully at their next meeting of August 3rd.

Enclosed is the reference check form. Please look at your schedule and carve out some availability to be able to contribute to this task. We'll hand out these assignments at the end of the POB meeting on the 29th. Thanks, -B

Subject: Required Ride Alongs
Date: Tuesday, September 29, 2015 1:17:13 PM

Greetings everyone,

I had a meeting this morning with the Quality Assurance Auditors from APD. They are the people who are responsible for making sure that APD and the CPOA are meeting their requirements as set forth in the Settlement Agreement. Chairman Waites, Board Member Fine, and your legal counsel were also in attendance. One of the things they asked about was compliance with ride alongs. As you are all aware, members of the POB must complete two ride alongs every six months.

The old process required your coordination through the former Executive Director. That process has now changed. There is a Sergeant from APD named Kenneth Johnston, who will now coordinate all of your ride alongs. He has that responsibility assigned to him by APD because someone needs to collect the ride along waivers you all sign at the beginning of your ride along. Those waivers will be saved and used as proof of compliance. They will be submitted to the monitor for each reporting period. So...

I believe that everyone completed your required ride alongs for the first six months. Alas, we are in a new six month period so everyone will need to complete their required ride alongs by February 2, 2016. Please coordinate your ride alongs through Sgt. Kenneth Johnston. He can be reached at telephone number 980-8275. His e-mail is kjohnston@cabq.gov.

It was suggested that when you sign your waiver that you obtain a copy of it for your records as well as for records being kept here in the office.

Please let me know if you have any questions regarding the above.

Sincerely,
Paul Skotchdopole

We are trying to document completed Ride-Alongs and to schedule the second Ride-Alongs required by the DOJ Consent Decree and Ordinance. Dave Ring is the only Board Member who has emailed me with the dates and times that he completed both his required Ride-Alongs. Beth Mohr indicated that she went on a Ride-Along on Saturday, May 9, 2015 but we do not have the name of the officer. If you have completed any Ride-Alongs, please email me and Paul Cash, the date, time, and name of the officer, so that we may update the CPOA Records.

If you have not completed two Ride-Alongs, please email me and Lt. Shane Rodgers at APD to schedule these. Lt. Rodgers is assigned to coordinate POB Ride-Alongs. His email is above. His phone number is [REDACTED]

Dear POB Members:

Last Thursday I wrote a letter to the City's Chief Administrative Officer (CAO), Robert Perry, stating why I thought the Board's reprimand was invalid based on my appointment contract, city ordinances and regulations. It occurred to me over the weekend that I should probably share briefly what I wrote him. I wanted to make sure the full POB was also aware of my contract terms, the controlling laws, and rules for my remaining time as a unclassified, department director with the City.

Under my employment contract with the City the POB can only recommend termination to the City's Chief Administrative Officer, and even then, only after giving me notice, holding hearing, and allowing an opportunity to be heard. Pursuant to Sections 3-1-2(C) and 3-1-2(C)(3) of the City ordinances "the Chief Administrative Officer shall have the following authority: ... (3) To reprimand, suspend, demote or discharge unclassified employees and to reprimand, suspend, demote or discharge classified employees for just cause. (emphasis added). No one has delegated the CAO's exclusive authority to the POB. See also City Personal regulation 902.3- The City Personal Regulations confirm this exclusive authority of the CAO to discipline department heads, such as myself, "No person except the Chief Administrative Officer shall discipline directors or the Internal Auditor." See also the City's Charter, Article X.

Out of an abundance of caution, as you may know, I have filed a grievance with the City Human Resources Department to appeal the Letter of Reprimand, both upon the facts and the law. (Just as the POB had no authority to issue me a reprimand, the Human Resources Department has no authority to review the discipline issued to department heads.)

As you know, the POB Personnel Subcommittee chose not to forward my application to the full POB for consideration to be selected as the Executive Director. I will continue to diligently work in my position Acting Executive Director until my contract expires. I would appreciate the Board respecting what are clearly my legal rights until that time.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Regards,
Robin

2-02 RECORDS DIVISION

2-02-1 Purpose

The Records Division is an integral part of the Albuquerque Police Department's operational and support service delivery systems. By applying professional records management techniques to the processing, storage, and retrieval of Department reports, the Records Division provides a critical service to Department personnel, other criminal justice organizations, and the community as a whole.

This manual is prepared at the direction of the Division Manager. It sets forth policies, procedures, and standards of performance in regard to Division operations. It is a reference resource providing guidelines that may be familiar to all Records Division personnel. Supervisors are charged with applying its provisions, enforcing its rules, and where necessary, submitting proposals for updates and changes.

The manual supplements the Department Standard Operating Procedures, Collective Bargaining Agreements, the Merit Ordinance, and Personnel Rules and Regulations. If a conflict occurs, these other manuals and agreements take precedence over this manual.

2-02-1 Rules and Procedures

Ultimate authority to deploy a Police Service Dog shall be at the discretion of the individual K-9 handler.
3. Under no circumstance will a handler comply with an order that he knows to be illegal or violates the civil rights of any individual, or is in violation of the Use of Force Policy.
4. If the handler is participating in a full tactical activation the authority to deploy the Police Service Dog resides with the Tactical Commander or his designee.
  - a. When the Tactical Section is activated for crowd control situations, civil disturbances, and/or riots, K-9 Handlers will not deploy with their police service dogs as a force option. However, this does not preclude K-9 Handlers from being utilized for other tasks at the discretion of the Tactical Commander.

[7] C. Canine Unit Searches

1. Building Searches

- a. The primary duty of the Canine Unit is to search buildings for intruders.
- b. During the Canine Unit's normal working hours, a Canine Unit will be dispatched to all commercial and school silent alarms.

SOP 2-45

Effective: 08/6/15 Expires: 08/6/16 Replaces: 06/22/15

- c. A Canine Unit will be utilized to search all commercial buildings and schools where a point of entry is found or the suspect is believed to be in the building.
- d. As soon as a point of entry is found, the building will be secured and no one will be allowed to enter the building until the Canine has arrived.
- e. In the event a commercial business appears secure, the business will be searched by canines only after:
  - i. It is determined that there is a strong possibility that the alarm is valid.
  - ii. It would be impractical to conduct a search by officers due to building design.
  - iii. The owner/manager arrives and requests the search, in concurrence with the officer at the scene.
  - iv. Approval has been granted by an on-duty area supervisor.

2. Tracking/Area Searches

- a. Canine Units can be utilized to track a subject and search for articles associated with the subject in an area.
- b. Officers should remain out of the area to prevent contamination if a canine unit is to be utilized.
- c. The Canine Unit should be called to the scene as quickly as possible while the subject's scent is still fresh.

3. Apprehension of Fleeing or Resisting Subjects

- a. Canine units can be used to apprehend persons fleeing or resisting arrest, when there is reason to believe that the subject(s) has committed a felony.
- b. The decision to utilize the canine for apprehension will be based on the threat posed by the subject. The age of the subject (i.e. juvenile) will not preclude the use of the canine, but should be considered in evaluating the threat the subject poses.

2-21 HARM REDUCTION ACT/NEEDLE EXCHANGE PROGRAM

2-21-1 Policy

It is the policy of the Albuquerque Police Department to comply with all aspects of the Harm Reduction Act, which authorizes the New Mexico Department of Health to establish a needle exchange program for intravenous drug users.

2-21-3 Rules and Procedures

A. Harm Reduction Act

1. The provisions of New Mexico State Statute Section 30-31-25.1, which deals with the possession of drug paraphernalia, specifically hypodermic syringes and needles, specifically exempts a person who is in possession of hypodermic syringes and needles at the time he/she is directly engaged in a harm reduction program as provided in the Harm Reduction Act.
2. Section 24-2 C-6 of the Harm Reduction Act states, "Immunity From Criminal Liability," that the exchange or possession of hypodermic syringes and needles in compliance with the procedures of a harm reduction program for the purpose of sterile hypodermic syringe and needle exchange shall not constitute a violation of the Controlled Substances Act for persons enrolled in the program.

B. Needle Exchange Program Participants

1. Officers will not arrest or cite a person who is in the possession of drug paraphernalia, if the person is enrolled in the Needle Exchange Program and has the appropriate identification card
2. If a person does not have the appropriate identification card and claims to be enrolled in the program, the officer will call the New Mexico Department of to verify.

2-33 CRIMES AGAINST CHILDREN

2-33-1 Policy

Department policy is to respond to child abuse and/or neglect, immediately. Allegations of child abuse and/or neglect will be thoroughly investigated.

2-33-2 Rules and Procedures

[7] A. Inter-Agency Cooperation

1. Department personnel will work in close cooperation with the New Mexico Children, Youth and Families Department (CYFD), Child Protective Services and the District Attorney's office (DA) for the protection of victims and the prosecution of offenders.

    - ii. Suicide
    - iii. Homicide by parent or guardian
    - iv. Any accidental death to include; drowning, drug or alcohol overdose
    - v. Apparent natural unattended death
2. The officer will secure the scene and await contact from the detective and possibly CYFD personnel.
3. Officers will conduct a complete and thorough preliminary investigation and will write reports (using the State of New Mexico Uniform Incident Report) on all cases (confirmed or suspected) of child abuse, neglect, abandonment, or cruelty to children. Per state statute 32A-4-3 officers will immediately notify CYFD when they have reasonable suspicion that a child is abused or neglected.

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT
PROCEDURAL ORDERS

SOP 2-33

Effective: 07/02/15 Expires: 07/02/16 Replaces: 04/27/15

- a. Officers will not use the word(s) "suspected" or "information" in the offense portion of the report. Reports should be titled as child abuse:
  - i. For non-confirmed cases of child abuse.
  - ii. When the reported child abuse occurred outside the jurisdiction of the department. Note: "Information" reports on children are available to the public.
- b. Officers will forward a copy of their report to CYFD within 48 hours per state statute 32A-4-3
  - i. Referring a case to CYFD does not relieve the officer of the responsibility of completing a criminal investigation.
4. The CACU detectives may be called for assistance on any case involving:
  - a. Non-felony crimes.
  - b. Requests for assistance from CYFD
  - c. Situations where there are questions about abuse and neglect.
5. Field Services officers will have case responsibility for misdemeanor child abandonment/cruelty to children.

[7] C. Crimes Against Children Unit Responsibilities

1. The CACU will be called out to assume investigative responsibility for any of the following cases:
  - a. Child abuse or neglect resulting in death; or the child is likely to die.
  - b. Apparent Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) deaths.
  - c. Child abuse or neglect causing injuries resulting in great bodily harm of a child less than 13 years of age (see NM State Statute, Section 30-1-12A).
  - d. All child deaths
  - e. Injury resulting in great bodily harm of a child less than 13 years of age that appears to have occurred accidentally.
2. Criminal Sexual Penetration
  - a. Children less than 13 years of age.
    - i. The CACU will be notified immediately.
    - ii. Because of the complex nature of child sexual abuse, formal interviews of children less than 13 years of age will be investigated by the CACU.
  - b. The Sex Crimes Unit will investigate all criminal sexual penetration cases in which the victim is 13 years of age or older, regardless of how the offender is related to the victim.
  - c. The CACU will investigate all criminal sexual penetration cases where the suspect is a parent, guardian, or other family member, and the victim is under 18 years of age at the time of report.

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT
PROCEDURAL ORDERS

SOP 2-33

Effective: 07/02/15 Expires: 07/02/16 Replaces: 04/27/15

3. Criminal Sexual Contact

- a. Children less than 13 years of age.
  - i. The CACU will be notified immediately.
  - ii. Because the complex nature of child sex abuse, formal interviews of children less than 13 years of age will be investigated by the CACU.
- b. The appropriate area command Impact Unit will investigate criminal sexual contact of a minor 13 years old or older, regardless of how the offender is related to the victim.

4. Juvenile Abduction/Attempted Abduction

- a. Field Services personnel will contact their supervisor and will also contact the on-call Child Exploitation Detail detective who will assume on scene responsibility. The preliminary investigation (original report) will still be completed by Field Services personnel.
- b. The Field Services supervisor will coordinate the proper notification of investigative personnel and ensure that all officers involved complete their reports and submit them to the on-scene detective prior to leaving the scene.

[6] D. Taking Protective Custody of a Child

1. When responding to any form of child abuse, the officer must determine if the child should be removed from the environment for the child's safety. Pursuant to New Mexico Statute 32A-3B-3, an officer may take a child into protective custody when the officer had reasonable grounds to believe the child:
  - a. Is suffering from illness or injury
  - b. Has been abandoned
  - c. Is in danger from surroundings and removal from those surroundings is necessary.
2. In making a determination of removal for protective custody, officers will obtain all pertinent information, and review the need for removal with their supervisor.
3. When taking a child into custody the officer will:
  - a. Notify CYFD immediately.
    - i. A CYFD Child Protective Services caseworker can assist with placing the child in a temporary home.
    - ii. Immediate contact with CYFD is critical so custody petitions can be filed within 24 hours.
4. CYFD Requests
  - a. When CYFD requests that APD take custody of a child, the officer shall ask the caseworker for any documentation of abuse or neglect.

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT
PROCEDURAL ORDERS

SOP 2-33

Effective: 07/02/15 Expires: 07/02/16 Replaces: 04/27/15

- b. IF the caseworker has no documentation and the officer does not find reasonable grounds to remove the child, the officer shall:
  - i. Record the caseworker's statement before making the decision to remove the child
  - ii. Request that the caseworker get a court order to remove the child.
- c. The initial report will list the offense for which the child was taken into protective custody.
  - i. "Protective custody" is not an appropriate title, as protective custody cases are public record
  - ii. Records obtained from ACYFD are confidential and cannot be released to the general public or news media.

[6] E. Hospitalization of an Abused or Neglected Child

1. When hospitalizing an abused or neglected child is necessary:

- a. Officers will complete a police hold on the child with the assistance of CYFD.
- b. The child will not be removed unless authorized by a police officer of the agency that has been given custody of the child.

2. When a child is already hospitalized because of injuries, the following conditions apply:

- a. Officers may take the child into protective custody if the parents attempt to remove the child from the hospital.
- b. Officers have the legal right and responsibility to prevent the removal of the child in cases where the officer reasonably believes:
  - i. The parents are directly responsible for the injuries to the child.
  - ii. There appears to be danger to the physical well-being of the child.

[7] 3. Victims of child abuse may be photographed in all cases without the consent of the parents or legal guardian. Photographs will be taken, if possible when it will not interfere with the well-being of the child. A person from the hospital should be present.

[6] F. Arrest for Child Abuse

1. Before making an arrest for child abuse, officers should consider the safety and protection of the child. If the child can be removed from the environment in is preferred that a complete investigation be conducted prior to an arrest. Officers should consider:

- a. Whether the child is safe from the offender
- b. Whether the offender is a flight risk

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT
PROCEDURAL ORDERS

SOP 2-33

Effective: 07/02/15 Expires: 07/02/16 Replaces: 04/27/15

- c. Whether the case can be fully investigated before it is presented to the grand jury, to include medical, psychological evaluations, and forensic interview of the child and witness.
- 2. All felony arrest warrants, search warrants, and psychological evaluations will be approved by the Assistant District Attorney assigned to the Family Crimes Division.

[N/A]

3. Domestic Abuse

- a. Refer to Field Services SOP for duties of Police Officers
Note: Children have the same rights as adults and are granted the same protection as an adult under the Family Violence Protection Act. When children are present, their welfare should be determined.
- [7] b. If domestic abuse against a child escalates to a felony, the CACU will be notified by the dispatched officer, before further investigation.
- c. The investigating officer will contact CACU for determination of case responsibility during a domestic violence investigation, if it is determined that felony child abuse charges meeting the criteria of 2-33-2-B exist.

[N/A]

4. Citations may be issued for:

- a. Abandonment and cruelty to children
- b. Enticement
- 5. Citations should only be issued for violations occurring in the investigating officer's presence.
  - a. The use of a criminal summons is preferable in situations involving a misdemeanor that has already occurred.

[N/A]

G. Child Molestation Reports

- 1. Child molestation refers to sexually oriented incidents or indecent exposure, enticement, obscene language, or criminal sexual contact of a minor.
- 2. Reports of child molestation that occurred on school property or while the victim was traveling to or from school will be handled as follows:
  - a. Officers will transmit (via service channel) pertinent suspect information to Albuquerque Public Schools (APS) Security for a radio broadcast.
- 3. All reports of child molestation will be recorded on a Uniform Incident Report form. Officers writing these reports will indicate that a copy will be sent to AOS Security in the agency optional use box (in the Status Distribution box).

2-49 TRAFFIC AND ROADWAY SERVICES

2-49-1 Policy

Department policy is to ensure that appropriate action is taken in a safe and timely manner in all cases where the department is asked to provide general or emergency assistance to motorists.

2-49-2 Rules

[7] A. General Assistance to Motorists

1. Officers and PSA will reasonably attempt to provide assistance to motorists in need of mechanical assistance, i.e., provide jumper cables (if available), etc. Officers will not attempt to push-start vehicles.
2. Officers and PSA will summon the on call wrecker at the request of the motorist, after explaining that the motorist is responsible for all towing charges.
3. Unless necessary to retrieve a child or an animal locked in a vehicle, officers will not attempt to unlock vehicles using "slim jim" or other unlocking devices. Officers may summon a locksmith (at the motorists request) or call a third party when extra keys are available.

[7] B. Stranded Motorists

1. When requested by a stranded motorist, officers and PSA may transport the motorist to the nearest service station for fuel. When work load conditions permit, and when no undue delay is anticipated, the motorist may be returned to the vehicle.
2. Motorists requesting assistance regarding shelter services will be referred to the appropriate agency.

C. Hazardous Highway/Roadway Conditions

[7] 1. Appropriate Action to be taken upon noticing or being advised of a traffic hazard:

- a. The officer or police service aide will contact the appropriate city department.
- b. If warning lights are necessary, the officer or PSA will contact the appropriate agency/company to put warning barricades/ lights in place.
- c. If barricades or warning lights are necessary, the officer or PSA shall remain at the scene to alert drivers and provide traffic direction when necessary, until the condition has been corrected and/or the warning lights or barricades have been placed at the scene.
  - i. Non-uniformed officers in unmarked cars will call for a uniformed officer or a PSA with a marked car.

- [6] e. Animals and/or livestock on a roadway
- i. Officers will engage emergency lights and use any means available, i.e., siren, horn, P.A. system, to ensure the animal vacates the roadway.
  - ii. If this cannot be accomplished, officers will call, or have Communications call animal control, and/or the New Mexico Livestock Bureau (841-4000) if applicable and advise them of the situation.
  - iii. If the animal/livestock are injured or deceased, animal control will be called.
  - iv. Officers will not leave the scene until safe passage on the roadway is secured.

2. Roadway/Roadside vehicle hazards

- a. When a vehicle is stalled on the roadway, officers and PSA will:
- i. Position their vehicles to provide safety for the motorist.
  - ii. Engage emergency red/amber lights and hazardous lights
  - iii. Ensure removal of the vehicle from the roadway as soon as possible.

[7] D. Closure of Interstate Highways

1. The on scene supervisor will notify communications whenever an interstate highway is closed advising the location of the closure, the reason for the closure, and the expected length of the closure, if possible. Communications will notify the State Police in Santa Fe.

E. Traffic Direction and Control

1. Circumstances may arise where officers are required to provide traffic control and direct traffic to ensure safe and efficient movement of vehicles. These duties may be performed by either sworn officers or Police Service Aides.
2. During events that require the manual use of traffic control devices (traffic box), only officers that have been trained and issued keys by Traffic Engineers will be assigned to work the control box.
3. All officers conducting traffic direction and control shall wear their safety reflective vest/jacket at all times.

3-42 INSPECTIONS PROCESS

3-42-1 Policy

Department policy is to provide an inspectional process as an essential mechanism for evaluating the quality of Department operations, ensuring that the Department's goals are being pursued, identifying the need for additional resources, and ensuring that control is maintained throughout the Department. Line and staff inspections provide the Chief of Police with a means of regularly assessing the Department's efficiency and effectiveness.

3-42-2 Definitions

A. Line Inspections

Inspections carried out by supervisors at all levels on a daily, weekly, and/or monthly basis, to ensure that personnel are adhering to basic Department policy, procedures, rules, and regulations.

3-42-3 Rules

[7] A. Informal Line Inspections

1. Informal line inspections shall be conducted at minimum once a month to ensure that personnel are acting in concert with Department requirements. These informal inspections include, but are not limited to the following:
  - a. Personal appearance, grooming, uniforms, etc.
  - b. Use and maintenance of OBRD and MDT
  - c. Adherence to Department policies, procedures, rules, and regulations in day-to-day activities.
  - d. Status and condition of physical facilities, firearms, and vehicles.
2. Supervisors may institute informal line inspections for their commands at their discretion and will maintain copies of these inspections.

[7] B. Formal Line Inspections

1. Formal Line Inspections will be conducted semiannually for all personnel, within the first month of a new field services bid and six months later, and when personnel report to a new permanent assignment. Formal inspections will encompass the areas of:
  - a. Appearance, grooming, uniforms
  - b. Required safety equipment, including body armor
  - c. Weapons
  - d. Assigned vehicles - condition and maintenance
  - e. Issued property - Using PD Form 3003

3-57 SENIORITY

3-57-1 Policy

Department policy is to recognize seniority among all personnel based on specific legal criteria.

3-57-2 Definition

A. Department Seniority

1. The relative position of an employee to all other employees within the Department. Seniority in rank is the position of Department personnel in relationship to other personnel of the same rank.

3-57-3 Rules

A. Seniority shall be determined:

1. By rank.
2. By continuous service in rank.
3. By continuous service with the Department.
4. By initial date of hire by the department, if employed prior to the beginning of the sworn employee's cadet class.
  - a. All those hired at the beginning of a cadet class will be ranked by academic standing upon graduation. (Personnel who have seniority established by man number will retain that seniority.)
5. By the terms specified in the Collective Bargaining Agreement.

B. Order of Precedence

1. Employees of the same rank will take precedence according to the date of their appointment to their respective rank or grade. Among sworn personnel who are patrol officers or investigators the positions of cadet or recruit officer, probationary officer, non-probationary officer, or patrol officer first class are separate ranks.
2. Where two or more employees are working together on the same assignment and are of equal rank, seniority shall not be exercised except in an emergency necessitating it unless, by competent authority, one employee has been designated as being in command.

This applies to personnel submitting a P-30 indicating either time lost or no time lost.

13. Supervisors of incapacitated personnel will ensure that the Form P-30 is submitted for each pay period where time has been or is being lost due to injury or illness in the line of duty. Time lost should be logged as Injury Leave on the Form P-30.

- a. The Form P-30 must be submitted to Police Payroll and reach Risk Management by 1200 hours, Friday, the week preceding a pay day. If the Friday or Monday preceding a pay day is a holiday, the Form P-30 must reach Risk Management by 1200 hours, Thursday, proceeding the city pay week.
- b. Supervisors will ensure that the Form P-30 is submitted for each pay period when time is being lost by personnel required attend doctor appointments, physical therapy, work hardening programs, etc.
- c. Personnel who are capable of submitting the Form P-30 themselves must make sure that one is submitted for each pay period as indicated above.

14. Failure to submit leave requests in compliance with Subsection 3-72-3-C-11 may result in a delay in pay.

[N/A] D. Military Leave

1. As provided for by state and federal law, every effort will be made to support employees who will need to be absent from work for reserve training. The guidelines for leave are:

- a. Employees are authorized 15 calendar days per year (Military Fiscal Year - October to October).
  - i. Leave will be the equivalent of three work weeks (120 hours) and may be non-consecutive.
  - ii. Leave will be granted for any activity or training for employees who have active duty orders for up to fifteen calendar days. This will include any active duty training time and allowable travel time. Orders may not be available at time of departure, but leave may still be authorized.
  - iii. Military leave will not be authorized for inactive duty training (IADT).

- b. Employees will be allowed to attend regularly scheduled drills when notification is made 30 days in advance. Supervisors should try to allow employees to attend drill with less than 30 days notification.
    - i. Adjusted days off will be the preferred method.
    - ii. Compensatory time or vacation at employee's discretion.

- iii. Leave without pay will be used per City of Albuquerque Merit System Ordinance.
- c. Employees will notify their supervisors of their anticipated absences, to include regularly scheduled drills.
  - i. Supervisors may request a memorandum from the employee's unit Commander or NCOIC listing planned training activities.
  - ii. Drill dates may change on short notice.
  - iii. Every effort should be made to minimize negative impact of absences on non-military members.
- d. A military liaison officer will be appointed by the Chief of Police.
  - i. He or she should be both a sworn police officer and commissioned officer in the guard/reserve.
  - ii. Liaison officer will ensure participation and be familiar with Employer Support of the Guard/Reserve programs.
  - iii. The military liaison officer will be available, in addition to normal duties, to coordinate and resolve problems between supervisor (whether military or department) and employee at the lowest, most informal level possible.
- [7] e. Military Leave with pay is authorized in accordance with the City of Albuquerque Merit System Ordinance.
  - i. Personnel requesting Military Leave will submit a P-30 Form with a copy of their military orders that direct them to active duty or active duty for training.
  - ii. Personnel shall notify their supervisors as far in advance as possible of expected active duty military requirements.
  - iii. Commanders are the approval authority for valid Military Leave requests and will ensure that military orders accompany the P-30 Form.
  - iv. Military Leave with pay is limited to 15 calendar days per calendar year.
- f. Military Leave with pay does not apply to personnel attending inactive duty training (commonly referred to as monthly drills or weekend drills).
  - i. Personnel having a conflict between department work hours and military inactive duty training hours will notify their immediate supervisors of such conflicts with as much notice as possible.
- [7] E. Paid Leave Status
  - 1. Personnel shall not submit time sheets, overtime slips, or compensation time slips; and supervisors shall not approve time sheets, overtime slips, or compensation time slips that result in personnel being compensated twice for the same work period.
    - a. An example of this would be working a tact plan during regularly scheduled hours as overtime while on vacation, compensation time, and/or sick leave.

2-7 ISSUANCE AND USAGE OF AREA COMMAND EQUIPMENT

2-7-1 Policy

It is the policy of Field Services to provide for accountability of issuance and the proper usage of equipment assigned to the Area Commands.

2-7-2 Rules and Procedures

A. Child Restraint Devices

1. Although the State Law (Section 66-7-369 NMSA) exempts emergency vehicles from complying with the law on Child Restraint Devices, the Chief has ordered that we will comply. Therefore, the following is applicable:
  - a. If an officer/PSA transports a child less than one year old, then the officer/PSA will properly secure the child in a rear-facing child passenger restraint device that meets federal standards, in the rear seat of a vehicle that is equipped with a rear seat. If the vehicle is not equipped with a rear seat, the child may ride in the front seat of the vehicle if the passenger-side air bag is deactivated or if the vehicle is not equipped with a deactivation switch for the passenger-side air bag.
  - b. If an officer/PSA transports a child one year of age and older, but less than five years of age, regardless of weight, or children who weigh less than forty pounds, regardless of age, then the officer/PSA will properly secure the child in a child passenger restraint device that meets federal standards.
  - c. If an officer/PSA transports a child five year of age through six years of age, regardless of weight, or children who weigh less than sixty pounds, regardless of age, then the officer/PSA will secure the child in either a child booster seat or an appropriate child passenger restraint device that meets federal standards.
  - d. If an officer/PSA transports a child seven years of age through twelve years of age, then the officer/PSA shall properly secure the child in a child passenger restraint device or by a seatbelt.
    - i. A child is properly secured in an adult seatbelt when the lap belt properly fits across the child's thigh and hips and not the abdomen.
    - ii. The shoulder strap shall cross the center of the child's chest and not the neck, allowing the child to sit all the way back against the vehicle seat with knees bent over the seat edge.
  - e. Each PSA car is equipped with two child restraint devices (seats) in case an officer/PSA needs one. The Officer shall return it once they are through with the seat.

B. Issue of Speed Measuring Devices

1. Each area command is issued laser speed-measuring devices for use by area command personnel. Area commanders will implement procedures, using these guidelines, to effectively control this equipment. The guidelines to be followed are 1005012

- b. Keys will be given only to those personnel designated by the area commander.
- c. Each command will maintain sign-in/sign-out logs for the purpose of accountability.
- d. Equipment will be issued by those personnel designated by the area command (i.e., watch commander, sergeant) in accordance with those procedures established within the area command.
- e. Missing or damaged equipment will be reported to the area commander as soon as practical.

C. Pool Cars

1. Commander's Responsibilities

- a. Watch commanders will monitor this procedure to ensure that the pool car sign out/in and inspection forms are completed as required. The area commander will designate a watch commander to supervise the pool cars.

2. Issuance of Pool Cars

- a. The pool car keys will be kept locked in the appropriate storage cabinet. All area supervisors will have keys to the cabinets in their areas. When an officer needs a pool car, they must contact an area supervisor.
- b. The officer must complete the Pool Car Sign-Out and Inspection Form before the vehicle is issued. The officer and supervisor will sign this form. No supervisor will sign this form if it has not been filled out appropriately. It will not be complete until the car is signed in.

3. Checking in of Pool Car

- a. When checking in a pool car, the officer must contact a supervisor and both of them must sign the Pool Car Sign Out and In Inspection Form. No supervisor will sign this form until it is completely filled out.
- b. The completed form will then be filed and kept by the area command for three years.
- c. The vehicle will be parked in the designated area as determined by the area commander.

4. Pool Car Maintenance

- a. If a pool car needs minor repairs, the officer should leave a note directed to the appropriate commander and they will have the vehicle repaired.
- b. If major problems develop with a pool car, the officer should leave the vehicle at the Pino Yards. If the vehicle must be towed, the on-call City wrecker services will be utilized.

- c. The DRE Coordinator is responsible for reviewing all DRE forms and for forwarding the originals to the Records Division in a timely manner.
- d. The DRE Coordinator is responsible for maintaining a central file system for all DRE forms, logs, and evaluations for all DRE certified officers.
- e. The DRE Coordinator is responsible for coordination and distribution of all results of drug analysis from the State Scientific Laboratory Division.

6. Evidence Handling

- a. The DRE is responsible for taking the blood evidence to SLD within 24 hours. If the Blood cannot be taken within 24 hours the DRE will tag the blood into evidence. Once the evidence unit has concluded the intake process (usually 3-4 days) the DRE will check out the evidence and transport it to SLD for processing. It is recommended that the DRE officer call Evidence prior to pick up to insure it can be checked out. This process must be completed within 5 days of the actual blood draw.

7. Drug Recognition Call-Out

- a. Investigating officer's supervisor will approve all call-out requests.
- b. Officers may call-out DRE personnel in cases where:
  - i. A subject shows physical impairment based on performance of Standard Field Sobriety Tests (SFST's) and/or operation of a vehicle and give a low breath test score (below .08% blood alcohol content) on the Intoxilyzer.
  - ii. There is a case of a fatality or serious injury crash.
  - iii. Circumstances lead the investigating officer to believe that the impairment of the subject is due to illegal street narcotics, prescription medications, or volatile substances.
  - iv. The DRE Coordinator has cleared the call-out.
  - v. When called to assist, it will be the DRE Officer's responsibility to determine if a blood technician will be called out.

FIELD SERVICES BUREAU ORDERS

SOP 3-12

3-12 DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

3-12-1 Policy

It is the policy of the Albuquerque Police Department to enforce laws dealing with domestic abuse and to take appropriate action in cases involving domestic abuse.

3-12-2 Definitions

A. Domestic Abuse

Any incident resulting in physical harm, bodily injury or assault, or a threat causing imminent fear of such harm by any household member.

B. Household Member

A spouse, former spouse, parent, present or former step-parent, present or former parent-in-law, grandparent, grandparent-in-law, a co-parent of a child or a person with whom a person has had a continuing personal relationship. Cohabitation is not necessary to be deemed a household member for the purposes of the Crimes Against Household Members Act.

3-12-3 Rules and Procedures

A. Order of Protection

1. An Order of protection is issued by any state district court judge pursuant to the Family Violence Protection Act and is granted for the protection of victims of domestic abuse with a specific expiration date, valid for the time period listed by the court.
2. A victim of domestic abuse may petition the district court under the Family Violence Protection Act for an Order of protection. The Albuquerque Police Department is required to keep blank petition forms for distribution to victims of domestic violence. These forms will be available at all police substations and will be in possession of police officers for distribution to victims. Officers should familiarize themselves with these forms and their implication in order to instruct family violence victims seeking such relief.

B. Emergency Order of Protection (EOP)

1. Officers are authorized to obtain emergency order of protection after regular business hours. Officers responding to a domestic violence incident shall complete an application for an EOP when appropriate, adhering to the following guidelines:
  - a. Probable cause exists that an act of domestic violence/abuse has occurred.
  - b. The victim wants an order of protection issued.

M005023

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT
FIELD SERVICES BUREAU ORDERS

SOP 3-12

Effective: 06/22/15 Expires: 12/22/15 Replaces: 11/06/12

- c. The victim and/or children are in danger of, or believe they are in danger of receiving additional acts of domestic violence/abuse.
  - d. Prior to obtaining an emergency order of protection, the location of the restrained party shall be known by the officer.
  - e. EOP must be approved by a supervisor prior to requesting approval by a judge.
2. If the aforementioned conditions exist, officers will complete Sections 1 through 4 of the Application (Order of protection), APD Form 3094.
  3. Officers must contact a district court judge for approval.
    - a. Permanent numbers to all district court judges can be obtained through ECC or the on-call victim advocate.
    - b. Officers must provide the judge a brief description of the facts surrounding the incident.
    - c. Officers must provide the judge with viable reasons/facts as to why the EOP should be granted.
    - d. If the EOP is denied, officers will indicate in the report the name of the judge and the reason denied.
  4. After approval by the judge, sections 7 through 9 (the actual EOP) will be filled out indicating judge's approval.
  5. EOP will be distributed as follows:
    - a. The original white copy (top page) will be hand-carried immediately to the Bernalillo County Sheriff's Department, Warrants Section.
    - b. The yellow copy will be given to the victims.
    - c. If the offender is at the scene, serve the offender his/her copy (pink copy) and complete proof of service portion of the EOP.
    - d. The goldenrod copy will be scanned and logged in the sergeant's report log.
  6. If the offender is not present, leave the EOP with the victim/protected party.
  7. If officers are responding to a call where an EOP has already been approved by a judge and the offender is present but has not been serviced, officers will:
    - a. Obtain the EOP from the victim/protected party and serve the offender.
    - b. Complete a Return of Service Form. These forms should be available at all substations.
    - c. The original Return of Service will be hand-carried to the Bernalillo County Sheriff's Office, Warrants Section, immediately.
    - d. The officer will scan and submit the goldenrod copy to be retained with the original report.

C. Temporary Orders of Protection

1. Temporary orders of protection are granted by a judge at the 2nd Judicial District Court, during normal business hours.
2. Initial temporary orders of protection are granted as non-mutual and apply to only one party, therefore, can only be violated by the restrained part. Initial orders are valid until the listed date, then a hearing is held on whether the order should be extended for six months or more.
3. After the hearing date noted on the temporary order of protection, an order of protection may be granted for an extended period of time.

D. Out-of-State Protective Orders

1. All out-of-state protective orders shall be enforced as written.
2. All out-of-state protective orders are presumed valid upon presentation to law enforcement officers and under full faith and credit.
3. Out-of-state orders do not have to be filed in district court to be valid and enforceable.

E. Civil Service of Court Orders

1. Officers shall serve district court orders of protection under the following circumstances only:
  - a. If the officer is requested to do so.
  - b. The restrained party must be physically served with the order.
  - c. The protected party must have a copy of the valid district court order in his possession.
  - d. Before serving the restrained party with the court order, officers will have ECC contact the Warrants Section of the Bernalillo County Sheriff's Office and determine if the order has already been served.
    - i. If service has not been made, officers will promptly serve the Order of protection on the respondent.
    - ii. If service has been made and the Order of protection prohibits the restrained party from being on the premises.
    - iii. The officer will complete a police report and thoroughly document the incident.
2. Any officer serving a civil district court order as outlined above will fill out a 'Sheriff's Return of Service' form and hand carry the original to the Bernalillo County Sheriff's Office, Warrants Division, immediately.

F. Enforcement of Orders of Protection

1. An order of protection shall be deemed valid if the following criteria are met:

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT
FIELD SERVICES BUREAU ORDERS

SOP 3-12

Effective: 06/22/15 Expires: 12/22/15 Replaces: 11/06/12

- a. The order states the name of the protected and restrained parties.
  - b. The order contains the date it was issued.
  - c. The order has an expiration date and has not expired.
  - d. The order contains the name of the issuing court.
  - e. The order is signed by, or on behalf of a judicial officer.
2. When an order of protection is presented to an officer by the complainant, the officer shall:
- a. Officers will deem if the order is valid using the above noted criteria.
  - b. Determine if the conduct is prohibited by the order.
  - c. Attempt to confirm the order through BCSO Warrant Division or NCIC.
  - d. The officer shall assume that the restrained party was given notice of the Order of protection and its contents
  - e. If it is determined the restrained party has not been served, the officer shall serve the restrained party with a copy of the restraining order and file a return of service through BCSO warrants.
  - f. If the officer has probable cause to believe that the Order of protection has been violated, he shall arrest for the violation of the order and charge violation of order of protection 40-12-6.
3. Orders of protection must be enforced per NMSA 40-13-6D, "Service of Order". A peace officer shall arrest without a warrant and take into custody a person whom the peace officers had probable cause to believe has violated order pursuant to this section.
- G. Officers – Pursuant to State Statute 40-13-7
1. Officers responding to requests for assistance shall take whatever steps are reasonably necessary to protect the victim(s) from further domestic abuse.
  2. Officers will enforce the provisions of valid court orders of protection.
  3. Officers will advise the victim of the procedures and remedies available under the Family Violence Protection Act, i.e., the right to file a written statement or request for an arrest warrant, and the availability of domestic violence shelters, medical care, counseling, other services, and the importance of preserving evidence.
  4. Officer shall make reasonable efforts to arrange for transportation to a shelter, safe refuge, or medical facility, for victims of domestic abuse. When it is possible and the Sheriff's Department is available, arrangements can be made for transportation to destinations substantially outside the city limits but within Bernalillo County. A reasonable effort to resolve the situation locally is sufficient until other arrangements can be made at a more appropriate time.

5. Police Service Aides should be utilized whenever possible or practical. However, it is the officer's responsibility to make sure that the mandate of the court is carried out.
6. Officers shall, upon request of the victim, accompany the victim to the victim's residence to remove the victim's clothing and personal effects required for immediate needs and the clothing and personal effects of any children in the care of the victim.
7. Officers shall enforce the provisions of custody as set forth in the court order which may include removing a child or children from the non-custodial parent or guardian.
8. Officers shall, upon request of the victim, assist in placing the victim in possession of the dwelling or premises or otherwise assist in execution or service of the order of protection.
9. Officers shall arrest the abusing household member when appropriate.
  - a. As stated in the Warrantless Arrest Act, Section 31-1-7, NMSA 1978, officers may arrest a person without a warrant when the officer is at the scene of a domestic disturbance and has probable cause to believe that the person has committed an assault or a battery upon a family or household member. When an arrest is made, officers shall charge domestic violence offenses under the Assault Against a Household Member Section 30-3-12, NMSA 1978, and Battery Against a Household Member Section 30-3-15, NMSA 1978. These laws can be used even when no order of protection exists. This does not preclude the application of felony charges arising out of domestic violence incidents, if and when such probable cause exists. If felony charges are appropriate, the arrest and applicable charges will be handled in accordance with SOP 2-14, or NMSA 1978 as applicable.
  - b. If an arrest is appropriate, but cannot be reasonably effected at the time of the incident, a summons will be issued by the responding officer(s). Summons cannot be issued for both parties arising out of the same incident.
  - c. It is incumbent upon the officers at the scene of a domestic violence incident to determine the predominant aggressor and then effect an arrest (or issue a summons if appropriate) for the applicable party.
  - d. Dual arrests shall not be made for domestic violence offenses.
  - e. When an arrest has been made under this section, but the offender is taken to the hospital for treatment, an officer will stay with the prisoner until such time as the prisoner can be transported to the Metropolitan Detention Center or PTC and booked. Hospital holds will not be placed on prisoners arrested pursuant to the Family Violence Protection Act (Domestic Violence), even when the applicable charges involve only misdemeanor offenses. The transporting officer is responsible for remaining with and guarding the prisoner.
10. Officers shall complete a standard Albuquerque Police Department offense and incident report on all domestic violence investigations.

SOP 3-12

Effective: 06/22/15 Expires: 12/22/15 Replaces: 11/06/12

11. Criminal Complaints

a. When a subject is arrested for a charge committed by a household member against a household member, the arresting officer shall list the charge in the "charges" portion of the criminal complaint as a domestic violence incident. For example, when a household member is charged with battery against a household member (30-3-15) and harassment (30-3A-2), the "charges" portion of the complaint should read "Domestic Violence, Battery against a Household Member, Harassment" The bottom of the complaint where each section is listed, should read "31-1-7, 30-3-15, 30-3A-2". This procedure shall be followed for all domestic situations where an offender is arrested or summoned following a domestic violence incident.

12. Officers will not offer or accept any waivers of prosecution in any domestic violence case.

13. Hand written statements from the victim(s) and witness(es) will be obtained at the scene, whenever possible.

a. Officers shall scan all domestic violence statements to be included with their report. The handwritten statement will be turned in to the supervisor to be logged and sent to Report Review

14. Any visible injuries relating to the battery shall be documented and photographed to be used as evidence for prosecution whenever possible.

15. Officers shall have available and provide to victims the necessary court petition forms and instructions (Domestic Violence Packets) for their completion. These forms are available in both English and Spanish.

16. All officers should utilize the following guidelines in determining the need to locate and arrest an offender in domestic violence.

a. If an offender is still at or near the scene of a domestic violence case, the officer shall make every reasonable attempt to place the offender under arrest, rather than merely issuing a criminal summons.

b. If an offender has fled the scene of a domestic violence case, prior to officer's arrival, and cannot be located at or near the scene of the domestic violence, a summons or warrant will be issued for the offender.

c. Officers should take whatever steps that are reasonably necessary to protect the victim from further domestic abuse which may include writing an arrest warrant.

17. On all domestic violence calls when an officer requests authorization to change the call to something other than a domestic violence, the supervisor will conduct a thorough investigation prior to granting the change. Additionally, the officer will supply sufficient remarks in the "added remarks" to justify the change in the status of the call.

1. The arresting officer at the scene of a domestic abuse incident will ask the victim the following:
  - a. Telephone number and email address where she/he may be contacted personally.
  - b. If a telephone number is not available, a telephone number where a message can be left for the victim in order to provide notification of offender release.
  - c. The officer will get an address where notification can be made.
2. The arresting officer will complete the Victim Notification Information Worksheet (PD 3075) and telephone the New Mexico Offender Release Notification System at 768-CARE (2263) with the telephone number(s) and or address(es) where the victim can be notified.
3. The arresting officer shall complete the Albuquerque Police Department Pre-booking worksheet (PD 3068). This worksheet contains a section for the Domestic Violence Notification ID# and the CADS number.
4. Upon notification by MDC to the Albuquerque Police Department's Emergency Communications Center that the offender is released from custody, the Communications Center will make every reasonable attempt to notify the victim in accordance to the information provided by the arresting officer.
5. In the rare case where no telephone is available. Emergency Communications will create a 10-10 event and dispatch an officer to make notification at the victim's location.

3-13 ROADBLOCKS/CHECKPOINTS

3-13-1 Policy

It is the policy of the Albuquerque Police Department to use roadblocks when reasonably necessary to detour motorists from hazardous roadway conditions; when authorized by supervisors for selective traffic enforcement; when necessary to prevent the escape of a felon(s) from a contained area; and when reasonably necessary to stop the driver of a vehicle attempting to avoid apprehension, after all other means have failed.

3-13-2 Definitions

A. Roadblock

Emergency intentional obstruction of traffic for the safety of the community.

B. Class A Roadblock

Stopping traffic by use of portable signs and warning devices without physically blocking the roadway.

C. Class B Roadblock

Physically blocking the roadway with lightweight materials and/or equipment which will cause little or no damage to a vehicle striking them, i.e., lightweight barricade devices, flares, pylons, etc.

D. Class C Roadblock

Physical blockage of the roadway with heavy material or equipment, i.e., patrol vehicles, city-owned equipment, etc. Only city owned materials and equipment shall be used for a Class "C" roadblock. Commandeering a tractor-trailer or other such vehicle is prohibited.

E. Checkpoint

Planned enforcement activity, with a specific violation targeted, where vehicles are stopped and drivers are contacted.

3-13-3 Rules and Procedures

A. Classification of Roadblocks/Checkpoints

1. A Class A Roadblock may be used to inspect persons and vehicles in the event of jail/prison escapes, major felony investigations, D.W.I. detection, etc.

M005030

2. A Class B Roadblock may be used to warn motorists of severe road conditions, such as snow and ice, or to reroute traffic due to special events, traffic accidents, crime scenes, etc.
3. A Class C Roadblock shall be used as a last resort after other reasonable and less hazardous measures have failed and when stopping the vehicle is necessary to protect lives.

B. Criteria for All Checkpoints

1. The selection of the site and procedures for conducting the roadblock must be made and established by supervisory personnel.
2. Vehicles should not be stopped randomly. A pre-established formula must be used when determining what vehicles to stop i.e., every vehicle, every third vehicle, etc. Uniform procedures must be established for dealing with each motorist in precisely the same manner.
3. Safety measures must be considered for warning approaching traffic, the degree to which the roadblock causes traffic congestion and whether the roadblock is set up in such a way so as to put the motoring public and officers in unnecessary peril.
4. The roadblock location should be reasonable.
5. The time and duration of the roadblock should be reasonable.
6. The official nature of the roadblock should be immediately apparent. Officers should be uniformed, police cars should be highly visible, marked, and the use of warning or stop signs, flares, and pylons are advisable.
7. The average length of time that a motorist is detained at the roadblock and the degree of intrusiveness should be minimized. Where facts within the observation of the officer warrant further investigation, the suspected motorist should be asked to pull into a separate area so as not to unreasonably inhibit the flow of traffic.
8. Selective traffic enforcement roadblocks should be given advance publicity to enhance deterrence.

C. Authorization for Checkpoints

1. All enforcement targeted checkpoints must be approved by the Traffic Division Commander. In all cases a supervisor will be in charge at the scene.

D. Initiating Road Blocks

1. The decision to activate a roadblock should be based on the following:

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT
FIELD SERVICES BUREAU ORDERS

SOP 3-13

Effective: 07/02/15 Expires: 01/02/16 Replaces: 08/19/13

- a. Seriousness of the crime.
- b. Sufficient information and description on the wanted persons or vehicles.
- c. The elapsed time between the criminal act and its discovery.

E. Roadblock Sites

1. Selection of roadblock sites should:

- a. Provide safety and convenience in stopping vehicles.

3-19 RESPONSE TO DEMONSTRATIONS

3-19-1 Policy

It is the policy of Field Services to oversee and handle a demonstration in an efficient and effective manner.

3-19-2 Rules and Responsibilities

A. Response to Demonstrations

1. Supervisors should handle these situations, no matter what size, with the forethought that the situation could escalate in size and the potential for violence. They must understand that although a crowd (large or small) has gathered to demonstrate, no laws may have been broken.
2. Supervisors should contain the gathering with as few visible officers as practical, but have sufficient officers in reserve and out of sight so as to not provoke an incident but be able to respond to an incident quickly.
3. The on-scene supervisor should notify Radio Control to notify ERT and SWAT. The following conditions should be evaluated in determining if additional manpower is needed:
  - a. Size of crowd
  - b. Propensity for violence
  - c. Level of cooperation
  - d. Location
  - e. Permit or no permit
  - f. Demonstration or disturbance
4. Try to determine who is in charge of protesters.
5. Deploy patrol officers to:
  - a. Contain demonstrators.
  - b. Keep "pro" and "con" demonstrators apart
  - c. Allow non-participants to utilize hallways, doorways, and roadways without hindrance.
  - d. Begin keeping a log (written or radio) of incidents and law violations.
  - e. Call for Public Information Officer (PIO).
  - f. Set up command post.
  - g. Depending on the magnitude of the situation, consider re-routing vehicular and pedestrian traffic.
  - h. If violence flares within inner perimeter, do not let anyone else enter the inner perimeter.

3-20 FLOOD CONTROL CHANNEL ACTION PLAN (CODE RAFT)

3-20-1 Rules and Procedures

A. Code Raft

1. Commencement of Albuquerque Fire Department Emergency Plan (Code Raft) will be initiated at the first indication of drowning victim(s) in the flood control channels located in the Northeast, Foothills, and/or Southeast Area Commands.

B. Responsibility

1. Upon confirmation of victim(s) in a flood control channel, which are trapped in the channel by water build-up, the following procedures will be initiated:
  - a. Emergency Communications Center dispatches officers of the to prearranged check points. Department personnel will keep citizens away from the flood control channel and stop people from attempting unauthorized rescue attempts.
  - b. A frequency will be secured by the Communications Center for the purpose of coordinating the rescue between personnel involved in the incident.
  - c. A supervisor will respond to the Albuquerque Fire Department's prearranged command post location for the purpose of relaying radio information to Albuquerque Fire Department personnel.
  - d. It will be the responsibility of all officers involved in the rescue procedure to act as spotters of the victim(s) location and direction of travel in the flood control channels, and relaying this information to the Emergency Communications Center and/or supervisor. Officers will not enter the water to initiate a water rescue of victim(s).

3-21 LOST AND FOUND ID CARDS AND DRIVER'S LICENSES

3-21-1 Policy

It is the policy of the Albuquerque Police Department to return ID cards and driver's licenses to citizens during any type of contact, before the end of that contact except as required for evidentiary purposes. In the event an officer or civilian employee comes into possession of a driver's license or identification card (ID) belonging to a citizen and cannot reasonably and safely return it to the owner listed on the ID or license at that time, the officer or employee will follow this procedure in an attempt to return the ID or license to the owner.

3-21-2 Procedures

A. Substation Lost and Found ID and License Log Book and Repository

1. Each area command substation will maintain a lost and found ID and license log book and repository. Contained in the log book will be a weekly log form, instructions for using the log book and a set of plastic sleeves organized alphabetically.
2. The officer or employee who assists the citizen will make a reasonable attempt to verify the person retrieving the license is the owner of that ID or license.
3. The IDs and licenses will be held in the log book and repository for no less than 30 days. Each Area Commander will designate an officer or employee whose responsibility it will be to remove those licenses that have been held for over 30 days and return them to the New Mexico Motor Vehicle Division. It will be this employee's responsibility to log which cards were taken to MVD and the date.
4. No officer or employee will remove an ID or license from the log book without logging their name, the date and what was done with the ID or license.

B. Personnel

1. The officer or employee will first attempt to notify the owner by phone. If the owner is reached by phone, or there is voicemail, the officer or employee will advise the citizen the name, address and hours of the substation where they can pick up their ID or license in person. The officer or employee will then log the ID or license in the substation's log book.
2. The officer or employee will log the license using the form in the front of the log book. This is to include the date, the name on the ID or license, the name of the officer or employee, what attempt was made to return or notify the owner of the license or ID.

4-1 AREA COMMAND INVESTIGATIONS UNIT (IMPACT TEAMS)

4-1-1 Policy

It is the policy of the Albuquerque Police Department to establish Investigation Teams (Watch II and III) in each Area Command to conduct investigations in violent/property crimes, and to provide Field Services officers with assistance and follow-up investigation as needed.

4-1-2 Definitions

A. Major Felony Crime

Generally accepted to be a violent crime, may also apply to white collar violation of $20,000 or more; or major drug dealers categorized as class one violations (per D.E.A. standards) Other crimes may fit into this category depending upon the command and public interest of the investigation.

B. Polygraph

An electronic device that measures the Galvanic skins response and is used to detect deception or untruthfulness.

4-1-3 Objectives

A. The primary objective of the Impact Team is to conduct follow-up investigations on all felonies that are not the responsibility of other units, bureaus, or agencies.

B. Additional objectives include:

1. Assisting and training officers in the procedures of criminal investigation.
2. Establishing and conducting directed activities, including problem solving initiative.
3. Coordinating investigations with uniformed officers, Investigations Division personnel, and other area commands and agencies.
4. Monitoring all crime reports occurring within the area to identify criminal activity or patterns.
5. Assisting field units whenever possible and accepting case investigative responsibility in order to increase uniformed patrol manpower levels.

4-1-4 Rules and Responsibilities

A. Impact Team

1. The Impact Team has investigative responsibility on the following:

M005038

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT

- b. Aggravated Battery
- c. Auto Burglary
- d. Larceny
- e. Recovered Stolen Property
- f. Any investigation or activity that the Area Commander assigns.

2. The Team will assist uniformed personnel:

- a. In obtaining arrest and search warrants when requested.
- b. In whatever capacity requested to bring an investigation to a conclusion.
- c. In the event detectives are called out to an in-custody investigation, the officer shall ensure case responsibility information is added on the last line of the criminal complaint, including the name of the person responsible.

3. The Impact Team will assist other personnel in Field Services, Investigations, and outside agencies when requested and approved.

4. When needed, the Impact Team will assist with station reports and other substation functions and activities.

B. Sergeant

1. Each Investigative Unit (Watch II and Watch III) will be supervised by a sergeant.

2. If in the course of case monitoring, the unit sergeant determines that the criteria for continued investigation no longer exists; he/she will have the authority to suspend the investigation until such time as additional information is developed.

3. The unit sergeant or the assigned detective will periodically advise the crime victim of the status of their case.

4. The unit sergeant will maintain a schedule of attendance.

C. Commander

1. The Area Commanders have the ultimate responsibility of overseeing the Impact Team.

2. The Impact lieutenant will have overall functional responsibility for the Impact team.

D. Detective

1. Will periodically attend Field Services briefings at their assigned area command. This interaction should enhance relations with field officers, as well as establish an informational exchange.

FIELD SERVICES BUREAU ORDERS

SOP 4-1

Effective: 06/22/15 Expires: 12/22/15 Replaces: 03/13/07

E. Completed Cases

1. The detective's sergeant, prior to its distribution to the Records Section and District Attorney Liaison will review all cases.

F. Officer in Charge (OIC):

1. The Impact team detective is the OIC of an investigation unless the responsibility lies with another unit or agency.
2. Whenever a detective from an Impact Team is requested and dispatched to the scene of a call out, the detective will assume responsibility for investigation. This includes the direct control of the call itself. If the detective determines that the case does not fall within his investigative duties, that information will be passed on to the initial officer so that he may take the appropriate action.
3. If there is a disagreement involving the Impact Team detective and the initial responding field officer or the field officer's supervisor over a decision made by the detective, the on-call Investigative Unit supervisor will be contacted to assist. Once the on-call Impact Team supervisor is contacted, the final decision or responsibility for the decision will rest with him unless countermanded by a command officer.

G. If a criminal investigation involves a multitude of crimes where several officers initially investigated the offenses, the case is to be turned over to the Investigative Unit.

1. A uniformed Field Services officer may be temporarily assigned to the Impact Team utilizing the assistance of the team to complete a complicated investigation.
2. If the investigation is going to be of some length, the investigation should be turned over to Impact Team.

H. Communication

1. The Impact Team sergeants will be responsible for formal and informal lines of communication within his/her area command, Criminal Investigations Division, and other Impact teams.
2. The Impact Team detective should formally notify the affected officer of the final disposition of an investigation he initiated.

I. Assignment of Follow-Up Investigations

1. The Area Command Impact team shall review all unsolved felony cases that the department receives and to initiate an investigation when solvability factors dictate the case may be unfounded or lead to an arrest or indictment.
2. Report Review and Case Assignment.

- a. The unit sergeant will review each incoming Field Services report and determine if the case is to be followed up, and assign the case to a detective for investigation.
3. Each sergeant will maintain a case log of all cases assigned within his/her unit. This log will contain the investigator assigned; date case is assigned, case number or victims' name. At the end of 15 days, an entry will be made stating the case status. When the case has been under investigation for 30 days, the sergeant will review the case and determine if case is to be continued or not and the appropriate entry will be made on the case log. No case will be open for more than 45 days unless the appropriate sergeant has granted approval.

J. On-Call Status

1. It is the policy of Area Command Impact teams to provide service to the department by formulating "on call" lists and making their services available when needed.
2. It may be necessary because of the member's job assignment, to either be routinely or temporarily placed in an "on call" status (as defined by the collective bargaining agreement).
3. The unit supervisor will be responsible in determining the need for an "on call" status subject to the approval of the section commander.
4. In the event of an emergency or other situation where a detective cannot complete the assigned "on call" period, they will notify the unit sergeant as soon as possible to arrange for a replacement. Until this contact is made, the detective "on call" will be responsible for any call out assignment.
5. When in an "on call" status, detectives will ensure their availability for duty within one hour from notification of the request for assistance.
6. Nothing in this section prohibits unit supervisors from calling out additional personnel for duty as the situation dictates. In the event of this occurring, personnel will make themselves available for service as soon as practical unless excused by the unit supervisor.

K. Equipment

1. All detectives shall have access to all Department issued equipment consistent with their unit's mission and training. The list of approved equipment shall be maintained by the Assistant Chief/Deputy Chief/Major of the bureau.

2-07 INSPECTIONS/AUDIT UNIT

2-07-1 Definitions

A. Staff Inspections

Inspections conducted by the Inspections Unit to ensure objective review of Department facilities, property, evidence items/storage, equipment, personnel and administrative and operational activities outside the normal supervisory and line inspection procedures and the chain of command.

2-07-2 Rules

[N/A] A. Staff Inspections

1. Responsibility and Authority

a. Staff inspections are conducted by the Inspections Unit at the direction of the Chief of Police.

b. The Inspections Unit will:

- i. Act on behalf of the Chief of Police as a staff investigative body.
- ii. Function under the policies and directions established by the Chief of Police.
- [5] iii. Have access to all records and any other properties relevant to the performance of an inspection.
- iv. Have the authority to review and appraise any policy, order, plan, procedure, or record within the department.
- v. Have the authority to solicit the expertise of additional personnel whenever necessary.
- vi. Conduct staff inspections of all organizational components within the department.

c. Personnel being inspected will:

- [5] i. Cooperate fully with inspection personnel during the execution of an inspection.
- [6] ii. Keep all appointments with Inspections personnel.
- [5] iii. Make available all records and properties requested by Inspections personnel.
- iv. Will not obstruct the inspection process in any manner

2. Nature and Types of Inspections

a. Types of Inspections

- i. A general inspection examines a cross-section of operational functions and procedures of a particular unit or command.
- ii. A specific inspection is an examination and evaluation of a single function or operational procedure performed either by a single unit or as a process by several units.

ALBUQUERQUE POLICE DEPARTMENT
PROFESSIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY BUREAU ORDERS

SOP 2-07

Effective: 07/13/15 Expires: 01/13/16

b. Nature of Inspections

- i. General and specific inspections are designed to provide concise, objective, and relevant information free of the subjectivity often found in information provided through the normal chain of command.
- ii. The focus throughout an inspection is on procedures, effects, and issues; not on personalities.
  - All facts, findings, and recommendations are phrased without reference to particular individuals.
  - It must be emphasized that the focus is on improvement rather than fault finding.
- iii. In the event that a serious or criminal violation by personnel is brought to an inspector's attention, the inspector will:
  - Notify the affected commander immediately.

3. Objective of an Inspection:

- a. The objective of an inspection is to assist all employees of the management team through independent and objective analysis, review, and evaluation of existing programs, procedures, and activities.
  - i. A staff inspection reviews programs to determine whether results are consistent with pre-established goals and objectives; and whether programs are being carried out as planned.
  - ii. An inspection is concerned with all phases of department operations and obtaining a thorough understanding of those operations under review.
- b. To attain overall objectives, inspections include, but not limited to:
  - i. Evaluating compliance of rules, regulations, policies, and procedures.
  - ii. The review and appraisal of financial as well as other operational controls.
  - iii. Appraisal of the quality of performance in regard to assigned responsibilities.
  - iv. Evaluating compliance with established plans and programs.
  - v. Ascertaining the extent to which department resources are accounted for and evaluate safeguards in place to limit losses of all kinds.

4. Response to Inspection Reports

- [6] a. The affected Deputy Chief, Major, Executive Director, Commander, or Division Manager or designee, will respond in writing to the Inspections Unit no later than 30 days after receiving their copy of the inspection report from the Inspections Unit.
- [6] b. Responses to inspection reports will not question the inspection process and/or scope. Responses will either accept or reject that the issue identified during the inspection exists. The recommendation made by the Inspections Unit may then be accepted in whole or in part. Commanders may implement other methods of correcting deficiencies, however they shall document the action being taken in their response.
- [5] c. All inspection reports will be hand carried to the Inspections Unit. No one outside the Inspections Unit is authorized to keep or duplicate an inspection report. M005043

5. Follow-up Inspection

- a. An unannounced follow-up inspection will be conducted 30 to 90 days after the affected Deputy Chief, Major, Executive Director, Commander, and/or Division Manager has responded, to ensure compliance.

B. Audit Unit

1. The Audit Unit is comprised of Quality Assurance Auditors and a Quality Assurance Auditor supervisor. The Unit reports directly to the Administrative Support Bureau Executive Director.

2. Duties

- a. Plan, conduct and monitor compliance requirements
- b. Assure ongoing compliance with quality and Governmental regulatory requirements
- c. Document internal audits, findings, and other quality assurance activities
- d. Evaluate adequacy of quality assurance standards
- e. Interpret and implement quality assurance standards
- f. Collect and compile statistical quality data
- g. Support on-site audits conducted by external providers
- h. Review the implementation and efficiency of quality systems
- i. Analyze data to identify areas for improvement in the quality system

3. Quality Assurance Auditors shall assess:

- a. Quality and timeliness of required reporting submissions
- b. Fulfillment of required training of all personnel
- c. Compliance with Department Standard Operating Procedures
- d. Effectiveness of internal control mechanisms

Effective: 07/08/15 Expires: 01/08/16 Replaces: 11/01/10

4-09 OPEN SPACE SECTION

4-09-1 Objective

To protect, maintain, and manage significant natural landscapes and cultural resources for present and future generations. To accomplish this objective, the Open Space Section will practice strict enforcement of the law and provide public education regarding the use and preservation of these lands.

4-09-2 Definitions

A. Open Space

Those lands so designated in the adopted Plan for Major Open Space and acquired by the City of Albuquerque; any other lands so designated at the time of acquisition or subsequently; and any lands for which the city has assumed control or management responsibility by lease, easement, or legal agreement.

4-09-3 Rules and Responsibilities

A. Areas

1. Since they are cross-commissioned, Open Space officers routinely patrol areas that are not accessible by regular field unit patrol cars, but are not formally declared Open Space areas. These areas include, but are not limited to areas on the "near" Northwest Mesas (generally, the areas bordering the Volcano Park, the Shooting Range, the North Geological Window); the Tingley Beach area; areas near the Manzano Open Space (the Tijeras Arroyo) and infrastructure assets not accessible by passenger vehicle.
2. Open Space Officers will patrol open space lands that are outside of the City of Albuquerque limits and within Bernalillo County. All Violent crimes in these areas will be turned over to the Bernalillo County Sheriff's Office.

B. Administrative

1. The Open Space Section will be tasked with assisting the City Parks and Recreation, Open Space Division with facility and park opening and closures.
2. Open Space Officers will be tasked from time to time to conduct visitor programs in cooperation with the Open Space Division.
3. Any mutual aid agreement regarding facility or park opening and closures will be agreed upon by the Open Space Division and the Open Space Commander.

M005045

C. Uniforms and Patches

1. Hovercraft Patrol: Green cover-all type "flight" suit with APD cloth patch and badge clearly displayed
2. Patches
  - a. In addition to the regulation APD patch, Officers assigned to the Open Space Section are authorized to wear the "Open Space" section patch. The patch will be worn in accordance with APD Uniform Regulations.

D. Vehicle Lock-Ins

1. Several Open Space parks are closed at night (i.e. entrance gates are physically secured) by Open Space Officers on a nightly basis. The times of these closures vary with the seasons. As such, vehicles may be found to be in the parking areas after posted park hours and are required to be locked-in overnight. The following procedure will be followed to ensure that the interests of the City of Albuquerque are addressed:
  - a. At the appropriate hour, the Open Space Officer will announce over their Public Address system that the park is closed and that the owners of the remaining vehicle(s) must return to their vehicle immediately.
  - b. The Open Space Division will insure that signs are clearly posted with times of operations are respected parking lots.
  - c. A reasonable time will be given for the return of the owner to the vehicle, considering the terrain and/or weather conditions.
  - d. If the Responsible Party responds to the call to return to the vehicle, a plain view inspection of the vehicle through the windows will be conducted. This is to determine if any signs of criminal activity and/or instances of distress are present.
  - e. The license plate of the vehicle will be run for stolen vehicle reports and/or informational ATL and/or missing person alerts.
  - f. A "Lock-In" form will be completed and prominently displayed on the vehicle's windshield. Officers will not be dispatched to unlock gates. The gates will reopen the following day at 0700.
  - g. The patrol officer will advise dispatch that the vehicle is a lock-in at the respective park and dispatch, in turn, will make a dispatch log note of this information.

E. Search and Rescue

1. Because of the nature of land use by park visitors, search and rescue operations become necessary from time to time. These search and rescue operations have (historically) most often occurred in the Sandia Mountain area. On occasion, however, the need arises for a search and rescue operation in the Rio Grande River involving use of the hovercraft or airboat. The following procedure will be followed during search and rescue/missing person situations in Open Space.

2. For foothills areas call-outs:

- a. The On-Duty Supervisor will be summoned to the area where the reporting party believes the missing person was last seen or known to frequent.
- b. Critical information will be gathered immediately and will include, the missing person's name, description, age; time elapsed since the missing person was last contacted; medications/medical conditions/mental conditions present; the frame of mind of the person when last seen (distress state, etc.); the manner of dress of the missing person with regards to the weather conditions; the familiarity the missing person has with regards to the terrain.
- c. This information will be forwarded to the On-Duty or On-Call APD Search and Rescue (SAR) Supervisor make an on-sight assessment of the situation.
- d. The On-Duty SAR Supervisor will coordinate a search of the immediate area. The On-Duty SAR Supervisor will not use civilian volunteers in the search, this is to minimize the chance of secondary search and rescue missions.
- e. The area command will be notified of the event.
- f. The on Duty Supervisor will request the assistance of the Air Unit if conditions warrant.

3. For Rio Grande River call-outs:

- a. If not on-duty at the time, the SAR/Dive Team supervisor will be notified by the on-duty supervisor of the nature of the call.
- b. The SAR/Dive Team supervisor will gather all pertinent information and determine whether a deployment is necessary with approval from the Open Space Commander.
- c. If a deployment is determined to be required, the SAR/Dive Team supervisor will initiate a call-out for a pilot and on-board observer.
- d. The On-Duty SAR/Dive Team supervisor will coordinate a search of the immediate area. The On-Duty Supervisor will not use civilian volunteers in the search. This is to minimize the chance of secondary search and rescue missions.
- e. If the event requires a swift-water rescue, or potential dive team call out, the APD Dive Team will be notified.
- f. The area command will be notified of the event.
- g. The On Duty Supervisor will request the assistance of the Air Unit if conditions warrant.

F. Sergeants

1. Sergeants shall be directly responsible to the Lieutenant of the Open Space Section.
2. Shall communicate directly with the Open Space Lieutenant and brief team members on all ongoing issues.
3. Shall conduct monthly uniform and equipment inspections for team personnel. Personnel will be evaluated on the following:

4. Shall ensure reports, timesheets, weekly reports and all applicable paperwork are completed in accordance with department guidelines.
  5. Shall ensure that all reports and citations are submitted to the Report Review Unit.
  6. Shall ensure that minimum staffing levels are met on their respected shifts.
  7. Shall approve and disapprove vacation based on the needs of the department.
  8. Shall be responsible for personnel reporting to their assigned district. Shall work the same shift as their team members.
  9. Shall keep and maintain an up-to-date list of phone numbers and addresses of team personnel.
  10. Shall insure that all team members are conducting themselves and their activities within accordance of the department SOP.
  11. Will familiarize themselves with the capabilities and special skills of subordinates.
  12. Will communicate directly with the relieving shift supervisor on issues of the day.
  13. Shall be responsible for training subordinates in leadership in the event of their absences.
  14. Shall be responsible for all directed activity planning.
  15. Shall familiarize themselves with the duties of the Open Space Lieutenant and be prepared to assume command duties in the event that the commander is absent.
  16. Be familiar with all Open Space Areas and Access Points.
- G. Wild Land Fires
1. The Open Space Unit will take preventative action to minimize the risk of catastrophic fires from occurring in the Rio Grande Valley State Park and other Open Space areas. The level of patrol or closure is directly affected by the severity of drought, fire conditions in the Open Space Areas, historic fire information and the Fourth of July holiday.
  2. The Open Space Commander will coordinate with the Open Space Division, AFD, BCFD, and the State Forestry Department to determine the fire danger in the Open Space Areas.

SPECIAL SERVICES BUREAU ORDERS

SOP 4-09

Effective: 07/08/15 Expires: 01/08/16 Replaces: 11/01/10

3. During extreme fire conditions the Open Space section will concentrate patrols within these the high-risk areas to reduce the fire danger.
4. The Open Space Section will investigate thoroughly all calls that involve possible fires or smoke within the Open Space Areas.
  - a. In the event of a fire the Open Space Supervisors will insure that the fire department is notified.
  - b. A Unified Command will be established in accordance with the National Incident Management System (NIMS).
  - c. Open Space Officers will staff the access points that best allow fire equipment to access the area.
  - d. Start an evacuation of park visitors, contractors, or other persons in the area.
  - e. Set up a perimeter to keep non-public safety personnel out of the area.

Info to councilors and others shown and not shown

Citizens want to believe the $4.5+ million of our taxes given you is being well spent. Yet there has been too much avoidance by you and your people of us who have been on the front lines in this reform effort. Just what are you doing with Scott Greenwood and Tom Streicher from Cincinnati whose paycheck is now at $650K?

Why wasn't your secret planned meeting to be held Friday at the Peace and Justice Center publicized? What is agenda? Is it just another PR scam/stunt like the tax-wasting $15K City/UNM run outreach collaboratives?

At one of these outreach collaboratives one speaker at Monday's Council meeting confirmed they were indeed scams and mentioned a talk by an APD cop attendee who berated citizens saying we must accommodate APD-not the opposite. He also said APD didn't need the DOJ or you here. They could reform themselves.

A former San Diego police officer sitting on the Police Oversight Board-POB is now trying to justify making a former Milwaukee police officer (who is clueless about Albuquerque and the oversight process) to be the new Executive Director of the new police oversight agency-POA. What else is new?

We continued to get stonewalled on NM IPRA requests and seemingly you don't care. No police recordings-no accountability. The murder of James Boyd was the only exception and that recording likely leaked out.

The media continues to give credibility to another embarrassing/disgraceful police officer-APD union VP Willoughby who was outraged as was attorney "Saul" Bregman that the judge yesterday. Judge Candelaria properly ignored all of the lying and other BS thrown at him by the killer cops' attorneys and their paid to lie "experts" defending Perez and Sandy who murdered homeless camper James Boyd.

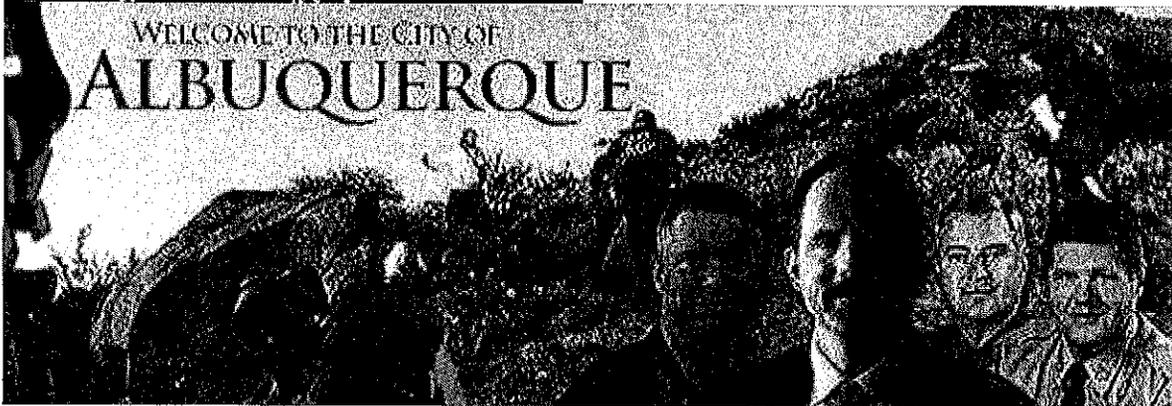

This was the first APD officer ever charged here in 50 years despite the APD bloodbath that has been going on first under Schultz and now under the incompetent Eden.

See Willoughby's beliefs in the attachment. As a former cop, are you part of the solution or part of the problem? We wonder.

For WE THE PEOPLE

THE MOST CORRUPT ADMINISTRATION AND DANGEROUS POLICE FORCE IN THIS CITY'S HISTORY

TO: POC and Task Force on August 20, 2013 by Silvio Dell'Angela-Stop Police Atrocities NOW!-SPAN

FYI is a recent appeal sent out to all APD union officers in response to a recent Eye on Albuquerque.com posting. It was sent out to all APD/APOA union members by Shaun Willoughby -the current APOA VP and its Political Action Committee Chairman. The disgraceful Shaun pretends that another APD officer authored it. It was directed against all honest officers and retired APD Sergeant mayoral candidate Paul Heh who dared break Schultz's and now Banks' oppressive blue code of silence on former Union President Joey Sigala's misuse of APOA dues. One honest officer recipient disgusted with Shaun's "it's us against them" appeal for all to shut up, leaked it to the "Eye" and TV reporter. Note the misuse of grammar and failure to proofread.

Prior to last night's 8/19 Council meeting new Chief Banks apparently asked a number of Councilors who are the willing enablers of police misconduct like Janice Arnold Jones, Trudy Jones and others to honor APD officers for some routine actions. Among the officers recognized was the Leah Kelly-Acata, the shooter of a young man downtown who was only cutting himself with a six inch round-tip butter spreader. The former Leah Kelly-now married, has also been the subject of numerous citizen public complaints (CPC) to the POC and because no recordings were made she was always exonerated. I pointed out to these councilors that they never bother to honor returning military vets who truly put their lives at risk. I am a Vietnam vet.

The disgusting letter from this disgraceful cop/union officer follows:

Disappointed board member, said...Hello,

I would like to say this to all officers.I would first like to voice my displeasure at the comments here and at work by officers against the APOA and it's staff present and past.

Everyone wants to judge what we do here. I am sick of it. I am sick of hearing you needy complaining officers bash us, the department, the city and it's leadership. You are all worthless. We work hard at keeping stability and you all do nothing but attack the place and tear it down. You all are the reason for things falling apart. Don't cry about how your money is spent when you all never show up for union meetings.

We know who is speaking out against us and you will see. All of you air our dirty laundry. Laundry that should be kept in house. You all give the community ammunition against us. You should know better. This liberal retarded band of vengeful activists called Albuquerque makes me sick. You are no better than them. These bunch of uneducated subhuman animals that constantly attack us, march against us and sue us for no other reason than to fill their greedy pockets so that they can buy more drugs to smoke up and shiny rims for their ghetto rides.

You have lost sight of the big picture. We should be backing eachother. For your information, it is us against them! Do half of these so called citizens have jobs? Probably not. They probably have EBT cards though. These entitled lowlifes have the guts to insult us in our house? But you all attack the APOA? As for money being stolen, that should have been handled in-house. There was no reason for that to get out. That was just plain stupid. Everyone here is angry and hateful. I will not standby and accept the trash talking just because we are not backing Paul. He should have left well enough alone. He decided to cross the blue line when he made complaint against a fellow board member. You don't turn on eachother. A rat is a rat. Period. Joey may have been a bonehead, but he was our bonehead. We could have taken care of it, but Paul had to be the hero and take the official route. This caused so much aggravation. Paul is also supported here. This is why we voted not to support him. He betrayed us just as all of you shit talkers here do. You cry about representation. You don't deserve representation and he doesn't deserve support. Be happy you have jobs. If you don't like it, quit and join the jobless moochers called Vecinos United and the rest of the entitlement crowd sucking the city dry. Go join the crybabies and see if anyone cares. Just like all of you complainers, these worthless whiners will eventually lose interest when their circus loses it's followers.

In closing, I will say this, nothing is perfect and nobody said life was fair. Get over it! You all deserve what you get. Crybaby people constantly bitching about the police when they contribute nothing to society and cops who are snitches who sell out their own. Sleep in the bed you all made. We do our jobs. Shame is you all have no idea because you are never at a damn meeting.

Cheers!

I became a member of the Albuquerque Police Department in 2002. I have been a member of the Albuquerque Police Officers Association Executive Board for the past 4 years and held the position of CIB representative for 3 years prior to becoming the APOA Vice President in May of 2012. My primary goals in this first term is to bring the APOA to a more solid fiscal position by controlling spending and over hauling our By-Laws to protect the assets of the Association.

Second,I would like to see the APOA more proactive in the community, thus having a positive impact for the citizens we are sworn to protect.

Most importantly, I want to bring that sense of family back to this organization, I want our members to look upon this Association with prideful eyes knowing they have people they Trust in their corner when the time comes. Thank you for the honor and opportunity to serve those who devote their lives serving others.

Police Oversight Board Members,

City Council President Rey Garduño has decided to introduce OC-15-25, Selection of the Executive Director of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency, at the City Council meeting on Monday, August 17th and hold it over to the following City Council meeting on September 9th for Final Action.

President Garduño understands the urgency in filling this position, but wants to ensure that the Council has adequate time for each Councilor to review each candidate's material and possibly meet with them. Councilor Garduño also wants to allot enough time for the candidates to arrange their schedules to attend the City Council meeting and be available to answer any questions from City Councilors.

President Garduño appreciates the diligent work of the Police Oversight Board on this issue and he understands the importance of the position, however, he also wants to ensure the Council makes the right decision in order to continue to move civilian oversight in Albuquerque in the right direction.

Thank you,

Julian Moya

Reference my e-mail to the disgraceful APOA President Lopez attached .

I guess to reward the Berry administration and APD for the huge chunks of money given the Journal and to your attorney brother, the Journal now even has to join the defense team for a killer cop.

You know that the disgraceful (don't convict Perez) irrelevant information in the Ryan Boetel article is not admissible in court. See my comments to it narrative highlighted in yellow below.

Boetel's was solely intended to predispose any local jurors to find this killer not guilty and justify moving the trial out of Albuquerque. See the APD's ad of the mug shots of the most wanted property crime offenders and the recruiting article below it that documented ridiculous benefits officers receive.

It omitted take home cars for their personal purposes after work and the historical freedom from accountability for crimes they commit. The benefits given to military member who are our real nation's heroes don't even come close.

When will be the one fluff piece on Sandy?

Facing murder charge, officer is broke and soon to be jobless (Hopefully after Perez finish his jail sentence)

By Ryan Boetel / Journal Staff Writer PUBLISHED: Friday, August 21, 2015 at 12:05 am

Dominique Perez is a nine-year veteran of the Albuquerque Police Department with a clean record. Before joining the ranks of APD, the Albuquerque native served in Iraq as a United States Marine and was wounded in battle. (Irrelevant.) He's also broke and on the verge of losing his job as a police officer since he faces trial on a second-degree murder charge, his attorney said Thursday.(Irrelevant).

City policies call for Perez to be fired once he is charged officially, which will happen because a judge on Tuesday found probable cause at a preliminary hearing to bind Perez and former detective Keith Sandy over for trial on second-degree murder charges in the shooting death of mentally ill, homeless camper James Boyd.

Celina Espinoza, a police spokeswoman, said Perez was on administrative leave Thursday and will have a "due process" hearing, which hasn't been scheduled, before he can be terminated. The hearing, though, is moot, attorney Luis Robles said. "You can always grieve these things, but there isn't much to do," Robles said Thursday. "Given that the judge bound the charges against him over (for trial), he loses his job." (He should and also go to jail)

Unlike a lawsuit against police officers, the city isn't paying for Perez and Sandy's defense, Robles said. Defending a case of this magnitude would cost about $250,000, he said. (Note-all to Robles) Robles said he plans to represent Perez until the end of the case and doesn't expect to receive significant legal fees for litigating motions and defending Perez at trial. (Robles is getting enough already)

"All the things that you see happening (so far in the case) are coming out of the pockets of officer Perez and former Detective Sandy," Robles said. Perez "has a family and three young children. He doesn't have anything left to give." (Irrelevant. Many killed by killer Perez also had families)

Perez, who attended the University of New Mexico before enlisting, was wounded by an improvised explosive device in Anbar province during his second tour in Iraq. The sergeant who pulled Perez and another Marine from the burning vehicle was awarded the Silver Star.

The blast and fire left permanent scars. (What permanent scars? So did Ken Ellis II, Vincent Wood and others killed by APD serve and they-unlike Perez who likely never saw actual combat, came back with PTSD. DA's office or grand jury acquitted all APD killers and even refused to release incriminating video of two cops murdering Vincent Wood.)

As a nine-year APD officer and SWAT team member, Perez had never fired his weapon in the line of duty. (Irrelevant-does he get one free shooting/killing of a citizen before being charged for murder?)

His fellow officers have rallied to the defense of Perez and Sandy. (Of course-the bad ones). Earlier this year, the police department's collective bargaining unit voted to increase union dues by about $19 a month to purchase an insurance package that provides officers with criminal defense funds, said Shaun Willoughby, the vice president of the Albuquerque Police Officers Association. A disgrace to the uniform.

But Perez and Sandy were already facing murder charges by the time police officers voted on that package, he said. In addition to losing his job, Robles said Perez won't work in law enforcement again. He shouldn't after he gets out of jail. "His career choice of working in law enforcement is over," he said. "Even with an acquittal, his life is ruined." (Really like APD ruined good honest cops-Dawne Roberto, Sam Costales and others? Corrupt former APD Chief Schultz's offenses including TASERGATE were swept under the rug)

Venue change

The next step in the case is for prosecutors to file formal charges against Perez and Sandy. The officers will then be arraigned and booked into jail before a judge sets conditions of release. Attorneys expect there to be several motions litigated before the case goes to trial. A trial date hasn't been set. Robles said one of the defense's next tasks is to file a motion for a change of venue. If that motion is successful, it would mean the trial would be held outside of Albuquerque. (This disgraceful Boetel fluff piece on killer Perez is to brainwash potential local jurors-give the prosecution/judge no choice but to change venue. When will we read a fluff piece on Sandy?)

Perez and Sandy are the first Albuquerque police officers to be charged criminally for an on-duty death since 1977, when Albuquerque police officer James Babich was charged and later acquitted of a manslaughter charge for striking a man with a large flashlight and killing him. (Shows how bad it has been here for almost 40 years and this cop not surprisingly, was acquitted. Yet it's interesting that our disgraceful US Attorney for NM Damon Martinez had former Rio Arriba Sheriff Tommy Rodella jailed within months for merely an alleged assault charge.)

Throughout a seven-day preliminary hearing that wrapped up Tuesday, testimony showed officers in March 2014 surrounded Boyd in the Sandia foothills where he was camping illegally and allegedly pulled a knife on two uniformed officers who responded. (He pulled a knife to protect himself against the K-9 dog to protect himself. I would have done the same. A K-9 dog attack is also deemed the use of excessive force)

After a three-hour standoff, a group of tactical officers hatched a plan to lure Boyd down a steep slope with his belongings where they would use several less-lethal weapons and take him into custody. The less-lethal weapons were ineffective, however, and Sandy and Perez shot and killed Boyd when a fellow officer got too close to Boyd, who was armed with two knives. (The fierce K-9 dog-not a fellow officer got too close)

The K-9 officer testified his life was in danger and that he ducked so the cover officers could fire. (A lie. Dog let loose. Boyd would have to have gotten past the fierce K-9 dog to get to this lying K-9 officer) That's what they did.

Perez had arrived at the scene about 15 minutes prior to the shooting. Both he and Sandy fired simultaneously from different positions. (Sandy said in an earlier recorded conversation that he intended to shoot Boyd)

Prosecutors argued that Boyd was surrendering and that police used excessive force and were unreasonable, and pro tem Judge Neil Candelaria found there was probable cause to bind both over for trial. (Courageous)

Impact on APD

Robles said what is happening to Perez will likely make it harder for Albuquerque police to find new recruits. (Not find the good recruits who want to be held accountable for their actions-not expecting to be above the law. Again see overly generous benefit package offered APD officers below mug shots in Journal today)

The department is already understaffed and working under a consent decree after a U.S. Department of Justice investigation into Albuquerque police found a pattern of excessive force. (Good APD officers quit-fed up with their corrupt leadership while bad APD officers quit-don't now want to be held accountable for their actions)

Albuquerque police's administration couldn't be reached for comment Thursday. (Of course not-but APOA's corrupt leadership always willing)

"Why would anybody want to be a cop, especially at APD, knowing, 'This is what could happen to me,'" Robles said. "The (Bernalillo County Sheriff's Office) isn't under the same scrutiny. Wouldn't it be easier to wear tan and green?" (Yes-because BCSO's disgraceful Sheriff Manny Gonzalez doesn't want body recorders for his deputies and there is no citizens' oversight in the BCSO. Gonzalez still allows its deputies to seize incrimination cell phone and surveillance recordings in violation of a recent Supreme Court ruling. Also our NM legislators (particularly former cops Rehm and Pacheco and others) don't have the guts to call for legislation requiring that all NM officers wear cameras. The latter two only wants to reform the judicial system.)

Willoughby said the police union will try to raise money for Perez and Sandy. Perez also has an online fundraiser where he has raised about $12,000. (Who raises money for families of those murdered by APD to cover legal expenses? Not the APOA)

"The only thing criminal about his case is what these officers had to go through," Willoughby said. (B.S) "We will do everything we can to stand behind these officers." (APOA supports APD murderers. Even have some exonerated killers on their APOA Board.)

Sandy retired while prosecutors were reviewing the case to determine if they would bring charges against the officers. (Eden kept him in APD for months with pay until he was allowed to retire-disgraceful) His monthly pension is $3,141, according to the New Mexico Public Employees Retirement Association. (Too much for this bad cop)

The Journal should be ashamed as it is a willing part of the problem here.

Info to the Mayor and those not shown including the Chief, City Councilors, media, PMR Inc, DOJ and others

We have watched you and Shaun at Council meetings, at Police Oversight Task Force meetings, at POC police oversight meetings, in TV interviews and elsewhere claiming that those many honest cops in APD's rank and file all believe that police officers are above the law.

They can use excessive force on citizens indiscriminately believing with no recordings being made or those made will be withheld or destroyed that the justice system will always justify all they do.

Well unfortunately for your buddy killer cops Perez and his partner (cleaned up for the hearing to try to make him look respectable) Sandy, for the first time there was one incriminating video and another incriminating audio recording released. The audio recording showed the premeditation on the part of Sandy and the video showed what actually happened-the murder.

The two murdered James Boyd last year who was only holding small knives to protect himself against that vicious K-9 dog that was straining at its leash to get loose to chew him to bits. The dog was eventually released and went after Boyd. That in itself is excessive force. Even some recordings of Boyd's murder were apparently withheld as reported in the attached Live Leak report.

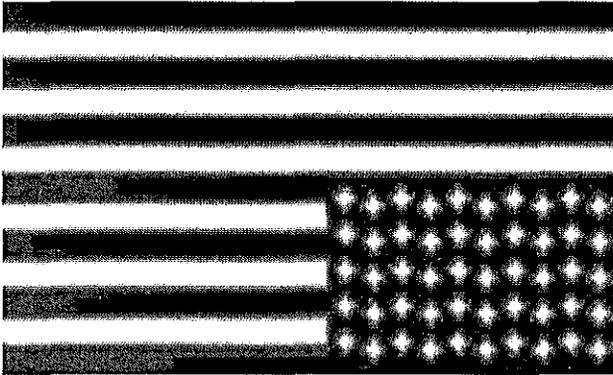

The K-9 officer was never threatened as the dog was in front of him but that's apparently what he was told to say on the stand because lying within APD is blessed and encouraged. The APOA could have taken the high road like the Mayor and say let the jury eventually rule or like Chief Eden refuse to comment rather than defend these two criminal cops.

Every time you and Shaun open your mouths, you make fools out of yourselves! You both are a disgrace to the uniform the many honest APD cops wear. Your APOA Board also includes killer cops who have never gotten punished.

See again the mindset of both of you captured in the August 18, 2013 disgraceful memo sent by the cowardly Shaun to the rank and file who pretended that this UNNAMED "disappointed board member" was other than himself. It reminded all cops in the APOA "For your information, it is us against them!"

One honest cop disgusted with Shaun, leaked the memo to us who we are repeatedly told that APD is here to serve and protect us and not themselves. To further insult our intelligence you dared to show the American flag below something neither of you have ever served under but instead have disgraced while APOA leaders.

Let me suggest the flag below (banned from being shown by the cowardly City Council) that better describes APOA's leadership. It is an official US Flag Code sign of distress to the citizens here because of your and APD's other corrupt leadership.

In your newsletter posting, you like Boyd killers Perez and Sandy are so arrogant to believe there will be yet another cowardly jury picked who fears APD retaliation-thus will vote will exonerate these two as the Jury did in the Levi Chavez Jr. murder case and cowardly secret grand juries did in other APD cop murder cases.

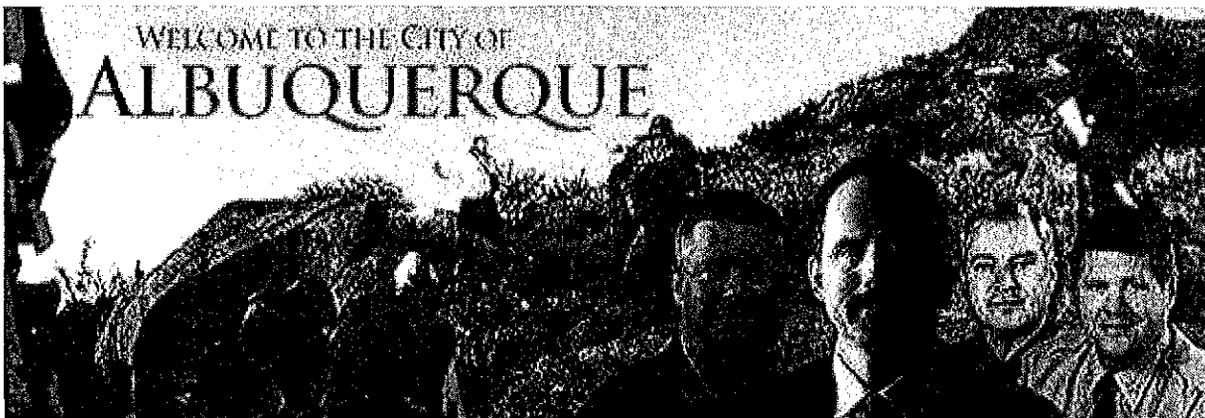

If that occurs, this City will continue to be the disgrace of the nation. You even ask the rank and file cops to look for fundraising opportunities. Why should they give even one dollar to these two?

I'm more than disgusted with you Stephanie for signing that newsletter posting likely prepared by Shaun. I'm glad you finally came out of hiding.

Dear Members,

We join you in your disappointment over today's decision to hold Retired Detective Keith Sandy and Officer Dominique Perez over for trial for the shooting of James Boyd. As an association, we find it unfathomable that two officers doing their jobs and protecting their community are now being criminally charged.

We must remind ourselves, and everyone else, that the judge in the case only ruled there is probable cause to send the case to trial and into the hands of a jury. As you know, the standard for probable cause is extremely low. We are confident that when a jury is presented all the facts that they will make the right call and find Officers Sandy and Perez not guilty of all charges.

The Albuquerque Police Officers' Association will continue to support Officers Sandy and Perez through this difficult time, including financially. Both men have already paid tens of thousands of dollars in legal bills, and those costs will only skyrocket as they now must face a drawn-out court battle and trial. Please keep your eyes out for fundraising opportunities and continue to keep these officers in your thoughts.

TO ALL Bcc including our councilors, media, the DOJ, citizens and others-forward this e-mail to others if you wish

References:

- Councilor Dan Lewis' letter on page A11 of Sunday's Journal, "Councilors' actions were timely"
- Eye on Albuquerque blogs-June 22 and June 28-the latest an open letter to monitor James Ginger
- My earlier e-mails and talks to Council on betrayal of the people by them, this administration and the DOJ, the Journal, other in the media who we trusted and more

GINGER'S ARROGANCE AND DISRESPECT FOR US

Councilor Lewis was right about James Ginger's bogus excuse. It is yet another example of the arrogance of this toothless monitor who feels only contempt for the people and the Councilors we elected to serve us.

Ginger's "team" includes other former police officers whose first and likely only loyalty is to fellow police officers still working. His team also includes Federal Judge Brack, US Attorney for NM Damon Martinez, others in the DOJ here, the Mayor, his thug CAO, the Mayor's in town and out of town highly paid mercenaries-Scott Greenwood and Tom Streicher.

What Lewis fails to mention is that Ginger and the others arrogantly say is that they do not work for we-the people and for our elected councilors dismissing us all as irrelevant and some like me as their enemies.

We trusting/seemingly naïve all fully expected that the DOJ would represent us and not the Berry administration, the corrupt APD leadership and the APD union leadership all of whom created the police state here. We were wrong!

Instead under a threat of an extended lawsuit against the DOJ during the negotiations with the Mayor's mercenaries Streicher, Greenwood, Jerry Walz and others rather than us and our Council representatives, the DOJ would instead betray us and pass a knowingly toothless agreement that included a toothless monitoring team led by the arrogant Ginger.

THE DOJ-SO FAR NOT ON OUR SIDE

Those in the DOJ here have allowed this excessively delayed police to happen throughout the U.S. Reform of bad police departments nationwide always take a long time because the DOJ is too cowardly to force those impeding change like stonewalling police chiefs and their senior staff to be sent packing.

Obviously, it takes a change of city leadership and/or the retirement of bad officers to make change. In any business, the bad people are fired immediately but apparently this doesn't apply to police.

One must look at just who are too often the ones selected to be the DOJ/court assigned monitors? None other than organizations run by former police officers like Ginger who see it as an opportunity to get rich at taxpayers' expense. It's a nice little incestuous racket they have and we taxpayers are the losers.

The City Council allowed $750,000 of our tax dollars to be wasted on Schultz's two TASER Inc. buddies-Tom Streicher and Scott Greenwood from Cincinnati in yet another contract like TASERGATE, "greased" at Schultz's request by the Mayor. Now we have another $4.5+ million of our taxes is expected to be wasted on this former Schultz-like cop James Ginger and his team of opportunists/rip-off artists.

Ginger and Mayor Berry would insult us all by saying that since it's a fixed cost (rather than a cost plus fixed fee or other) contract, we shouldn't be concerned whether the $4.5+ million and four years that Ginger asked Judge Brack for and was granted was even justified.

Even more importantly was whether this toothless/paper generating monitor was even needed. After four years, you can expect him to ask for more. See the June 28 open letter to Ginger in the Eye-attached.

Police organizations like the International Association of Police Chiefs and others meet to exchange ideas. This likely includes how best to discourage/stonewall any reform efforts.

They likely also encourage its still active members to use DOJ reform monitoring companies created by retired Chiefs or senior police officers like Ginger's to monitor reform. Police officer run organizations like the Police Executive Research Forum (PERF) are also the ones of choice to evaluate police forces. This is asking the fox to guard the hen house.

We now even have former cop, now Republican-Berry supporter NM Representative Paul Pacheco going only after the judicial system to reform it rather than also pursuing legislation requiring all state cops to have and use body cameras. Any question where his loyalty lies?

BERNCO's Sheriff Manny Gonzalez still refuses to equip his deputies with cameras and still seizes citizens' cell phones. No video-no accountability.

Further insulting us, the arrogant Ginger would later say that four years at a likely exorbitant cost per team member person was a bargain for their services because the reform of a police force in one U.S. city ripped off taxpayers there for 17 years. To reform former Chief Tom Streicher's Cincinnati police force it took seven years-something that Streicher allegedly fought tooth and nail against.

This disgraceful comparison of his four years with other city reforms by Ginger was like another mercenary-Scott Greenwood telling the Council and us taxpayers that we were really getting a bargain paying him and partner Tom Streicher only $350/hour as he normally charges $700/hour.

This does not including expenses that even included paying $100/day extra for Greenwood's dog to stay with him at hotels. He will return that dog money and his other lavish expenses only because he was caught.

Both Greenwood and Streicher will now rip-off taxpayers for $750,000 to do just what for us? Nobody really knows and the Council certainly doesn't care or feels helpless to do anything about it. Ginger already has at least one attorney on his team. Why is Greenwood even needed?

THE SECRET MEETINGS HELD TUESDAY BY THE DOJ AND GINGER WITH MOSTLY SUPPORTERS INVITED

In her e-mail below, Jewel Hall mentions the 2PM June 24 private meeting hosted by Ginger and the DOJ for a selected few-most of whom have been conspicuously absent/MIA recently in our reform movement and again chose to remain silent that meeting. Neither I nor Tony Pirard or others who have been among the harshest public critics of our unaccountable APD and the corruption here were invited by the DOJ.

Those invited included some family members who received lawsuit settlements and who the Mayor chose to only meet with last year and express his disingenuous remorse for the killing of their sons. Those attending included NM Representative Anthony "Moe" Maestas, LULAC's Ralph Arellanes, Linda Donahue, Ann and Bill Kass, Marla and Nyra, David Correia, Mike Gomez, Ken Ellis, Charles Atasim and a few others.

Jewel was the only one who came prepared and was courageous enough to speak out critically at the 24th meeting-likely not welcomed by either the DOJ or Ginger. See her handout to all attendees (attached) also sent to all in the broadcast and printed media. Only KOB replied back to her. Nobody else. Was she deemed irrelevant by these others or far too credible?

Following that 2PM meeting yet another secret meeting held with the "preferred" people that I'm told included another Berry mercenary ABQ's NAACP boss Harold Bailey who set up his own consulting company at Berry's urging to become his designated black spokesperson for the people.

Long time NM bureaucrat Bailey did absolutely nothing to bring the DOJ here and like the other mercenaries handpicked by Berry and Perry, all were willing to sell out we-the people for the right price.

ACLU'S CREATED "APD FORWARD" APPARENTLY NOW THE MAYOR'S PREFERRED REPRESENTATIVE OF WE-THE PEOPLE

APD Forward is apparently now the Mayor's and DOJ preferred representative of the people. I have been critical of APD Forward's either naïve or uninformed blessing of the toothless agreement and toothless monitor in their June 24 e-mail shown below. This is the reason they no longer want to hear from me.

It seems as if the ACLU that is dependent on contributions to exist often seems too willing to look the other way to the malfeasance and criminal conduct by our public officials including the police here.

What the media and others like those in APD Forward would have us forget is that many years ago under Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Center's Jewel Hall's leadership we many allies of hers were the ones who assembled the voluminous amount of damning information on APD that eventually brought the DOJ here over the objections of the Mayor.

Along with those of my comrades, Tony (threatened twice to shut up by Damon's US Marshals), Charlie, Dinah, Art, Kathy and others including those represented by the Stop Police Violence in Albuquerque Coalition, Attorney Alan Wagman was also another of our comrades for real change who haven't been MIA. All have been there on the front lines with us at council meetings, at protests and also writing.

Alan Wagman's comments shown below are also critical of APD Forward's (APF) June 24 praise-"exciting time" of the toothless DOJ/Berry agreement was right on target. His was kinder to them than my earlier response to it.

THE THUS FAR SEEMINGLY AFRAID-GO ALONG MEDIA

There is no question that the Journal-particularly the editorial page is the mouthpiece for this Mayor. The leaders of our TV stations also seem afraid to challenge the corrupt and dangerous establishment here and the rich power brokers who are pulling the strings-really running this City and State.

Every effort now is also being made to silence/discredit those blog sites like the Eye on Albuquerque and Joe Monahan's and to also discredit/disparage the bi-monthly ABQ Free Press as merely an "underground newspaper." These are the ones including La Hcarita that are brave enough to criticize the corrupt leadership here and tell us the truth.

Most in the media essentially tell us that we should just get used to this third world city that has become the disgrace of the nation. See the attached June 22 EYE posting of KOB-4 efforts to try to discredit the Eye and also discusses the retaliation against an honest cop Dawne Roberto who was fired from APD for allegedly leaking the corruption within APD to the Eye.

Praised by her new boss, APD wants now wants to prevent this great cop-Roberto from still working as a police officer while APD and other killer cops who are fired or are allowed to resign are still keeping their badges. It's all part of the shadow Gestapo here. Punish the critics who tell the truth.

JUST FOLLOW THE MONEY

This saying couldn't be any truer than here. We are a city and state that is known nationwide for its culture of corruption and out of control police force whose thug and killer cops are NEVER held accountable. Likely the two killers of homeless camper will go free even though there are incriminating recordings.

While in the Air Force as a commissioned officer, I have lived in NJ, Virginia, Texas, Arizona, Alabama and Mississippi before coming here and none seem to be as bad as here. Those friends I made in Mississippi and others are now saying, thank God for New Mexico.

What those wealthy power brokers who actually run the politics of this City and State here and embrace the culture of corruption tell us is to just get used to it-as things will never change here.

We are also told to not worry about the rampant culture of corruption but instead look at the beautiful sunsets and Berry's great initiatives like his proposed tax wasting $100 million+ ABQ Rapid Transit system down Central, the big NYC Rockefeller Center-like artificial ice rink, the $40,000 clock and costly giant orange Adirondack wooden chair in the plaza and his other unjustified spending-tax waste.

Enough said

I, along with a few others, met with Ginger last week. I asked for a copy of his 309+ page "methodology" that he spoke of in a recent news article. He promised it to me in a few days. As soon as I have it I'll let you all know. Charlie A. Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 25, 2015, at 8:47 PM, Alan Wagman <avramwagman@gmail.com> wrote: Below is the announcement APD Forward sent out earlier this week. Here is my response:

APD Forward has created a reasonably broad coalition of community groups and community members. The coalition is broad enough, in fact, that it probably could have a real impact if it chose to work in public, to work on influencing the public, to work on creating public awareness.

Instead, APD Forward restricts itself, as far as I can tell, to backstage maneuvering with the DOJ lawsuit. However, the problem with the Albuquerque Police Department will not be resolved by a lawsuit. Academic studies have shown that DOJ lawsuits produce reform only where police chiefs want to change. A DOJ lawyer confirmed to me, anecdotally, that DOJ lawsuits do not produce reform where police chiefs and mayors do not want to change. Worse, progress under friendly chiefs backslides when an unfriendly chief comes in.

There is no evidence-or at least precious little evidence-that the police chain of command in Albuquerque is sympathetic to reform. Police Chief Gordon Eden complained that he cannot discipline officers because of provisions in the union contract. Yet Mayor Berry negotiated the current contract, with those provisions, a year ago-- AFTER the DOJ report on APD noted the damaging effects of those very provisions in the old contract.

Unfortunately, our quiescent media doesn't report this. APD Forward, which could have a voice, has been silent. The police contract nominally expires on July 15 of this year. (I say "nominally," because absent a replacement contract, the current contract will likely continue in force.) Will there be pressure to eliminate the offending provisions from any new contract? Will APD Forward be part of that?

Over a year ago, Chief Eden announced that he was creating three new positions at the top of the APD command structure, at a cost of over $300,000 in salaries per year. He claimed that the three positions were necessary to effect reforms. Yet he placed in one position a former commander of the out-of-control SWAT team. (Bob Huntsman)

Another position was filled by an officer who had burned a man's ear partially off with a Taser and who was the commanding officer of the 41 officers who surrounded and killed James Boyd. Yet the figures provided to City Council accounting for money spent on APD reform does not appear to include the $300,000 appropriated for the salaries for these three top-down positions.

APD policy -contrary to well-documented best practices for police - until the last month or so, allowed police officers to shoot into the passenger compartments of motor vehicles. The DOJ report released in April of last year extensively criticized this policy.

Yet as of last month, over a year later, Police Chief Gordon Eden responded to televised reports of a police officer firing at the passenger compartment of a motor vehicle that was not driving at the officer by defending the officer. (There was a 5-year-old child in the passenger compartment, the vehicle was in an apartment parking lot, making stray rounds extremely dangerous to innocent people; and the vehicle was headed out to Rio Grande Blvd, where a wounded driver would have been extremely dangerous.) APD announced that the policy was in the process of being changed.

I just checked the APD SOPs, and in fact, the policy has now been changed -- AT LAST. But why did it take a year? Why did Chief Eden go on television to justify what was in effect firing a gun at a child? How much training have APD officers been given on the new policy? A mere statement from APD Forward that 88 policies have been changed does not raise, let alone answer, these questions. Is silence on these questions really the way "Forward"?

Perhaps APD Forward is not the appropriate vehicle for what I think is necessary. I certainly would not abandon APD Forward or say that its work is not important. But APD Forward is not enough. Only public pressure will create a movement that will go beyond making APD more polite and push instead for real justice.

The APD Forward campaign has had a busy couple of weeks.

We recently held meetings with Mayor Richard Berry, Chief Gordon Eden and the federal monitor overseeing implementation of the consent decree, Dr. James Ginger. In those meetings, we learned that the first report from the monitoring team is expected this fall, and it will be voluminous -- Dr. Ginger indicated that it will be hundreds of pages. When it is released, the APD Forward legal committee will be ready to assess its contents and provide a detailed analysis to APD Forward supporters and the general public about the state of APD's progress toward achieving the mandatory reforms outlined in the consent decree.

We also learned that:

1. APD has revised 88 of its policies and Dr. Ginger's team has started reviewing the new policies to determine whether they comply with the consent decree (and Eden agreed to provide APD Forward with a list of the revised policies);
2. Dr. Ginger's team is launching a public website to disseminate information gleaned from the monitoring process;
3. Dr. Ginger's team has created the compliance plan required by the consent decree, setting up quantitative and qualitative guidelines for each of the 297 provisions in the decree.

We will be following up with the Mayor, the Chief, and Dr. Ginger soon to track the status of these and other relevant items.

At the same time, APD Forward is working with youth organizers to gather stories from young people about their interactions with police officers. These organizers are planning a town hall meeting in the near future to give Albuquerque's youth a platform for discussing the impact of policing on their lives and how the Albuquerque Police Department can improve its relations with young people. Stay tuned for details about this exciting project.

It's an exciting time. When you have a moment, contact the Mayor and your City Councilor and let them know how important it is to you that they follow through on reforming our troubled police department. Thank you for all that you do to make Albuquerque a better place to live.

Meeting with James Ginger, Ph.D., the court-appointed Independent Monitor of the Albuquerque Police Department, and his team
2:00 PM on Wednesday, June 24, 2015

To: James Ginger, Ph.D.

A Special Request

1. Please:

- Formulate a comprehensive plan to mitigate systemic, institutional racism, barriers and disparities.
  - ✓ "There is a myth in this country, a fable some people cherish because it makes them feel good and demands no moral or intellectual heavy lifting. That myth holds that we are done with race and have been for a very long time; that we overcame, learned our lesson, reached the Promised Land and built luxury condos there." Leonard Pitts, Syndicate Columnist, The Miami Herald (Albuquerque Journal- June 22, 2015)
- Include in your plan discussions on how to eliminate the many exclusionary acts sustained by insensitive power holders. Formulate and publish a process that gives guidelines on how to work with Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens and the parents and families to define a good system aimed at developing bottom-up solutions for struggling communities and make sure it is available to ALL. See page 6 item G.

The consent decree MUST be a stepping stone to help Albuquerque get off the bottom of all lists. It should begin Albuquerque's move to a top rate educational and health care system, living wages, equality and an end to systemic, institutional racism.

To change Albuquerque's future it is not enough for the consent decree to just address APD's use of excessive and deadly force. It MUST address systemic, institutional racism and the structural privilege that create the conditions that allow police use of excessive and deadly force to continue with impunity. ("Racism. We are not cured of it." President Obama, Friday, June 19, 2015)

Police brutality and murders are a part of other disparities haunting the poor, people of color, vulnerable families, homeless people and those struggling with addictions.

The work can be arduous and conflict-ridden but the work must be done to make Albuquerque a better place for all of us to live.

PERCEPTIONS BASED ON DATA, NEWSPAPER STORIES AND PUBLISHED STUDIES

There is a strong perception among many Community Advocates and Concerned Citizens that APD engages in racially discriminatory policing. The April 21, 2014 Findings Letter, and its proposed remedies, was silent on the issue of race and discriminatory policing. US DOJ did not investigate disparities and barriers in the use of force based on race or other policing practices, traffic stops, arrests or stop and frisk practices. The Settlement Agreement does not contain a prohibition of biased policing. The framework of the agreement excluded community involvement / oversight. With these views, many Community Advocates and Concerned Citizens maintain that, once the reform process rewrites/complete the book on ADP policing (nothing will change) that some of the police will go on killing people like some of them did before the reform, but by a new book.

STATEMENT OF INTEREST

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Center (MLKMC) is a self-governing, all-volunteer, non-profit community organization. A Center is being planned for Albuquerque (Completed for the center are the Master Plan, Executive Summary, Aesthetic Identity and Architect Assessment Report).

The Center will:

- Utilize the messages of Dr. King as well as other civil rights leaders to inspire citizens to focus on educational improvement and cultural diversity.
- Serve as New Mexico's premier hub of social justice, cultural competency and provide outreach to improve the lives of all communities.
- Serve as a guiding light to children of the region – showcasing and challenging their creativity, improving their academic skills and cultural awareness.

QUOTES FROM THE NEW YORKER – FEBRUARY 2, 2015

"A fifth of the Albuquerque's residents live below the poverty line, many of them in the southeast part of the city, which is often called the "war zone."

Wealthy residents tend to live in the northeastern corner, at the foot of the Sandia Mountains. "

"The division reflects the social climate throughout the state, which has the widest income gap between rich and poor in the country."

"A policeman, who once worked for the Albuquerque Police Department for twenty-five years, said that the department "did policing one way in the South Valley, where there were a lot of immigrant families and people of lower socioeconomic status, and we knew we could violate their rights. But we did not dare commit those tactics in the affluent neighborhoods, where we knew they would file complaints on us".

"Since 1987, APD has shot at least a hundred and forty-six people.

The shootings looked almost routine to people in Albuquerque.

Few people protested, and no one paid much attention."

"Police violence appeared to be a matter of concern only to Albuquerque's underclass: those who are mentally ill, addicted to drugs, Native American, or Hispanic and poor.

The US Department of Justice has investigated more than fifteen police departments in the past four years, and its description of police practices in Albuquerque is arguably the most disparaging."

"The problem isn't policies, its people, says a New Mexico State Senator. He thinks the only solution is to clear out generations of bad cops. "Let's get them out of here, let's really start out with a new mentality," he says. "We're gonna be plagued with these guys for years to come. They know this is all fake. They can hunker down until the US Department of Justice goes away, and then it will be back to business as usual."

"The city has one of the highest rates in the country of fatal shootings by police.

"Until now, not one of the officers in those 28 killings had been charged with any crime."

"In the past five years, the police department of Albuquerque, a city of just 550,000, has managed to kill 28 people — a per-capita kill rate nearly doubles that of the Chicago police and eight times that of the NYPD."

*****

A. *Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Center ("MLKMC") was in the forefront of organizing for police accountability and oversight in Albuquerque.

MLKMC organized a temporary/ Ad Hoc Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Center Task Force for Public Safety (MLKMC-TFPS):

- To Work with the city of Albuquerque
- To call for action from the City of Albuquerque
- To allow the families of victims to tell their stories
- To organize community forums
- To request the United States Department of Justice investigate whether APD engages in a pattern or practice of violations of the Constitution or Federal law. In particular requested the US DOJ investigation focus on use of force by APD, including but not limited to use of deadly force.
- To request the United States Department of Justice investigate systemic, institutional racism and disparities in the use of force based on race or other policing practices, traffic stops, arrests or stop and frisk practices

B. MLKMC-TFPS petitioned the DOJ over a two-year period to investigate fatal shootings by APD officers. The TFPS consisted of the following organizations:

- Albuquerque Center for Peace and Justice
- Albuquerque Cop Watch
- American Civil Liberties Union-ACLU
- ANSWER Coalition NM
- Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Center
- National Alliance on Mental Illness-ABQ-Westside-NAMI
- Vecinos United
- In cooperation with LULAC and the Hispanic Round Table
- Joined by the parents and families of some of the victims

Meeting with James Ginger, Ph.D., the court-appointed Independent
Monitor of the Albuquerque Police Department, and his team
2:00 PM on Wednesday, June 24, 2015

C. The Task Force members asked the US DOJ:

- To investigate the shootings because they believed that APD lacked accountability and oversight. They believed the problem with APD stems from decades of a lack of an empathetic social perspective and an understanding of the experience of being poor, of being a person of color, those who are homeless, mental ill and those who are struggling with addictions. They believed that a lot of the problem with APD stems from years of covert race discrimination and indirect race discrimination.
- To include racism, barriers and disparities in the consent decree. Police brutality and murders are a part of other disparities haunting the poor, people of color, vulnerable families, homeless and those struggling with addictions.
- To investigate concerns regarding Civil Rights violations of racial, ethnic, national origin, disabled and limited English speakers discrimination and harassment by APD.
- To correct APD's deficiencies because they believed APD was not capable of fixing itself.
- To step in and stop what the Task Force had perceived as the rampant trampling of constitutional rights and criminal acts—often with fatal consequences.

The Findings Letter, dated April 21, 2014, detailed several specific incidents in which the US DOJ found officers had violated the constitutional rights of the deceased citizens. The Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens and the parents and families of some of the victims were encouraged by this action, but after the release of the Settlement Agreement, many have directed that frustration toward the US DOJ and have strongly criticized the US DOJ and the Settlement Agreement. There was a prevailing sentiment that the US DOJ would represent community interests in the negotiations, but some of that sentiment has now changed.

D. Profound disappointments with Settlement Agreement:

First, many were baffled that the US DOJ did not seek sanctions against APD or discipline of the officers identified in the Settlement Agreement in light of the findings of wrongful conduct by APD. The failure to obtain punitive measures has been a source of great frustration to many who saw DOJ as a means to finally get justice.

Second, as to the City's refusal to admit wrongdoing, and the US DOJ's Willingness to enter into a Settlement Agreement without such an admission baffled and perplexed many.

Third, many have been particularly baffled by the failure of the City's refusal to acknowledge that it engaged in such wrongful practices.

Finally, many have questioned the transparency of the negotiations. They had hoped that a monitor would have broad powers and the authority to substitute its discretion for local elected and appointed officials in charge of APD. Critics may have been less critical of the process if there had been transparency and some mechanism in which they could have raised objections directly in the context of the negotiations

The concerns about transparency are another shortcoming for community engagement. Although the DOJ held numerous community meetings and received over a thousand emails concerning APD and the proposed consent decree, and the City held public forums, there was no requirement that either DOJ or the City respond to those providing comments as to the disposition of those comments.

E. Many Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens, Activists, Surviving Families and organizations:

- Believe that the level of distrust could be abated if there was a requirement for US DOJ and the city to sponsor a public comment period after the forums and requirements for DOJ to develop a process for reviewing and responding to those comments.
- Regret that community voices was not or will not be heard by the Court unless they belong to organizations fortunate enough to find/hire lawyers willing to represent them.
- Believe that real police reform is going to require changes that extend far beyond four years and far beyond the consent decree.
- Maintains that, once the reform process rewrites the book on city policing, the police will go on killing people like they did before the consent decree, but this time by a new written book.
- Would like to know from the City and US DOJ, in rendering its decision, to explain how their concerns were taken into reaching its decision to approve or disapprove the Settlement Agreement.

F. RACE AND BIASED POLICING:

The Findings Letter, and its proposed remedies, was silent on the issue of race and discriminatory policing.

Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens and the parents and families of some of the victims who brought public pressure on the DOJ to investigate not only sought an investigation of excessive use of force and its use against the mentally ill, but they also raised questions about systemic, institutional racism.

Albuquerque is a racially and ethnically diverse city. According to U.S. Census data its population is:

- 42 % White
- 47% Hispanic or Latino
- 5% American Indian and Alaska Native
- 3.3% Black

Meeting with James Ginger, Ph.D., the court-appointed Independent Monitor of the Albuquerque Police Department, and his team
2:00 PM on Wednesday, June 24, 2015

---

- 2% Asian
- and 2% Other
- ✓ Of the 41 police shootings between 2010 and July 22, 2014, nearly half may have involved Hispanics.
- ✓ Many activists believe Hispanics comprise a majority of those fatally shot.
- ✓ Approximately, 7.5% of all the shootings and 10% of the fatal shootings involved African Americans.
- ✓ Hispanics accounted for at least 10 of the 15 civilians in non-fatal shootings in that period.
- ✓ Incarceration rates for New Mexico reflect similar disparate results.
- ✓ African Americans and Hispanics are incarcerated at a higher rate than Whites.

"There is a myth in this country, a fable some people cherish because it makes them feel good and demands no moral or intellectual heavy lifting. That myth holds that we are done with race and have been for a very long time; that we overcame, learned our lesson, reached the Promised Land and built luxury condos there." Leonard Pitts, Syndicate Columnist, The Miami Herald (Albuquerque Journal- June 22, 2015)

Many Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens and the parents and families urge the modification of the Settlement Agreement to include a provision prohibiting biased policing.

G. INADEQUATE FRAMEWORK FOR COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

The Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens, the parents and families believe that, in order to truly establish a productive, positive, and effective relationship between the community and APD, the community organizations that requested the DOJ to investigate, and others that have been involved in issues of social justice must be brought together in a collaborative process towards reform. The MLKMC Task Force on Police Reform, and its successor, the Albuquerque Coalition for Police Reform, was a coalition of community organizations representing diverse constituents that petitioned the DOJ, from 2011 until the DOJ announced on November 12, 2012, that it was going to conduct an investigation.

Members of the coalition were not included in the negotiation of the Settlement Agreement.

H. Sections on community engagement.

- Those provisions do not clearly provide a framework for Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens, the parents and families of some of the victims to continue to collaborate or engage with the City and the DOJ to foster the implementation of the Settlement Agreement.
- Those provisions do not provide for representatives from community organizations that were involved with the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Task Force for Public Safety or the Albuquerque Coalition for Police Reform.

---

- The community representatives as well as the APD officers are to be selected by community representatives selected by the Mayor in a fairly closed process. Thus, Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens organizations are not assured of having representatives of their choosing.

Subsequently, Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens organizations are not guaranteed the opportunity to have a voice that will be heard in much-needed collaborative discussions.

Some or all of the Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens and the parents and families of some of the victims seek an active seat at the table with other community organizations in access to the Monitor and in partnering with the City to assure compliance with the Settlement Agreement.

Seek a professional method to democratically modifying the Settlement Agreement to provide a structured role for Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens and the parents and families of some of the victims to actively engage in racial justice and police reform.

This actively engagement can provide a meaningful avenue to address the inadequacies raised by many. Such inclusion will undoubtedly further the successful implementation of the Settlement Agreement and reduce the tension and improve the relationship between the community and APD.

Dr. Ginger, please tell us about you and your team members familiarity with policing in a racially and culturally diverse community like Albuquerque

Diversity goes beyond equality

- a. What are your team's strengths and weaknesses?
- b. How do they complement each other?
- c. What have you all done in the past to gain the confidence of the police?
- d. What have you done in the past to gain the confidence of the minority/people of color communities?
- e. Your team members diversity:
- f. i.e. law enforcement experience, police reform experience, legal experience with police oversight, crisis intervention for the mentally ill, vulnerable and homeless populations
- g. Familiarity with policing in a city with a substantial Hispanic population, a significant Native American population, and relatively small African American and Asian populations.
- h. Your access to APD
- i. You're independent.
- j. Your office location and Community Advocates, Concerned Citizens access to it.

APD must reform to regain trust

Letters to Journal Editor- Tuesday, June 23, 2015

THE RECENT LETTERS in support of our police are heartfelt and even inspiring to some degree. However, they miss the point.

Our police have lost the respect and support of the community because of their own behavior. Police statewide have too quickly resorted to deadly force rather than de-escalating a situation; have fired at vehicles containing children; and have spied on and harassed citizens engaged in peaceful protests. They have confiscated phones from citizens recording possible misconduct.

... Individual officers may be performing admirably, but it seems clear that they are handicapped by poor leadership and poor training.

Conditions will not improve until there is a thorough housecleaning of APD leadership and much stronger civilian oversight than anything contemplated now, including oversight of hiring, firing and training.

Apparently that will not happen soon, but until it does, APD officers will not get the respect and support they deserve.

Eye On Albuquerque Welcomes Dr. Ginger to Albuquerque

Welcome to Albuquerque Dr. Ginger

June 29, 2015

Greetings Dr. Ginger,

The Eye On Albuquerque wishes to welcome you to Albuquerque. We understand you have assembled a "team" for the Albuquerque Police Department and you and the Mayor's and DOJ's lawyers have agreed the City of Albuquerque will pay you approximately $4,500,000 to review and report on the City's compliance with the Settlement Agreement. Some of the City Councilors recently questioned whether they could get a better deal, but here you are and $4.5M is how much we're paying you. You have informed the City you've produced over 300 pages of plans for monitoring and enforcing the Agreement, and all are looking forward to having those documents as soon as possible.

Introducing The Eye

We also need to introduce ourselves, since you don't have any local team members and might not be fully aware of what we've been doing or what our plans are, now you and your team are here. You see, our Eyes are already "monitoring" the City of Albuquerque. And our Eyes are already focused on a kind of "community outreach" that is directly connected to the community, with readers who respond with their own opinions, ideas, and facts. We have a genuinely responsive community with a potential that has only begun to be realized.

To our Eyes; APD policies, practices, procedures, politics, and issues are the topics of primary importance. We believe the corruption, ethical and legal violations, and even the much discussed "systemic deficiencies" in City government have been and are ripe for exposure. We oppose further delay. We share your concern and interest in what will happen to our City and to the Albuquerque Police Department under the agreement between the City's lawyers and the DOJ's lawyers. We believe changes have to happen right now, not over the next four years or more.

We invite you to go back and review our earlier posts and comments. Our Eyes have often been the only ones monitoring and reporting about APD, Taser contracts, ineffective leadership and training, and all sorts of other issues. No matter what you do or how much you're paid; we fully intend to keep doing this work – exposing corruption, seeking truth, telling the stories about what we know and learn, and most important, providing an open forum for public discussion of important facts and issues. The Eye On Albuquerque is a nonprofit BlogSpot.

Hard Work?

Looking at the overall picture, we really don't understand why you have given all of the community the impression your work here with APD should be considered 'that' difficult or why you Dr. Ginger, should be paid so much or need to employ so many team members. As we said, we've been unofficially "monitoring" APD for years, and there's nothing 'that' hard about it.

What makes it hard for us is Mayor RJ Berry, Rob Perry, and maybe a few jealous media people who are always attacking instead of helping us, always trying to punish instead of recognizing us, and who have done everything in their power to force the closure of the Eye On Albuquerque. You and your team, of course, have no such enemies. People yearn for justice, and are generally happy to tell their stories; documents and data are generally available. The hard part is finding someone to listen who is honest and can do something about it.

No Pay; Delay?

As reported by one of our TV stations and then in the Albuquerque Journal, you told people attending a public meeting last week that the City Council's failure to approve your pay was holding up your report, delaying it by around three months. We hope you did not intend to excuse the City's delays in complying with the express terms of the Settlement Agreement. We also hope it is NOT your intention to delay the enforcement of the settlement in order to leverage an astronomical amount of money for the services you will be required to perform under the settlement agreement. We don't plan on making excuses or waiting for someone to give us millions of dollars before we start writing about what's wrong. And from what we're hearing, compliance with the Settlement Agreement is almost nonexistent, compliance issues are growing rather than being resolved, and transparency is completely lacking.

Finally, we have to say it: we're all working towards the same goal, but some are getting paid a lot better than others. You're a professional with a 9-member team, getting $4.5M for four years of monitoring, and this is only one of the projects you're working on; we get nothing and work on our own time without pay. This creates inequalities and no, we are not asking to be paid. We are merely pointing out issues such as now when we're all waiting for the lawyers, the judges, and the City officials who we've elected and appointed to start doing their jobs, start earning their pay, and start cleaning up the City and its police department. As you can see; when we see something that is wrong or gives the appearance of impropriety we will call it like it is. The settlement agreement is about ethics and morality; you need to set the example and step up to the plate.

So we do welcome you, Dr. Ginger, and your team of professional monitors. And we're going to be looking very carefully at what you and the team says and does, just as we expect you will be watching us and listening to what we have to say. Please let us know when you're ready to get started.

Sincerely,
The Eye on Albuquerque

How does the Media Pick and Choose?

In a recent story carried by KOB 4 (READ IT HERE) the media picks and chooses how they wish to put a "spin" on a story for their ratings benefit. They selected to bash an APD officer who enjoys praise as a "terrific employee" and on the other hand paints APD and City leaders as victims.

How is it that APD, who is now under Federal control, the victim? How is it that ex-chief Schultz is facing criminal indictments, the victim? How is it that droves of top brass have fled in fear of the collapse of APD, now the victims? How is it that Richard J. Berry who has lead the City of Albuquerque to be one of the worst City's in the United States of America for crime, now the victim? The fact is; APD Administration and the City leaders are not the victims; they are the offending parties. This is not hearsay these are facts.

The opening statement of the story states, "...a blog used to disparage the Albuquerque Police Department and city leaders..." the facts don't lie; APD Administration and City leaders have failed the community and the Eye On Albuquerque has called them out on their devilish deeds. How does this become disparaging? Do the job you were hired to do, do it right and do it morally correct and you will never hear anything from the Eye On Albuquerque.

The second paragraph of the story states, "...operating under the screen name "Stealth" to write hateful, embarrassing and often untrue posts on the website 'Eye on Albuquerque.'" There is nothing hateful about the truth. If an APD Administrator or City leader gets embarrassed for conducting themselves or City business unethically; they deserve to be embarrassed. As for the "untrue" statement; please back it up with facts. The Eye On Albuquerque does not post a story until they have two different and separate sources to verify what has been stated. Our stories have stood the test of time and time has shown and proven; our stories are and have been true. Simply stated here our critics; put up or shut.

By telling the truth the Eye On Albuquerque has never:

- Diminished public trust and confidence in APD
- Personally attacked APD's leadership and city leaders
- Lowered morale at APD and used bad judgment
- Used information learned while on duty against APD

However, these are the legitimate and Bona-Fide charges against APD Administrators and City Leaders. This action against Roberto isn't personally motivated or a personal attack? The hope was to silence the "Whistle Blower." Now that the facts are straight; ask the DOJ why they took over the APD by a forced Federal court action?

One final thought on this story. The Eye has been told APD Administrators and City Leaders solicited assistance from the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI). How is that APD Administrators and City leaders managed to get the FBI involved in an employment action but they can't get the FBI involved in solving a rape or murder? If this does not prove beyond a reasonable doubt the City will stop at literally nothing to silence their critics; nothing will. The ADP Administrators and City leaders who sought assistance from the FBI should be prosecuted for gross negligence. The DOJ should now focus their attention on why the Federal Bureau of Investigations would waste valuable resource on an employment action.

PS- Here is a question that should be asked about the hearing officer, Pete Camacho. It is clear to us Camacho was unsure in his own decision stating: "I find [Roberto] did commit acts that indicate a lack of moral character that would adversely affect her ability to exercise the duties of a certified law enforcement officer." Read what he was thinking and expressed in his opinion; "...did commit acts that indicate a lack of moral character..." We must ask; what does Camacho mean by "indicates?" If Mr. Camacho was given clear and convincing evidence the statement should have stated: "I find [Roberto] did commit acts that exhibited a lack of moral character that would adversely affect her ability to exercise the duties of a certified law enforcement officer." The word indicates of a suggestive nature and is not believable. Since the hearing Officer, Pete Camacho is unsure of his own opinion, did someone "grease the wheels" like Schultz did for Taser?

And yes, the Eye On Albuquerque is alive, well and very active.

Reference your <http://www.abqjournal.com/665481/news/let-go-of-mythology-to-attain-justice-in-us.html> today

For one who claims to be critical of mythology we have seen you hypocritically promote mythology here in the city and/or ignore what's really mythology

For example, your claims that Berry's and Rizzieri's tax wasting $100+ million ABQ (not) Rapid Transit (ART) system is justified and would also be an economic engine along Central was pure mythology as you know.

Other real myths that you chose to ignore includes:

1. That your Journal is really an "Independent" newspaper. (see Joe Monahan's posting today on the Journal's Teflon-Pinocchio poster boy Berry)
2. That this Mayor, his CAO, his APD thugs, the DOJ, the toothless monitors in PMR Inc and Federal Judge Brack are really are committed to real APD reform.
3. That real APD reform will occur without a change in not only City but APD leadership.
4. That there is both transparency and accountability in this administration particularly in Berry's (proven to be corrupt) APD leadership/Command staff
5. That our elected allegedly non-partisan City Council are really not apathetic to the problems here and are willing to represent us rather than this Mayor
6. That the contribution of Martin Luther King Jr. to America was more than either of our WHITE Presidents George Washington who led our revolutionary army and Abraham Lincoln who signed the Emancipation Proclamation and thus deserved that his birthday be named a holiday unlike these two WHITE Presidents
7. That Alan Garcia's irresponsible actions never contributed to the road rage death of his beautiful daughter Lilly Garcia

You might also learn something if you routinely check out the Eye on Albuquerque <http://eyeonalbuquerque.blogspot.com/> and Joe Monahan's blog postings <http://joemonahansnewmexico.blogspot.com/> and the ABQ Free Press www.freeabq.com -all willing to tell us the truth-unlike the Journal.

YOUR PANDERING "UP FRONT" ARTICLE TODAY THAT ENDORSES GARDUNO'S DISGRACEFUL PROCLAMATION IS BASED ON REAL MYTHS

In previous e-mails I urged citizens as well as those on the Council to "not suffer fools gladly" but that's what you and five other Councilors did when blessing Garduno's secret proclamation replacing Columbus Day with NOT "Indigenous Peoples Day."

Garduno's reasons for doing so insulted the intelligence of all here as a recent Journal editorial pointed out. Have you now become Garduno's champion?

As a son of poor Italian immigrants who considered themselves Americans-not Italian-Americans, I resent the demonization of Christopher Columbus by you and Garduno (like fellow Berkeley and Portland historical revisionist) as being responsible for the genocide here and you also asserting that some of his supporters included those supportive of Mussolini's Fascist movement.

Columbus was an explorer like others Spanish and other explorers who came before and after him. Was he and Spanish and other explorers any different than astronauts who are also brave enough to put their lives at risk exploring new worlds?

Don't you wonder why our Governor and Mayor Berry refuse to embrace Garduno's lies?

The words underlined are pure lies while the truthful ones that contradicts Garduno are highlighted in yellow. You choose to cherry-pick your sources while ignoring others. You cite "Irving, Pope, Laurino, Morison? and some unnamed "recent historians" and "modern scholars"? Another Journal example of unethical journalism! Get a reality as well as P.C. check Win!

Letting go of mythology will help U.S. achieve justice

By Winthrop Quigley / Journal Staff Writer Monday, October 26th, 2015 at 12:05am

Six Albuquerque city councilors signed a proclamation a couple of weeks ago asking the citizenry to observe Indigenous Peoples' Day on the day that the federal holiday calendar calls Columbus Day. The wording of the proclamation is fairly ??? neutral.

It says that the city has long celebrated the contributions of New Mexico's Native Americans to the state and the country, and that the 1950s-era school-kid understanding of Christopher Columbus's voyages to the Western Hemisphere needs correcting.

There is no mention of the Long Walk of the Navajos, the enslavement of pueblo people or amputation of the feet of Acoma men in retaliation for their revolt against Juan de Oñate's abuses. There is no mention of wars, rapes, starvation and theft of lands at the hands of Europeans who followed Columbus to the Americas.

Council President Rey Garduño, who sponsored the proclamation, told the Journal in an interview earlier this month, "If somebody is going to celebrate genocide, I have every right to push back by celebrating humanity on the same day. For me, this is a human rights issue and a social justice issue."

Garduño later apologized for saying city councilors who did not sign the proclamation were cowards. Those councilors said they wanted the matter to be offered as legislation so it could be debated. Last week, Garduño drafted an ordinance that would establish a policy for the recognition of (not) Indigenous Peoples' Day. The legislation is expected to be introduced soon, according to the council's website.

In microcosm, this is the tension that Americans have lived with for centuries. A holiday that in a southwestern city looks like a celebration of genocide is in big Eastern cities a celebration of Italian America. This is a nation of victors and victims, and of countless ethnicities and nationalities, countless religions, countless languages, countless philosophies. The challenge is keeping such a messy, chaotic country together.

The idea that Columbus was a kind and generous friend ??? to the Indians he met when he landed in the Americas dates from at least 1828. Washington Irving mythologized Columbus in his book "A History of the Life and Voyages of Christopher Columbus," a work more recent historians have found owed more to Irving's imagination than to the historical record. Modern scholars ??? say the work was part of Irving's larger project, embodied in most of his writings, to encourage American nationalism by creating an American mythology.

Irving's Columbus myth was virtually all anyone knew of the man until 1942, when Samuel Eliot Morison published a new biography. By that time, Columbus Day was a national holiday, in some measure, and perhaps in large measure, because of the reliance of New Deal Democrats on the votes of immigrants and their descendants.

Italian immigration into the United States surged in the late 19th century and continued until around the beginning of World War I. As strange looking (to northern European descendants, anyway) Roman Catholics whose native language was not English, the Italians faced more than the usual discrimination that awaited immigrants.

Like other immigrant groups, Italians organized to achieve two things: protection of their community from violence and discrimination, and acceptance as Americans. Among the organizations working toward those goals was The Knights of Columbus, formed in 1882 and named after the one Italian who the country as a whole believed had been part of America from the beginning.

Maria Laurino, a historian ??? of Italian America, says that a number of groups, including some supportive of Mussolini's fascist movement, pressured ??? President Franklin Roosevelt to honor Italians by honoring Columbus. Among those lobbying Roosevelt was Generoso Pope, publisher of an influential Italian-language New York City newspaper who cultivated and advised many politicians, Roosevelt among them.

Laurino characterizes the establishment of a national Columbus Day in 1934 as "the result of decades of political jockeying to buy favor with the Italian-American voting bloc." That Columbus' men raped Indian women and pillaged native villages does not appear to have been on anyone's mind at the time.

The Washington Irving's creation myths are not the only myths out there, of course. It is a myth that Europeans found and destroyed Utopia when they arrived. Indians enslaved other Indians, waged wars and engaged in human sacrifice long before Columbus was born. It is a myth that there are indigenous people in the United States. The ancestors of Native Americans migrated here, too.

Myths, however one might wish they were true, cannot be sustained. We know the horror Native Americans faced during the Spanish conquest and the American push to the Pacific. We know that the horror of slavery became the horror of Jim Crow and the lynch mob. And we know that the legacy of these horrors remains with us in the form of poverty, discrimination and violence. Our nation will succeed only to the extent that values replace mythology. Those values must include a respect for the whole truth of American history, ??? a commitment to justice for all Americans, and gratitude for all of the people who by coming to this place made America the nation that it is and who will make America the nation it can be.

KUDOS TO THOSE ACKNOWLEDGING OUR REAL HEROES-OUR MILITARY VETS WHO TRULY SERVE AND PROTECT US

Kudos to those who recognize our military vets and make an effort to honor them-recognize their service like Smith's food stores, like KOAT, UNM and others. Smith's is now making a special effort to hire returning vets while the others are supporting the Wounded Warriors fund in addition to FINALLY recognizing other vets as our real heroes.

APD's and other NM cops who haven't made a career in the military (as had recently killed Rio Rancho officer Greg Benner) nor their family members even have a clue what real service and sacrifice "to serve and protect" us really requires of them.

We who served were required to be away from our families on temporary duty for extended periods of time-often for a year or more in a real war zone-not like the pretend war zone that cops would have us believe we have here. We had to move our families often and when in the US, we didn't have a take home car for our personal use when off duty.

I was required to move my family to six different states, to Europe and just me to Vietnam serving there in 1969 and 1970. We also didn't have the big pay and a generous benefits package local cops have. Unlike cops, if we did something wrong, we could expect a punishment in accordance with US Code of Military Justice that might include a court martial. Not so with APD's and other NM cops.

Those of us who returned from Vietnam like African American Vincent Wood who came back with PTSD and other vets murdered by APD, were spit on not given parades as heroes as are police officers here. Hero honors were even given by the police to two local police officers who killed themselves when driving their police vehicle and motorcycle recklessly.

Unlike police officers here, the DAs, judges and juries also didn't view us vets as above the law and permitted us to use excessive force including killing people here.

Those who are part of our judicial process are not only swayed by this constant hero propaganda/special treatment of police officers but many justifiably fear retaliation from police officers if they dared to charge and jail cops. It's no accident that not even one metro area police officer has yet to be convicted of excessive force including a murder.

WHEN WILL THE DISGRACEFUL PRO-COP "HERO" PROPAGANDA TO CITIZENS END?

Contrary to the propaganda coming out of APD and some in the media, police officers are not deserving of being called heroes just for putting on their badges. Police officers are not even among the top five most dangerous jobs in America. Less than half of our APD officers are out on the street but are doing other untold to us things.

It wasn't enough that the Journal reporter Ryan Boetel joined APD's cop Dominique Perez's defense team when doing a fluff/propaganda piece on this James Boyd's killer. Ryan claimed that since this cop was a hero and his attorney essentially bankrupted him with his excessive defense charges, Perez has already been punished enough and should not be convicted and sent to jail. Apparently to Ryan and those in our judicial system, every hero APD cop apparently gets at least one free murder of a citizen before convicted and sent to jail.

Note that APD officer Adam Casaus (whose wife is a dispatcher for the BCSO) while off duty killed young Leslie Browder while blasting through a red light then would lie claiming he was chasing a drunk driver. What was his punishment-just a slap on the wrist-three months in prison for just careless driving and not for his blatantly reckless driving. Why? Because Casaus was deemed a hero.

In my August 28 e-mail I discussed the comments made by Schultz's former Commander-now US Marshal Conrad Candelaria who at an annual heroes luncheon for all police officers called for NM legislators to make their killings a hate crime. Was Candelaria one of the two US Marshals sent by US Attorney for NM Damon Martinez to the home of activist Tony Pirard to threaten him.

Tony's only "crime" was to dare to publicly criticize Candelaria's boss Martinez, Judge Brack and others who betrayed us with that toothless reform agreement orchestrated by Berry, Perry and their two Cincinnati mercenaries-Scott Greenwood and its City's former police chief Tom Streicher.

Streicher's Police Department was also investigated by the DOJ and did his best there to stonewall every DOJ reform and even after seven years of DOJ "monitoring" after his departure. It's still not reformed. In 2013 Schultz would likely urge his two TASER Inc Cincinnati buddies to form a consulting firm promising them that he would "grease" this negotiation contract with Berry. Eden was not allowed to be involved.

Schultz earlier had done the same when the Mayor greased the no-bid $1.9 million camera and proprietary software buy with employer Taser Inc. while still on the city payroll. City Auditor Yoshimura was forced to change her scathing report of TASERGATE and sweep it under the rug with nobody punished here. Just a "teaching moment" for the City's procurement folks-I guess.

Even former Milwaukee cop Ed Harness who disgracefully is the Police Oversight Board's top choice to be the next Executive Director of the City's Police Oversight Agency said during his interview that he believed a cop's life was much more important to save than that of any citizen.

Harness would say in his resume that police have a "special place in our society"-are not just public servants here hired to serve and protect us. You saw my e-mail yesterday and earlier ones about the foxes (cops) being allowed to guard the henhouse-(judge fellow officers' actions against us). It mentioned Harness as just one of the foxes if approved Wednesday.

NO TRANSPARENCY-NO ACCOUNTABILITY FOR OUR NM COP "HEROES"

APD's corrupt leadership that promotes this hero worship beginning in the Mayor's office will make sure that no incriminating video or audio recordings are ever released to the media or to the people. More often than not, the media doesn't care nor do those in the DA's office. So, no recordings-no punishment of the killer cops. Business as usual.

With the exception of the murder of homeless camper James Boyd by Perez and Sandy, there has been not even one recording ever released showing an actual APD killing of a citizen. PMR Inc.'s Judge Brack's (primarily retired cops) monitors/"auditors" have shown that they don't care either about this withholding of public records by APD including recordings. This is because for its $4.5+ million, PMR Inc. only is required to report to Judge Brack just once a year and never to us on APD's reform progress.

A recent "Live Leak" internet posting sent me and forwarded to you also revealed APD's destruction of other recordings made during their murder of Boyd who was only protecting himself against the K-9 dog. See http://www.liveleak.com/view?i=b19\_1406012736#AwZiqcT7vXDsvvfX.99 "PROOF - APD Covered Up Production of Videos of Shooting of James Boyd"

Such recordings if not withheld or intentionally not made, might also confirm that our trigger happy APD officers bring throw down guns to put next to their victims' bodies to try to prove they "felt threatened"-the magic words they are all told to say.

Mary Hawke's murder by cop Jeremy Dear with the help of his partner/accomplice, now APD spokesman Tanner Tixier would be one good example of this. Little Tixier can be counted on to parrot the lies given him by Eden and others while always speaking out of the side of his mouth-much like a gangster.

APD's former NM IPRA stonewaller Reynaldo Chavez is now suing APD because Berry's personal attorney Jessica Hernandez's equally corrupt minion Kathryn Levy allegedly directed him to bury recordings and other records showing APD's cover-up of the murder of civil rights attorney Mary Han that APD would claim was a suicide. See today's KRQE report below.

Former Albuquerque employee says city hid evidence in high profile cases By Claire Mena
Published: August 28, 2015 Family of deceased Albuquerque civil rights attorney files new lawsuit

ALBUQUERQUE (KRQE) – A former Albuquerque Police Department worker in charge of releasing public records says top city officials hid or got rid of evidence in high profile cases. The claims came to light in the case of Mary Han. Police ruled the prominent attorney's death a suicide, but her family claimed murder and said police botched the case. Han's family requested everything from APD's investigation. The former APD custodian of records, Reynaldo Chavez, says he was told by city attorney, Kathy Levy not to give the Han family any information. Chavez says the information exists and is kept on a separate database. He says he is worried APD will destroy the evidence. Han's family has filed an emergency motion and wants the information handed over to the court to preserve. The city (Who in the city-Levy?, Jessica Hernandez?) says the allegations are from a disgruntled former employee and are outlandish." The hearing on emergency motion will be this Friday, Sept 11th at 11AM in District Court. Judge Butkus, court room 502.

Many feel that APD was likely implicated in Mary's murder because they believed she had incriminating information on APD cops and high ranking city officials, possible customers of an on-line prostitution service. Some citizens also believe APD officers were involved in the murders of women buried on the West Mesa-the reason APD has shown no urgency in finding their killer(s).

Unlike California and elsewhere, our embarrassing US Attorney for NM Damon Martinez also doesn't want his US Marshals like former Schultz Commander Conrad Candelaria to carry body cameras. With no recorders/recordings-they all know that they will never be held accountable-charged. This is just like the still unaccountable BCSO deputies working for the embarrassing BERNCO Sheriff Gonzalez.

In today's Journal, the mother of her son killed at the Los Altos skate park claims in the article, "He didn't have a gun" that APD won't release their seized cell phone video of her son being shot in the back. APD chooses instead to believe the statements of the shooter who managed to dispose of his gun. I guess this killing of an African-American boy didn't deserve an honest APD investigation and transparency.

Last week a reporter for KOAT-the Journal's TV partner did yet another propaganda piece promoting hero cops. The reporter would even interview (Eden's-while in Santa Fe) handpicked disgraceful head of the NM Police Academy-Jack Jones who also demanded that we should view all cops as heroes.

Just Google "Warning to Residents of New Mexico: Your Police Are Being Taught to Use More Deadly Force" Posted on February 23, 2014 by Lily Dane, a staff writer for The Daily Sheeple. Her published goal is to help people to "Wake the Flock Up!" Lily talks in detail about "them against us" NM Law Enforcement Academy boss-warrior Jack Jones.

An extract of it reads: "The New Mexican filed a request under the Inspection of Public Records Act for a copy of the academy's new curriculum. Jones wasn't having it. He said he doesn't plan to release it because criminals could use the tactics taught to cadets against them. "I'll burn them before you get them," he told The New Mexican.

Jones says officers need to be prepared for violence and justifies training officers to use more force because there are so many bad guys out there." "Evil has come to the state of New Mexico, evil has come to the Southwest, evil has come to the United States." Lily says "I agree with Jones' opinion that evil has arrived in New Mexico, but I doubt we agree on the source."

In addition to Schultz's and now Damon Martinez's Conrad Candelaria, my referenced August 30 e-mail discussed the Journal letter to the editor by Schultz's former Captain David Gilmore who preached we are not doing enough for APD officers claiming we taxpayers now have to pay for 1500 APD officers to solve their response problem here.

One of the first things the clearly incompetent Eden should have done when taking over was to better utilize the officers he had but instead he had to be directed by the DOJ to do this. Less than one half of APD officers are on the street and far more than believed necessary are routinely dispatched to priority calls for service.

Over 40 heroes were dispatched to the East Mesa for well over two hours before two murdered James Boyd. Since it was getting dark it was important that they all get home to their families, Perez and Sandy just had to kill him-who was just deemed "human waste" as APD cops considers all of our homeless.

Not to be outdone in this hero worship effort, the BERNCO Commissioners are now wasting $800,000 of our tax dollars to build two memorials for cops while one already exists in Santa Fe. Why did they stop at just funding two police officer memorials in the metro area?

Why not fund one in each County Commission District wasting yet another $1.2 million? Not one County Commissioner had the guts to demand that Gonzalez buy body cameras. Neither Sheriff Gonzalez nor the Commissioners also want any citizens police oversight agency.

THE GOOD RETIRED APD COPS

Unlike Candelaria and Gilmore, retired cop Sam Costales is one of the good guys. Google "Ex-APD officer unmasks 'culture of aggression'" by Mike Bush / Journal Staff Writer Friday, March 6, 2015

. In this article Sam says "Since the federal report last year, the APD has been "putting on a show for the DOJ," "It's all window dressing." He is right.

These tax wasting $15,000 outreach collaborative run for the city by UNM are also shams, PR stunts-just more window dressing. Dan Klein, another good retired cop has written often in the ABQ Free Press. In its latest issue, it recently reported the illegal by Perry and Berry retention payouts to only Eden's Senior Command staff. Did the Council or anybody else downtown care?

DOES ANYBODY HERE EVEN CARE THAT APD IS STILL THE DISGRACE OF THE NATION?

Has our attention "now moved on"-shifted from APS to APS and its dysfunctional School Board led by the arrogant Don Duran while still allowing justice to still be denied to the families and friends of their loved ones murdered by trigger happy local cops who still have never been punished for their crimes?

After wasting our tax dollars money on his NYC Rockefeller Center size artificial skating rink, big Adirondack chair and clock on the plaza to further enhance his "cherished downtown," the latest Mayor Berry diversionary tactic is to now build an unjustified $100+ million ABQ Rapid Transit (ART)/BRT along Central.

ART will be his own legacy to fiscal irresponsibility as was Governor Richardson's Rail Runner that was also justified with the same lies.

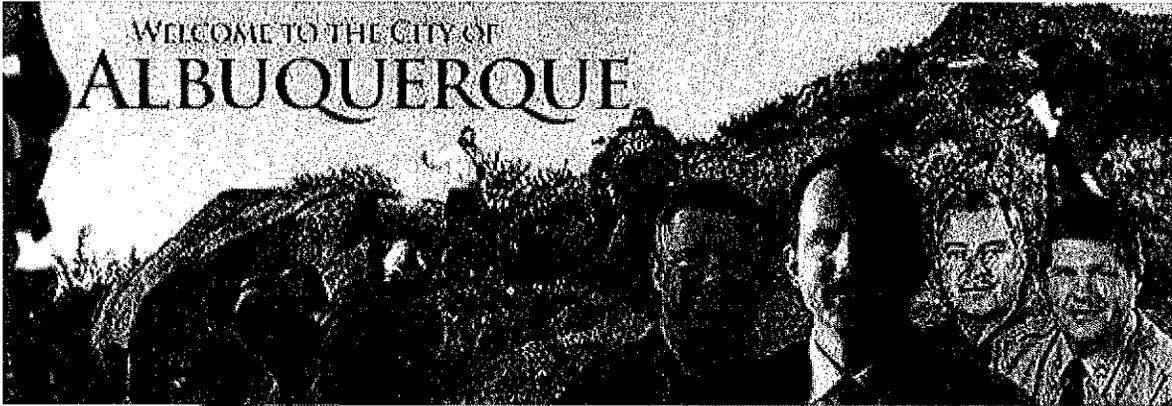

Given the hero worship of cops propaganda we are continually exposed to is anyone naïve enough to believe that Eden's killer cops Perez and Sandy will be convicted of their murder of James Boyd? The sad truth is that there will never be reform here until Berry, Perry and Eden leaves office and there is a thorough housecleaning of APD's corrupt leadership.

BEING RAPED

In my past e-mails I have compared the situation here one who is being raped and told that this is Albuquerque and to just relax and enjoy it since there is nothing you can do about it.

While much of it centered on the Mafia like CAO Perry and his soldiers (as former APD cop Dan Klein compares them to in his article in the 9/23 ABQ Free Press, "Gangster-like APD Intimidation Has No Place in City Hall.") See an accurate depiction of Perry (attached) sent me. Many believe that the Governor is cut from the same cloth as Perry. See attached.

APD's Chief Eden and his senior Command staff led by CAO Rob Perry with the cooperation of the DOJ and former cop Ginger and his other PMR Inc. fellow former cops- "monitors" has made any reform of APD a sick joke played on citizens.

The Eye on Albuquerque is another news source unlike the Berry Journal that has the courage to tell the truth if you bothered to read this blog.

An extract from one Eye posting says,

"Of course all the high ranking at The Police Department will tell you everything is fine, no need for all you 'nobody's' to worry. After all, we get our huge salaries and really don't care about you 'nobody's.'" Heck we even give the Mayor 24/7 protection, because he is one of us politicians' and in their eyes a somebody. Has anyone heard from Chief Eden? We think he is taking after the Mayor and hiding under his desk. Heck maybe the same desk. Maybe Eden needs protection 24/7 just like the other coward?"

Since mid last week, my neighbors and I got another reminder just who are deemed the important people in this city who are to be treated differently than we others-particularly the poorer among us. In our Eisenhower Area Neighborhood Association (EANA) of 525 homes located in the NE quadrant of Juan Tabo and Spain, most owners have tried to keep their home attractive.

Since last week I have exchanged e-mails with you, Deputy APD Chief/EANA neighbor Bob Huntsman and others on one particular home whose owners over the past five years has blatantly ignored all city codes. The house was a continuous blight on our neighborhood.

This is because your Planning Department's code enforcement inspectors, APD, the Mayor's do-nothing tax-wasting Constituent Services and Bob's/my/EANA's Councilor Trudy Jones wouldn't do anything about it. I was even told that if Councilor Jones doesn't care, your code enforcement folks don't care.

All of you apparently deemed the homeowner one of the privileged here and thus above the law. She was reportedly good at her important job so being a bad neighbor wasn't important.

Neither you nor the others even had the courtesy to advise us beforehand that an A&E TV production crew would be coming in to film the cleanup of one of our EANA homes for their "Hoarders" show and park a huge 20' x 10' x 10' container and RV on the street in front of or near the house and a porta-potty on the side of the house.

At the request of an intimidated elderly widowed neighbor I filed complaints with 242-COPs and your office to finally learn what was going on since neither you nor APD would tell me. Well the A&E crew finally left Sunday and at 10AM today there were four vehicles parked in front of the home-two parked illegally on the front lawn but apparently you don't care.

I pointed out in a previous e-mail how our former District 8 Councilor (former APD Captain) Craig Loy pushed legislation through to make it easy for you with APD's help to label homes as nuisance properties. But this change apparently only was to be applied to others, often the many poor and not the privileged among us.

Some low income battered women living in rental homes would then fear calling APD and having them respond knowing their landlord would evict them if it was later deemed a nuisance property because of the many calls for service.

We in EANA are also tired about hearing that you don't have enough code enforcement officers likely because the Mayor chooses to waste our tax dollars on other things.

TWO CLASSES OF PEOPLE-THE DEEMED PRIVILEGED WHO ARE ABOVE THE LAW AND THE REST OF US

I'm sure you know that your boss-our elitist Mayor has two classes of citizens here in the City each with a different way they are treated. One is for the favored, primarily the well to do or well connected like those in the downtown, in his Four Hills and other wealthy neighborhoods like Tanoan who are judged by one standard. Then, there is the rest of us.

You are seeing how much of our tax dollars are going into the Mayor's "precious" downtown and along Central Ave, the latest his $100+ million tax wasting unjustified ABQ Rapid Transit (ART) system, despite the fact that our ABQ Ride serves those along Central very well and that the busses are almost empty most of the day.

You might have also noticed that the Mayor never got serious about the dog biting problem here until a neighbor in his own Four Hills got bitten. The City's good Animal Welfare Department head Barbara Bruin was made the scapegoat for these aggressive dog problems. She served me and my neighbors well last year when going the extra mile to resolve a barking dog problem. Barbara deserved better.

It seems that vicious APD K-9 dogs like Rex who James Boyd (murdered by APD in 2014) only tried to protect himself against are also treated differently than other vicious dogs despite being not adoptable.

After retirement along with his K-9 handler who lied claiming Boyd and Sandy saved his life, Rex was treated like a hero before being sent to a refuge out of state where his aggressiveness will keep him from ever being adopted. This dog will likely have to be put down.

There are many, many other examples of your Mayor and his minions protecting the privileged here and this includes police officers who are promoted as our heroes and included among those also deemed above the law.

MORE WASTE OF OUR TAX DOLLARS

Today's Journal article also points out the double standard applied here.

While Councilor Lewis years ago condemned the red light camera program, (mismanaged by APD and their buddies at REDFLEX) as merely a money making program, there seems to be no similar outrage by him or others on the Council with the DWI vehicle seizure program that clearly is a money maker for APD and other NM police departments. What hypocrisy!

What can't be ignored is that we will never see anyone of the special-privileged people in this city including those in the Mayor's office and on the Council stopped and given a DWI and their car seized.

The only exception was the former District 7 Councilor who was likely drunk as a skunk when he was stopped with his girlfriend late one night and cited for a DWI but his car was never seized. He arrogantly knew that he would never be convicted knowing that he was deemed one of the privileged. He was right.

You recall that even APD cop Adam Casaus who blasted through a red light killing the young Ashley Browder was never given a DWI test at the scene by BCSO officers because his wife worked for as a dispatcher for the Sheriff.

He should have been given big jail time but instead plea bargained it down to merely careless driving. Since the BCSO deputies on the scene don't have body cameras, there was no recording made of Casaus' likely impaired condition.

With all of the vacant land already owned by the City, why are taxpayers now being asked to purchase more land to accommodate APD's SWAT and K-9 officers? Not surprising that my Councilor Jones who is no stranger to supporting or sponsoring tax waste is sponsoring this new waste of our tax dollars and likely her fellow councilors will go along.

Trudy's history of waste is well known that includes millions of free infrastructure for the developer of the failed Unser Crossing shopping center not in her District 8 but on the west side. Her employer then Grubb-Ellis handled the $23 million land to the developer. Conflict of Interest? Nah. Then she was promoting taxpayer giveaways for the downtown's NOT just grocery store-also not in District 8.

Need I mention our State legislators also wasting $250,000 of our tax dollars in order to meet and decide whether to impeach another of the privileged here-Republican Dianna Duran.

I guess like my disgraceful neighbor Deputy Chief Huntsman, what I say or what others not deemed to be the privileged of this city say really doesn't matter.

Everybody downtown ignored the fact that twice during 2014 that Eden's thug Deputy Chief Huntsman even threatened to arrest me if I dared to step on his property to deliver an EANA newsletter-saying "I know who you are Dell'Angela." What a disgrace to the uniform Bob is!

WELCOME TO THE LAND OF THE CONSTANTLY RAPED

The analogy of one of us being raped by the privileged and told to just relax and just enjoy it really describes us here.

Is it any wonder why our state led by our Governor depicted in the attachment sent me is the fifth most corrupt in the nation with our city likely the most corrupt if a similar poll was taken?

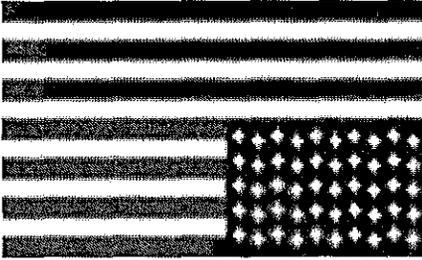

An abbreviated copy of my Saturday and Monday e-mails to you is shown below.

Disappointed but NOT surprised with the non-response to either e-mail in this corrupt city.

COUNCILORS

Info to many sent this Bcc

Reference my scathing e-mails yesterday regarding the Journal's propagandists and the disgraceful Garduno-Sanchez duo.

As I have said often you Councilors intentionally wait until late Friday afternoon to post the agenda to discourage our comments and attendance. In addition to the oppressive freedom of speech rules imposed on us, the wall, and allowing their buddies to speak endlessly while we are restricted to two minutes you are not showing our overhead projector presentations on GOV-TV

Well tonight's agenda has even more rigged (allegedly competitive) contract awards based on purely subjective selection criteria-no costs asked for-just cost control.

Among the latest big rigged contracts is that given to incumbent ACVB Berry's buddies to reward them for the lousy work they have been doing and will continue to do. See extract from Joe Monahan's posting today shown below.

We have an endorsement of the wasteful ART and $350K of our tax dollars for a new red light in Sanchez's district that never passed DMD's signal warrant analysis justification test much like the one Rey put in on Central in his District 6 years ago to please two businesses.

Lest all forget the unjustified by any traffic analysis costly roundabout on Candelaria and Rio Grande where more tax dollars were wasted. Then more tax dollars wasted for signage along your precious Central while our infrastructure is in shambles.

Then there is $1,973.44 (EC-403) for the alleged "implementation of the Judge Brack approved Consent decree with Ginger and his toothless boys being given $610K. Just what are they doing except laughing all of the way to the bank? There is $115K/year for an unnamed Executive Director. Is this for ex Milwaukee cop Ed Harness of the Oversight Agency or somebody else?

Then there are the brief reports by the Internal Auditor and IG that discusses the "greased" by Berry contract given to Schultz and employer TASER. There is the APD ammunition scandal, Greenwood, APD retention pay and a host of other corrupt-seemingly never punished offenses.

As long as the Mayor controlled bogus Accountability in Government Oversight (AGO) Committee is allowed to dictate just what is written/released in the auditor's and IG reports, there will always be cover-ups and no punishments given to the corrupt city offenders.

The whole internal audit and IG process has become a sick joke-scam played on trusting citizens and yet not one of you nine even care. Our Teflon Pinocchio Mayor and his Mafia like thug CAO must be laughing at what cowardly fools you are.

With all of his bravado it's also not surprising that new NM AG Hector Balderas never wanted to investigate Schultz and Taser while Auditor or now as AG the murder of Mary Han and APD's deliberate contamination of the crime scene.

Is anyone surprised that the City's former clerk Ms. "slow petition count"/IPRA stonewaller Amy Bailey has found a new home working in Santa Fe for Dianna Duran?

Does anyone really believe that this is NOT the most corrupt administration in the city's history with likely the worst City Council whose only goal is not to represent the people who elected you but feather your own nests with wasteful fiscally irresponsible spending of our limited tax dollars.

Tonight, will I get public apologies from Garduno and Sanchez for insulting the American flag I showed during 2014 and 2015 upside down as a US Flag Code signal of a city in distress and by Garduno for LYING to me saying it was permitted and allowing a clueless alleged veteran to then publicly ridicule me?

All saw the Journal editorial today ridiculing Garduno and his insulting PC resolution demonizing the white Columbus and his fellow Spanish and other European explorers. Is he man enough to admit what he did was wrong?

How about serving the people for a change and start asking questions of items on the agenda and asking the cowardly Eden why he won't comply with my October 1 NM IPRA request for the likely incriminating videos proving that both he and his latest shooter lied?

Finally, while the DOJ is clearly on the side of the bad police nationwide, seeming also is the FBI. See http://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2015/oct/15/fbi-record-police-killings-tamir-rice-eric-garner?CMP=ema\_565a. The murder of James Boyd by Sandy and Boyd is not included in their reports.

Why waste my time coming tonight? None of you really give a damn about the people who want real reform here!

Silvio

PARCC Tests: Glass Half Full Or Half Empty? Plus: NMSU Aggies: Out Of The Game; Prospect Of Ending Program Surfaces, And: Fresh Ideas To Pop ABQ Convention Biz?

FRESH AIR

This is one of the more refreshing ideas to sweep into ABQ in recent years--replace the calcified ABQ Convention and Visitors Bureau (ACVB)--charged with drumming up city convention business--with an out-of-state firm with fresh ideas:

An ad hoc committee has recommended the city of Albuquerque continue using ACVB to bring meetings, events and tourists to the Duke City – work the ACVB has handled for the last 35 years. The recommendation remains subject to City Council approval, but fellow bidder California-based Catalyst Creative already has plans to fight the committee's decision.

ACVB has had the contract for a whopping 35 years yet convention business remains in the cellar here. New thinking, new people, new ideas, new investment. Around here those are fightin' words. Good Luck, Catalyst Creative. Give 'em hell.

Christina

The KKOB-770 call in talk show yesterday on this subject included calls from many APS teachers were disgusted with both the lying-unethical new Superintendent but the School Board's cowardice in not firing him, the Board President daughter and the search firm's person who found him. The host of the call in show Eric Straud (sp?) was equally disgusted and believed the Board will again betray us. I called in as well.

When APS still has unjustified (after women were given the right to vote in all elections after the suffrage movement 100 years ago tax wasting spring elections with only 4% turnouts, (something also mentioned by another caller to the show) what can we expect in the quality of school board members? Other states like NJ and cities eliminated these special tax wasting elections a long time ago.

Former interim superintendent Brad Winter was still working at APS for months after he retired to "help" with the transition and yet nobody questions why his is never mentioned in this whole scandal-as he likely looked the other way to all of it as also one of Governor Martinez's puppets. He may have even suggested the hiring of all three and blessed the lack of a background check for sex offender Jason Martinez.

Please be sure the Board sees these comments as well. All expect the Board will again betray not only the teachers but all of the people Monday or if he is convinced to resign will give him a big golden parachute-again ripping off taxpayers.

More than disgusted,

Silvio

Kudos first to Joe Monahan's postings, KOB's Miller and others, Journal's Burgess, Heild, their editorial and writers of the letters to the Journal editor today except for the writer who praised Brad Winter

With the exception of Ms. Muller-Aragon, you are an embarrassing lot, particularly your President Don Duran who supports Valentino shows from his quotes in the Journal just how bad he is and/or how stupid he thinks we are. He said that it's a "painful experience for the Board and that The board takes our responsibilities seriously." All are insults to our intelligence. Yet his wife was hired by Valentino. Coincidence?

You could have made the decision Sunday to fire the blatantly dishonest Valentino-a no-brainer. Instead you let him sneak into your closed executive session Sunday to disingenuously apologize and you slipped out the back door with him so you wouldn't have to face the people and media. What cowards you (except for Ms. Muller-Aragon all are.

While interim Superintendent Winter has never been mentioned as involved except in one Joe Monahan. posting and even complimented in a Journal letter today , you all know that he also played a key role in hiring this horrible dishonest new Superintendent.

Brad has a lot of people fooled except those who have been following his conduct at APS and also on the Council closely. He doesn't represent the people, only the Republican machine here that seemingly is in charge of APS and the City.

You are the best reason for imposing term limits on Board members. You have seemingly all embraced NM's well-known culture of corruption.

TO: ALL Bcc-share with others if you wish

The following extracts below from the Eye on Albuquerque and Joe Monahan's recent postings only tells some of the story of how bad this city has become under our worst since Schultz was hired Chief in 2005 and then rehired by Berry despite being the most horrible Police Chief in our City's history.

As I have also said, Berry is by far the worst mayor in our city's history and far too many citizens and other city leaders don't care! It seems they are used to our Fascist-third world-like image nationwide.

Schultz proclaimed to all in 2010 and 2011 that his APD is the leader in using body camera but conveniently omitted the fact that the bad cops like Dear and others are told not to turn them on.

Schultz is told to conveniently retire just before the fall 2103 mayoral election but remains on the payroll until January 2014. This was enough time for him to cut a $1/.9 million deal with his employer TASER "greased" by the Mayor-something that the City Auditor likely was directed to sweep under the rug in her finally released June 2015 "amended" report.

My July 2 e-mail to the city auditor contains the following comments below. Her only reply is that Councilor Sanchez had never asked for an IG investigation-only an internal audit.

"Yet no recommended actions are to be pursued against Schultz-only since "APD was charged $25,243 for overlapping Evidence.com services associated with the Pilot Purchase from August 15, 2013 to March 27, 2014 and should request a refund from TASER." This corrective action is an insult to the sensibilities of all of us taxpayers and is yet another example of the culture of corruption that permeates this Berry administration I guess your hands are tied and both your office and that of the IG's should be viewed by us taxpayers as just toothless window dressing for Berry to give the illusion of internal controls.

Then passing over 40 highly competent applicants for the Chief's job from throughout the country Berry is handed Governor Martinez's throw-away bureaucrat Gorden Eden who he knew never met the posted requirements for the Chief's job. Eden never supervised 8 officers much less than 800+ officers in APD. Since when is competence a qualification for employment by Berry?

Eden was so incompetent that Berry didn't allow him to be involved in the negotiations with the DOJ-choosing instead the $350/hour former Cincinnati police chief Tom Strelcher to represent Eden and APD. Tom allegedly fought DOJ reforms of his PD for over seven years there but now we are told that he believes in police accountability as does his attorney buddy Scott Greenwood.

Not to worry that Eden is incompetent/clueless. Berry and Eden would just bring Schultz's death squad (SWAT) commander Bob Huntsman out of retirement as Eden's principle deputy to run APD for him.

Meanwhile Berry and Eden and Huntsman would remain in hiding when there was any APD or other controversy or lie to be told. Berry would send out his unofficial PIO Gil Montano (his pretend Chief of Staff) while APD would trot out disgraceful cops Celina Espinosa and Tanner Tixier-Jeremy Dear's accomplice in the murder of Mary Hawkes out to lie to us and the media.

After stonewalling my repeated NM IPRA requests to see the recordings of APD's murder over two years ago of black homeless mentally ill Vietnam Vet Vincent Wood, the family is finally suing APD.

It's almost as bad here with the BERNCO Sheriff who wants no body cameras for his officers because he wants no accountability while the Corrales PD is now buying them.

If any citizen or public official is thinking former cop/DOJ monitor James Ginger and his PMR Inc team or Scott Greenwood will bring about real change/accountability in APD until Berry leaves office, he/she are either naive or smoking or snorting some bad stuff.

Thank God that we have other news sources like Joe's and the Eye's blogs, and the ABQ Free Press and some TV reporters since the Journal is in Berry's pocket.

I hope that Saturday our elected and appointed city and county and state leaders took my e-mail advice and declared their independence of the corrupt leadership and culture of corruption here. This includes former cops/current NM legislators Paul Pacheco and Bill Rehm who seemingly want to only reform the judicial system not demand accountability-body cameras and their usage by all NM cops. Once a cop-always a cop.

See our thug shadow Mayor Rob Perry below with yet another Governor Martinez throw-away.

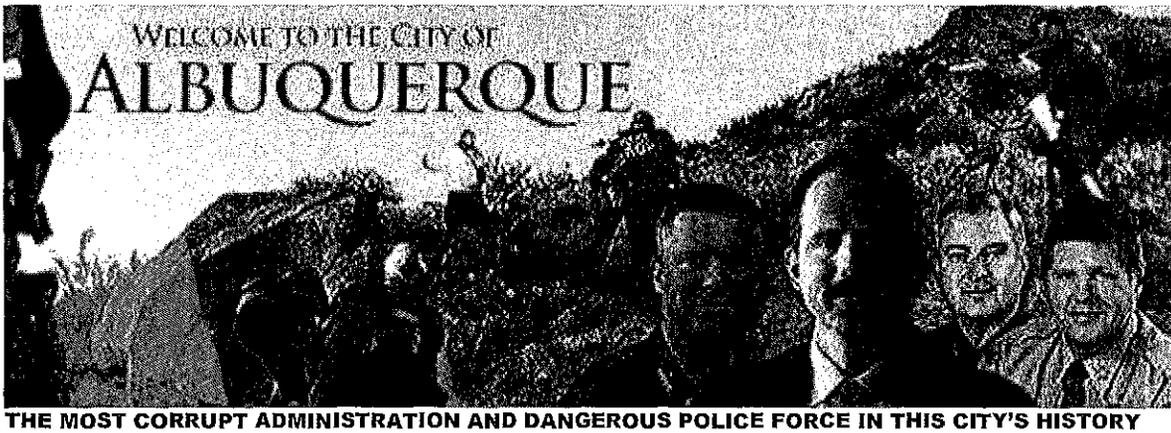

From the photos, would anyone think Rob may have been a little impaired/hitting the bottle or other substances far too often? What do you think?

Silvio

Jul 5, 2015 EYE ON ALBUQUERQUE

Time to Face the Facts

Berry has proven to be the worst Mayor in the history of Albuquerque. FACT!
APD is being negligently mismanaged. FACT! And we the citizens are paying the price for both. FACT!

What to do about this horrific chaos has to be the primary focus of every citizen. Do we try and fire the mayor thus causing and creating more problems to the chaos he has already created? Do we try and push a completely useless City Council to do their jobs? Do we take to the streets like a bunch of wild buffoons and commit civil disobedience? Do we go out and buy a gun and start carrying it strapped to our sides and take the law into our own hands? The frustration among the citizens is horrendous.

Albuquerque is a magnet for every criminal in the country because we have the worst run city and police department in the USA. Proof, well, we don't have to look too far. Just last week here in Albuquerque, an ex-national news anchor was forced at gun point from a motel parking lot back to her room. In the end a gun battle ensued and her husband was shot several times and the offender was killed. Oh, and the offender; he wasn't from Albuquerque he was just here visiting and abducting women at gunpoint to rob them.

Every single day we all hear it; there was a shooting in the NE Heights, one person dead. An accomplished high school student killed in a drive-by. Body found under a slab in a field on the Westside. The murders in Albuquerque are out of control due to an extremely poor run city and a negligently run police department. We wonder if the FBI is going to help out and find at least one of these murderers. We already know the FBI has assisted APD on employment personnel matters.

Most recently in today's Albuquerque Journal (READ IT HERE) the featured story is APD's response time to 911 calls. The story starts out by stating, "More violent crimes, More 911 Calls, Fewer cops." The bottom line is; when a citizen calls for the police because they have an EMERGENCY they will not see a cop for at least 10 minutes and 43 seconds. A lot can happen in 11 minutes but why would Berry or Chief Eden care? Eden is pulling down $158,000.00 a year to provide the citizens with the worst possible service. Berry is sitting around daydreaming about being Governor.

"I think the (police) chief has us on the right track," Mayor Richard Berry said in an interview. Mayor Berry in his traditional incompetent manner is promoting further incompetence. APD spokesperson Celina Espinoza stated in part concerning 2014 911 calls, "and those cases require a lengthy police response." Why would any call 'require' a lengthy police response? It is an emergency call for help; people need police assistance immediately.

Incompetence invites and encourages more of the same. City Councilman, Ken Sanchez, stated he is "very concerned." And according the Union vice president, "Nobody's proud of it," said Shaun Willoughby, the vice president of the Albuquerque Police Officers Association. "In a Priority 1 call, 45 seconds is the difference between life and death." But the story did not say the Union was doing anything to help out either. There was nothing in the story that stated Willoughby is standing by officers by putting on a uniform and hitting the streets to assist on 911 emergency calls. All of this is cheap talk from a bunch of cheap politicians.

Here is a statement concerning Gordon Eden; "Police Chief Gordon Eden previously said he has shuffled officers' assignments to get more police officers in the field. Earlier this year, he reassigned police officers who were working in records and the crime lab back to patrol." Eden did not state he put an extra 20 officers on the streets; he stated he shuffled the deck; which means nothing.

But here once again, nowhere did it state Chief Eden has been working graveyard shifts in an effort to assist officers with 911 calls. No, Chief Eden has not handled one call for service nor has he ever written a police report; those types of tasks are beneath him. What a leader!

There is a fix for this and it can be accomplished fairly quickly with great results. The problem still lies with Berry and his refusal to admit Eden is the second biggest mistake he's made. The first biggest mistake was retaining what appears to be a very corrupted former police Chief Ray Schultz. Eden must be fired immediately and a person who knows how to run a police department with the right answers needs to be appointed.

The story ends with this statement; "Police response times were a point of debate in the 2013 mayoral election. Berry's opponent tried to show the city's public safety was threatened by slowing response times. That was when the data showed police responded to Priority 1 calls in 10:11." In other words we were all warned by Paul Heh and Pete Dinelli before everything went to hell.

THE CRIME CRISIS

The city's crime crisis continues to plow new ground. Police response times are at a new low due largely to the lack of officers in the demoralized department. Why is the police mess so difficult for city fathers and the business community to correct? You get a new police chief, give him a free hand in hiring new command staff, you increase pay for beginning police officers, you aggressively recruit outstanding young men and women, you provide them with training that is not infected with the cultural rot that brought APD to its knees and you get on with the job of responding quickly to calls and get the Dept. of Justice out of your hair. What are we missing? . . .

TO: ALL-Bcc

I just returned from attending the July 10 retirement ceremony of my USMC Colonel nephew at Quantico USMC base VA and later attended to family estate matters in New Jersey.

The many I spoke to said what they know best about Albuquerque is (1) the hot air balloon festival, (2) the high crime rate and (3) our out of control police. Most looked on us as just a corrupt, backward city and state.

While our Mayor has his propoganda machine (primarily the Journal) working hard to convince all here that everything is just fine, many in the rest of the US apparently thinks otherwise.

I have referred you often to Eye on Albuquerque postings most recently the July 5 one that tells the uncomfortable truth-things I have also said. It begins with:

"Time to Face the Facts-Berry has proven to be the worst Mayor in the history of Albuquerque. FACT! APD is being negligently mismanaged. FACT! And we the citizens are paying the price for both. FACT!

Further: "What to do about this horrific chaos has to be the primary focus of every citizen. Do we try and fire the mayor thus causing and creating more problems to the chaos he has already created? Do we try and push a completely useless City Council to do their jobs? Do we take to the streets like a bunch of wild buffoons and commit civil disobedience? Do we go out and buy a gun and start carrying it strapped to our sides and take the law into our own hands? The frustration among the citizens is horrendous."

The July 15 edition of the ABQ Free Press also has three notable articles. One by Dennis Domrzalski "Soaring Crime Rate Taxes Undermanned APD Ranks" discusses the specifics of the gross mismanagement of APD under Berry, Perry and Eden. Another one by Dennis "Tourism Stats Appear Inflated" is another example of the lies being told us.

The third is by a disgusted retired APD Sergeant Dan Klein "Ignoring Taser-gate Won't Make the Stench Go Away."

Internal Auditor Debra Yoshimura's original report-a likely scathing indictment of Taser-gate was watered down with Schultz or her boss-the Mayor never blamed. Only Taser was given a slap on the wrist. I guess with Debra and other City employees, you do what your bosses tell you or you leave. There is no place for integrity in this Berry administration.

Just follow the money and it explains everything here. Some have even alleged that R.J. and Maria's Berry's Cumbre Construction Company is even getting money to do work from Berry's contractor friends who are given no-bid work. It wouldn't surprise me one bit.

Regards

Silvio

For WE THE PEOPLE

P.S. I also got an voicemail from a neighbor who was angry that Berry would waste $13-20 million ripping up Central this year to accommodate the Mayor's newest legacy albatross-ABQ Rapid Transit (ART) and expect the feds to ante up over $80 million more of our tax dollars next year for it. Bruce Rizzieri apparently does what he is told-we taxpayers be damned.

See COO Mike Riordan's incredulous July 24 response to my July 24 NM IPRA request below and my July 24 and earlier e-mails sent regarding our Mayor's latest albatross/rip-off of taxpayers-the ABQ Rapid Transit System-ART. There is an RFP out there for ART and yet Mike won't provide it. Nor will he provide other information I requested.

Does anyone in their right mind really believe Kiewit Construction will not get this work if funded and that they acted on their own to gather information from citizens? Does anybody really believe Cumbre Construction owned by the Mayor and his wife isn't being promised some of the work by Kiewit? Mike Riordan has willingly sold his soul to the devil to keep his job.

Developer and Central Avenue property owner Doug Peterson had an earlier opinion piece in the Journal debunking all the bogus arguments for ART that a Journal editorial, its reporter Winthrop Quigley and others had promoted on the Mayor's behalf. In this city when does common sense dictate how our limited tax dollars are spent?

ART is all based on smoke and mirrors-lies told to all of us. The most fiscally irresponsible thing is that $13-20 million of our tax dollars will be spent this year tearing up Central even before they know whether the federal Highway Administration will fund 80% of this taxpayer rip-off. Every responsible citizen should write to the FHA telling them to turn the funding request down.

Shame on Councilors Garduno and Benton who supported the lies to justify ART running in their districts. The remaining fiscally responsible Councilors should put a stop to the City doing any work on it this year.

Kudos to the Rio Grande Foundation whose research director wrote the attached letter that appeared in the Journal today. The RGF under the leadership of Paul Gessing was also instrumental in helping us citizens kill another tax wasting albatross-Mayor Chavez's proposed $30-40 million/mile "modern streetcar" to nowhere. ART will rip off taxpayers for $10 million/mile.

A book by Randal O'Toole referenced in the RGF letter also exposed the lies told to Portland taxpayers by City officials to justify their streetcar-the same lies to try to justify the one streetcar Mayor Chavez wanted here and same lies now being told again by Berry, Rizzieri and their Journal propagandists for ART.

If you aren't disgusted with this lying Mayor, Bruce Rizzieri and their minions and their Journal propagandists, you should be.

Mr. Dell'Angela,

The City of Albuquerque is currently advertising for requests for proposals. We have yet to receive any bids, nor award a contract. Kiewit seems to have taken it upon themselves to advertise their intent to bid on the project and therefore are requesting public input. ???? That action is not sponsored nor supported by the City of Albuquerque. ??? All potential bidders have until September to submit a response to the request for proposals. At that time the selection committee will be review all bids for qualifications and cost. When a selection is made we can provide you the information requested below if you would like to resubmit the request then.

Sincerely,

Michael J. Riordan, P.E.

Mr. Rizzieri, Mr. Riordan

Info those shown and not shown.

See my e-mails below without the attached- the recent small Kiewit Journal ad and a description of the seemingly no-bid "Construction Management at risk approach" to contracting.

The e-mails expresses my concerns as a taxpayer with this seemingly unjustified bus system that will eventually cost over $120 million of our local, State and federal (if given) tax dollars while other real needs are being seemingly ignored.

IAW the NM IPRA, allow me to review

1. the City's contract defining the scope of work and funding-including the source of funds given to the Kiewit Construction Company for all work associated with the ABQ Rapid Transit (ART) system –earlier referred to as the Bus Rapid Transit (BRT) system along Central.
2. Also indicate whether other contractors were allowed to bid and if so whether cost—not merely "cost control" was a selection criterion.
3. If it was a competitive procurement process request I have the opportunity to review the RFP, the members on the evaluation team and their ratings.
4. Also provide for my review documentation showing the scope and cost and schedule of work to be performed along Central for the ART this year.
5. Provide the name of the contractor and cost of the design of the BRT/ART system if it is not Kiewit.
6. Provide for my review any documentation indicating if Cumbre Construction is a sub-contractor to Kiewit

Your response is due NLT August 9, 2015.

Thank you

Some final comments from my other e-mails that demands that the more important needs are addressed if we are to escape the third world image that seemingly the rest of the country has of us. The ART is seemingly an unjustified want and not a need just like the earlier proposed "modern streetcar," down Central, the Rail Runner and other alleged economic engines.

"I just returned from attending the July 10 retirement ceremony of my USMC Colonel nephew at Quantico USMC base VA and later attended to family estate matters in New Jersey. The many I spoke to said what they know best about Albuquerque is (1) the hot air balloon festival, (2) the high crime rate and (3) our out of control police. Most looked on us as just a corrupt, backward city and state. While our Mayor has his propaganda machine (primarily the Journal) working hard to convince all here that everything is just fine, many in the rest of the US apparently thinks otherwise."

The Eye on Albuquerque's July 5 posting-extract below hit the nail on the head-regarding our failed leadership here. Jul 5, 2015 -EYE ON ALBUQUERQUE "Time to Face the Facts" Berry has proven to be the worst Mayor in the history of Albuquerque. FACT! APD is being negligently mismanaged. FACT! And we the citizens are paying the price for both. FACT! What to do about this horrific chaos has to be the primary focus of every citizen. Do we try and fire the mayor thus causing and creating more problems to the chaos he has already created? Do we try and push a completely useless City Council to do their jobs? Do we take to the streets like a bunch of wild buffoons and commit civil disobedience? Do we go out and buy a gun and start carrying it strapped to our sides and take the law into our own hands? The frustration among the citizens is horrendous. Albuquerque is a magnet for every criminal in the country because we have the worst run city and police department in the USA. "

Subject: Contract to Keiwit-apparently a done deal for yet another Berry unjustified albatross-ART along Central

Others shown and not shown)

Reference my earlier e-mail today shown again below. My earlier June 14 e-mail to the Journal's Win Quigley and the June 25 article by developer Doug Peterson were omitted in the interest of brevity. A reader told me it was Kiewit-not Li wit who posted the ad yesterday asking for feedback-copy attached. The survey at the website listed is a joke and this no-bid award is an insult to the sensibilities of every taxpayer and business owner along the proposed Central route. Kiewit is the construction company apparently already awarded a no-bid contract by the city using the CM at risk approach (copy again attached) in order to justify the award to build this $120 million+ tax wasting albatross along Central. A Kiewit office headed by Sean White has already been set up at 5130 Masthead NE Albuquerque, NM 87109 PHONE-(505) 717-3075

EMAIL Sean.white@kiewit.com. We continued to be insulted by this Mayor, Bruce Rizzieri, Mike Riordan and others.

Subject: The Albuquerque Rapid Transit-ART, a $120+ million albatross along Central being jammed down our throats-do you nine care?

Councilors

(Info to those shown and many not shown-sent this Bcc. Share with others if you wish.)

While Mayor seems only concerned with meeting with misguided/P.C. opponents of the old Stars and Bars Confederate flag remaining downtown rather than doing what's logical-leave it there as a historical symbol, apparently he and ABQ Ride's Rizzieri apparently don't need citizen consensus on their $120 million+ ART.

They are now are going full speed ahead with wasting $13-20 million of our tax dollars this year ripping up Central this year and expecting those at the FTA in Washington DC to give the city/waste another $100+ million next year to build it. The fiscally responsible thing is to do a cost/benefit analysis and also wait until 2016 to see if the feds are foolish enough to fund this albatross. It will cost $10 million/mile to build.

Rizzieri in response to my recent NM IPRA request confirmed that there was never any needs/cost benefit analysis ever done justifying ART by ridership, density or other criteria.

Justification for it was based solely on smoke and mirrors-lies told us of being another much needed catalyst for economic growth. Only the alleged success in Cleveland-a more dense city was cited as justification for ART.

The only thing done was a July 25 2011 "InfraConsult LLC" BRT "Feasibility Assessment" not a justification assessment and used Chavez's proposed "modern streetcar" and other not relevant studies that also included some selected four year old 2011 ABQ-Ride boardings.
Go to the ABQ-Ride website to see the old study.

These lies of high ridership great economic growth were the same used by Mayor Marty Chavez when trying to justify his own white elephant the $30-40 million/mile "modern streetcar" down Central that the feds refused to fund.

Now "Li wit" (Kiewit) another company or person is asking (after the fact) for citizen feedback-as announced in a small recent article in the Journal. Is "Li wit" (actually Kiewit) the/an ART contractor? Will R.J.'s and Maria Berry's Cumbre Construction be a subcontractor?

The same lies were told to justify the Rail Runner-another sink hole of our tax dollars. Likely at the direction of Governor Richardson, MR-COG then under Lawrence Rael then would claim in his bogus unsupported studies that there would be high ridership, a faster than automobile ride along I-25, tremendous economic development and increased population growth along the route particularly in Santa Fe. None of this ever occurred.

Not only did a Berry Journal editorial trying to justify it based on false claims but good Journal reporter Winthrop Quigley unfortunately jumped on the bandwagon as well. See my e-mail to him below. In an earlier interview with a small Central Avenue business owner, the owner said that it was a gross waste of our limited tax dollars and would likely put many like him out of business.

I hope developer Doug Peterson and other business owners file a lawsuit against the city to prevent the start of prep work/tearing up Central this year that will likely put many businesses along the route in jeopardy. See Doug's objection to ART in his June 25 Journal article below. Isn't it also time for those in NAIOP to also start representing the taxpayers for a change?

Since the Internal Audit office and IG were apparently directed to bury the Schultz/Berry "greasing" of the $1.9 million contract with Schultz's employer TASER-TASERGATE, I wonder whether they are also being told to leave other disgraceful waste of our tax dollars alone.

Every trick in the book is repeatedly used by the Berry administration to justify no-bid contracts. Among these was the token $70K one given to the Streicher-Greenwood team to negotiate with the DOJ on APD reform that intentionally was under the Council's approval threshold. Almost $600K was not surprisingly added to that contract later deeming Schultz's TASER two buddies now incumbents.

Then Schultz and his procurement office buddies downtown would claim the token buy to TASER to test a nominal number of AXON body camera would be the justification for the subsequent $1.9 million no-bid award.

For the ART we have a novel new tactic foisted on us by Berry and Rizzieri on us. This is to use a Construction Management (CM) at Risk approach being described/misrepresented as an "innovative approach to public project delivery." See attached.

The claimed advantages to CM at risk are bogus. What it really means is that this CM at risk approach justifies yet another no-bid award to Berry's/Rizzieri's desired ART contractor(s). Again, is Cumbre Construction being promised part of the work?

If you don't care and put a halt to this albatross, or a lawsuit isn't filed by Peterson and others, isn't it also time for an investigative report by Larry Barker and other TV reporters, other media outlets like the ABQ Free Press as the Berry Journal seems to be in Berry's pocket-has become a proponent of this waste-disregard for businesses along Central and us taxpayers?

Rapid-transit plan would be too disruptive

<http://www.abqjournal.com/622195/opinion/rapidtransit-plan-would-be-too-disruptive.html>

By D. Dowd Muska / Research Director, Rio Grande Foundation. PUBLISHED: Monday, August 3, 2015 at 12:02 am

Advocates of market-oriented public policy rarely have anything complimentary to say about transit systems. Government-owned trains and buses are fiercely protected by politicians and powerful lobbying groups, despite runaway costs and consistently unimpressive ridership numbers. But in Albuquerque, at least lately, transit is a different story.

In 2004, the city's bus system began to add express routes along Central Avenue. "Rapid Ride" features "60-foot long, articulated buses that accommodate up to 86 passengers."

The service is "loaded with new technology," including Wi-Fi, automatic announcements, "a global positioning system to aid in the transit applications that help passengers locate their bus in real time," and state-of-the-art security cameras and microphones. In addition, most Rapid Ride stations have "a structure which allows passengers to wait in safety and comfort."

Route 766, which runs from the Uptown Transit Center to the West Side, saw passenger growth of 25.8 percent since its introduction. Route 790, which links the University of New Mexico's main campus to the Northwest Transit Center, experienced growth of 87.2 percent. Route 777, connecting Tramway Boulevard to Downtown, saw growth of 135.6 percent.

In its "Futures 2040 Metropolitan Transportation Plan," the Mid-Region Metropolitan Transportation Organization concluded that increased boardings on the Duke City's overall bus system were "directly attributable" to the three "Rapid Ride" lines.

At least in terms of demand, express bus service appears to be working in Albuquerque.

So why does the city want to scrap a good thing?

Transportation planners are seeking to replace Rapid Ride with "Albuquerque Rapid Transit" (ART), which combines "many features of rail transit with the flexibility of buses." The city soon will request federal funding to cover 80 percent of the costs of Phase 1 of the project, which is slated to run between Louisiana and Coors. ART would eliminate one traffic lane, each way, in order to create a dedicated bus guideway.

It's a shift the Cato Institute's Randal O'Toole believes is unwise: "Dedicating two entire traffic lanes on Central Avenue to buses and giving those buses priority at traffic signals will do far more to increase congestion than any relief provided by the few cars taken off the road by the bus. Why should a few hundred bus riders a day be given these privileges while tens of thousands of people in cars are forced to sit in traffic?"

Don Hancock of the University Heights Neighborhood Association thinks ART's plan to eliminate the median strip will cause "bicycle/pedestrian safety problems ... to increase dramatically." Walkers and cyclists trying to cross the guideway, he said, are "continuous accidents just waiting to happen."

Thus far, ART's supporters have ignored questions about their project's public-safety and congestion-creation issues, preferring to focus on transit's alleged ability to attract professional millennials. But polling data are beginning to show that young adults' housing preferences resemble previous generations' inclinations.

Describing a recent survey, an economist for the National Association of Homebuilders wrote that two-thirds of millennials "wanted to reside in a suburban neighborhood, compared to 10 percent wanting to own a home in a central city. Nearly a quarter of residents wanted to be outside large metropolitan areas entirely, preferring rural housing."

While recent college graduates continue to be drawn to places such as Washington, D.C., they are also flocking to "sprawling" metro areas such as Houston, Oklahoma City, Phoenix, Orlando, Salt Lake City, Nashville and Las Vegas, Nev.

Will ART be affordable? Check the record. In the words of Veronique de Rugy, a researcher with the Mercatus Center, "Infrastructure spending tends to suffer from massive cost overruns, waste, fraud, and abuse."

And while ART is not a rail line, building it will nonetheless be a complex undertaking, involving ripping up medians, improving sidewalks, constructing stations and relocating utilities.

Citizens in Abilene, Anchorage, and Atlanta shouldn't be taxed to support a project of dubious benefit to Albuquerque.

The federal government should deny funding to ART.

THIS STATE'S AND CITY'S WELL KNOWN CULTURE OF CORRUPTION

As I said in earlier e-mails, while back East settling the estate (as executor) of my deceased, severely handicapped 94 old brother a distinguished WW II vet, and also attending the retirement of my nephew a distinguished USMC officer who served in Afghanistan, those many family members and friends who came from all over the US who I spoke to questioned just why I chose to retire here in New Mexico?

What they all knew about this State and City besides the annual balloon festival was our well known dangerous and unaccountable police and the historical seemingly accepted culture of corruption. My response was that I, like other activists want to change things here choosing to deny the likely fact that nothing will ever change.

This is because voters big money from NAIOP and puppet-master Governor Martinez's machine would pay to keep the corrupt public servants in office. This is why I try to show the US flag that I served under for 22 years (one in Vietnam)-upside down as a approved signal of a state and city in distress-something the Council banned.

KKOB 770's SCOTT STIEGLER TALKING ABOUT OUR CULTURE OF CORRUPTION

KKOB 770 talk show host Scott Stiegler, a welcomed replacement for his predecessor-the arrogant condescending Jim Villanucci took on this constantly avoided by the media elephant in the room on his show Tuesday afternoon. Listeners who called in were as disgusted with the corruption as I.

The focus of Stig's talk show's discussed the unchanging culture of corruption that permeates this entire State and City. While the disgraceful Secretary of State Duran dominated the discussion as well as the arrogant school board every solution including term limits was discussed. Some callers even blasted State legislators for wasting $250,000 of our tax dollars to decide whether they could impeach Duran. The arrogant School Board President Don Duran is another Duran who should be impeached.

We depend on our legislators both here in the City and in Santa Fe to be part of the solution but they too many have abdicated their responsibilities. My two NM legislators-particularly Bill Rehm a former cop has no interest in changing the status quo either nor demanding that all police officers wear body cameras. Bill's only interest is supporting an appeal to make the (rare) killing of a cop here a hate crime.

My recent e-mail cited a letter in the Journal by DA candidate-former good cop Ed Perea who believed just a larger voter turnout would change things. Really? Not as long as the Berry Journal continues to spew out its propaganda promoting those who embrace the culture of corruption. A good example is my Councilor Trudy Jones who is running unopposed-because big NAIOP and Chamber of Commerce money will again bury any opponent with propaganda ads promoting their corrupt politician.

BERRY-OUR CITY'S WORST MAYOR

Nobody seems willing to criticize the primary person responsible for the deplorable situation here-Mayor Berry. He remains in hiding only to come out of his hole/bunker to cut a ribbon or promote some new tax wasting corruption distraction project/initiative. The latest scam on us is his unjustified ART/BRT down Central.

During one break in Scott's show there was an ad by Berry promoting his latest ridiculous effort to eliminate panhandling that Joy Junction's Jeremy Reynolds ridiculed.

While State Auditor Mr. Balderas never quite got around to doing an investigation of Berry's corrupt APD Chief Schultz and his illegal dealings "greased" by Mayor Berry with employer TASER Inc while still a City employee, the question never asked of Hector is why not? It was left to his successor Tim Keller to do the job with a scathing report on TASERGATE. But nothing was done after the Keller report.

Even the later the original scathing report of it by the City's Internal auditor Debra Yoshimura was changed to ensure that Schultz, Mayor Berry who "greased" the $1.9 million no bid contract with TASER, our corrupt procurement office or anyone else here were ever blamed or punished deeming this corruption and merely just another lesson learned -an opportunity to just review/clean up the City's corrupt procurement system.

NOW NM AG BALDERAS AGAIN BETRAYING THE PEOPLE-SUPPORTING THE CULTURE OF CORRUPTION

Former cop Dr. James Ginger one of the cowardly powerless foxes from PMR Inc. being paid $4.5 million of our tax dollars to guard the henhouse was Judge Brack chosen powerless monitor of APD reform. Ginger arrogantly refused to come before the public but instead chose once to meet only with selected members of the City Council.

Not surprisingly Governor Martinez second discard/Berry new personal attorney Jessica Hernandez blessed Ginger's private meetings. Both Balderas and Hernandez would claim that KOB who made the inquiry would have to prove the councilors talked to each other about their private meetings. Do they two think we are stupid enough to believe that the Councilors did not talk to each other after these private meetings and would admit they actually did?

Councilor Lewis' comment to KOB was a failed attempt to excuse what he did. "He wrote, "My sincere hope is that the Department of Justice will stop treating the Monitor with kid gloves and instead insist that he make himself available."

Dan is the same councilor who along with his eight colleagues made the unqualified (like Eden) former Milwaukee cop Ed Harness our next Executive Director of our Police Oversight Agency to join three other ex cops there. These ex cops like Ginger and his crew will make police oversight more of a sham than it was before the Agency was created.

Also see today's Journal article on it <http://www.abqjournal.com/644888/news/ag-councilors-who-met-with-monitor-didnt-violate-meetings-act.htm>. Journal reporter Ryan Boetel, who joined the defense team of James Boyd's killer Dominique Perez never asked the three other Councilors-Garduno, Sanchez and Winter why they refused to meet privately with the coward Ginger, Cincinnati mercenary Scott Greenwood and the disgraceful Hernandez.

The three Councilors who refused to meet privately with this disgraceful trio knew it was a deliberate violation of the NM Open Meetings Act. Now State AG Balderas has now confirmed to all that politicians can continue to conduct rolling quorums-a blatant defiance of the Open Meetings Act to avoid public meetings. The excuse is that any citizen or media outlet would have to prove our elected officials talked to each other about their private meetings.

WE BROUGHT THE DOJ HERE ONLY TO BE BETRAYED BY THEM

It was we activists first led by MLC Jr. MC's Jewel Hall who assembled the damning documentation to bring the DOJ here and not the City Council who should have also demanded a place at the negotiating table but were too cowardly to do so. No one on the never involved current members on Police Oversight Board (POB) brought them in either.

The arrogant and cowardly former cop James Ginger has been told by the DOJ that he and his team of former cops works only for them and Judge Brack and can ignore the people.

Finally-see the latest damning of APD Eye on Albuquerque and also Joe Monahan's blogs. Keep looking for honest reporting in the ABQ Free Press as well.

More than disgusted,

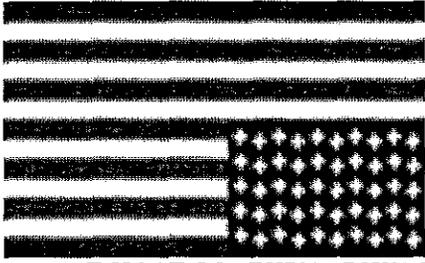

Silvio

THE MOST CORRUPT ADMINISTRATION AND DANGEROUS POLICE FORCE IN THIS

AG Balderas: ABQ City Council did not violate Open Meetings Act in private meetings with DOJ monitor

09/14/2015 10:16 PM | Created: 09/14/2015 7:39 PM By: Blair Miller, KOB.com

New Mexico Attorney General Hector Balderas's office has determined the Albuquerque City Council did not violate the state's Open Meetings Act (OMA) when meeting independently in May with Dr. James Ginger, the independent monitor overseeing the Albuquerque Police Department's U.S. Department of Justice reforms.

In May, KOB asked Balderas and his office to look into whether the OMA was violated when six of Albuquerque's nine city councilors met during private, closed-door meetings – one or two councilors at a time. Read KOB's May letter to Balderas here. KOB asked Balderas to determine whether the meetings constituted a "rolling quorum," in which smaller meetings are held to circumvent the OMA. City of Albuquerque Attorney Jessica Hernandez argued that as long as the individual council members did not discuss their meetings with each other, it was not a violation, and the AG's Office agreed – saying KOB would have to prove the councilors talked to each other about their private meetings.

"At no time during those meetings with Mr. Ginger was a quorum of City Councilors present. Therefore, the separate meetings between Mr. Ginger and the City Councilors were not subject to the OMA," Balderas wrote in his Sept. 11 reply to KOB.

The private meetings occurred May 11 after Dr. Ginger refused to answer questions regarding the APD-DOJ agreement in an open city council meeting. Ginger met with councilors Diane Gibson, Trudy Jones, Klarissa Pena, Isaac Benton, Dan Lewis and Don Harris the afternoon of May 11 between 3 and 4:30 p.m. Two of the councilors were present at the last meeting, while others spoke one-at-a-time with Dr. Ginger in the prior meetings.

Hernandez was also present at the meetings, as were US Attorney Damon Martinez and consultant Scott Greenwood. Councilor Lewis wrote at the time that the briefings were the closest interactions councilors had been allowed so far.

Read Lewis's full response to the allegations here.

He wrote, "My sincere hope is that the Department of Justice will stop treating the Monitor with kid gloves and instead insist that he make himself available."

ALL

The Journal's Ryan Boetel embarrassing fluff piece at the behest of Dominique Perez's attorney who charged this killer cop a ridiculous amount of money for the first court hearing was ignored while readers were told by Boetel to feel sorry for this "hero" cop's debts. Even another defense attorney wrote in last week saying the costly effort by his and Sandy's (greedy) attorneys made no economical sense.

Well Boetel's article accomplished what Perez's attorney wanted as there were letters to the editor today from those who bought this sob story. All felt sorry for Perez for having to spend this ridiculous amount of money on his attorney to try to stay out of jail where he belongs.

The wives of the bad killer-cops who we are told to also feel sorry for ought to try to being the wife of a vet in combat or even the wife of a forest firefighter who fear for their husband's life each day.

In today's Journal article by Boetel also at <http://www.abqjournal.com/636782/news/retention-bonuses-causing-rift-at-apd.html> includes an insulting attempt by Councilor Sanchez to try to justify these illegal bonuses never intended for Eden's command staff but for the rank and file.

"While it's disappointing,??? it's important for APD to keep it's" (corrupt) "high ranking officers from retiring"-something they must receive these raises if reform is ever to occur. Sanchez is not only a media hound who continues to embarrass himself with too many ("I'm disappointed) comments but is clearly the clown price of the Council-a lightweight if there ever was one. Berry loves lightweights.

This is the same guy who said an upside down flag I showed as an US Code approved sign of distress here was a mere illegal sign or poster thus had to be taken away from me.

I alerted Boetel and others that this illegal act appeared in last Thursday's ABQ Free Press. What took Boetel so long? So new APD Major Jessica Tyler wouldn't take the bonus and we are to think that's great? She allegedly left the BCSO in disgrace but Eden didn't care-nor was it ever reported. No investigation of her?

See the scathing comments below to the Boetel article today on the Journal's website. It includes one from an honest retired cop Dan Klein and another from citizen Ernest Sturdevant. Ernest also pointed out at the last Council meeting that these outreach collaborative meetings that we taxpayers paid $15,000 to UNM to conduct were mere scams-PR stunts by APD.

Ernest even mentioned that one arrogant Eden cop even spoke at a collaborative and said they don't need the DOJ-they can police themselves. Further it was the citizens' responsibility to accommodate APD-essentially for us to serve and protect them- including their killer cops-Sandy and Perez

Where is Council President Garduno, the only decent Councilor of the nine? In hiding?

Why wasn't the question asked, "is this legal?" It is not. The City Budget Ordinance clearly prohibits directors moving money in their budget for their own compensation. And Eric Johnson, to blame the police union is to ignore who has been mismanaging this place for the last 6 years. The debacle is caused by APD command, you can't blame the union.

Did everyone miss the fact that the debacle is not caused by APD command staff but by the police union? If the union had agreed to maintain the status quo while they negotiated changes, then those other officers would still be receiving the bonuses.

They are retaining the very people they should encourage to leave. As revealed in the Boyd shooting, and the "drug bust" shooting, the management, especially the "incident management" at APD is pathetic. They need to bring in some new management, from outside APD, to replace these cronies who created, and prop up, the current management dysfunction.

Of course the best move would be firing Gorden Eden, an obvious incompetent, who destroyed statewide police training as DPS Secretary, and then forced out Joe Wolf, the APD Academy Director, a very competent man. Eden, and cronies, far from being needed to "implement" the DOJ Agreement, are the very folks who will block the DOJ.

TO: All- (feel free to send to others)

I am sharing with all below my response to a (well respected in our APD reform movement) critic who chose to blame the messenger-who rightly says Donald Trump is being demonized because he is courageous enough to tell the truth about the corruption in our government that seems to be condoned.

The article speculating what expected Donald Trump to do as President was written by Wayne Allyn Root, the author of the book entitled, "The Murder of the Middle Class." I asked Kent Waltz to publish it in the Journal but he won't do it as he thus far is part of the problem we have here with his pro-Berry propaganda machine.

My response to the critic of Trump and the article talks about the overreaction of politicians nationwide beginning with our President Obama right down to our City Councilor Benton who now demands the eradication of the Confederate flag from any public place in as something that they now deem is politically-correct.

Had the shooter in Chattanooga shown the symbol of the local police force there instead of the Confederate flag would political-correctness demand all police departments be demonized? Of course not.

See attached Journal article today with the expected politically-correct response. What I find hypocritical about Councilor Benton's (and likely his silent/cowardly Council colleagues') opposition to the Confederate flag along with State Representative Javier Martinez, D-Albuquerque and State Senator Bill O'Neill, as being solely a symbol of oppression against our black citizens is that NOT ONCE has Benton demanded answers to the record unjustified shootings by APD of African Americans here.

Nor has Martinez and O'Neill demanded accountability of cops who murder black citizens in NM. Hypocrites all! These APD victims here included homeless fellow Vietnam vet Vincent Wood with PTSD by two of Schultz's and Eden's two trigger happy cops and APD shooters of many other black men with all of the shooters still on the force.

The Confederate flag stands for more than black oppression/slavery if those demanding its removal looked at history.

Let's see if our Mayor decides to be politically correct and whether we will also see an editorial in the Journal calling for the flag's removal downtown.

TO: XXXX

The point of the article is that his comments are resonating with a growing number of people who are fed up with the corruption/ pay to play by both Democrats and Republicans that is not only in D.C. but here as well. There are things in what Trump says/want to do I don't agree with but others I do-as do others. Listen to the message and ignore who says it. He is not worried about being politically-correct.

President Eisenhower-before he left office warned us about the military industrial complex who are in bed with each other promoting unjustified wars because it's profitable-keeps the war machine going..

We are now buying $200 million fighter planes vs. the $30-40 million ones (F-16s and others) years ago. Military spending to support often unjustified wars is ridiculous.

As I said, Trump will have to run as an independent as he won't get nominated by the Republican Party. Too many people hate him because he is rich and his image is not what they like-a choir boy, community organizer or other.

What I also find hypocritical is because one young insane/deranged gunman had a picture of himself shown by the media waving the Confederate flag before gunning down many in that black church, now it's PC to ban the Confederate flag nationwide. Benton was one PC politician who demanded yesterday the confederate flag downtown be removed.

Obama only seems to care when black citizens are murdered. Obama cared little about the white girl recently murdered by an illegal in San Francisco, a city that promoted itself as a sanctuary city.

How many cops have murdered tens of thousands (not hundreds) of black citizens and gotten away with it? Yet there is no movement from Washington DC to demand changes to the justice system-eliminate the broadly interpreted "Garrity vs. Supreme Court" protections of cops, their "privileged immunity" and FORCE all cops to use body cameras.

All cops here and elsewhere are treated as heroes for merely putting on the uniform and their badge deemed is a license to kill/dispose of-especially the poor, homeless, mentally ill and others they deem "human waste"-as APD cop Trey Economidy (still on the force) describes them.

Look at Levi Chavez Jr. who got off for likely murdering his wife after APD contaminated the crime scene and the jury ignored a key piece of evidence-the released bullet clip from Chavez's pistol. Look at Jeremy Dear who murdered Mary Hawkes and his accomplice APD spokesperson Tanner Tixier neither of whom made recordings.

Are there any doubts that both APD killer cops Sandy and Perez will also get off for murdering homeless James Boyd?

Cops want to be worshipped claiming all put their lives in danger every day and feel they have to be equipped as an occupying force in some war zone.. Those serving in the military in combat zones do deserve our respect but they don't get it! No parades when their bodies come home and are disrespected by the VA

As for illegal immigrants. My mom and dad came over on a boat from Italy legally in the 1920s, worked initially in sweatshops and learned the English language-not demanded that their language be taught in our schools-they expected no other special favors..

My thoughts only.

Again-I'm not on Trump's soapbox. I still am a registered Republican but always have voted for the best man/woman on the ticket because there are corrupt people in both parties. My Councilor Trudy Jones and R.J. Berry are the best examples of those corrupt here. There will be no real reform in APD until Berry leaves and those on the council show they are relevant in our government.

Thanks for writing

Good Lord, really? Trump thinks Mexico is 'sending people.' But not just people, Rapists! He said if he was President of Mexico, he would send criminals here. So not only is he an unrepentant, despicable racist, full of white-supremacist conspiracy theories, he has a bat shit insane conceptualization of foreign relations. Everyone who's 'going after' him is absolutely right to do so. If it's true that he might actually win, God help us all... especially those of us with darker complexions.

Kent

Just sent me from a friend back East. Do you have the guts to publish it? Will the ABQ Free Press or will anyone else?

I am no promoter of Donald Trump but what I do share with him and other champions for the middle and lower class is my disgust with the inbred corruption among our political leaders of both parties-not only in Washington DC that the article focuses on but also here in this State and City.

He will never be nominated by the Republican Party but hopefully will run as an independent. As the article says, he will be a target and better have good security because opponents to those in power want to destroy such people.

This is why as a vet I have tried to show the American flag I served under for 22 years upside down showing that we are a nation, a State and a City in distress. It was not surprising that those cowards on the City Council-refused to have it shown it on GOV-TV during my presentations and also banned my big flag from being shown in the Council chambers as if it were some illegal sign or banner.

I have always said-just follow the money and it explains everything.

A thorough house cleaning is needed nationwide-and particularly here in our city run by corrupt politicians and their minions. This nation, State and City is going to Hell in a hand basket and no one in power cares

READ THIS!!Wow! This is some article.

Subject: Does it make sense to you???

Mr. Root writes a provocative article that seems to make a lot of sense. I hope The Donald has great security, he is going to need it. Most if not all are in his cross hairs and will be exposed. This will explain why so many rocks are being thrown at Donald Trump.

By Wayne Allyn Root

Someone is getting very nervous. Obama. Valerie Jarrett. Eric Holder. Hillary Clinton. Jon Corzine...to name just a few. And I know why. I wrote a book entitled, "The Murder of the Middle Class" about the unholy conspiracy between big government, big business and big media. They all benefit by the billions from this partnership and it's in all of their interests to protect one another. It's one for all, and all for one.

It's a heck of a filthy relationship that makes everyone filthy rich. Everyone except the American people. We get ripped off. We're the patsies. But for once, the powerful socialist cabal and the corrupt crony capitalists are scared. I've never seen them this outraged...this vicious...this motivated...this coordinated.

NEVER in all my years in politics, have I seen anything like the way the mad dogs of hell have been unleashed on Donald Trump. When white extremist David Dukes ran for Governor of Louisiana even he wasn't treated with this kind of outrage, vitriol and disrespect. When a known fraud, scam artist and tax cheat like Al Sharpton ran for President, I never saw anything remotely close to this.

The over-the-top reaction to Trump by politicians of both parties, the media and the biggest corporations of America has been so swift and insanely angry that it suggests they are all threatened and frightened like never before. Why? Because David Duke was never going to win. Al Sharpton was never going to win. Ron Paul was never going to win. Ross Perot was never going to win as a third party candidate.

None of those candidates had the billion dollars it takes to win the presidency. But Donald Trump can self fund that amount tomorrow...and still have another billion left over to pour into the last two week stretch run before election day. No matter how much they say to the contrary, the media, business and political elite understand that Donald Trump is no joke and could actually win and upset their nice cozy apple cart.

It's no coincidence that everyone has gotten together to destroy Donald. No, this is a coordinated conspiracy led by President Barack Obama himself. Obama himself is making the phone calls and giving the orders -- the ultimate intimidator who plays by the rules of Chicago thug politics.

Why is this so important to Obama? Because most of the other politicians are part of the "old boys club." They talk big, but in the end they won't change a thing. Why? Because they are all beholden to big money donors. They are all owned by lobbyists, unions, lawyers, gigantic environmental organizations, multi-national corporations like Big Pharma or Big Oil. Or they are owned lock stock and barrel by foreigners -- like George Soros owns Obama, or foreign governments own Hillary with their Clinton Foundation donations.

These run-of-the-mill establishment politicians are all puppets owned by big money. But one man- and only one man- isn't beholden to anyone. One man doesn't need foreigners, or foreign governments, or George Soros, or the United Autoworkers, or the Teachers Union, or the SEIU, or the Bar Association to fund his campaign.

Billionaire tycoon and maverick Donald Trump doesn't need anyone's help. That means he doesn't care what the media says. He doesn't care what the corporate elites think. That makes him very dangerous to the entrenched interests. That makes Trump a huge threat. Trump can ruin everything for the bribed politicians and their spoiled slavemasters.

Don't you ever wonder why the GOP has never tried to impeach Obama? Don't you wonder why Boehner and McConnell talk a big game, but never actually try to stop Obama? Don't you wonder why Congress holds the purse strings, yet they've never tried to defund Obamacare or Obama's clearly illegal Executive Action on amnesty for illegal aliens? Bizarre, right? It defies logic, right?

Well first, I'd guess many key Republicans are being bribed. Secondly, I believe many key Republicans are being blackmailed. Whether they are having affairs...or secretly gay...or stealing taxpayer money...the NSA knows everything.

Ask former House Speaker Dennis Hastert about that. The government even knew he was withdrawing large sums of his own money, from his own bank account. Trust me -- the NSA, SEC, IRS and all the other 3-letter government agencies are watching every Republican political leader. They know everything. Thirdly, many Republicans are petrified of being called "racists." So they are scared to ever criticize Obama, or call out his crimes, let alone demand his impeachment.

Fourth, why rock the boat? After defeat or retirement, if you're a "good boy" you've got a $5 million dollar per year lobbying job waiting. The big money interests have the system gamed. Win or lose...they win.

But Donald Trump doesn't play by any of these rules. Trump breaks up this nice cozy relationship between big government, big media and big business. All the rules are out the window if Donald wins the presidency. The other politicians will protect Obama and his aides. But not Donald. Remember Trump is the guy who publicly questioned Obama's birth certificate. He questioned Obama's college records and how a mediocre student got into an Ivy League university.

Now he's doing something no Republican has the chutzpah to do -- question our relationship with Mexico ...question why the border is wide open...questioning why no wall has been built across the border...questioning if allowing millions of illegal aliens into America is in our best interests...questioning why so many illegal aliens commit violent crimes yet are not deported...questioning why our trade deals with Mexico, Russia and China are so bad.

Donald Trump has the audacity to ask out loud why American workers always get the short end of the stick? Good question. I'm certain Trump will question what happened to the almost billion dollars given in a rigged no-bid contract to college friends of Michele Obama at foreign companies to build the defective Obamacare web sites. By the way that tab is now up to $5 billion.

Trump will ask if Obamacare's architects can be charged with fraud for selling it by lying. He will ask if Obama himself committed fraud when he said, "If you like your healthcare plan, you can keep it."

Trump will investigate Obama's widespread IRS conspiracy, not to mention Obama's college records. Trump will prosecute Hillary Clinton and Obama for fraud committed to cover-up Benghazi before the election. How about the fraud committed by employees of the Labor Department when they made up dramatic job numbers in the last jobs report before the 2012 election.

Obama, the multi-national corporations and the media need to stop this. They recognize this could get out of control. If left unchecked telling the raw truth and asking questions everyone else is afraid to ask, Donald could wake a sleeping giant. Trump's election would be a nightmare. Obama has committed many crimes.

No one else but Donald would dare to prosecute. Donald Trump will not hesitate. Once Donald gets in and gets a look at "the cooked books" and Obama's records, the game is over. The gig is up. The goose is cooked. Eric Holder could wind up in prison. Valerie Jarrett could wind up in prison. Obama bundler Jon Corzine could wind up in prison for losing $1.5 billion of customer money.

Hillary Clinton could wind up in jail for deleting 32,000 emails ...or accepting bribes from foreign governments while Secretary of State ...or for "misplacing" $6 billion as head of State Department ...or for lying about Benghazi.

The entire upper level management of the IRS could wind up in prison. Obamacare will be defunded and dismantled. The Obama Crime Family will be prosecuted for crimes against the American people. And Obama himself could wind up ruined, his legacy in tatters.

Trump will investigate. Trump will prosecute. Trump will go after everyone involved...just for fun. That will all happen on Trump's first day in the White House. Who knows what Donald will do on day #2?

That's why the dogs of hell have been unleashed on Donald Trump. That's why we must all support Donald. This may be our only shot at saving America, uncovering the crimes committed against our nation and prosecuting all of those involved.

Michael Jefferson, center, calls for the removal of Confederate symbols displayed at the historic plaza in Old Town.

Two state lawmakers, a city councilor and others gathered on Sunday in the heart of Old Town – once the site of a Civil War skirmish – to call for the removal of a flag, plaques and other reminders of the Confederacy on display there.

The plaza is home to a rebel flag, plaques that mention the Confederate war dead and success fighting the Union Army, and replicas of Confederate canons.

“New Mexico has so many amazing, wonderful things to honor in terms of our history,” state Sen. Bill O’Neill, D-Albuquerque, said in a news conference. “Why the city has chosen to honor the Confederate Army is beyond me.”

He was part of a group that called on Mayor Richard Berry to order removal of tributes to the Confederacy. A spokeswoman for the mayor didn’t immediately respond to requests for comment.

Justus Soul-Bowe, 6, sits on a replica of a Confederate cannon as his father, Rodney Bowe of Albuquerque, joins a news conference calling for removal of Confederate symbols in Old Town.

But the city’s Cultural Services Department released a written statement that said the Confederate reminders are meant as a historical exhibit, not an expression of support.

The Confederate flag is one of five flags on the plaza – intended to represent Albuquerque’s “five governing entities” since the city’s founding in 1706, according to the city statement.

Texas Confederates invaded, then occupied Old Town for about six weeks in 1862, according to the Cultural Services Department.

The other flags on the plaza represent Spain, Mexico, the United States of America and the state of New Mexico.

“The Confederate flag is posted in the Plaza within the context of the other four flags, which, when exhibited together as a group, symbolize the history of a sequence of governments that is unique to our region of the country,” the city statement said.

The debate over the Confederate flag comes just two weeks after it was pulled down from the Statehouse in South Carolina. Its removal followed the killings of nine black church members during a Bible study in Charleston.

The white gunman has posed with Confederate flags.

Michael Jefferson, elder and founder of Procession Ministry, told reporters Sunday that Confederate soldiers, however valiant, died for the wrong cause, and their flag should come down.

“The Confederacy never ever has had a legitimate claim over the land that is now called New Mexico,” Jefferson said. “... That flag does not belong there. That flag was left there to mark the graves of soldiers who died to retain the right to own slaves.”

City Councilor Isaac Benton called the symbols a “thinly veiled tribute” in support of the Confederacy.

“I think that the short three weeks that the Confederacy was here is overrepresented on this plaza,” he said.

Photo omitted

Michael Jefferson, elder and founder of Procession Ministry, left, speaks with City Councilor Isaac Benton before a news conference calling for removal of Confederate reminders in the Old Town plaza.

Acknowledging the Confederacy’s military presence in New Mexico, Benton said, “is appropriate only in the context of the larger breadth of the city’s history.”

Benton said the city should immediately remove two plaques on the Old Town gazebo and revise the wording of a plaque by the replica cannons.

One plaque on the Old Town gazebo – put there by the New Mexico Sons of Confederate Veterans in 1982 – explained the “Skirmish of Albuquerque” this way: “Though outnumbered six to one, a small detachment of Confederates under Captain William P. Hardeman repulsed the attack and maintained possession of the town.”

Another plaque simply notes that Confederate soldiers “were buried here” when the Confederate flag “was flying over old Albuquerque in April 1862.”

The city Cultural Services Department said there’s no evidence that Confederate dead were ever buried in the plaza and that, furthermore, there were no deaths in the “Skirmish of Albuquerque.”

State Rep. Javier Martínez, D-Albuquerque, said the Confederate reminders are “offensive and wrong.”

“It’s really sad that our city would choose to honor something that has been so discredited,” he said.

My comments are in red to the highlighted comments made in the Journal report below. The pictures from the article have been omitted. One would show that scumbag former cop Keith Sandy changed his appearance to now try to look like a choir boy.

Judge Candelaria is as much on trial as are the two killers. Let's see if he perpetuates the status quo by again never holding killer police officers here accountable.

Prosecutor: Self-defense won't fly in Boyd shooting

By Ryan Boetel / Journal Staff Writer PUBLISHED: Monday, August 3, 2015 at 11:45 pm

The special prosecutor in the case against two Albuquerque police officers said police can't claim they shot James Boyd in self-defense because the officers created the danger that led to the shooting. But attorneys for the two officers said a police K-9 officer was in striking distance of an armed Boyd when they opened fire, making it a justified homicide. Nearly a year and a half after Boyd, 38, was shot and killed in the Sandia foothills in March 2014, Why did it take this long? prosecutors began to lay out their evidence against former Detective Keith Sandy and officer Dominique Perez in court. The officers are facing second-degree murder and lesser offenses. Should be first-degree murder charges. A preliminary hearing is taking place this week in front of Pro Tem Judge Neil Candelaria, who will decide whether prosecutors have established probable cause to take the case to trial. Randi McGinn, a special prosecutor appointed for the case, in her opening statement said 19 police officers approached Boyd in waves, wearing bulletproof vests and armed with nine rifles, more than 700 rounds of ammunition and numerous less lethal devices, like Tasers, police K-9s and bean-bag shotguns. She questioned why such a response was needed for a man who was camping illegally. "It is the kind of thing that most of the time you don't get a ticket for," she said. Perez and Sandy's attorneys said the case isn't about camping. The officers were trying to arrest Boyd on suspicion of felony assault on a police officer, which happened moments into Boyd's encounter with police that day. Really? Police Chief Gorden Eden testified for more than two hours. He said the actions of the officers can vary depending on the circumstances, but that "the law should always prevail." What does that mean

Chief? Candelaria didn't allow him to answer specific questions about the police report on the Boyd shooting after Eden said he hadn't read it. Eden hadn't read it? Perez's helmet video of Boyd being fatally shot, which sparked protests when it appeared on local and national news, was played several times in regular and slow motion by both sides of the case Monday. But much attention in the first day of proceedings was given to the initial seconds of Boyd's hours-long standoff with police. As officers John McDaniel and Patrick Hernandez approached Boyd on a report that he had been camping illegally just 300 yards west of a national forest boundary, where camping was legal, McDaniel said he asked Boyd to step out from under a tarp. As Boyd was getting out of the campsite, McDaniel could only see one of his hands, so the officers drew their firearms. When McDaniel went to pat down Boyd for weapons seconds later, Boyd said, "Please, don't touch me," spun around and pulled two pocket knives from his pants and held them at his side, changing how police would handle the situation. "He looked angry," I would be too if confronted with the dog. McDaniel said on the witness stand. McGinn said Boyd was distraught because the officers drew firearms on him and that him holding out knives was a show of force by a mentally ill man who was scared of the police. She showed that, throughout the standoff, Boyd frequently made reference to police drawing their weapons first and referred to it as an assault. Luis Robles, Perez's attorney, said during questioning that McDaniel had a duty to check and make sure Boyd wasn't armed as he and another officer approached. "How simple it could have been if he put down the knives and was taken into custody," Robles said. Again, he was defending himself against the vicious K-9 dog. I would too if confronted with one. By pulling those knives, Sam Bregman, Sandy's attorney, said Boyd changed the situation from an illegal camping case to a felony assault on a police officer investigation. For the next two hours, several uniformed police officers and a state police sergeant surrounded Boyd and tried to negotiate a surrender. One of those officers, Brock Knipprath, said two other crisis intervention officers had a history of working with Boyd, but they weren't called to the scene. Why not? Also, why wasn't Eden there? Boyd "complained about police pointing guns at him," he said. After the officers had little success with Boyd, they called for an officer to respond with a Taser shotgun. Sandy took the call. "And everything changed," McGinn said. Prosecutors played a recording of Sandy arriving on scene and talking to state police Sgt. Chris Ware. The recording was made by Ware's belt recorder. Sandy called Boyd a "(expletive) lunatic" and said he was going to shoot him with a Taser shotgun. Premeditation. She said Sandy and other officers assembled themselves into a tactical squad and made plans to arrest Boyd before nightfall. Or kill him so they could go home to their families. Perez and Sandy were pointing rifles at Boyd when a group of officers moved to make the arrest. The recording of the shooting shows Boyd gather some of his possessions and start to walk down the slope. Sandy threatening officers by walking away? Really? Then Sandy threw a stun grenade, another officer fired a Taser from the less lethal shotgun at Boyd and K-9 officer Scott Weimerskirch unleashed a police dog. The dog was hit by the Taser, making the dog ineffective. But the dog started chewing on Boyd's body after he was down dead. Boyd then pulled two knives as Weimerskirch was moving toward the dog, and Sandy shot Boyd. After Sandy fired three shots, Perez fired, shooting Boyd in the back and causing his death. Note-in the BACK McGinn asked Chief Eden why no other officer on the arrest team other than Perez made a recording of the shooting, hinting at a possibility officers had destroyed additional footage. Eden said the internal affairs investigation into the case is still ongoing. Still ongoing now 16 months later? ? Really Chief See cover up passed to Live Leak by an honest anonymous APD cop. "If there was proof an officer erased a tape, it would be concerning to me," Eden said. Just concerning? Like Jeremy Dear and buddy Tanner Tixier not making recordings of the killing of Mary Hawkes and other killer APD officers also not making them. Eden is an incompetent-sick joke!

PROOF - APD Covered Up Production of Videos of Shooting of James Boyd

On March 17th 2014 Albuquerque Police (APD) shot and killed a homeless and mentally ill man - whose only crime was a violation of a municipal ordinance against camping in an open space area in the Sandia foothills at the eastern edge of the city.

On March 17th, the day after the fatal shooting, KRQE made a public records request for the videos of that incident. On April 1st, APD unlawfully denied that request.

BUT ... Here is the REST of that Story.

To this day - not only have the Keith Sandy videos mysteriously disappeared - but when the APD finally produced videos claiming to be ALL the videos of the incident - many of the videos were missing INCLUDING almost all that actually show the SHOOTING - most NOTICEABLY - the very videos (from the other shooter - Dominique Perez) from which the now-famous shooting clip was taken and released by APD that week.

On April 2nd, one day after KRQE's request was unlawfully denied, an investigator with the APD interviewed Kevin Fuller, APD Video Unit Supervisor. According to the interview - included in this video - Fuller was instructed on FRIDAY March 21st - to obtain the videos and place them in a Drop Box account.

On Thursday, March 27th - he was instructed to coordinate with several other persons - and to look at all the videos, frame by frame, and identify those parts that the Chief might have an "interest" in BEFORE they were released to the media.

Although those videos have since been released (those that have) WITHOUT being identified by officer or time - Fuller and his team broke down each video by officer and began this work. He was, at this time, told to "take out" all videos in which the audio or video contained the actual shooting.

On Friday March 28th Fuller was instructed to place the videos on another hard drive and provide them to the FBI. BUT ... on Friday evening - Commander Montano on behalf of the Chief contacted Fuller and stated he had "concerns" allegedly about the Chain of Custody. He ordered Fuller to "cease and desist." He was later then told to give Montano the hard drive and to delete the videos from the drop box account.

It is unlawful for the APD to withhold, delay, or deny public records that have no exemption provided by law. The APD clearly DELAYED production in order to find those videos it might find embarrassing - or creating liability - with regard to the act of the shooting of Boyd. It then DENIED unlawfully the production of those videos.

Since then - it has produced videos it has CLAIMED were the complete set. BUT there are several known videos missing - not least being all the videos taken by the second shooter, Dominique Perez, from whose videos the famous clip released by APD initially came. Although several other officers' videos are MISSING from the set produced as well.

It is clear that the APD has and continues to knowingly and willfully withhold those videos. This interview contains proof, at minimum, that the APD had delayed production of the videos, contrary to the Public Records law, in order to try and identify those videos it considered problematic - this specifically was a reference to anything officers may have said to each other during the incident AND anything that revealed either audio or video of the actual shooting of Boyd.

IT'S BAD

Reference my earlier e-mails particularly those sent on Independence Day and yesterday citing Joe Monahan's and the Eye on Albuquerque's assessment of how bad it has become under this Mayor. The Journal still refuses to hold him and our shadow Mayor Rob Perry accountable for any of it.

In addition to the criminal element in this City that includes many cops still in APD and some throughout the state that is reinforcing our bad image nationwide and adversely affecting our economy, we see numerous examples of New Mexico's well known culture of corruption every day This includes rigged contracts, lies told us and other examples of disrespect to taxpayers to include fiscal irresponsibility.

We really have no internal City controls as the auditor and IG is forced to do the bidding of the mayor to keep their jobs. We recently saw the Auditor's "amended" investigative report of Schultz's rip off of taxpayers with employer TASER get swept under the rug.

THE NEVER JUST A GROCERY STORE IN THIS MAYOR'S "CHERISHED" DOWNTOWN

We read today on the front page of the Journal-"Taking Shape" yet another example about how we were lied to when insider Paul Silverman of Geltmore was subsidized by taxpayers-politely called a "public-private partnership" to build never just a grocery store but instead a profitable to Geltmore four story mixed use development downtown that our Mayor calls "an essential amenity."

This contract was seemingly rigged for Silverman who Planning Department Director Suzanne Lubar had previously worked for. Did our city auditor ever look into how the allegedly competitive procurement was run as I asked? NO.

Note just who are the members of the Albuquerque Development Commission who made the award to Silverman. They are Sherman McCorkle, John Mechenbier, Paul Silverman, James Strozier and Grayson Lee Trussell. Strozier is the promoter of yet another expected taxpayer rip-off-Santolina that was rammed down our throats by three irresponsible County Commissioners.

SANTOLINA-BASED ON YET MORE LIES

Their assurances that no taxpayer assistance-TIDD or other will soon be forgotten while also ignoring the fact that Barclay's Bank who is funding this unjustified development is among the conglomerates buying up land worldwide for its water rights that they believe will be the future oil. I'm glad that some opponents are suing two County Commissioners who jammed that down our throats.

They should be suing Councilor Trudy Jones as well. Described by some as the "Madam" for the "Johns" in NAIOP willing to pay to play, she is repeatedly cited for her conflicts of interests that her Council colleagues choose to ignore.

See today's letter to the editor about Santolina on page A7 of the Journal by Sue Mullane "Water claims raise the level of skepticism."

ANOTHER TAXPAYER RIP-OFF BASED ON LIES-ABQ RAPID TRANSIT DOWN CENTRAL

It seems also that some prominent business leaders are also getting fed up with the lies told them by this Mayor and his fiscally irresponsible team. The June 25 Letter article below opposing yet another albatross being jammed taxpayers' throats was written by respected developer Doug Peterson. Has NAIOP finally realized that this Mayor is killing businesses?

Bus rapid transit idea will hurt, not help, businesses

By Douglas Peterson, Principal / Peterson Properties PUBLISHED: Thursday, June 25, 2015 at 12:02 am

Recent pieces in the Albuquerque Journal praise the idea of bus rapid transit along Central Avenue, deemed by the city to be "Albuquerque Rapid Transit" or "ART." However, coverage to date has barely touched upon the devastating impact that ART will have on Central's businesses. My family owns 15 properties on Central, stretching from 102nd Street on the west to San Pedro on the east. Also, we are the largest property owner in Downtown Albuquerque; nobody believes more in the vision of an urbanized Albuquerque than we do. So, if ART is such a sure-fire benefit to Central and to Downtown, why do we oppose it?

Access. The current design of ART, with a raised median in the middle of the street, eliminates the ability of cars to turn left into or out of over 140 properties along Central from the Rio Grande east to Louisiana Boulevard (Downtown core excepted). In several instances, this raised median will even prevent a left turn onto or out of a side street perpendicular to Central. This design drastically reduces the number of customers visiting the affected properties as customers will likely avoid driving on Central altogether or, if they do drive on Central, they will simply choose a different business to satisfy their need as opposed to taking a ridiculously circuitous route. Additionally, the city's own suggested amelioration of the reduced access is, unbelievably, to encourage drivers to make U-turns at busy intersections. At a meeting on May 13, a city deputy director provided to me a city-created diagram stating that, in lieu of being able to make a left-turn into my family's property at the northwest corner of Central and Rio Grande, a customer heading eastbound on Central would be encouraged to make a U-turn at Rio Grande to then be going west on Central so as to make a right turn into the property. Such a suggested turn movement is even more dangerous than it is impractical.

Credibility-The city has sparse credibility when it comes to telling us that a major initiative will increase private development. I am the former chairperson of the Albuquerque Environmental Planning Commission, on which I served for six years. In that capacity, as well as my career as a developer, I've read every sector plan, corridor plan and overlay zone that the city's created. All but a handful have failed to benefit the areas they cover, and nearly every one stated that it would spur development. To verify, spend some time on the city's website reading such duds as the East Gateway Sector Development Plan, the North Fourth Street Rank III Corridor Plan, or the South Yale Sector Development Plan and reflect upon the empty promises in their opening pages. The city's now paying a consultant to un-write these asinine planning documents that pragmatic people knew, and stated at the time of the plans' creation, would not work. In light of that track record, why would anyone accept the city's insistence that ART will lead to increased private development? I'm a second-generation developer with property in this corridor and a deep love for Albuquerque and I'm clearly stating here, as I have to city officials in person, that ART will not cause me to build multistory buildings. The only thing that'll cause me to build multi-story buildings will be demand from users who can afford to, and want to, pay prices that justify me building multistory buildings. ART won't make those users materialize out of a dwindling Albuquerque population. Ask a millennial who'd be interested in coming to or staying in Albuquerque what is truly stopping her or him from doing so. They'll cite job opportunities, high per-capita crime and a sloppy-looking built environment. They're not passing us over because they think it takes too long to get east and west on public transportation along Central.

Our readers have repeatedly tied ABQ's persistent crime problem to the problem of attracting business here and relieving us of this long-running stagnation. That argument has largely been ignored by the business community and current political leadership. Both insist that tax incentives and regulatory relief are the answer. But there could be a change in the narrative. Attorney General Hector Balderas dips his toe in the water with this recent statement: *New Mexico is the second most dangerous state in the country, we can't grow jobs or improve education until our children are safe in their schools, our families are safe in their communities, and our officers aren't subjected to dangerous repeat offenders out on the streets. Will we see more of the political class connecting the state's social conditions crisis to its tepid economic outlook? #### EDEN'S LEGACY WHILE IN SANTA FE

See today's Journal. Police fired on a mother with 5 children in the car near Taos in a Oct 2013. Courts ordered her to stay in NM while the legal process unfolded. One of the cops was fired then was hired as deputy sheriff for Taos County.

An update on her case is at: <http://www.abajournal.com/608671/news/plea-deal-reached-in-taos-minivan-shooting-case.html>. Much like bad teachers, trigger-happy cops like State cop Elias Montoya will always find a new home in another police department.

Ignored is the fact that in January 2014 after an illegal stop, Eden's then State cop Oliver Wilson while running alongside the fleeing van driven by Jeanette Anaya emptied his pistol-putting 16 rounds into the van killing her and almost killing her passenger. Wilson is still on the State Police force thanks to Eden and a scared judicial system. Another lawsuit

Can it get any worse? Yes until our fiscally irresponsible Berry and his enablers on the Council leave office as well as those like them on the County Commission and in our State government

WHAT ANY GOOD INCOMING LEADER SHOULD DO

As I often told you, one of the first things a new competent leader of any large organization does is to do an independent audit of the his/her organization-something you ignored.

That's what your predecessor Luis Valentino wanted it but suspended Don Moya who is still getting paid for doing nothing wanted no part of it. Apparently neither do you-Ms. Reedy. Are there too many skeletons in your APS closet?

Apparently we are to believe that your predecessor Teflon Brad Winter who was also there during the Valentino transition period was in a cave-knew nothing about the rampant problems in APS while there.

Instead of doing a comprehensive independent audit of the many obvious problems in APS that includes your ongoing IPRA stonewalling office run by Rigo Chavez, your HR office, your procurement office (including Kizito Wijenje) that has a history of wasting our tax dollars and others, you are only focusing on doing a CYA audit by hiring a forensic accounting firm owned by one of the City's/APS's insiders Janet McHard.

Janet's partner is none other than former San Diego cop Beth Mohr a member of the new Police Oversight Board who was instrumental in getting another former retired (Milwaukee) cop Ed Harness chosen to be the Police Oversight Agency's Executive Director.

Ms. Mohr was also interim IRO for a while and clearly a favorite of those in Eden's and the Mayor's office and also the favorite of some APD bad leadership enablers on the Council.

LIKE YOU, CHIEF EDEN ALSO AFRAID OF THE TRUTH ABOUT HIS ORGANIZATION

This independent audit of the entire organization is something the clearly unqualified APD Chief Eden also refused to do. The DOJ even had to direct him to do a manpower study that has still not been done.

Apparently Eden didn't have the competence within APD to do this nor would he trust/listen to and possibly hire good retired APD officers like Klein, Grover, Perea, Costales, Heh and others who all knew where the skeletons were and how many cops were really needed.

Eden went instead to a private contractor to do it and in the meantime continued to ask for more officers-now 1500 without really knowing how many he really needs and where to put them.

Also seemingly on the back burner is the study given to UNM to look at body recorder usage as if UNM even had the experience to do this. That study is still not done by UNM-to the surprise of absolutely no one!

Will that UNM study also teach Eden's bad officers how to turn their recorders on? Doubtful.

Like your APS Ms. Reedy, APD also believes that our State law the NM IPRA is something to be ignored should any incriminating public information ever be asked for. It's always a private matter-isn't it-even though paid for with our tax dollars?

We still don't know all of the names of those besides (all but one of) the School Board Members who went on that boondoggle School trip to California or whether you intend to still keep Valentino's appointees in their current positions including Board President Don Duran's daughter-a clear example of nepotism.

You still have Rigo Chavez stonewalling IPRA requests for knowingly public information in order to keep the corruption in your APS ivory towers from ever leaking out. Why are you/is APS mum on the forensic auditor's work as Kim reported?

See the excellent article today by Kim Burgess below. KUDOS TO KIM FOR IT.

"APS mum on forensic auditor's work

By Kim Burgess / Journal Staff Writer Wednesday, October 21st, 2015 at 12:05am

Albuquerque Public Schools has hired a forensic accounting firm but won't discuss the auditor's assignment or say whether it is related to the lawsuit filed against APS by Chief Finance Officer Don Moya, who has been placed on leave, or the departure of Superintendent Luis Valentino. The district also has hired an outside attorney to defend against the lawsuit Moya filed after Valentino placed him on paid administrative leave Aug. 7. Earlier that day, Valentino had attempted to text New Mexico Secretary of Education Hanna Skandera that he was going to "go after" Moya, but accidentally sent the message to Moya himself.

Valentino and Moya had clashed over the proposed audits of several systems, including payroll and finance. District spokesman Rigo Chavez confirmed APS retained McHard Accounting Consulting LLC on Aug. 19 for forensic accounting, which involves examination of accounts for possible fraud, embezzlement or other wrongdoing.

He wouldn't say whether McHard's work is related to the audits Valentino pushed for before he was forced to resign on Aug. 31. Moya claims in his lawsuit that he was fired over the audits, specifically for protesting that Valentino's hand-picked deputy had wanted to contract with a firm that had employed a disgraced former Denver Public Schools administrator.

The lawsuit is still pending, and Moya is still on paid leave. He has collected around $30,000 since his departure. Chavez did say that APS' internal audit office chose to work with McHard, and Valentino was not the decision-maker in their hiring. "There are some times when internal audit feels they should not be the ones looking at accounting," Chavez said. "Instead, they will bring in an outside accountant to look at documents."

The spokesman said he did not know how much APS plans to spend on the work, noting that district rules only require a contract for payments of $60,000 or more. McHard has not yet billed APS, and the only document in the district's system related to their hiring is a "new vendor" form that lists their services as "forensic accounting, auditing, investigations," along with basic contact information.

It did not give an hourly rate, and Chavez said there was no scope of work letter. The form names Janet McHard, founding partner of the firm, as the vendor contact and was signed by the director of APS' internal audit office, Margaret Koshmider. McHard did not return calls seeking comment.

Chavez said the internal audit office's activities are private, so their staff are not available for interviews. According to APS' website, internal audit "is an independent appraisal office that reviews financial conditions, legal and procedural compliance, internal controls, and conducts investigations and facilitates the whistleblower hotline."

The hotline allows APS employees to anonymously "report fraud, waste and abuse of resources" or any other "suspected unethical activity personally observed by the individual." It is hosted by third-party vendor Ethical Advocate.

Moya lawsuit

APS also has retained Albuquerque attorney Beth German to defend the district in the whistleblower lawsuit Moya filed Aug. 24 contending that he was targeted for criticizing the audits and not supporting Gov. Susana Martinez's educational policies.

Chavez explained that APS felt Moya had worked too closely with its regular legal firm, Modrall Sperleng, and wanted to bring in outside counsel. German has billed APS around $17,500 or $160 per hour for work in September. The district has not set a budget for German's legal counsel and will continue to pay her as the case progresses, Chavez said.

Emails leaked to the media in mid-August show Moya battling with then-deputy superintendent Jason Martinez over a request for proposals for the internal audits. Moya called the audits a waste of "time, effort and tax payer dollars" and attempted to cancel the RFP, though Martinez argued that he did not have the authority to do so.

Moya countered that the RFP was under his purview and wrote that the "entire process is suspect" because Martinez had wanted to work with a tech company that had employed a disgraced Denver Public Schools administrator who had a friendly relationship with Martinez. Valentino, meanwhile, released emails shortly after showing that the tech company was no longer in contention for the RFP.

Martinez resigned from APS Aug. 18 shortly before it came to light that he is facing assault and child sex assault charges in Denver. See related story page, Martinez took the stand in his criminal case.

Valentino agreed to resign in return for an $80,000 payment, salary paid through Oct. 1 and a letter of recommendation from the APS Board of Education. The $80,000, however, has been withheld pending approval by the New Mexico Public Education Department as required by law. Skandera has said only that it is under review."

Again, Ms. Reedy, are you a real leader qualified for the job or just a caretaker just treading water and maintaining APS's embarrassing status quo?

Subject: SHOW SOME LEADERSHIP-NO MORE TREADING WATER THERE

Rachel

I guess I wasn't surprised that you never responded to my many e-mails-including addressing the issues I had asked first your predecessor and now you to address. Demonstrates the elitism there in APS's ivory towers.

People in this city are looking for fiscal responsibility and real leadership something APS has lacked for a very long time. Many of us particularly the teachers wants you be more than just a caretaker-someone that merely perpetuates the status quo but instead a real leader who will change our school system that is one of the worst in the country. The jury is still out whether you are that pro-active leader or just another Board President-Don Duran puppet..

See the October 9 editorial and two most recent October 15 ones on Jim Chacho and audit by State Auditor Tim Keller below. They are damning! Yet-nothing but silence from you. We still don't know whether Don Moya is still drawing a paycheck and if so, why? He opposed Valentino's independent audit and we all now know why. A lot of skeletons in APS's closet.

Tami Coleman seems to be no better. How about the others hired by Valentino? Are they still on the APS payroll and in their same jobs? Just who went to the recent education conference in California on our tax dollars? We still don't know.

Please show some leadership. We want you to succeed. You can begin by start cleaning house there beginning with your IPRA doubletalk/stonewaller Rigo Chavez and the other dead wood there.

Regards,

Silvio

P.S.

It's interesting that now retired Brad Winter has never been mentioned as responsible for any of these problems. Can we forget APS giving Brad's buddy Tom Kauber a free pass for what he did to Sandia HS coach Alvin Broussard. What did UNM have to pay Kathy Korte for APS's and the Governor's suggested retaliation against her?

Editorial: Another APS lesson in how money grows on trees

By Albuquerque Journal Editorial Board Friday, October 9th, 2015 at 12:02am

<http://www.abqjournal.com/657048/opinion/another-aps-lesson-in-how-money-grows-on-trees.html>

Today, class, the administration of Albuquerque Public Schools is providing district taxpayers yet another lesson in agronomy. Specifically, it's that money grows on trees. At least your money does. Let's start with offering to give now-former Superintendent Luis Valentino a month's salary, a lump sum of $80,000 and a three-paragraph, highly complementary letter of reference to get lost and not let the door hit him on the way out.

And there's $26,000 and running to keep chief financial officer Don Moya languishing on paid administrative leave with no end in sight. Plus $170,000 so Valentino's hand-picked chief of staff, Toni Cordova, can spend the next year chiefing/staffing even though the guy who hired her is no longer with the district. Former chief academic officer Shelly Green keeps her $142,000 salary to become student success administrator, though her predecessor made just $57,000 when he retired. Katarina Sandoval gets a $9,000 raise, to $137,000, to switch from associate superintendent of middle schools to chief academic officer.

Gabriella Blakey (the daughter of the APS Board of Education president) receives a $126,000 salary to take over as associate superintendent of middle schools in a move that one could argue violates the district's nepotism policy. And Joseph Escobedo, who was chief of staff for then-superintendent Winston Brooks, keeps his $107,000 salary as he moves from his latest position as director of the Office of Equity and Community Engagement to the APS communications department.

And let's not forget handing Brooks $350,000 in a secret deal to go away. It's also worth pointing out that this board approved an additional $400,000 or so in new spending to allow Valentino to hire Cordova and a new deputy superintendent, the now-departed criminal justice fugitive Jason Martinez. It also reinstated pay for employees while they are serving in the state Legislature, seizing an opportunity to increase its influence in Santa Fe at taxpayer expense.

Meanwhile, it appears Moya was placed on leave in part because he opposed a proposed financial audit; in fact, he called it a waste of taxpayer money. It would be interesting to see what he calls paying someone five figures to do absolutely nothing. Or six figures to do a job that essentially no longer exists. Or someone making more than twice what their predecessor made to do the same job.

In fact, it would be interesting to hear what anyone in a leadership position has to say about the district's largesse; acting Superintendent Raquel Reedy has no public comment on the something-for-nothing Moya controversy, board president Don Duran (who as an elected official supposedly represents the public) no longer answers requests for comment but occasionally reads a prepared statement.

Most questions are referred to APS spokesman Rigo Chavez, who has mastered the art of answering questions while saying absolutely nothing – like when he said he was not aware of any negative impact on the district if the state's decision on whether or not to approve Valentino's buyout takes some time.

Whether or not Secretary of Education Hanna Skandera approves the Valentino deal, shouldn't the folks footing all these bills, i.e., APS taxpayers, be allowed to know just what they are paying for and why? Right now that looks like a lot of nothing, or a lot of nothing more.

Come February, APS will ask those same taxpayers to approve a multimillion-dollar capital improvement bond issue for important things like roofs and air conditioners and toilets and pavement. To deserve that vote of fiscal confidence, district leaders need to first be accountable for their personnel expenses.

Ex-Hoover principal named in whistleblower lawsuit By Rick Nathanson / Journal Staff Writer
Thursday, October 15th, 2015 at 12:05am

An assistant principal at Manzano High School, Jim Chacho, has been named as a defendant in a whistleblower lawsuit stemming from his time as principal at Hoover Middle School. Chacho is accused in the lawsuit filed Oct. 2 by Hoover school counselor Louise Adelstone with retaliating against her after she told Albuquerque Public Schools officials that some of his behaviors harmed "the interests of the students and staff" of the school.

In the lawsuit, Adelstone claims that Chacho, who became principal at Hoover during the 2013-2014 school year, was frequently absent from work, often showed up demonstrating "visible signs of intoxication," and that he was verbally abusive to members of the school's staff and administration. The APS board is also named as a defendant in the lawsuit. "We don't comment on pending litigation," said APS spokeswoman Monica Armenta.

Because Adelstone voiced her concerns to APS officials as well as the Albuquerque Teachers Federation, the ATF conducted an APS-approved "climate survey" of staff at Hoover regarding Chacho in February 2015. The survey results were "largely very negative regarding his performance and professionalism," the lawsuit says. The following month, Adelstone contacted officials at APS, pointing out their failure "to take appropriate actions" against Chacho with respect to the survey results, and regarding her allegations of retaliation.

Among the retaliatory actions, she says, Chacho ordered her to vacate one of two offices that she needed for counseling students; sought to have her transferred to another school, despite her having only "exemplary performance evaluations"; and that he systematically began "isolating" Adelstone from other staff and students while "eliminating her job duties" and making it impossible for her to be a counselor.

The complaint for violations of the Whistleblower Protection Act charge Chacho and APS with infliction of emotional distress and interference with contractual relations, and asks for damages to be determined, the defendants to restore Adelstone's status as a valued counselor, costs associated with hiring an attorney and filing the lawsuit, and other relief as seen appropriate by the court.

In an unrelated incident, Chacho, 42, was found in a car on the 9200 block of Montgomery NE on Aug. 20, with multiple gunshot wounds to his neck and chest. He was taken to the hospital in critical condition. Police said the shooter, Craig Cuthbert, believed Chacho was having an affair with his wife. Cuthbert subsequently fled to the Faith Lutheran Church, at 10000 Spain NE, where he shot and killed himself on steps outside the building.

Cuthbert was not an APS employee but was heavily involved in children's sports. His wife was an occupational therapist at Eldorado High School, according to APS. Chacho is still listed on the Manzano High School website as an assistant principal, though he remains "on leave" according to APS spokeswoman Armenta.

Employee at APS was overpaid by $60,000 By Kim Burgess / Journal Staff Writer Thursday, October 15th, 2015 at 12:05am

Albuquerque Public Schools mistakenly ???? overpaid an employee for five years – shelling out a total of $60,140 more than it should have or about $12,000 extra per year, according to information brought to light by a recently released summary of state audits. In an interview with the Journal, Sunlei Stewart, chief of staff for the Office of the State Auditor, said, "An overpayment of $60,000 is a very significant issue and an unusual occurrence."

Problems with APS' payroll system previously were documented in its 2012 state audit, which said the district had a "significant deficiency" and noted a "lack of effective internal controls" on some aspects of payroll. Neither the state nor district was aware of the overpayments to the employee at that time; the district discovered the error in 2014.

APS' most recent comprehensive annual financial report shows the employee was overpaid from fiscal year 2009 until fiscal year 2014. The report says that "the overpayment was a result of a record analyst entering the incorrect pay rate when the employee was hired during FY08-09" to work with the federal Title I program. The APS report was incorporated into the New Mexico Office of the State Auditor's recent summary of state governmental financial audits, which was released Sept. 22.

The overpayment was the most serious among the state audit's four findings against the district itself. According to the report, a district record analyst detected the payroll problem and it was corrected in June 2014. The document also says APS "is in the process of collecting for the overpayment." APS interim Chief Finance Officer Tami Coleman confirmed that attorneys are working with the employee on repayment. "I don't think we have collected anything on that – it is in the hands of our attorneys," she said. "They are negotiating the payment schedule."

Coleman is filling in for CFO Don Moya, who was placed on paid administrative leave Aug. 7 after a blowup with now departed Superintendent Luis Valentino. Among other things, Moya and Valentino had clashed over Valentino's desire to conduct department audits. APS spokesman Rigo Chavez said he did not know the employee's identity, ???? but he said the employee still works for APS. Chavez said he could not say whether the employee was aware of the overpayment before it was discovered by the district.

Because the employee works for a federal program, the salary came from federal grants to APS. The report includes the auditor's recommendation that APS "establish effective internal controls surrounding the entering of employee's pay and/or change in pay." "We recommend the processing of these payroll items be reviewed prior to uploading the information into the payroll module to ensure the most accurate pay rate is entered," the report states. Coleman said APS is instituting additional payroll review processes.

The report includes APS' response to the overpayment problem, which notes that the district hired "additional staff to assist with verifying that all forms are returned and completed accurately" and launched online training about properly entering employees into the system. The report also says APS has "created an HR/Finance task force to address the payroll cycle and faults in the process."

"The task force is considering the entire payroll cycle, all entities involved in the cycle, and both short term and long term solutions to address payment irregularities," the report says. Chavez said that group is still meeting.

In an emailed statement, State Auditor Tim Keller wrote that the situation "demonstrates the important role audits play in safeguarding public funds." "We are pleased APS is implementing internal controls to prevent this from occurring in the future and we will be monitoring their corrective actions moving forward," Keller wrote. In 2012, APS' audit showed problems with the processing of retroactive corrections to payroll. APS outlined a number of steps to address the issues.

APS' most recent audit report highlights a second payroll issue, specifically timely corrections of smaller underpayments and overpayments of employees. These overpayments and underpayments involved smaller amounts of money – the report notes examples of an underpayment of $1,846 and an overpayment of $424.

The district had a total of four findings as an agency. The other two dealt with the proper management of an account for construction projects and staying within budget on a few funds. Fourteen other findings were related to APS-authorized charter schools. The charter schools are listed under APS, though the district does not have control over their day-to-day operations.

Similarly, the New Mexico Public Education Department had 164 findings, with all but 14 attributable to PED-authorized charter schools. Coleman noted that APS has decreased its number of audit findings over the years. A decade ago, when she began working for the district, it had 20 to 30 audit findings as an agency.

"I feel like there has been tremendous improvement over the past five to 10 years," she said. "There is always room for improvement, and we will always strive to do better. We do work with the auditors in a positive way and very much welcome any recommendations that they may have for improvement."

So all police officers view themselves and expect to be viewed by citizens as heroes just for putting on the uniform and wearing a badge. While it was great to recognize Lou Golson at this not "heroes" luncheon, does Lou, a great cop consider himself a hero? I doubt it. Nor do the other great cops in APD want that designation unless it is deserved. NO

US Attorney Martinez relatively new US Marshal Conrad Candelaria who has the freedom to shoot people because he-(unlike US marshals in California and elsewhere) is not required to wear and use body cameras here. No recordings-no accountability-right Conrad? Yet he dares to claim that attacks on these self-proclaimed "heroes" deserve to be labeled as hate crimes merely because they wear a badge.

This former high level minion of former corrupt APD Chief Schultz insults our intelligence. Newsflash to Candelaria-heroes do heroic deeds and most heroes are those who put on a military uniform risking their lives in overseas wars. Are any of the GIs killed by friendly fire also considered as hate crimes?

Was Conrad one of the US Marshals to be sent twice to the home of Tony Pirard to threaten him because he dared to criticize his boss Damon Martinez, Judge Brack and others at council meetings like Gestapo thugs?

As seemingly part of the problem here, "hero" Conrad should read this week's ABQ Free Press that includes a good article by a great retired officer Dan Klein, other articles that exposes the corruption in our APD and our do nothing pretend mayor. Conrad might check out the Eye on Albuquerque's postings unless APD shut it down and also what Joe Monahan writes in his blog

The totally unqualified APD Chief Eden was a former US Marshal and never even supervised eight people much less eight hundred when this Mayor made him chief ignoring other applicants with eye-watering credentials.

CANDELARIA: Calls for tougher penalties

Law enforcement officers should qualify as a protected group under hate crime laws, U.S. Marshal Conrad Candelaria said Thursday during a lunch attended by area business leaders, high-profile law enforcement and elected officials. (NO-Conrad-those citizens who they murder and to date all get away with it should be called hate crimes. Who were these elected officials in addition to those mentioned below? Was the mayor or his CAO there?) Officers, he said, "are attacked and killed just because they wear a badge. That is a hate crime." His comments came in the wake of recent violence against local law enforcement, including several officers being rammed by vehicles and the recent shootings of two, one of them fatal. There should be "tougher and enhanced penalties" for attacks on officers, who he said should be a class protected by hate crime statutes. The statements drew loud applause from the 140 people at the New Mexico Business Coalition's annual Heroes Lunch. (Of course) The event honored with the group's Hero of the Year award Albuquerque Police Department officer Lou Golson, who survived being shot four times during a traffic stop in January. "It is a hero's desire ... to live purposefully," Candelaria said. (Just to live purposely?) "Lou, your strength was tested and decisively ruled heroic." The business group gave Golson and his wife, April Golson, a gift certificate for a weekend hotel stay and a plaque. "I have mixed feeling about this (award)," Golson, who is back on limited duty at the Albuquerque Police Department. "I happened to get in the way of a few bullets and I happened to fall down," he joked. (Golson is a class act-unlike Candelaria.) The group also honored Marc Powell, owner of Recarnation used car dealership, which presenters said donates 50 percent of its profits to charity; A. Blair Dunn, an attorney with Western Agriculture, Resource and Business Advocates; and state Reps. Yvette Herrell, R-Alamogordo, and Dona Irwin, D-Deming. Candelaria also called for law enforcement to embrace the often contentious relationship with reporters, "those who rightly question, petition and criticize under the First Amendment" of the U.S. Constitution. "We must accept the competitive interests of these two professions," he said. Competitive interests? Sheer B.S. Was Journal reporter Ryan Boetel's recent disgraceful fluff piece-hero portrayal of Dominique Perez one of Eden's murderers of homeless camper James Boyd not enough of an insult to our intelligence? This was the only murder by APD cops where recordings were ever released. Candelaria is a retired APD commander and took the post as marshal in 2010. (He was one of those Schultz's boys who got out when the bloodbath against citizens got into full swing at Schultz's direction- like Schultz's then Commander Huntsman-now APD's shadow Chief).. Also in attendance were APD Chief Gorden Eden, (who refuses to severely punish officers for failing to record and lies to justify his officers' shootings) state Corrections Secretary Gregg Marcantel, Bernalillo County Sheriff Manuel Gonzales, (another disgraceful cop who refuses to equip his deputies with body cameras) Rio Rancho Mayor Gregg Hull, state Land Commissioner Aubrey Dunn and several members of the state legislature.

Info to Councilors, media and others not shown

Reference my earlier e-mail shown below that expected you to respect the people and select the only candidate that was truly qualified to serve as the next Executive Director-Jay Rowland. You interviewed the five on July 29 and after conferring for hours should have announced your ranking then. You did not. The public had lost confidence in the oversight process as only attorney Alan Wagman spoke on July 29.

Rather than making your choice(s) on the 29th many believe you instead chose to ask APD, those Councilors who wanted to keep the oversight process a sham, the City's dictatorial Mayor and CAO just who they wanted. Of course these who wanted no real reform wanted a former cop even though Harness was completely unqualified for the job-had absolutely no related experience.

You then held another unnecessary POB meeting last night where not even one citizen was willing to speak to you knowing it would be a waste of time. This says that you have lost our confidence. Your again went again into secret executive session/discussions.

You came out incredulously saying that former Milwaukee cop Edward Harness was your first choice followed by very experienced but likely perceived feared by APD Jay Rowland and made the also unqualified Edna Sprague your third choice. Those close to her says she has blessed everything cops do.

After once again reviewing Harness's responses to you last week it was again clear he had no clue of the problems with the oversight old process but spoke only in generalities trying to cover up his lack of qualifications for the job. Does working for the Better Business Bureau show the proper investigative experience? Neither Ed nor the others were ever asked what they thought was wrong with the old and current oversight process some of which the knowledgeable Jay Rowland discussed in detail without being asked.

Both the DOJ and Judge Brack ignored some of the required changes documented in APD Forward's filed Amicus Curiae last January-first page of it is attached. Unlike Jay Rowland, neither Harness nor the other three ever discussed what should be the limitations of the 1967 "Garrity vs. Supreme Court" ruling that the DOJ opined to the Seattle Mayor but was ignored by the DOJ here. See page 1 of that opinion-attached. Nor did Ed or the other three discuss the police officers' "qualified immunity" that essentially gives them the benefit of doubt in any of their killings.

Harness restated his belief that a cop's life is more important than that of the average citizen-something it is NOT. Do you agree with that belief? This essentially gives cops the right to kill using the bogus excuse that they "felt threatened." Look at these same lies being told in court this week to try to justify Sandy's and Perez's murder of James Boyd.

Ed apparently never knew that under the current changed Ordinance that the Director and the POB cannot dictate discipline but that the APD Chief can ignore your recommendations offering up only some ridiculous excuses.

I guess Ed's only claim to fame was his alleged outreach ability-trade shows, police work with his local village association and his teaching of good financial practices to the poor. He has no investigative experience other than responding to Better Business Bureau (BBB) complaints.

We already have one pro bad APD cop hired as a police oversight investigator while the two others were former employees of Target and Lowe's and have none. Robin Hammer who was sued for judicial misconduct while working for the DA was a bad enough selection by the Mayor (who she worked for) and Council and now you want a former out of town clueless cop Harness to replace her?

The Councilors likely bothered to read the resumes of those many extremely qualified applicants for the APD Chief job before blessing the incompetent bureaucrat Eden. Likely the Councilors also never read the resumes of the five applicants for this Executive Director position-resumes we were not allowed to see for some unknown reason.

Realizing that this is a dictatorship here with the Councilors choosing to abdicate its role as an integral part of our government, the nine likely never reviewed the GOV-TV interviews with the five (handpicked by who?) candidates to see how they responded to the often too broad questions posed them by you on the 29th.

Choosing the clearly unqualified Edward Harness to be your first choice was disappointing to say the least. If this former cop is chosen, the oversight process will still be toothless-yet another example of disrespect shown to us citizens-the real stakeholders who want real reform-not the ones the Mayor chooses.

Time to rethink your choice.

Subject: YOUR INTERVIEWS FOR THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF THE POLICE OVERSIGHT AGENCY-THERE IS ONLY ONE CHOICE-JAY ROWLAND WHO WILL SERVE YOU, THE PEOPLE AND THE GOOD POLICE OFFICERS

TO: The Honorable Police Oversight Board Members

Info to City Councilors and Bcc to others

After viewing your meeting on GOV-TV last night that included interviews of five candidates for the "Executive Director of POA, the following are some of my observations/questions:

1. I assume that since current interim Executive Director Ms. Hammer was not interviewed, she did not apply for this POA Executive Director position or being considered as a sixth candidate
2. The talk by attorney Alan Wagman was right on target saying essentially that this selection is critically important-that we don't need more of the same (translated-not another Robin Hammer)
3. This position never required that it be an attorney when Ms. Hammer was hired for the IRO job since an attorney is already assigned to the IRO-yet all were attorneys.
4. Who chose these five candidates who you interviewed and more importantly who decided that you had to send three of the five interviewed to the Council to pick one? Only one stood out!
5. You saw their resumes-something that should have also been posted on the website. One candidate-a former Colorado sheriff's deputy had conflicting-erroneous information on his resume
6. Two of the applicants were former law enforcement/police officers both of whom had beliefs like Ms. Hammer.

Your selection decision is easy.

The only candidate that stood head and shoulders above the other four was former IRO during 2002-2007 Jay Rowland.

Based on his demonstrated knowledge of this job and expected respect by both the many APD honest police officers and the people, only Jay should be nominated to the City Council.

The only other even remotely credible candidate of the other four interviewed was Edna Sprague.

After Edna has the opportunity to review all of the GOV-TV interviews today, she too would likely believe that Jay would be the right choice.

I hope you read this on your break. I admire Councilor Gibson for daring to tell the truth about the unjustified pay raises/retention bonuses to Eden's Command staff that the red faced (intoxicated?) Perry and his ally (also red faced) Don Harris tried to justify with just their typical B.S.. Councilor Pena's uninformed defense of the retention bonuses was also embarrassing as were APOA President Stephanie Lopez comments. Not one honest officer respects Lopez knowing that she was charged with misconduct by the NM Police Academy Board. Stephanie, Shaun Willoughby and those on the APOA Board-many killers of citizens are disgraces to all of the honest rank and file officers. Yet with the exception of Councilor Garduno, you other five remained quiet on this retention pay scam on taxpayers-like cowards afraid to represent we the people. Honest cops would tell you that APD could get rid of most on the Command staff beginning with Eden and APD would be better off. These overpaid senior Command officers caused the problem and not part of the solution. Tony Pirard also told you cowards tonight what you didn't want to hear about other "inconvenient truths" about APD, about the DOJ and about the two killer cops-Perez and Sandy that you choose to ignore-want to sweep under the rug. The talk by Louie Tafoya was also on point. It's a sad commentary on how bad things have become here. I wonder how Berry's/Eden's/Perry's "boy" Dan McKay will spin this in tomorrow's Journal and whether others in the media will report it.

You media reporters can either be part of the problem or part of the solution to our still unaccountable killers in APD. So far, most of you, particularly at the Berry Journal have been a part of the problem giving credibility to everything that comes from APD-be it Eden, Espinoza, Tixier or other.

As you have seen, in the absence of incriminating recordings which are always withheld, APD always manages to claim some unidentified witness corroborated their story yet never names the witness.

As an old article in the Journal pointed, our police forces are taught to only put out these ambiguous statements so if caught lying, they can claim plausible deniability that they intentionally tried to mislead/deceive the public. You must also know that that every police department will portray every citizen killed as a hardened criminal-"human waste" to be disposed of-in APD cop Trey Economidy's words.

Again APD says they are waiting to release the claimed videos that were made of this latest shooting until after they have interviewed all of the responders. Why? Duh! So they can coordinate their stories and make sure any recordings made by an honest cops that disputes their story is withheld. All are waiting anxiously to see just what recordings are released and whether they have been edited.

Do you also ever bother to ask or do you even care just who are on these multi-jurisdictional shoot teams that are investigating to give us the illusion of objectivity-honesty? Have any of these teams ever found any shooting by fellow officers in other departments unjustified? NO! Just mere coincidence?

I hope for once APD hasn't lied and the recordings corroborate their account of this latest shooting-but I won't hold my breath. Are former cop James Ginger and his mere fellow former cop "monitors" paying attention to all this? Are our state legislators also paying attention-two of whom think only the judicial system is the problem.

Finally, you might want to cover today's PSL's vigil/press conference at 4:45PM today as described below.

With the court hearing coming up Monday, likely ignored by the judge will be the statement by one of Schultz's and Eden's finest who helped kill homeless camper James Boyd. Sandy said two hours beforehand. "For this fucking lunatic? I'm going to shoot him in the penis with a shotgun here in a second." As my 7-31 e-mail said, Boyd pulled out his small knives fearing the K-9 dog would tear him to pieces. He NEVER threatened the officer holding the dog back that was later turned loose to chew on Boyd's lifeless body.

RESPECT IS EARNED AND NOT AN ENTITLEMENT OF POLICE OFFICERS

In past e-mails I have been critical of comparisons between police officers and those military actually seeing combat-vets who don't see killing people as a blessed video game like sport. We are repeatedly told that all who wear a police uniform put their lives in danger every day and thus are to be viewed as heroes and to be given honors befitting one doing something truly heroic even vets killed in battle. There are even some in this city who discourage APD from hiring former military vets painting all with a broad brush that they are dangerous and kill motivated. Those of us who have been under fire in war zones and have seen too many people on both sides die often make the best police officers. This is particularly true of those USA, USAF and Navy military police officers who undergo a background check and often require a security clearance. When my comrades and I were in Vietnam, any free Sunday was spent in the Saigon orphanages bringing food and clothing to these kids or out in the remote hamlets helping the other victims of war. We left our M-16s in a jeep or truck with a comrade. Unless one is a barbarian, any vet comes back from war with a greater respect for the sanctity of human life. Outstanding Rio Rancho officer-former vet Greg Benner killed last May during a traffic stop was the best example of a former military vet who truly cared about saving and not taking peoples' lives when later putting on the police uniform.

IRAQ VET ALEX HORTON'S STORY

Attached is a July 24-15 opinion piece written by former Iraq vet Alex Bland that appeared in the Washington Post. It tells about what was done to him by the Fairfax VA police trained to be warrior cops believing they could do whatever they wanted with the full support of their leadership. Two of Alex's more notable statements contradicts the mistaken belief here that police officers' lives are more important than that of the ordinary citizen. The culture that encourages police officers to engage their weapons before gathering information promotes the mind-set that nothing, including citizen safety, is more important than officers' personal security. "Police officers should understand the risks in their jobs when they enroll in the academy, as well. That means knowing that personal safety can't always come first. That is why it's service. That's why it's sacrifice."

Some commentary on news

LATEST APD KILLING

Observer of latest APD shooting yesterday writes: "About 3PM on Edith & Garfield. I'm here with eyewitnesses. Car chase ended with cops open firing on man. Witnesses say he was running out of car. Didn't see a weapon. Sister arrived sobbing saying it's her brother's car."

Journal article says: APD kills kidnapping suspect BY ROBERT BROWMAN AND NICOLE PEREZ JOURNAL STAFF WRITERS Albuquerque Journal Aug 1 2015

"A reported abduction at a Downtown Albuquerque park turned deadly Friday afternoon when officers

shot and killed the suspect after he fled through a residential area. Police Chief Gorden Eden offered little detail about the incident in a brief...

COMMENT-After making a big show-being photographed rolling up the crime tape, he likely had already (as he should have) reviewed his responding officers' required video recording-(assuming recorders were turned on.) Will they release them or withhold/edit them?

Then read Eden's ambiguous statements (translated below) seemingly to hide the truth.

"Shots were fired" TRANSLATION-"fired by my officers." "Officers believe suspect was armed"
TRANSLATION- "he was not armed as APD videos confirmed." "He didn't know yet if man fired at police or pointed weapon at them." TRANSLATION-victim neither pointed nor fired any weapon as APD videos shows "Eden said officers found a weapon at the scene but it was too early to say whether it belonged to the subject" TRANSLATION: It wasn't victim's weapon but an APD throw down gun as videos would show." Eden said incident didn't have to end in gunfire "TRANSLATION "in gunfire by my officers.

The assigned multi-jurisdictional shoot team in the absence of any recordings will again determine shooting was justified. They are a joke-they back each other. Nothing has changed. Don't count on the "multi-jurisdictional shoot" team investigators ever doing an honest investigation.

I hope Journal editor Kent Walz will justify his recent NM FOG award by demanding the videos of this APD killing as will others in the media.

Sometime after Levi Chavez walked free from a Sandoval County courtroom that warm July day in 2013 after being found not guilty of killing his wife in one of the most high-profile and hellacious trials in recent memory, he must have thought: Now what?"

Levi Chavez's admission to the law school is black eye on UNM. Is it just a third world university? Those law school students and graduates should all be disgusted

SEEMINGLY HYPOCRITICAL COUNCILOR DAN LEWIS

Lewis asks colleagues to withdraw work bill By Dan McKay / Journal Staff Writer

PUBLISHED: Saturday, August 1, 2015 at 12:05 am

City Councilor Dan Lewis called on two of his colleagues Friday to withdraw legislation they introduced to require employers to set work schedules three weeks in advance and pay employees for unexpected changes, among other requirements. Lewis said he believes that having the proposal on the table damages the city by creating concern among businesses considering an expansion into the Albuquerque market. He called on councilors Isaac Benton and Klarissa Peña to withdraw the bill voluntarily.

"I'm in favor of any legislation that helps people, but not at the expense of small business owners, and definitely not at the expense of the very people it's designed to help," he said in a written statement. Benton said he has no plans to withdraw the bill. He was traveling Friday and hadn't seen the news release issued by Lewis. "If I've got an issue with somebody's legislation, I pick up the phone and speak to them," Benton said. Lewis said the proposal is simply too burdensome. "It's not an exaggeration to say that this bill could cause many of our small, local businesses – businesses that have survived the great recession of the last six years and are just starting to recover – to go out of business," Lewis said.

COMMENT-Inconsistency-or at worst hypocrisy. See my attached e-mail and earlier ones that talks about the biggest threat to small businesses along Central, Berry's and Rizzieri 's $13 million albatross- their Albuquerque Rapid Transit System ART/BRT that the ABQ Free Press covered in detail in its most recent issue now in stores and also on freeabq.com. Apparently, if something is proposed by the Mayor then it's OK with Lewis but if it's not like Councilors Benton and Pena's bill then it's not. The question also is why are Benton and Garduno also supporting ART? Don't they care about the rest of us in the city?

As an aside, I was in a barber shop on the SW corner of Juan Tabo and Montgomery Thursday night. While waiting to be taken, I saw at least six cars blow through red lights at that intersection almost causing accidents. I'm sure the good Councilor Lewis is happy that his unlawful driver friends/voters and his Mayor is also happy the red light cameras were removed. Is Dan really considering a run to be our next Mayor? Another Berry?

THE MOST CORRUPT ADMINISTRATION AND DANGEROUS POLICE FORCE IN THIS CITY'S HISTORY

From: Silvio Dell'Angela [mailto:Dellansi@comcast.net]

Subject: Preliminary hearing Monday for Boyd's killers-Perez and Sandy, former APD cp Dawne Roberto, the ABQ Free Press, hopefully new oversight ED Jay Rowland and more

TO: All, Bcc

The disgraceful double standard here allowing APD police officers to murder while jailing others who do the same is disgusting. We have a corrupt police force leadership and supportive corrupt Mayor and administration that has made us the disgrace of the nation. Honest officers are punished if they dare speak the truth while APD's corrupt leadership is using every trick in the book to prevent any real reform.

Murdered James Boyd only pulled out his two small knives to protect himself against the fierce K-9 dog (not a police officer) straining at his leash to get to him to chew him apart and never threatened the real officers on the scene including Boyd and Sandy. The dog was later turned loose on the lifeless body and began chewing on it.

<http://www.abqjournal.com/620984>.

"They are going to protect their brother officers," McGinn said in an interview. "And even if they have reservations about the shooting, they can't express them because of the blue wall of silence." There are 16 Albuquerque police officers on the defendants' witness list.

The July 29 Issue of the ABQ Free Press now in stores and on their website has some incriminating stories about our failed leadership and corrupt APD. One written by retired honest cop Dan Klein "Why are N.M.'s Top cops Immune from Discipline Beat Cops Face?" talks about the seemingly corrupt NM Law Enforcement Academy (LEA) Board. Berry's TASERGATE Schultz is one of the best examples of this. See the KOB reported retaliation by APD blessed by the LEA Board against former honest APD cop Dawne Roberto who allegedly leaked incriminating information about the lethal cesspool in APD. Integrity has no place in APD.

Alleged administrator of anti-APD blog set to lose police certification

Updated: 06/17/2015 10:32 PM | Created: 06/17/2015 9:58 PM By: Chris Ramirez, KOB Eyewitness News 4

An alleged administrator of a blog used to disparage the Albuquerque Police Department and city leaders was fired two years ago from the department and now is on track to lose her law enforcement certification. APD brass accused Dawne Roberto, a 15-year-veteran officer on the force, of operating under the screen name "Stealth" to write hateful, embarrassing and often untrue posts on the website "Eye on Albuquerque." APD fired her on grounds she violated the department's social media policies. A hearing officer recently recommended the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy Board revoke Roberto's law enforcement certification based on her frequent involvement with the controversial ??? website. Last week, the LEA Board accepted that recommendation.

In summary, the hearing officer found Roberto:

- Lied about her involvement with Eye on Albuquerque (never proven)
- Diminished public trust and confidence in APD (deserved)
- Personally attacked APD's leadership and city leaders (deserved)
- Lowered morale at APD (only to bad cops) and used bad judgment
- Used city computers to write her posts (cops use take home cars to do family chores)
- Used information she learned while on duty against APD (God bless her)

In his report, Hearing Officer Peter Camacho ( a joke) wrote, "I find [Roberto] did commit acts that indicate a lack of moral character that would adversely affect her ability to exercise the duties of a certified law enforcement officer. KOB reached out to both Roberto and her attorney, John D'Amato, Wednesday. Neither returned emails or phone calls. Roberto currently works as a sergeant for the Bosque Farms Police Department. Bosque Farms Police Chief Gregory Jones told KOB he has not received any direction from the Law Enforcement Academy regarding Roberto yet, but plans to keep Roberto on the force unless otherwise directed. He said Roberto has been a "terrific employee" and "wished he had more officers like her." Roberto does have the option to appeal the LEA Board's decision. The website Eye on Albuquerque is still active.

Really-is the Eye still active? The last Eye posting criticizing Mayor and his corrupt minions and the city council was on July 5 "Time to Face the Facts"-26 days ago. APD is likely trying to shut down that blog as well?

More on this latest revealing issue of the ABQ Free Press in a later e-mail. In addition to Dan Klein's great article on the NM LEA, there are articles about "ABQ's Mean Streets," Berry's Bus Blueprint: Boon or Boondoggle," (Recall COO Mike Riordan's incredulous reply to my NM IPRA request on the ART/BRT and the contract being seemingly rigged for just one contractor), "ABQ Cringes in Fear While Mayor Does...What exactly?" by Joe Monahan, "Like the rest of Us, Mayor Needs to Act on Homelessness" by Joy Junction's director Jeremy Reynolds who the Mayor ignored, and other good articles..

As for KOB and their good reporters Chris Ramirez who wrote the above article on the NM LEA and partner Caleb James. While they made a big splash with their good one time "boomerang thugs" report criticizing only the judicial system while allowing Chief Eden, Bob Huntsman, BCSO Sheriff Gonzalez and other high ranking NM officers to get a lot of free publicity answering their phones for just one night, KOB was never willing to spend the money to put the photos of these boomerang thugs in the Journal as I suggested but forced viewers to go to their website. Just a superficial effort at best. Do the job right KOB-or don't do it at all!

Then there is the latest scam foisted on citizens by the City's Office of Diversity and Human Rights with these UNM conducted Collaborative meetings with citizens pretending they really will result in any changes to APD except superficial ones. The City is now stonewalling my IPRA request for the list of attendees at their PHASE 1 meetings and for the resumes/qualifications of the UNM "facilitators."

Good job-Berry (not City) attorney Hernandez.

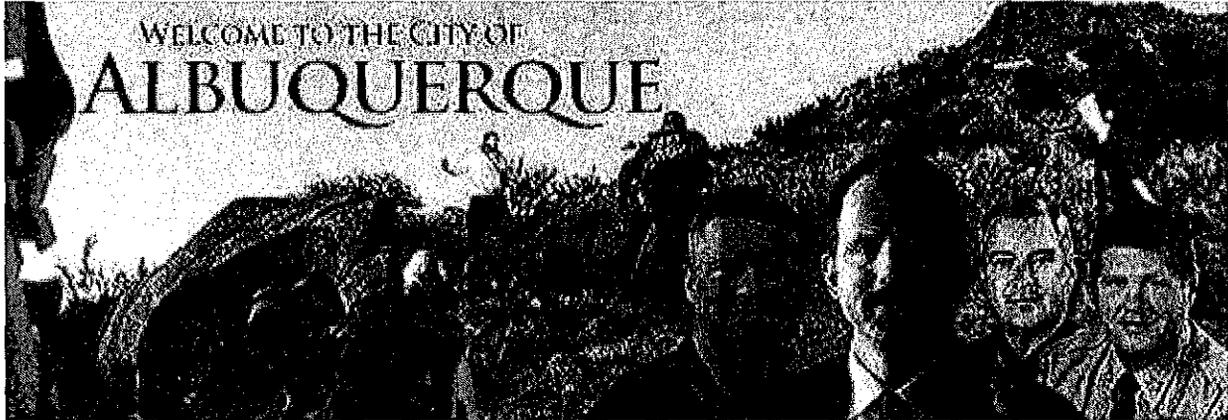

As my earlier e-mail to the POB said, former IRO Jay Rowland is the only credible candidate put forth to the Council to be the next Executive Director of the Police Oversight Agency to replace Robin Hammer who was never interviewed and should not even be considered. Honest APD cops and the citizens who want real oversight support Jay. Let's see if the Council has the guts to give him the job.

Finally, Is the DOJ naïve enough to believe think James Ginger and his PMR Inc. fellow former police officers and the Greenwood/Streicher team will ever reform APD until Berry leaves office and takes his corrupt minions with him? Apparently so or they think we are stupid.

Regards

Silvio

All: Enclosed is the updated spreadsheet for applicants along with materials. Robin Otten has requested an extension for the writing assignment, so hers is not included. I will be disclosing that Robin Otten and I are friends, so we'll have to figure out how to handle that when it comes to voting. It may actually not matter, since all we do is rank them and City Council has the final vote, but I'll be disclosing this either way.

Everyone at the bottom of the spreadsheet in gray is either not qualified, failed to return their writing assignment or withdrew, so I will not be sending you those. Thanks, -B

DUNCAN L. BRADLEY

Law Office of the New Mexico Public Defender
2395 North Florida, Alamogordo, New Mexico 88310

[REDACTED]

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

The reestablishment of productive and trusting relations between the Albuquerque Police Department and the communities it serves is of first importance. Both the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree and the October 6, 2014 Amendment to Chapter 9, Article 4, Part 1 ROA 1994, the Police Oversight Ordinance provide important guidance, direction, and operational requirements to achieve that goal.

In that connection, there are a number of things which might be immediately accomplished by the Civilian Police Oversight Agency and the Police Oversight Board in the course of their required interactions with the Albuquerque City Government and Police Department. For example, the development of a process for productive interaction between the Albuquerque Police Department and the citizens of Albuquerque through an active community watch program would directly involve Albuquerque's several communities with the Department, which is something which the Civilian Police Oversight Agency might be able to foster.

Further, advocacy for, and support of an Albuquerque Police Department in-house activities such as the implementation of a monthly in-service training program would be another step in that direction. Such a program could focus on the historic role of law enforcement in the American judicial system (concerning its primary goal of maintaining public peace, order, and safety), professional patrol procedures, professional call response procedures, field officer public demeanor, citizen contact protocols, officer safety procedures, and professional constraints on responses to threats involving an officer and/or public peace, order, and safety.

Enhancement of public awareness and involvement could also be advanced by encouraging the Department to invite direct citizen and media participation in various aspects of such programs (albeit, not all, since as some law enforcement training entails unacceptable security risks and liabilities, and the Police would wish to keep certain matters confidential with regard to field operations).

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

While serving as the Designated Alternate Defense Counsel for Colorado's Seventh Judicial District, in the course of interviewing a client he advised he was going to commit another crime in connection with the offenses with which he was charged, in order to conceal his involvement and generate false testimony.

Pursuant to the specific provisions of the Attorney Code of Professional Responsibility, the Canons of Ethics, and prevailing written standards from the Bar Association, an en camera hearing with the presiding Court was requested, the purpose of which was to ask to be excused from representation of that client on the grounds of a conflict of interest, and that the Court appoint alternate counsel.

The Court granted the request and did appoint alternate counsel. It also recused itself from further participation in proceedings regarding the case.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

While in private practice, on more than one occasion intra-office and inter-office disharmony affected the firm's ability to effectively represent the interests of its clients. The situation was resolved by exercising leadership by example, among other things by inviting the in-put of those expressing competing or conflicting interests and points of view. This approach proved, and has proven successful in almost all cases. Very few individuals, if any, respond positively to being ordered to act or conduct themselves in specific ways. However, for the most part they will respond favorably to an invitation of conversation and exchange of views.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

As an attorney:

Personal satisfaction does not arise from a particular success involving the results of a particular case, but from the over-all results of many cases, those achieved on behalf of many clients. In the course of both private and public practice, the satisfaction felt has arisen from the many letters and other expressions of appreciation received from clients who were assisted in the resolution of the difficulties concerning which consultation and representation were afforded.

As a peace officer:

The successful resolution of a case which involved a serial kidnapper-rapist-murderer (twenty-four known victims) accomplished in the face of official disapprobation by a politician who wished the effort expended investigating the perpetrated crimes to be spent on another, more publically visible goal (the exact rebuke was, "Nobody gives a damn about an East Colfax hookers—we need that jail built!"). As it happened, it was an election year.

The perpetrator was eventually arrested, tried, and convicted, and then last heard (Summer of 2006), he was still serving a life sentence in the Colorado Department of Corrections without chance of parole.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.

As an attorney:

Establish the facts necessary to accurately evaluate a case, and determine for the client a course of action, advise him or her regarding the cause of action pending, and create a plan to successfully resolve the matter in the client's best interests with the least expense and personal disruption.

As a peace officer in Illinois and Colorado:

Establish what happened by a careful evaluation of the facts of the matter, and preserve the scene and its evidence to the end of maintaining public peace, order, and safety in order to achieve substantial justice in resolution of the matter into which enquiry is being made.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

In meeting the several requirements of the October 6, 2014 Amendment to Chapter 9, Article 4, Part 1 ROA 1994, and the Police Oversight Ordinance the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree for the Civilian Police Oversight Agency and Police Oversight Board, an ability to analyze factual material, prioritize goals, and focus effort on achieving specific results and ends would be essential, which ability was acquired by and through:

Education (BA; MA; Certification in Iranian Area Studies and Farsi Language - Reed College, Portland, Oregon; PhD; JD; Diploma - Jefferson County Sheriff's Department Training Academy, Golden, Colorado; Diploma - ATLA College of Trial Advocacy; Diploma - Iraq Rule of Law - Civilian Police International; and, Certification - United States Institute for Peace, Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe;

Service as Legislative Advisor (to a Colorado State Senator, the late James Francis Congrove);

Service as a Board Member on two boards of directors (the Jeffco (Jefferson County, Colorado) Federal Credit Union and the Midwestern Center for Mental Health, Montrose, Colorado);

Service as an Advisor to two Sheriffs: (the Montrose County Colorado Sheriff, four years as a member of his committee for budget and training and representing him to the Montrose Board of County Commissioners and the Sheriff's Citizens Advisory Committee, and the Jefferson County Colorado Sheriff, four years as his Research and Development Specialist representing him and the Department to the Jefferson Board of County Commissioners regarding the Department's annual budget, staffing needs, and equipment and facilities requirements, to the Citizens Advisory Committee for New Facilities, and negotiating and implementing the Department's contract with the U.S. Forest Service regarding the provision of law enforcement services in the Pike and San Isabel National Forests);

Service a member on the Colorado Bar Association's Judicial Advisory Committee: (three years, Denver, Colorado);

Service in Iran: (working with the Iranian Ministry of Education and the Iranian Literacy Corps);

Service with Southern Illinois University's Division of International Education: (working under the direction of the Division Dean creating international education programs, the University's Center for Vietnamese Studies, and serving as Faculty Advisor to Students from the Middle East and as the Faculty Advisor for the International Students' Association); and,

Higher education administration and teaching experience: (Colorado Continuing Legal Education Services; Metropolitan State College, Denver; Southern Illinois University, Carbondale in extension at Menard Penitentiary in Chester Illinois and at the Macomb Community College in Macomb Illinois; Southern Illinois University Faculty Committee for the Creation of Core Curriculum Courses; and, in Iran at the Iranian Women's College, Tehran, Mamazan Agricultural College, Deh-ye-Mamazan, Pars College, Shimran, and the Iranian Literacy Corps creating a correspondence school program aimed at fostering national literacy).

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?

The immediate goal would be the satisfaction of the October 6, 2014 Amendment to Chapter 9, Article 4, Part 1 ROA 1994, and the Police Oversight Ordinance the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree to establish a situation which provides a basis for creating on behalf of the Albuquerque Community and the Albuquerque Police a sound and effective basis for the resolution of complaints through the establishment of the services needed to maintain the public peace, order, and safety of the community while building and maintaining its trust.

The long term goal would be to establish a professional staff to implement the policies and procedures created for the long-term so that the events of the recent past do not again arise, guided by the principle of fostering trust between the Albuquerque Police and the community it serves by means of creating effective training and communication channels.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

1) Education, training, and experience which includes the area of court administration acquired as an intern to Chief Justice Edward Pringle, Colorado Supreme Court and Judge Donald P. Smith, Colorado Court of Appeals (see ¶ 6, supra);

2) Law Enforcement Experience in both administration and the provision of field service;

3) Attorney Experience in both the public practice of the law in New Mexico, and the private and public practice of the law in Colorado;

4) Administrative and Supervisory Experience serving a Dean of Internal Education, as a Faculty Advisor, as a member of two boards of directors, two law enforcement advisory committees, contract negotiator for the Jefferson County Colorado Sheriff's Department with the with Federal Government, and implementation of the resulting contracts for te provision of law enforcement services, instructor with the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department Training Academy reference crime scene preservation and report writing, and service a judicial advisory committee; and,

5) Service as a Legislative Advisor.

The life-long challenge has been to continually work in order to improve personal knowledge, information, and people skills so as to avoid making mistakes in conduct and decision making regarding matters for which responsibility is carried for self and others, personally and professionally, and to communicate that knowledge, information, and people skills to those with whom one is obliged to work and interact.

9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

In the course of personal experience, have worked with all such individuals as identified, except for union officials and Department of Justice monitors, while serving on two Board of Directors, two Advisory Committees for elected Colorado Sheriffs, as a Legislative Advisor, on the Colorado Bar Association's Judicial Advisory Committee, while in service to the Iranian Ministry of Education and the Iranian Literacy Corps, while in service to the Dean of International Education at Southern Illinois University, as the Jefferson County Sheriff's designated representative to the United States Forest Service in contract negotiations for the Department's provision of law enforcement services in the Pike and San Isabel National Forests, in the implementation of those contracts and as a field supervisor for the National Forest Contract Services Team, and as Designated Alternate Defense Counsel in the Colorado Seventh Judicial District.

All these situations involved disparate groups of stakeholders with different viewpoints and conflicting interests. However, working relationships have been invariably established, albeit not without some difficulties.

A situation which was especially serious entailed service on the Board of Directors for the Jefferson County (Jeffco) Federal Credit Union, when serious operational misconduct was discovered, resulting in the resignation of Chairman of the Board, a number of Board members, and of institutional employees. Elected to be act as the interim Acting Chairman of the Board, the situation was resolved without the filing of criminal charges, professional Savings and Loan operations were re-established, and a new Chairman was elected. I left Jefferson County employment at the conclusion of the matter, having applied to, and been accepted at the University of Denver, College of Law, and so was no longer eligible to participate in the Credit Union's operations.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.
11. Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

Joanne,

We have just been informed by APD Audio-Visual staff that they are tied up filming a week-long DOJ-mandated training for APD and will not have our video ready until close of business on Tuesday, July 14. We could mail you the video on Tuesday or if you prefer, you could pick it up next time you're near downtown. Let us know what works for you.

Thanks,
Robin

Councilors

-My 10/5 e-mail to Chief Eden asking for the status on my 10/1 IPRA request for video, other documents on the latest APD shooting

DAMAGE CONTROL TODAY BY NEW US AG LORETTA. LYNCH

My 10/4 e-mail included the press release/comments made on 10/3 by our new US Attorney Loretta Lynch who confirmed to all that like her underlings, she too has gone to the dark side and joined the police against the people-essentially blessing police states throughout the US

Apparently after my 10/4 e-mail that was sent to the local and other DOJ representatives involved in our toothless APD reform agreement asking that a copy be passed to Ms. Lynch, many besides me were outraged by it.

So she decided to do some damage control and released some "clarification" of her comments in a news conference today. See attached. It's too little, too late for Ms. Lynch as she showed her true colors on 10/3.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION

It's not surprising to read in today's NOT Independent Berry Journal about the low early voting turn-out and the expected equally low turnout for Tuesday's election to elect just two councilors from Districts 4 and 6.

The other two from Districts 2 and 8 who should also be sent packing are running unopposed-not because of their good work for their constituents but because people have given up and don't have big campaign donors to challenge them.

It's also not surprising that because this Mayor has deliberately ignored the Bio-Park, our road maintenance and other real needs for far too long that we voters are now being asked to approve another tax increase (that he also will vote for) and also a bond measure to stick it to us taxpayers to make up for his past fiscal irresponsibility.

The sad truth is that voters now realize that nothing here will ever change for the better even with this election and thus have given up even going to the polls to vote. The culture of corruption is a way of life here in New Mexico, the reason that we are viewed as the fifth most corrupt state in the US. Our City would likely be the most corrupt nationwide if a study was ever done of this.

Many believe that Councilor Winter if re-elected has no intent to complete his four year term-something the media refuses to ask him to confirm or deny. Insiders tell me that he will move to his second home in Florida and allow his Mayor to appoint his successor-another Party first Republican willing to be his stooge.

Rumors out there are that my unopposed Councilor Jones will also not complete her four years in office so the Mayor will also appoint a successor who is just as bad.

STILL IN SEARCH OF AN HONEST MAN (AND WOMAN)

Many in our city like the Greek philosopher Diogenes are STILL IN SEARCH FOR AN HONEST MAN (or woman) –even just six on the City Council who can stop this dictator from imposing his will on the people.

Diogenes said that there is a need “outspokenness,” and “uncompromising zeal for exposing vice and conceit and stirring men to reform”-things that many brave citizens in our historical culture of corruption reform movement are doing.

Don't look in the Mayor's office, in APD, in the Legal Department , in Procurement, in the Planning Department, in ABQ Ride and the DMD for any honest leaders. All have been forced to sell their souls to the devils on the 11th floor for their 30 pieces of silver.

It's clear that these once good people were forced to give up any integrity they once had if they wanted to work as a public servant in this City under the corrupt Berry.

DISRESPECT FOR THE COMMON PEOPLE

Like the low Fall voter turnout, something even worst for unjustified tax wasting APS Spring elections less and less will come to council meetings in the future knowing that you Councilors really don't want us there-don't care what we say.

We were once allowed to donate our two minutes to other public speakers, but when Don Harris became your President, he put an end to that. Then you Councilors would have a wall built in the chambers to prevent another takeover of your meeting by us angry citizens.

Then when Dan Lewis was President, he continued that disrespect in 2013 including not wanting to hear more than a 2 minute talk from me and others just telling what was wrong with the Police Oversight process.

Then under Council President Ken Sanchez, he would have draconian rules imposed to further limit our expression of free speech to including forcing me to remove me and my upside down flag from the chambers even knowing this was an approved US Flag Code symbol of citizens in distress. Current Council President Garduno also refused to allow it from being shown.

Ignored by all of you is the Council President's or Mayor's directed censoring and prevention of any presentations of citizens put on the overhead projector from ever being shown on GOV TV.

BILLS TO BE HEARD WEDNESDAY

EC-15-433 Vote to override the Mayor's veto

All addressees saw in my e-mail today the bogus excuse he used to veto this bill that would have allowed the police to focus on the real crime in this city. Here is a Mayor who reportedly was a pot smoker while a student at UNM now has his former appointed Public Safety Director Darren White now pushing the use of Marijuana.

See the 9/11/15 posting of the Eye on Albuquerque on White-EXTRACT shown below

"Who is Smoking Dope? Integrity For Sale-Recently the public was notified the nefarious Darren White has most recently become one of the directors of Purlife as noted in a application to the State of New Mexico. The application from Purlife is a legal request to sell dope in New Mexico. As most recall, White left the State of New Mexico disgracefully after opposing the Governor policy on Marijuana; White then ran for Congress and lost to a liberal democrat; next White would later be bounced out of the City of Albuquerque in disgrace as usual"..... more

To call Berry a hypocrite would be an understatement when it comes to his police force who don't have to comply with our State laws. While he complains about a shortage of APD officers, he still has Eden sending his officers out to selectively arrest those users of a nominal amounts of Marijuana, then lying-claiming they are being arrested primarily for other offenses.

When I helped a friend/teacher with M.S. teach an eighth grade summer school US History class years ago, some kids there from the South Valley told me that the biggest sellers and users of Marijuana and the hard drugs in their neighborhoods were Schultz's cops.

There has been much written in the journal exposing the fact that Marijuana is not a gateway drug. See scan 177, the cover of the June issue of the National Geographic magazine that has a good article discussing its history of usage.

Alcohol and tobacco are our biggest problems and their use is deemed OK by our Mayor. You will never see a cop or public official here given a DWI and yet there is one in the Mayor's office and another on the Council who come to meetings with flushed red faces. Just red make-up or a little too much alcohol/substance abuse?

EC-15-415-Award of $600,000 to architectural firm based solely on subjective evaluation criteria

On Wednesday, $600,000 of our tax dollars will likely be given by you to an architectural firm under the Consent Agenda rather than under Approvals or Final Actions before you hear any public comments.

You have seen my numerous e-mails complaining about the bogus contract awards to Berry favored companies that (if not given no bid contracts like Schultz's employer Taser Inc.) the RFP would never ask for costs as part of the evaluation criteria as demanded in procurement regulations-only "cost control."

Current COO Mike Riordan, part of the ART scam on us with Rizzieri was notorious for doing this when he was head of the DMD and his successor is doing the same. It's all about who you know downtown-not whether you are the best contractor for the job-thus opting for the subjective selection criteria.

COO Riordan claims that responses to the RFP for the tax wasting ART down Central were due on September 30. Just what does the RFP look like including the selection criteria and who will sit on the selection committee?

We also still don't know whether the incumbent-the ACVB was selected (as expected-being an insider) to continue its poor work at the Convention Center

R-15-186 Destruction of a dwelling deemed a nuisance property

While the posted photos seem to justify the razing of this old home, Planning Department Director Lubar would tell me that these same Codes/Ordinances somehow don't apply to even newer homes in our City that were built before the zoning ordinances were changed as they are all grandfathered-exempt from compliance. Preposterous!

A home in our EANA neighborhood was for the past seven or more years clearly a nuisance as defined in zoning code § 14-3-4-4 NUISANCE (D) Buildings whose maintenance is so out of harmony and conformity with the maintenance and quality of adjacent or nearby properties as to cause substantial diminution in the enjoyment, use or property value of such adjacent or nearby properties. There were numerous call for service to Code enforcement and APD but their warnings in the few times they responded were ignored.

This EANA home even now continues to not comply with 14-16-2-6 section F (off-street parking) that prohibits the parking of vehicles on other than City approved prepared surfaces-clearly not on lawns. Yet even today at times the home still has four vehicles parked in the driveway and two on the front lawn. One in the driveway-an old Jaguar is inoperable.

Yet Ms. Lubar claims unlike the other even older homes in the City to be razed, our EANA home is exempt from these requirements because it was built a mere 35 years ago before the Zoning rules were passed. It has gotten so bad over the past SEVEN years that this property owned by our EANA neighbor-an employee of APS was recently the subject of a recent filming for the A&E TV show "The Hoarders."

The blight on our neighborhood problem was explained away-just attributed to just the owner's psychological hoarding disorder-something it was clearly NOT.

The A&E film crew from Seattle without any prior notice given to us by her, Eden, Huntsman (who lives nearby) or Alan Armijo in the Mayor's office, showed up with their hired house cleaners to begin filming their clean up and interviews.

The first indication we saw of A&E was a huge 10' x 20' x 20' container put right in front of the house causing a traffic safety hazard. Then it was a porta-potty put on the side of the house and then a huge RV parked right across the street. Then a dumpster.

The Planning Department is doing nothing to force the owner of this property to comply with our zoning codes because she apparently one of the privileged of this city-thus above the law-much like our thug APD police officers and their corrupt leaders.

Apparently the even older home to be destroyed as a nuisance in Councilor Benton's district (R-15-186) is not grandfathered and I wonder why. So should you.

WHY WASTE OUR TIME SPEAKING TO YOU NINE WEDNESDAY-YOU DON'T CARE?

I don't plan to waste my time coming to the meeting Wednesday since the nine of you really don't care what others or I have to say in our precious 2 minutes allotted us.

Disgusted,

Dear Homeowner:

Screaming Flea Productions, Inc. is preparing to film an episode of a clean-up television show in ALBUQUERQUE.

We will be filming at the residence located at 11212 CAMERO AVE. this coming WEDNESDAY – SUNDAY, the 23rd through 27th.

This will be a small production. There will be approximately 8 film crew members that will be on-site on WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY. They will be filming both in and outside of the home on these days. On FRIDAY, SATURDAY, AND SUNDAY the crew will begin the process of cleaning out the home. We expect to have a few more people on-site these days (likely a total of around 25), which will include a clean-up crew of about 15 people and 2-3 mid-size trucks for junk-removal. Filming will again take place both in and outside of the home.

Our hours of operation for the production will be 8:00 AM to 6:00 PM all 5 days.

To be clear, we will NOT be filming any street names, house numbers or exteriors of any other residence aside from the one located at 11212 Camero Ave.

We will NOT be doing any special effects, gunfire or out of the ordinary loud sound effects, or setting up any lights that will be intrusive or invasive to any of the surrounding homes and properties.

Our crew is professional and respectful and will be happy to address any issues, questions or concerns that may arise at the time of filming. We understand that we will be guests in your neighborhood and will act as such. Please feel free to contact us should you have any questions or concerns.

Thank you for your support!

Best Regards,

SUBJECT: Veto Message on R-15-243 Establishing a Policy that Enforcement of Laws Criminalizing Possession of One Ounce or Less of Marijuana for Adult Personal Use Shall Be a Low Law Enforcement Priority

I have carefully considered and have exercised my veto authority on R-15-243, which passed at the City Council meeting of September 21, 2015, by a vote of 5 For and 4 Against.

New Mexico law has established by statute that possession of marijuana is a crime. Our police officers have taken an oath to uphold the laws of the State of New Mexico. I took the same oath. I take my oath seriously, and I will not place the fine men and women of the Albuquerque Police Department in a position where they are told to compromise their oaths and disregard State law.

For these reasons, I am vetoing this bill.

ATTORNEY GENERAL LYNCH: USE-OF-FORCE DATA IS VITAL FOR TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY

WASHINGTON—Today, in a press conference held at the Department of Justice, Attorney General Loretta E. Lynch reinforced the need for a national, consistent data on law enforcement interactions with the communities they serve, especially data collection on the use-of-force. The Attorney General noted that the department has already taken steps to improve the accuracy and consistency of use-of-force data from law enforcement.

“The department’s position and the administration’s position has consistently been that we need to have national, consistent data,” said Attorney General Lynch. “This information is useful because it helps us see trends, it helps us promote accountability and transparency,” said Attorney General Lynch. “We’re also going further in developing standards for publishing information about deaths in custody as well, because transparency and accountability are helped by this kind of national data.”

Currently, federal authorities publish annual figures on the number of “justifiable homicides” by law enforcement. But this reporting is voluntary and not all police departments participate, causing the figures to be incomplete. That’s why the Justice Department and the Obama Administration are taking steps to work with law enforcement to improve the process.

“This data is not only vital – we are working closely with law enforcement to develop national consistent standards for collecting this kind of information,” Attorney General Lynch added. The department has already taken steps to improve accurate accounts of use-of-force data from law enforcement: -The Bureau of Justice Statistic (BJS) and the FBI are collaborating with major policing organizations, such as the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP), the Major Cities Chiefs of Police Association (MCCA), the Major County Sheriffs Association (MCSA) on defining data collections on police use-of-force and homicides by law enforcement officers.

-The department also requires the records of police interactions when we enter into consent decree and collaborative reform agreements.

-The FBI recently announced that the Uniform Crime Reporting Statistics (UCR) will begin to collect data on non-fatal shootings between law enforcement and civilians.

BJS has been conducting work on new methods for not only identifying deaths in police custody (as defined by the Deaths in Custody Reporting Act (PL 113-242), where they will go further than what the newspapers and media reports on law enforcement homicides that are derived from open source records verifying that the media accounts are correct and complete. BJS will do this by surveying police departments, medical examiners' offices and investigative offices about the reports that it identifies from open source and using data from the multiple source to obtain a more accurate factual account of each incident. BJS will complete its methodology study by late 2015/early 2016 and then begin to stand up a national program on arrest related deaths.

The President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing and the President's Police Data Initiative also seek to encourage better data and record keeping for local law enforcement reinforces the administration's position on this need.

Excerpts from the Attorney General's Press Conference:

ATTORNEY GENERAL LYNCH: [L]et me be clear: police shootings are not minutiae at all and the department's position and the administration's position has consistently been that we need to have national, consistent data. Both on excessive force and on officer involved shootings is vital. The point I was trying to make at that conference related to our overall view of how we deal with police departments as part of our practice of enforcing consent decrees, or working with them and I was trying to make the point that we also have to focus on building community trust which is a very individual – very local – practice. Unfortunately, my comments gave the misperception that we were changing our view in some way about the importance of this data – nothing could be further from the truth. This data is not only vital – we are working closely with law enforcement to develop national consistent standards for collecting this kind of information.

ATTORNEY GENERAL LYNCH: [W]e do require it [data collection]. When we have consent decrees with departments and frankly we find it very, very useful as we look at data and trends and as we publish consent decrees we encourage other departments to do so. And frankly police departments also are finding it useful. Certainly the fact that we don't have a nationwide, consistent set of standards is – not only does it make our job difficult it makes it hard to see these trends and that's why it is so important to focus on these. And that's why we are working through the department's research arm – our Bureau of Justice Statistics and the FBI – are working with the leading police organizations; International Association of Chiefs of Police; Major Cities Chiefs; Major Counties Sheriffs; to look at these standards. And we're also going further in developing standards for publishing information about deaths in custody as well; because transparency and accountability are helped by this kind of national data.

See extract from my Sunday e-mail below condemning Rey Garduno's proclamation on behalf of the RED NATION that demonizes Columbus as the devil incarnate and changing Columbus Day today to (NOT those original) "Indigenous Peoples Day." This change should have been a Council bill subject to the Mayor's veto but given Berry's history, he would have not vetoed it but likely stayed in his hole/bunker.

Recently LULAC's Ralph Arellanes pointed out the contributions of the Spanish (his brown) ancestors here as I did earlier with the white citizens including my Italian ancestors that included Columbus.

See the June 22 news report of a June 21 vigil and earlier press conference held by these seemingly brainwashed/P.C. self-proclaimed leaders of the red and black community below.

"In Solidarity with Black Lives: The RED Nation and ANSWER Stand with ABQ Community Against Racial Terror by Nick Estes and Melanie Yazzie. On Sunday evening, several hundred Albuquerque, NM community members gathered at the African-American Performing Arts Center for a vigil to remember the nine African-Americans murdered by a white supremacist vigilante ("a white supremacist vigilante-REALLY?) at the African Methodist Episcopal church in Charleston, South Carolina last Wednesday, June 17. The Albuquerque Minister Fellowship and local community members organized the vigil, which followed a Friday press conference where 33 local faith organizations issued the collective statement: "I will no longer tolerate racism." Our statement of solidarity issued at Sunday's vigil recognizes the murders as an act of political terror historically rooted in slavery and genocide. These two structures persist in framing contemporary U.S. racism and the ongoing colonial occupation of Indigenous lands. The RED Nation pays attention to and stands with the growing movement, such as #BLACKLivesMatter, that has coalesced in the aftermath of the uprisings against state-sponsored anti-Black violence in Ferguson, MO and Baltimore, MD.

These self-proclaimed leaders of our American Indians and African-Americans don't give even one damn about holding APD's killer cops here accountable for killing those of every color.

M005265

Instead they incredulously would claim those red and black murders by cops or others were acts "of political terror historically rooted in slavery and genocide." and that "These two structures persist in framing contemporary U.S. racism and the ongoing colonial occupation of Indigenous lands."

Don't you think it's hypocritical that these pro American Indians as historical victims leaders like Yazzie call themselves the RED (skin) NATION, while at the same time they oppose the name of the Washington Redskins as being racist?

Again, when will Mayor Berry come out of his hole to take a position on this ridiculous resolution and renaming of Columbus Day? If not just a Democratic Party First vote, when will we also hear from Councilors Pena, Gibson, Sanchez and Benton saying why they supported this resolution and the reason(s) Don Harris properly opposed it?

Not only do black and red lives matter here but those of other colors as well!

I'm tired of this guilt trip-black-and red victim propaganda by likely some well-meaning but misguided people.

If they took the murders and other acts of excessive force by APD here just as seriously, we would be far better off. There hasn't even been one killer APD cop jailed here!

If the American Indians in NM also demanded from their tribal leaders (who live very well) that they be taken care of on the reservations rather than being forced to live under third world like conditions there, they too would be much better off.

Boycott the march today.

Garduno-ignore the disgraceful march tomorrow-Monday

Councilors and others

You saw my earlier e-mails on this disgraceful Rey Garduno resolution passed by five of his other seemingly PC revisionist history colleagues. These attacks on Columbus were driven by hate and/or ignorance.

Two of the three councilors who voted against it seemingly tried to apologize for what they did while the other five have since not commented on their support.

As expected Mayor Berry went into his hole and hid refusing to comment on it. It was more than disappointing that Jewel Hall who I respect jumped on this victim bandwagon. The birthdays of Presidents Washington and Lincoln (both white) were eliminated as holidays by these revisionists in favor of a holiday commemorating the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr whose accomplishments pale in comparison to these two Presidents.

After viewing your meeting on GOV-TV last night that included interviews of five candidates for the "Executive Director of POA, the following are some of my observations/questions:

- 1. I assume that since current interim Executive Director Ms. Hammer was not interviewed, she did not apply for this POA Executive Director position or being considered as a sixth candidate
- 2. The talk by attorney Alan Wagman was right on target saying essentially that this selection is critically important-that we don't need more of the same (translated-not another Robin Hammer)
- 3. This position never required that it be an attorney when Ms. Hammer was hired for the IRO job since an attorney is already assigned to the IRO-yet all were attorneys.
- 4. Who chose these five candidates who you interviewed and more importantly who decided that you had to send three of the five interviewed to the Council to pick one? Only one stood out!
- 5. You saw their resumes-something that should have also been posted on the website. One candidate-a former Colorado sheriff's deputy had conflicting-erroneous information on his resume
- 6. Two of the applicants were former law enforcement/police officers both of whom had beliefs like Ms. Hammer.

Your selection decision is easy.

The only candidate that stood head and shoulders above the other four was former IRO during 2002-2007 Jay Rowland.

Based on his demonstrated knowledge of this job and expected respect by both the many APD honest police officers and the people, only Jay should be nominated to the City Council.

The only other even remotely credible candidate of the other four interviewed was Edna Sprague.

After Edna has the opportunity to review all of the GOV-TV interviews today, she too would likely believe that Jay would be the right choice.

John Hyde's rampage 10 years ago was bad but yet just one of many bad days here-clearly not the worst one.

ABQ's worst day was electing Mayor Berry in 2009 who later rehired Schultz.

The other worst day was the only 13% of the registered seemingly apathetic voters who re-elected Mr. Berry in 2013 and then Berry replacing Schultz with Eden.

It's interesting that except for your questioning of the murder of attorney Mary Han that likely APD or others who were threatened by her tried to portray as a suicide after APD deliberately contaminated the crime scene and you criticizing the admission of likely wife killer former APD cop Levi Chavez Jr. into UNM law school, little attention was given by you to APD's many murders of the mentally ill-only the few cops here killed.

Two articles on today's Op-Ed page tells all why we in NM particularly in Albuquerque have become the disgrace of the nation.

"MIA 'leaders' fiddle as society falls apart." properly says that we have no leadership in our corrupt "oligarchy" here. So true beginning with those representing us in Santa Fe, to our County and City leaders

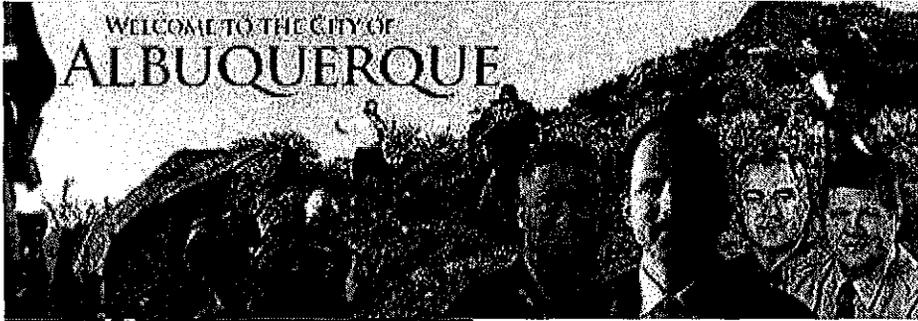

An example of this is the second article "ART is a big step in developing a vibrant Downtown" written by one of Berry's developer propagandists and the former longtime executive vice president of the Home Builders Association of Central New Mexico.

The author insults everyone's intelligence by merely parroting the bogus reasons that Mayor Chavez used to try to justify his "modern streetcar" down Central. I wonder whether the writer will be one of the contractors helping to build this tax wasting white elephant. What say you-COO Mike Riordan?

Anxious to see your follow-up articles but this introduction citing only Hyde's killing was disappointing to say the least.

REFERENCES

Journal article "City accused of violating pack of mentally disabled" (more stonewalling of IPRA requests)

Journal report, "Mayor-Rapid Transit a game changer for Route 66 development" (Much like APD's murder of James Boyd was a "game-changer"?)

Journal article, "Most Council hopefuls back rapid transit" (fiscally irresponsible hopefuls)

Journal article "South valley, Nob Hill projects advance."

Journal syndicated article, "Feelings taking over politics"

First of all-the good news-You are by far the most honest and caring person on the Council. But that's not saying too much compared to your eight other disgraceful colleagues on the Council.

TIME TO GET YOUR PRIORITIES IN ORDER IN YOUR LAST FEW MONTHS

The bad news. The syndicated article in the Journal today "Feelings taking over politics" aptly describes your approach on the Council-unfortunately.

While you plan to also plan to speak Thursday at the Veterans for (just military involvement overseas) Peace chapter meeting, what about speaking up for us veterans for peace from APD's excessive force and murders in this city like me? Afraid of APD retaliation or afraid the Mayor will cut off money to your Nob Hill/district-still the "war zone?"

You also seem to worship cops more than military vets and seemingly have no problem with BERNCO wasting $800,000 of our taxes building two memorials to cops here. I'm surprised that they didn't fund $400,000 memorials in every one of their other BERNCO districts. No concern however with funding body recorders for their disgraceful Sheriff's deputies. No recorders-no accountability. They don't care.

You seem to care little how many veterans like Ken Ellis III, homeless fellow Vietnam vet Vincent Wood and other vets were gunned down and later the repeated stonewalling of NM IPRA requests by APD for the incriminating videos?

You only ask softball questions of Chief Eden and praise him for serving your district. You never bothered to read his and the resumes of the really qualified applicants-some with eye-watering qualifications for the job when blessing him. You just rubber stamped this Mayor's clearly unqualified choice for the job.

I'm sure like approving Eden that you will also approve a former Milwaukee cop to be the new Executive Director of the Police Oversight Agency at the next meeting because that's who the Mayor and APD wants.

Both APD since July 27, 2013 and now the DA's office while exonerating the two APD killers of Vincent Wood in early July 2013, won't release the incriminating recording proving that his killing was unjustified. I made the IPRA request for the videos on July 27, 2013. Nothing yet. Neither you nor the others seem to care about this or other APD institutional-Berry blessed IPRA stonewalling.

After reassuring me as Council President that I could show the American flag that I served under for 22 years (one in Vietnam) upside down (a US Flag Code approved signal of our distress) during a future council meeting, when I did show it on the overhead projector, it was never shown on GOV-TV and my real upside down one shown was again taken away from me with your blessing.

You also then allowed a clueless alleged vet to then publicly disrespect me afterwards claiming me showing the flag upside down was a court martial offense. I can no longer trust anything you say.

STAND UP FOR EVERYBODY-NOT JUST WOMEN

While allegedly asking all in your appeal to stand up for women, what about standing up for all of us? Women after their suffrage movement over 100 years ago finally gave them the right to vote in all elections not just special tax wasting school elections. Where were you demanding that APS change its policies to eliminate these special spring elections that are costly to taxpayers? MIA as usual

Why don't you stand up for all of the people-we taxpayers who are being ripped off by these special spring APS elections and not just women. New Jersey and other states don't have special school elections but what are we-just another third world like city and state who still has them?

Winston Brooks, Brad Winter while they were at APS and new Superintendent Valentino ignored my appeals for this. The bond money comes to them much easier with special elections and incompetent people get elected to the Board because of citizen apathy. Only 2-4% of the registered voters turn out to elect APS Board members and pass million dollar bond measures? They like it that way.

You claim the proposed even a reasonable) curfew will hurt women but you seemingly think that mothers who allow their kid to be out at 2AM in the morning is somehow all right-as does the misguided ACLU.

This is the new failed approach to parenting where mothers and fathers have to now "negotiate" with their children as equals as Dianne Goodman claimed at the last Council meeting when opposing the curfew.

A recent Journal letter writer expressed some long delayed thanks to his parents to imposing curfews and other rules on them including when they must be home at night. This is how I was raised as well. My immigrant parents knew what was best for me and my siblings and didn't allow me to negotiate on what we jointly agreed was right.

The new parenting approach that has been a failure is intended solely to not make the kids feel bad-might hurt their self-esteem. This new parenting approach includes supporting social promotion in our schools and allowing them to watch violent video games where kids think shooting people is somehow acceptable.

YOUR ROUTE 66 DISTRICT AND THE MAYOR'S "CHERISHED" DOWNTOWN ARE NOT CENTERS OF THE UNIVERSE HERE-THE TAX WASTING ART

The perception held by not only me but other disgruntled taxpayers is that as long as your Central Avenue Route 66 Nob Hill district and the downtown are getting priority for our tax dollars, you seemingly are willing like Councilor Benton to not rock the boat stop the money flowing into your privileged districts.

Contrary to the propaganda put out, Nob Hill and the Mayor's "cherished" downtown are not the centers of the universe here and far too much money is being wasted in your and Council Benton's district-money that could be better spent on other ignored needs of the city. The latest is the $888,00 given to your Nob Hill as another payoff to you by this horrible Mayor.

ABQ RAPID TRANSIT-A SHAMEFUL WASTE OF OUR TAX DOLLARS-BUT YOU DON'T CARE

In addition to now promoting the Mayor's and Rizzieri's $120 million ($80 million requested of the FHA-again we taxpayers) completely unjustified ABQ Rapid Transit (ART) as your predecessor Martin Heinrich did for Mayor Marty's unjustified $600 million "modern streetcar" you seemingly don't care that $13-20 million of our tax dollars will be spent this year tearing up Central and likely seriously hurting small businesses.

you even rolled over when the Mayor threatened a veto of any version of the Fair Workweek Act that he claimed would hurt businesses while conveniently forgetting his ART. Apparently the ART supporters don't care that this is a mere want and not a justified need.

Like Governor Richardson's Rail Runner also based on lies told by MR-COG, there has never been a cost benefit analysis justifying ART-yet just another Berry white elephant-another legacy to his fiscal irresponsibility.

Someone as smart as you must know that ART is being justified on lies and comparisons with large cities like Cleveland, Chicago and other dissimilar US cities where density justified such systems. But you had another alleged "expert" hired by MR-COG at the last meeting lie to you claiming building ART was justified.

Councilor's Pena's only concern is not whether ATR is justified, which it isn't but whether her District along Central will get enough beautification-vegetation and other projects. She couldn't care less that it's a waste of over $200 million of our tax dollars. Not surprising that most running for office support this boondoggle based on smoke and mirrors but it's not you/their money it's out taxes-fun/money to waste as you all see fit.

ANOTHER PHONY MEETING ON ART-LIKE THE OTHER CITIZEN OUTREACH MEETINGS

Much like the phony outreach "Collaboration" meetings sponsored by the city and facilitated by UNM for $15,000 to propose changes to the toothless $4.5 million monitors or their auditors (as PMR Inc.'s Steve Rickman recently describe their involvement with APD.

Some walked out of that August 21 meeting at the Peace and Justice Center after Rickman said that "We are Auditors. We stay until the job is done. We want all the paperwork in front of us, then we have the judge take action." This city already has auditors. We need enforcers of reform, something the Mayor's agreement with the DOJ won't allow. It's a sick joke played on us.

The planned BRT debate planned for September 3 at the UNM law school will be another PR stunt as the Mayor still plans to go through with the ART-damn the fact that it's unjustified..

Disappointed in you to say the least. While the best of the nine on the Council, you seem to be just all talk-nothing else. We deserved better

TO: Stephanie Lopez and the rest of APOA's disgraceful leadership

Info to the Mayor and those not shown including the Chief, City Councilors, media, PMR Inc, DOJ and others

We have watched you and Shaun at Council meetings, at Police Oversight Task Force meetings, at POC police oversight meetings, in TV interviews and elsewhere claiming that those many honest cops in APD's rank and file all believe that police officers are above the law.

They can use excessive force on citizens indiscriminately believing with no recordings being made or those made will be withheld or destroyed that the justice system will always justify all they do.

Well unfortunately for your buddy killer cops Perez and his partner (cleaned up for the hearing to try to make him look respectable) Sandy, for the first time there was one incriminating video and another incriminating audio recording released. The audio recording showed the premeditation on the part of Sandy and the video showed what actually happened-the murder.

The two murdered James Boyd last year who was only holding small knives to protect himself against that vicious K-9 dog that was straining at its leash to get loose to chew him to bits. The dog was eventually released and went after Boyd. That in itself is excessive force. Even some recordings of Boyd's murder were apparently withheld as reported in the attached Live Leak report.

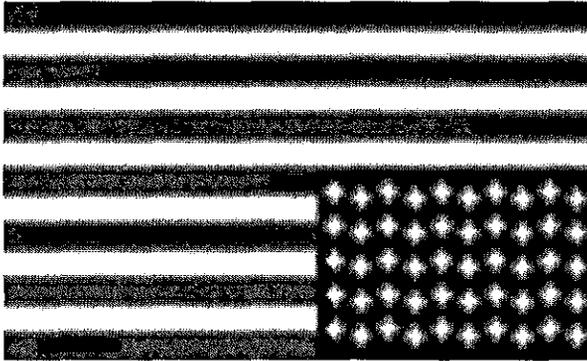

The K-9 officer was never threatened as the dog was in front of him but that's apparently what he was told to say on the stand because lying within APD is blessed and encouraged. The APOA could have taken the high road like the Mayor and say let the jury eventually rule or like Chief Eden refuse to comment rather than defend these two criminal cops.

Every time you and Shaun open your mouths, you make fools out of yourselves! You both are a disgrace to the uniform the many honest APD cops wear. Your APOA Board also includes killer cops who have never gotten punished.

See again the mindset of both of you captured in the August 18, 2013 disgraceful memo sent by the cowardly Shaun to the rank and file who pretended that this UNNAMED "disappointed board member" was other than himself. It reminded all cops in the APOA "For your information, it is us against them!"

One honest cop disgusted with Shaun, leaked the memo to us who we are repeatedly told that APD is here to serve and protect us and not themselves. To further insult our intelligence you dared to show the American flag below something neither of you have ever served under but instead have disgraced while APOA leaders.

Let me suggest the flag below (banned from being shown by the cowardly City Council) that better describes APOA's leadership. It is an official US Flag Code sign of distress to the citizens here because of your and APD's other corrupt leadership.

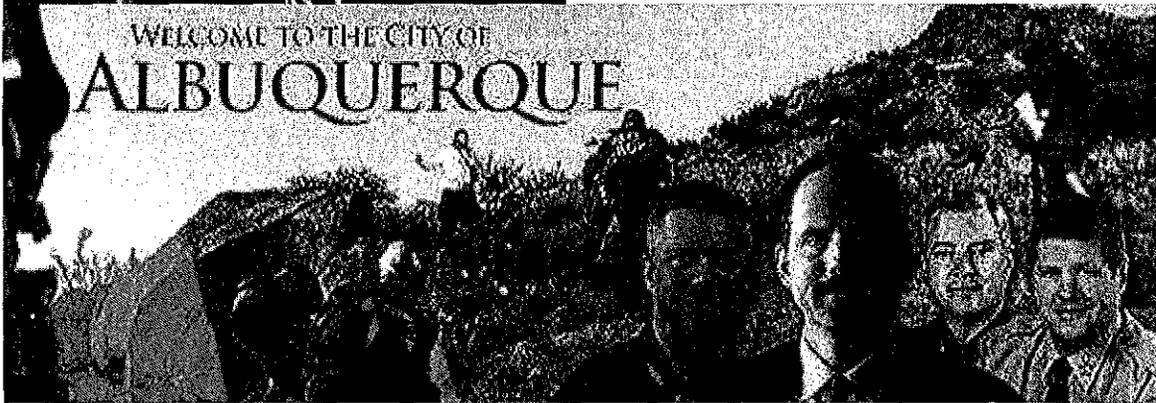

In your newsletter posting, you like Boyd killers Perez and Sandy are so arrogant to believe there will be yet another cowardly jury picked who fears APD retaliation-thus will vote will exonerate these two as the Jury did in the Levi Chavez Jr. murder case and cowardly secret grand juries did in other APD cop murder cases.

If that occurs, this City will continue to be the disgrace of the nation. You even ask the rank and file cops to look for fundraising opportunities. Why should they give even one dollar to these two?

I'm more than disgusted with you Stephanie for signing that newsletter posting likely prepared by Shaun. I'm glad you finally came out of hiding.

Dear Members,

We join you in your disappointment over today's decision to hold Retired Detective Keith Sandy and Officer Dominique Perez over for trial for the shooting of James Boyd. As an association, we find it unfathomable that two officers doing their jobs and protecting their community are now being criminally charged.

We must remind ourselves, and everyone else, that the judge in the case only ruled there is probable cause to send the case to trial and into the hands of a jury. As you know, the standard for probable cause is extremely low. We are confident that when a jury is presented all the facts that they will make the right call and find Officers Sandy and Perez not guilty of all charges.

The Albuquerque Police Officers' Association will continue to support Officers Sandy and Perez through this difficult time, including financially. Both men have already paid tens of thousands of dollars in legal bills, and those costs will only skyrocket as they now must face a drawn-out court battle and trial. Please keep your eyes out for fundraising opportunities and continue to keep these officers in your thoughts.

TO: POC and Task Force on August 20, 2013 by Silvio Dell'Angela-Stop Police Atrocities NOW!-SPAN

FYI is a recent appeal sent out to all APD union officers in response to a recent Eye on Albuquerque.com posting. It was sent out to all APD/APOA union members by Shaun Willoughby -the current APOA VP and its Political Action Committee Chairman. The disgraceful Shaun pretends that another APD officer authored it. It was directed against all honest officers and retired APD Sergeant mayoral candidate Paul Heh who dared break Schultz's and now Banks' oppressive blue code of silence on former Union President Joey Sigala's misuse of APOA dues. One honest officer recipient disgusted with Shaun's "it's us against them" appeal for all to shut up, leaked it to the "Eye" and TV reporter. Note the misuse of grammar and failure to proofread.

Prior to last night's 8/19 Council meeting new Chief Banks apparently asked a number of Councilors who are the willing enablers of police misconduct like Janice Arnold Jones, Trudy Jones and others to honor APD officers for some routine actions. Among the officers recognized was the Leah Kelly-Acata, the shooter of a young man downtown who was only cutting himself with a six inch round-tip butter spreader. The former Leah Kelly-now married, has also been the subject of numerous citizen public complaints (CPC) to the POC and because no recordings were made she was always exonerated. I pointed out to these councilors that they never bother to honor returning military vets who truly put their lives at risk. I am a Vietnam vet.

The disgusting letter from this disgraceful cop/union officer follows:

Disappointed board member. said...Hello,

I would like to say this to all officers. I would first like to voice my displeasure at the comments here and at work by officers against the APOA and it's staff present and past.

Everyone wants to judge what we do here. I am sick of it. I am sick of hearing you needy complaining officers bash us, the department, the city and it's leadership. You are all worthless. We work hard at keeping stability and you all do nothing but attack the place and tear it down. You all are the reason for things falling apart. Don't cry about how your money is spent when you all never show up for union meetings.

We know who is speaking out against us and you will see. All of you air our dirty laundry. Laundry that should be kept in house. You all give the community ammunition against us. You should know better. This liberal retarded band of vengeful activists called Albuquerque makes me sick. You are no better than them. These bunch of uneducated subhuman animals that constantly attack us, march against us and sue us for no other reason than to fill their greedy pockets so that they can buy more drugs to smoke up and shiny rims for their ghetto rides.

You have lost sight of the big picture. We should be backing eachother. For your information, it is us against them! Do half of these so called citizens have jobs? Probably not. They probably have EBT cards though. These entitled lowlifes have the guts to insult us in our house? But you all attack the APOA? As for money being stolen, that should have been handled in-house. There was no reason for that to get out. That was just plain stupid. Everyone here is angry and hateful. I will not standby and accept the trash talking just because we are not backing Paul. He should have left well enough alone. He decided to cross the blue line when he made complaint against a fellow board member. You don't turn on eachother. A rat is a rat. Period. Joey may have been a bonehead, but he was our bonehead. We could have taken care of it, but Paul had to be the hero and take the official route. This caused so much aggravation. Paul is also supported here. This is why we voted not to support him. He betrayed us just as all of you shit talkers here do. You cry about representation. You don't deserve representation and he doesn't deserve support. Be happy you have jobs. If you don't like it, quit and join the jobless moochers called Vecinos United and the rest of the entitlement crowd sucking the city dry. Go join the crybabies and see if anyone cares. Just like all of you complainers, these worthless whiners will eventually lose interest when their circus loses it's followers.

In closing, I will say this, nothing is perfect and nobody said life was fair. Get over it! You all deserve what you get. Crybaby people constantly bitching about the police when they contribute nothing to society and cops who are snitches who sell out their own. Sleep in the bed you all made. We do our jobs. Shame is you all have no idea because you are never at a damn meeting.

Cheers!

PROOF - APD Covered Up Production of Videos of Shooting of James Boyd

On March 17th 2014 Albuquerque Police (APD) shot and killed a homeless and mentally ill man - whose only crime was a violation of a municipal ordinance against camping in an open space area in the Sandia foothills at the eastern edge of the city.

On March 17th, the day after the fatal shooting, KRQE made a public records request for the videos of that incident. On April 1st, APD unlawfully denied that request.

BUT ... Here is the REST of that Story.

To this day - not only have the Keith Sandy videos mysteriously disappeared - but when the APD finally produced videos claiming to be ALL the videos of the incident - many of the videos were missing INCLUDING almost all that actually show the SHOOTING - most NOTICEABLY - the very videos (from the other shooter - Dominique Perez) from which the now-famous shooting clip was taken and released by APD that week.

On April 2nd, one day after KRQE's request was unlawfully denied, an investigator with the APD interviewed Kevin Fuller, APD Video Unit Supervisor. According to the interview - included in this video - Fuller was instructed on FRIDAY March 21st - to obtain the videos and place them in a Drop Box account.

On Thursday, March 27th - he was instructed to coordinate with several other persons - and to look at all the videos, frame by frame, and identify those parts that the Chief might have an "interest" in BEFORE they were released to the media.

Although those videos have since been released (those that have) WITHOUT being identified by officer or time - Fuller and his team broke down each video by officer and began this work. He was, at this time, told to "take out" all videos in which the audio or video contained the actual shooting.

On Friday March 28th Fuller was instructed to place the videos on another hard drive and provide them to the FBI. BUT ... on Friday evening - Commander Montano on behalf of the Chief contacted Fuller and stated he had "concerns" allegedly about the Chain of Custody. He ordered Fuller to "cease and desist." He was later then told to give Montano the hard drive and to delete the videos from the drop box account.

It is unlawful for the APD to withhold, delay, or deny public records that have no exemption provided by law. The APD clearly DELAYED production in order to find those videos it might find embarrassing - or creating liability - with regard to the act of the shooting of Boyd. It then DENIED unlawfully the production of those videos.

Since then - it has produced videos it has CLAIMED were the complete set. BUT there are several known videos missing - not least being all the videos taken by the second shooter, Dominique Perez, from whose videos the famous clip released by APD initially came. Although several other officers' videos are MISSING from the set produced as well.

It is clear that the APD has and continues to knowingly and willfully withhold those videos. This interview contains proof, at minimum, that the APD had delayed production of the videos, contrary to the Public Records law, in order to try and identify those videos it considered problematic - this specifically was a reference to anything officers may have said to each other during the incident AND anything that revealed either audio or video of the actual shooting of Boyd.

Thank you.

It's interesting that attendance lists were not included in UNM reports and we citizens must pay to get copies. It appears that UNM is also not interested in providing resumes of their $15,000 researchers.

Ms. Jessica Hernandez

Why no comments to this from you? Are you in hiding in your own law office bunker like your Mayor or just asleep like him afraid of challenging APD? See attached? Are you just another David Tourek with a dress?

Not surprising that the "DA's office" (whomever that is) now refuses after more than two years to release the APD videos of the killing of African American Vietnam vet with PTSD Vincent Wood by two trigger-happy cops in early July 2013 as discussed in the Journal article today. Is this "office" still afraid of retaliation (as was done to DA Brandenburg) from APD?

I made an NM IPRA request (attached) for these two video recordings and other information of the Wood killing over two years ago-on July 27 2013. I was repeatedly stonewalled by now departed APD records custodian Renaldo Chavez, interim Chief Banks and now Chief Eden with the blessing of the Councilors, Perry and Berry. Transparency here? Really?

Apparently APD has no problem with immediately releasing APD video recordings when they do something right. Berry's $4.5 + million James Ginger and his PMR Inc. people happily can't/won't do anything about these APD scams and their IPRA requests stonewalling because they are limited to just monitoring these efforts to give the illusion that APD really is reforming-reaching out.

Is this an early indication that the judicial system will again fail us and the judge will not charge Perez and Sandy for their murder of homeless camper James Boyd? I hope such is not the case.

I would have thought the names of attendees at these would have been included in the reports but surprisingly they weren't for some reason.

M005288

It appears much like these no-bid contracts to local attorneys, you give out contracts over the $75,000 Council approval limit-in this case the $150,000 to UNM and other contracts to them blindly without knowing the qualifications of just who besides the high paid lead will do the work.

Is it just one high paid Dr. Guerin and three low paid warm bodies/UNM graduate students who we taxpayers are paying $150,000 for? As a taxpayer, don't you care or are taxes just play/fun money?

Regarding Ms. Annabelle Romero who is leading the effort who now in the Office of Diversity and Human Rights, I (and likely other taxpayers) wonder just what unique skills she had to fill that likely high paid former "Senior Advisor" job to the Mayor and doing exactly what since he already had Rob Perry, a COO, the head of Constituent Services, Gil Montano and others.

Nothing from UNM-as expected although I copied them on my last response to you.

Is there any wonder those attending placed transparency among the lowest priorities desired to accomplish APD reform. Chief Eden and the Mayor must love it.

Where are you located as I may be in to get the signatures Monday prior to Council meeting? Any complete report on phases 1 and 2 by Dr. Guerin should have included these attendees' names.

Subject: NM Inspection of Public Records Act (IPRA) request-APD recordings of Vincent Wood killing

TO: Interim (to be sworn in next week) APD Chief Banks

IAW the NM IPRA, request within the prescribed 15 days (August 12) the opportunity to review the lapel audio/video recordings, belt audio recordings and recordings made at the APD Area Headquarters of the radio transmissions made by the two officers involved in the recent killing of Vincent Wood-a Vietnam veteran with PTSD.

Also please indicate when the TASERS were issued to each officer and confirm that each of the two had one prior to the killing. I just want to see and hear the recordings of the events leading up to and the actual shooting that the media said were made-no edited versions please and none that were made afterwards. This is public information under the IPRA as you know. I am not interested in seeing the CAD or anything else.

Since you will be Chief next week within the required 15 day IPRA response time, this is being sent to you. As you also know a lawsuit will be filed by the family against APD for what they feel is an unjustified killing. I am anxious to see whether this is true or not. Likely you know.

You are also aware that of the nine shots into Wood, some were into his back-unlike the version of the shooting Chief Schultz told the media during his press conference. You also read today's Journal editorial that tells us some there are finally "getting it." See "9 shots puts judicious use of force in question" on Page A6 of July 27, 2013 issue of Albuquerque Journal

If you are indeed an "independent thinker" as some say you are, I'm sure you also "get it" and want both transparency and accountability in what your officers do-unlike Chief Schultz. I assume this killing will also be considered by the POC in the near future. Likely others as well as I wonder why the CPC against Officer Roberto wasn't sent to the POC before she was fired. I understand IRO investigator (former Belen police chief) Paul Scotchdopole who has come under a lot of criticism for his APD-biased investigations had investigated this alleged charge against Officer Roberto. Is this seemingly premature firing of Roberto of any concern to you?

I await your prompt response

Regards,

Silvio

Dear Leonard and POB members,

You were glad, no doubt, as I was, to see the agency staff tonight; we've become used to their presence at our gatherings, and to appreciate their input. Tonight, however, they were not at our late-in-the-day 2.5 hour training out of choice as they are at most of our meetings. Rather, they were there because Ms. Hammer sent them an email telling them that tonight's meeting was a "mandatory training" session for them.

Consequently, each member of the staff came to our mandatory training session (as all our training sessions have been), rightly expecting that they had been planned for as trainees. To their immediate confusion, and then subsequent growing frustration, they were not seated at the table, provided materials, or included in the discussion.

Neither you or I, nor Ms. Ngoran or Mr. Baker, were made aware of the directive Ms. Hammer gave her staff. In the absence of this knowledge, we obviously could not have planned for their inclusion (though we all would have been glad to have them train with us). No one involved could have had any reason to believe, or even suspect, that of all the Board's mandatory training, Ms. Hammer would direct her staff to participate in this particular session. Strangely, this has not stopped Ms. Hammer from pointing the finger at Mr. Baker and I (?) as the architects of the misinformation.

Although we are not unused to this type of machination by Ms. Hammer, apparently designed only to undermine and to introduce friction, it is appropriate today that we ask Ms. Hammer to apologize to her staff, to us, and to our guest for this purposeful harm.

Also, please note that arrangements for the staff's participation in the NACOL conference still have not been made. It seems this lateness will not only have the effect of displacing staff members from accommodation in the conference hotel, but will also cost the City a great deal more in late airline reservations. Or, will staff be expected to make up for this unnecessary cost out of their own pockets? Should this be an agenda item?

Thanks, Mr. Waits, for any leadership you can offer; I'm at wit's end.

In the spirit of transparency, clarity, and true collaboration,

Moira

Last night somebody who got over-served at Dave and Busters (according to the APD officer) plowed through a fence here at ABQ Uptown Village and hit a concrete wall in my back yard. If that wall wasn't there, he might have hit the building where I was sleeping only so many feet away. This is my third email to the oversight board regarding the continuing stream of egregious problems with NM enforcement of traffic laws. I don't really know what to say that would be constructive, but as someone with some business experience, it seems to me that the laxity of traffic law enforcement on the part of the government is likely to become a major litigation problem at some point, and what can happen sometimes in these cases is that the cost of that litigation can vastly exceed the cost of just getting serious about proactively fixing the problem... not to mention that taking serious action to change NM driver's whole view of traffic enforcement could prevent whatever horrible injury or fatality it is that finally triggers the legal action against the city or the state that finally wakes government officials up.

Dear Sue --

The Case Review Committee met yesterday morning (10/27), and we discussed a series of complaints which demonstrate a pattern we believe might best be handled by Policies and Procedures.

I'm writing today to let you know that I've asked Leonard (as a member of the CRC) to bring you the details of this work and the recommendations of the CRC, for your review. Mr. Waits volunteered to act as liaison for this project.

I remain vitally interested in the work we've sent your way, and look forward to both learning more from your expertise and to our productive collaboration. Thanks for all you do, Sue, and please let me know if I can be of any assistance.

Best,

Moira

Dear Leonard and Joanne --

The "special case" I'd mentioned earlier, is something Paul will be able to present to us in full, but I want you to know the broad outline before we get seated tomorrow.

The issue involves the (non) licensing and registration of Police vehicles. There are two phases of the complaint, and this is actually the reason I became interested -- the original complaint was found Sustained, the CPOA attempted to correct the deficiencies, and now the same citizen is complaining of the same problem, which, in fact, _has not_ been corrected. I believe we have a special responsibility/opportunity to help.

The question of unregistered/unlicensed cars being in-service came up a year or more ago, in the form of a citizen complaint. The complaint was fully investigated, and found sustained. Paul did an enormous amount of investigation on this one, trying to ascertain where the buck stops, so to speak. I'll let him tell you all about that tomorrow.

Last week (2 weeks before, actually (?); I picked up current complaints for the first time this past Friday), I found out about a current complaint, _brought by the same citizen_, about, again, _the same problem_: Police vehicles in-service minus current licensing and registration. The citizen has come prepared with, I believe, 11 sets of proof for 11 infractions. This would mean that Paul, in the normal course of events, would have to investigate, fully, 11x app. 3-4 sets of evidences, witnesses, etc., for a complaint that has already been decided. Question is, of course: Why hasn't the problem been solved by APD and/or the City?

I asked Paul to wait a couple of days on proceeding with this incredibly time consuming investigation, so that the CRC can work with Mr. Harness (his first day today, hurrah!) to handle this problem that has already been tagged as a problem and that the CPOA/POC (?) already asked APD/ABQ to correct.

The issue is further complicated by the fact that when the citizen first received a letter of findings from the CPOA (RH), he received significant false information.

So, this is the head's up on this one. Paul will be bringing copies of the citizen letters -- they are not in the Dropbox system because 1) the first complaint was brought and decided before I asked for the Dropbox system to be set up several months ago, and 2) the second letter hasn't been written yet, of course.

But, I don't think we'll need the letters ahead of the meeting, as Paul will be showing us everything tomorrow anyway, which we can then illustrate with the hard copies of the letters he'll bring with him.

Thanks for all you do,

Moira

(info to others shown and not shown)

Your article today parroting the half truths or outright lies told to the Council trying to justify the POB's and Council selection of Ed Harness was inexcusable. This was much like Ryan Boetel joining the defense team for James Boyd's killer Dominique Perez. Did you ever take the time to look at the POB interview with Harness? Did you bother to read his posted resume?

Did you or anybody there bother to ask why this former Milwaukee cop Harness even applied for the job? Did we taxpayers pay for a nationwide search for the new Agency's Executive Director or did APD or former cop-POB member Beth Mohr just conveniently find him?

Now with former cops Harness, two on the POB and Harness's investigator Paul Scotchdopole, the Oversight Agency has lost all credibility with the people. Why even file a complaint against an APD officer as it would be a waste of time as the process has been corrupted?

The situation we have now in the Agency is comparable to having the judge, the prosecutor and two members of the jury all family members of bad cops against whom charges by the people are filed-CPCs or other.

You and other reporters there could take some lessons from the objective reporters at the ABQ Free Press on TV, bloggers and other news sources who have more credibility than any of you Journal reporters or your editorial board. You should be ashamed.

We expect soon to see an Journal editorial blessing the selection by the POB and Councilors of Harness-clearly the wrong as well as unqualified man for the job

Maybe if your Journal predecessor Jim Ludwick leaves the Animal Welfare Department, Berry might hire you to replace him as a reward to your loyalty to him and APD.

As for the Department's head Barbara Bruin, the only experience I had with her was to see the professionalism and integrity she showed to me and my neighbors to personally resolve a barking dog problem in our neighborhood.

Time to think of another profession Dan and/or look yourself in the mirror. You are an embarrassment to the news/journalistic profession.

TO: COUNCILORS

(info to those shown and not shown)

YOUR DISRESPECT FOR US AND THE CITY'S DISRESPECT SHOWN TO COUNCILOR GIBSON

Last night during the first 2 ½ hours, you tolerated the idiot treatment given to Councilor Gibson by Berry's disgraceful personal (not our City) attorney Jessica Hernandez and by CAO Perry trying to justify giving pay increases to the already overpaid Command staff while denying it to the rank and file.

Cops on the beat who talk to me knowing I would not reveal who they are, have told me what is really needed in APD is for all of the Command staff to retire or be fired-not have their already high pay raised. The presence of the disgraceful Eden and his fellow contemptuous of you command staff thugs in the back of the room was nothing but pure intimidation of you

After waiting 3 ½ hours along with others who signed up to speak last night (many of whom left in disgust including POB chairman Leonard Waites), I stayed.

Had we been given more than 2 minutes, all would have condemned the over 2 ½ hours you wasted on far too many long proclamations, the Q&A and considering Councilor Harris' bill before the public comment period. During the 2 ½ hours before you took your dinner break it's clear that you obviously like to hear yourselves talk/pontificate on local issues things that could have been resolved with the administration in non Council meeting communications.

But instead we public speakers were deemed by you to be unimportant much like APS's School Board's blatant disrespect of other citizens over the Valentino affair of which Councilor Brad Winter while still at APS was complicit in what Valentino had done.

One of the questions you chose to never ask of the arrogant Chief Eden was just what specifically were the alleged 3,400 APD calls for service over the past weekend by APD as reported in the September 9 Albuquerque Journal? How many of these were just calls to 911? Did these calls to 911 constitute 90% or more of the calls for service and not actual police responses? Or didn't you care?

M005297

The Journal article cited only five incidences over the weekend that APD responded to. Yet fiscally irresponsible Councilor Sanchez who seemingly treats our taxes as nothing more than play or fun money claims in the absence of a long overdue resource allocation study by the Chief says that we ought to increase APD's manpower to possibly as high as 1500 as the Chief wants but can never justify.

THE EYE AND ABQ FREE PRESS

See the September 9 (previously dormant since July 7) Eye on Albuquerque posting "The Thin Blue Line" at <http://eyeonalbuquerque.blogspot.com/>. It properly places the blame for all of the APD problems squarely on the "politicians who have created this mess and have no clue how to fix it."

"Having no clue" was too nice a description for the damned politicians here who do have a clue/know how to fix it but don't have the guts or integrity to do it. You know that this criticism includes you but you choose to be in denial about this "uncomfortable truth." One local journalist properly said you nine-like this Mayor are the worst of any in this city's history. .

Also check out the latest September 9 issue of the ABQ Free Press that includes columns by another disgusted retired cop Dan Klein and articles by Joe Monahan and other writers. This ABQ Press issue (unlike the Berry Journal) speaks the truth about the complicit Berry Journal, Mayor Berry, Governor Martinez and her machine.

It also has articles about APD's former IPRA directed stonewaller and now whistleblower Reynaldo Chavez, the top APD brass worrying that their illegal bonuses are on the front burner and Berry's Convention Center insider the ACRV who has been ripping taxpayers off for years despite their abysmal performance.

Seems like you nine couldn't care less with any of this-nor do the other politicians in NM.

MY AND OTHERS' TALKS MONDAY

Before I spoke, Tony Pirard gave you an earful but you brushed him off as you do with all of us. Tony, like me is far too blunt-won't mince words about his disgust with the culture of corruption here. It extends to US Attorney Damon Martinez and Judge Brack-the reason he was visited twice by Damon's US Marshals for daring to criticize Martinez, Brack and others here.

When I finally spoke, you again showed disrespect to me when my upside down flag-an official US Flag code signal of distress-something that this city is in was put on the overhead projector and again was not shown on GOV-TV as yet another blatant example of censorship. Neither did you show any of the other public speakers' overhead projector presentations on GOV-TV.

In addition to the many earlier e-mails sent you opposing the selection of former cop Ed Harness who was clearly unqualified to be the POB's first choice to be the next POA Executive Director (ED) my talk was again critical of all of the previous foxes (former cops) assigned to guard the hen house.

I expressed my disgust for the POB preference for Harness who as Tony Pirard also said was not only clueless about our city's oversight process but was an embarrassing choice. Ed's only job as a mediator in Milwaukee was in a chump change paying job working for the Better Business Bureau. His only claimed police oversight experience was confined to his local village.

MORE FOXES GUARDING THE HEN HOUSE

After abdicating your responsibility to us when choosing to be MIA in the negotiations with the DOJ, you first blessed the Mayor's hiring of Schultz's Taser buddies former Cincinnati police Chief Tom Streicher whose Department was also a mess and investigated by the DOJ. This was yet another fox guarding the henhouse. You also hired his and Schultz's lying to you attorney buddy Scott Greenwood. .

You also cared little that Judge Brack chose the toothless PMR inc made up mostly of former cops to merely monitor-"audit" APD. Yet even more foxes guarding the hen house. Then-not surprisingly last night you chose yet another former cop/fox Ed Harness to be the new Executive Director of the Police Oversight Agency never really challenging his sweet sounding B.S-eloquently blowing the same smoke at you that he had done earlier to the POB during their interviews with him and the four others.

Your failure to use due diligence in his selection was the very same thing you did when never bothering to check the resume of all 40+ applicants for the APD Chief's job (most with eye-watering qualifications) before you blessed Berry's clearly unqualified Eden.

Many or most of you apparently never bothered to see the POB interviews with the five then candidates for the important ED job and never questioned the lack of experience of Ed Harness before approving him. Another fox guarding the hen house.

After me, Barbara Grothus also told you how you have willing become part of the problem rather than the solution here but you brushed her off as well. She made the same points as in the Eye posting. You nine, Jessica Hernandez and Perry also gave the idiot treatment to Dianne Goodman regarding a bond question to be put on the ballot.

THE KNOWINGLY CLUELESS-EVEN ARROGANT CITIZENS YOU NAMED TO THE POB INCLUDED ONE CONDESCENDING ELITIST AND TWO FORMER POLICE OFFICERS

Rather than former LAPD police officer Beth Mohr who conducted the POB's interviews and promoted Harness for the job in the press showing up to talk, it was Dr. Moira Amado McCoy. She, like Beth and the others on the POB have never been involved in the old oversight process was the first to speak trying to defend their selection of Harness. You councilors were afraid of appointing knowledgeable people like us to the POB.

In McCoy's presentation, she demonstrated to all that she was an elitist who would repeatedly talk down to you and the rest of us as if we were all idiots-not up to her perceived PhD intellect. She would say that being an attorney was important for the ED although the POB already has an attorney. She incredulously deemed experience here irrelevant but claimed Harness was instead a "transformational leader-a collaborator." She also questioned our allegedly "dichotomous thinking" saying police are not enemies of the people.

She either naively or intentionally ignored the fact that bad-unaccountable APD officers and their leaders do in fact view themselves as enemies of the people. It's "them vs. us" as APOA VP Willoughby reminded the union rank and file in his secret 2013 memo previously sent you.

McCoy would further claim that being a collaborator (even working for the BBB in Milwaukee), rather than having relevant police oversight experience here was very important. (Memo to Maiora-That's NOT what the key job of the ED job is.)

Then it was POB member Joanne Fine who also said that experience here particularly in the past and current oversight process was also not that important. As I said POB President Waites left rather than speak.

Now with Harness, you have three other former cops in the Police Oversight Agency. This includes POB member and another strong Harness advocate former LAPD cop Beth Mohr, POB member Jeff Wilson and even one Executive Director's investigator-a former Belen senior police officer. It's clear where their loyalties lie. You know it but don't care.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR CANDIDATES SPEAK

Candidate and current NM prosecutor Ms Sprague during her talk pointed out that it was vitally important that people know the situation here and also that she is not a former police officer. That was right on.

The most qualified candidate Jay Rowland who was urged by the former IRO Judge Deaton to succeed him years ago proved from his interview with the POB and talk before you that he was the best man for the job. Likely he wasn't the Chief's or Mayor's choice who likely the POB first checked with as Jay was viewed as too knowledgeable-thus too dangerous.

During his talk, Harness claimed that being "empathetic and not intimidated" was his "persona." He then incredulously claimed the toothless settlement agreement between Berry's Cincinnati mercenaries and DOJ signed by Judge Brick was credible.

Ed also talked about APD's "core values" but never mentioned or discussed them. Any core values APD has are a joke-mere propaganda. He said the police nationwide are going through a "paradigm shift." Translated-this means there is now citizen and DOJ pressure to make them accountable, forcing them to wear body cameras and no longer above the law as our police officers have been here for far too long and still are.

While claiming he "empathizes" with police officers, Ed claimed he never said an officer's life was more important than that of a citizen. In fact contrary to his interview with the POB and what's in his resume, this man has shown himself to be dishonest regarding this. He is part of the brotherhood.

Ed showed no understanding that under the new Ordinance that APD Chief Eden still has the final decision in any police officer's punishment and can essentially ignore the POB as Schultz did to the old POC. A citizens' only recourse is to file a civil lawsuit.

I don't know who found Ed Harness in Milwaukee if not APD but it was clear Ed was making chump change working for the BBB there.

It's not clear why there had to be a secret ballot rather than have us see last night just who of you voted for Harness as the first choice. It showed your cowardice. Yet one Councilor claimed your votes would be later revealed.

POB'S VIOLATION OF THE OPEN MEETINGS ACT

Below is an e-mail you received yesterday from Attorney Paul Livingston with his attachment. It demonstrates just how bad this Police Oversight Agency Executive Director selection process was corrupted-but you don't care. It's really the way it is here as corruption is a part of our NM culture and few care while most feel that nothing they do will ever change it..

Dear City Councilors,

Attached is a letter giving notice of violations of the New Mexico Open Meetings Act by the Citizens' Police Oversight Agency concerning the selection of an Executive Director. As the attorney representing Mark Bralley and Vecinos United, I sought and secured a Writ of Mandamus ordering the Police Oversight Board to hold its selection of an Independent Review Officer "openly and in public in accordance with the mandatory provisions of the New Mexico Open Meetings Act." That was sixteen years ago, in 1999.

Unfortunately, City attorneys and officials are engaging in the same misconduct now with respect to selection of an Executive Director of the new Citizens' Police Oversight Agency. Please review the attached letter, and consider whether the City would be making the same mistake it made 16 years ago and whether the selection of a Director today would be in accordance with law and the rights of the people to know about the operations of their government. Thank you.

Albuquerque City Council
Rey Garduno, City Council President
Albuquerque, New Mexico

Re: Violations of the New Mexico Open Meetings Act, §10-15-1, et seq.

Dear City Councilors:

Sixteen years ago, in 1999, I secured a Writ of Mandamus to ensure the openness of the process used to select the Independent Review Officer for the City's Police Oversight Board. The POB, poorly advised by City attorneys, had been going into closed meetings under the exception for "Limited Personnel Matters" even though the definition of "limited personnel matters" limits the exception to matters concerning current employees. A copy of that writ is attached.

The new Citizens' Police Oversight Agency is now making the same error and holding closed meetings on the selection of an Executive Director. Please consider this a "written notice of the claimed violation to the public body" pursuant to §10-15-3(B) of the Open Meetings Act with respect to the selection of an Executive Director of the CPOA, as follows:

1. On March 12, 2015, at the first meeting of the Citizens Oversight Board, "Mr. Bullock from the City Attorney's Office advised that the Board should go into Executive Session" to discuss the process for selecting the CPOA's Executive Director.

2. At the April meeting of the CPOA the Acting Chair "discussed the search process to select the new Executive Director:

The Board is bound by a Court Order to conduct interviews in an open meeting. The Board will select three names to be sent to the City Council . . . The City Council will make the decision on who becomes the Executive Director.

3. On May 19, 2015, according to the Board's minutes:

Board Member Fine made a motion that the Board meet in Executive Session regarding selection of the Executive Director. Board Member Ring seconded the motion. . . . At 5:42 p.m. the Board met in Executive Session to discuss the process of hiring an Executive Director.

M005303

The Executive Session ended at 7:03 p.m. After Executive Session, Board Member Fine made a motion to note that only personnel matters were discussed during the Executive Session. . . .

4. At the June 11, 2015 meeting of the CPOA, "Board Member Fine made a motion that the Board go into Executive Session. . . . The Board went into Executive Session at 4:34 p.m. The Board reconvened at 7:07 p.m. Acting Chair Mohr stated that the Board discussed select personnel matters and pending litigation."

5. At a special meeting on July 29, 2015, the Board interviewed candidates in public but then went into an Executive Session to discuss personnel matters. When they returned from the Executive Session the Board voted to reserve the Council Chambers for August 4, 2015 in order to rank the Executive Director candidates.

6. Although it is unknown what happened on August 4, there was no public discussion about the candidates for the Executive Director position and it is unknown how and by whom the three ranked candidates were chosen.

7. On August 12, 2015, the regular scheduled August 13 meeting of the CPOA Board was cancelled without any indication of why or by whom it was cancelled.

The Limited Personnel exception (H2) to the New Mexico Open Meetings Act allows closed meetings to discuss personnel actions concerning current employees only. It does not exempt discussions of candidates from open meetings requirements when those candidates are not current employees. Because the Citizens' Police Oversight Agency has improperly met in closed meetings to discuss both the selection process and the selection and ranking of candidates for the Executive Director position any action(s) taken as a result of such meetings should be considered void.

Please consider these matters prior to voting on the selection of the CPOA's Executive Director.

Yours very truly,

/s/ Paul Livingston

Respondents-Defendants,

ORDER FOR ALTERNATIVE WRIT OF MANDAMUS

This matter having come before the court upon the verified Petition of Petitioners; it appearing to the satisfaction of the Court from the Petition that the Petitioners are entitled to the relief requested in the Petition; it further appearing that an Alternative Writ should issue; that Petitioners have no plain, speedy and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, and that this remedy is prescribed by statute.

IT IS ORDERED that an Alternative Writ of Mandamus in due form of law be issued by the Clerk of this Court commanding Respondents to:

1.) Comply with their mandatory, non-discretionary duty to give adequate notice to Petitioners and the public and hold meetings of the Police Oversight Commission openly unless and until such meetings are properly closed under the provisions of the Open Meetings Act, and to keep official minutes and other public records of all meetings of the POC.

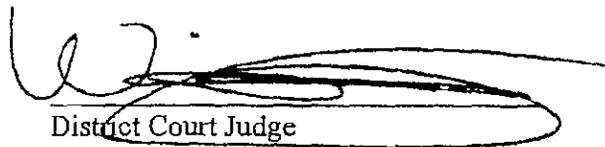

2.) Conduct the selection of the IRO openly and in public in accordance with the mandatory provisions of the New Mexico Open Meetings Act.

3.) Invalidate actions taken and decisions made at POC meetings or "Executive Sessions" which were held in violation of the Open Meetings Act.

4.) Pay to Petitioners the damages proximately resulting from Respondents' unlawful conduct together with costs including reasonable attorneys' fees, if any, and as may be later determined by the Court.

Or show cause before this Court at 3:30 o'clock p.m. on August 17, 1999, why they should not do so.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that true copies of the Petition, the Writ, and this Order be served upon Respondents by delivering them to the office of the City Attorney who shall distribute copies to Respondents.

FOLLOWING THEIR PARTY LEADER AND BEING POLITICALLY CORRECT

While our downtown City Councilor and two NM legislators seem more pre-occupied with supporting their Democratic President's desire to remove the Confederate flag everywhere, support the misguided demands of some local African American citizens, and viewed as politically correct, the Journal's editorial essentially said let's not be stupid by forcing the removal of this historical symbol from the downtown.

Meanwhile, their Council and NM representatives and Senate colleagues chose to remain in hiding on this flag issue-afraid to speak out. Apparently they didn't want to offend the P.C. crowd.

The advocates for the flag's removal and others also choose to ignore the brutality done by the Spanish, the US troops and others and here to the Native Americans yet those flags are deemed acceptable downtown. Nice double standard-PC boys

It also seems hypocritical that these three legislators and this Mayor and other government leaders choose repeatedly to ignore the killings of black and Native American citizens by APD and other NM police officers-deeming them (in APD cop still on the force-Trey Economidy's words) just "human waste" to be disposed of or brutalized.

The recent mistreatment of Sandra Bland by a Texas State trooper and editing of the video is not unlike what also happens here to our black citizens. Nobody believes that Sandra committed suicide in her cell. That will be the subject of another of my e-mails.

IGNORED POLICE VIOLENCE AGAINST NATIVE AMERICANS

Attached are two articles worth reading discussing just how Native Americans are treated by police here.

The June 15 one (with the photos omitted) was a La Jicarita article sent to me at <https://lajicarita.wordpress.com/2015/06/08/indian-killers-police-violence-against-native-people-in-albuquerque>.

One significant extract from this posting is, "According to a Department of Justice investigation, the Albuquerque Police Department routinely engages in unconstitutional policing and frequently employs unjustified fatal force. But its scathing report from last April made no mention of violence against Native people."

As recently as February of this year, Albuquerque Mayor Richard Berry, who refused to attend the Navajo Nation Human Rights Commission hearing, told a local radio station that police violence in Albuquerque has nothing whatsoever to do with race." Really Mr. Mayor?

Years ago before APD started stonewalling my NM IPRA requests, its records custodian provided me with an incriminating CD containing details of over 100 Citizen Police Complaints (CPC) against APD officers listing their names and how the IRO, POC and Chief ruled on them.

In it were numerous complaints made by Native Americans. I provided copies of this CD to the DOJ, Councilors, and the media but nobody cared—clearly not the DOJ

The second related article (attached) on the mistreatment treatment of Native Americans here was posted on the NMSU Frontera NorteSur (FNS) website—titled "Cowboy, Rabbit and Border Town Violence." It describes Albuquerque as a border town where many APD police officers hold Native Americans in contempt.

VIEWS BY OUTSIDERS OF ALBUQUERQUE AND NEW MEXICO

We are viewed my many throughout the U.S. as even worse than a border town as the FNS News describes us..

Reference again my July 17 e-mail to many of you that discusses the perception of Albuquerque and New Mexico by those I talked to in VA and NJ. An extract of it is shown below

TO: ALL-Bcc

I just returned from attending the July 10 retirement ceremony of my USMC Colonel nephew at Quantico USMC base VA and later attended to family estate matters in New Jersey. The many I spoke to said what they know best about Albuquerque is (1) the hot air balloon festival, (2) the high crime rate and (3) our out of control police. Most looked on us as just a corrupt, backward city and state.

While our Mayor has his propaganda machine (primarily the Journal) working hard to convince all here that everything is just fine, many in the rest of the US apparently believe otherwise.”

The following is an extract from the July 5 EYE posting that supports this belief held by many in the city as well as nationwide. Jul 5, 2015 EYE ON ALBUQUERQUE “Time to Face the Facts-Berry has proven to be the worst Mayor in the history of Albuquerque. FACT! APD is being negligently mismanaged. FACT! And we the citizens are paying the price for both. FACT! What to do about this horrific chaos has to be the primary focus of every citizen. Do we try and fire the mayor thus causing and creating more problems to the chaos he has already created?

Do we try and push a completely useless City Council to do their jobs? Do we take to the streets like a bunch of wild buffoons and commit civil disobedience? Do we go out and buy a gun and start carrying it strapped to our sides and take the law into our own hands? The frustration among the citizens is horrendous. Albuquerque is a magnet for every criminal in the country because we have the worst run city and police department in the USA.

BLATANT FISCAL IRRESPONSIBILITY

All of the Mayor’s and his minions’ denial of our most serious problems reminded me of a recent cartoon printed in the Journal.

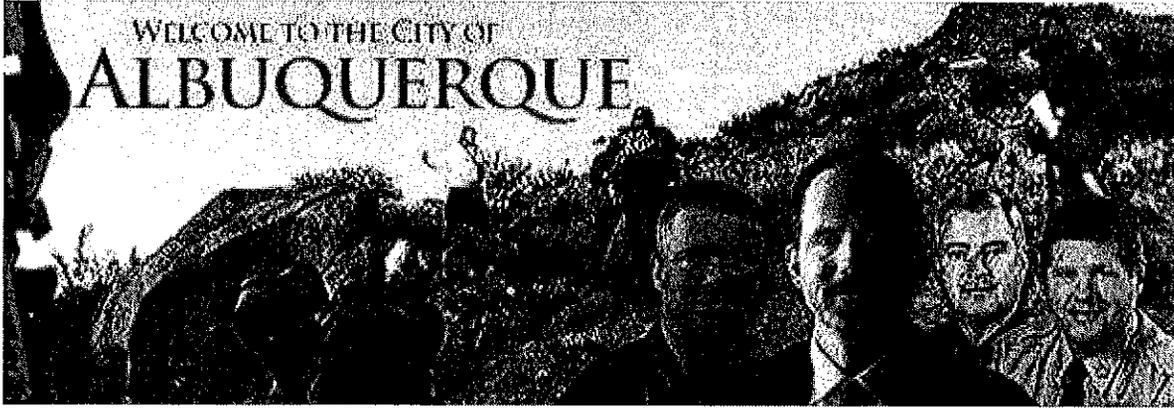

It showed California Governor Brown looking over a dried up dead carcass in the desert and telling it, “Forget about the serious draught we are facing, I’m building a high speed rail line between San Francisco and San Diego.

Well our Mayor is telling us to forget about the high crime rate/violence and police misconduct that has made Albuquerque the disgrace of the nation. Just remember that in addition to the Rockefeller Center sized skating rink, clock and other tax wasting projects planned for the Plaza and elsewhere in my “cherished’ downtown and elsewhere in the City,

I’m also going to jam down your throats a $120+ million Albuquerque Rapid Transit (ART) System along a ten mile stretch of Central.

I plan later this year to tear Central up-damn the business owners along this stretch. My ART unlike Mayor Chavez proposed never done “modern streetcar’ will be “New Mexico True.” If you have any questions, just ask my spokesman Gil Montano as I’ll be unavailable.

Indian Killers: Police Violence Against Native People in Albuquerque

(Photos omitted)

By DAVID CORREIA

In April 1974, three white high school students from Farmington, New Mexico murdered three Navajo men, Benjamin Benally, John Harvey, and David Ignacio. The teenagers bludgeoned the faces of the three men, and caved in their chests with basketball-sized rocks. They exploded firecrackers on their bodies and tried to burn off their genitalia. When authorities found the men, they were burned and beaten beyond recognition.

The brutal murders were nothing new in Farmington, where white high school students had been known to sever the fingers of inebriated Navajo men and display them proudly in their lockers at school. Murdering and torturing Navajo men and women in the border towns that surround the reservation even has its own name: Indian Rolling.

Protests erupted in the wake of the murders and lasted for months. One of the protest leaders, John Redhouse, explained Indian Rolling as a kind of blood sport:

“We didn’t see the murders as the act of three crazy kids. We saw it as a part of a whole racist picture. For years it has been almost a sport, a sort of sick, perverted tradition among Anglo youth of Farmington High School, to go into the Indian section of town and physically assault and rob elderly and sometimes intoxicated Navajo men and women of whatever possession they had, for no apparent reason, other than that they were Indians.”

Indian Rolling is another word for lynching, and it’s a part of everyday life in Indian Country. According to a 2004 report by the US. Department of Justice, Native people experience violence at rates twice that of the rest of the population. The vast majority of this violence, more than 70%, is committed by persons of a different race. This is particularly true in New Mexico where, according to a 2003 study by the New Mexico Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, Native people constantly experience “acts of ethnic intimidation; threats of physical violence, assaults, and other potential hate crimes” in border towns like Gallup, Farmington and Albuquerque.

Just this past summer, in the early morning hours of July 19, 2014, three Albuquerque teenagers wandered the back alleys of their neighborhood looking for homeless men to beat up. For months, in gangs of three and sometimes more, they hunted Native homeless men in a blood sport of violent beatings. On that morning, they found three Navajo men sleeping on mattresses in the weeds of a vacant Westside lot. They gathered up broken cinder blocks and bashed in the heads of two of the men, Allison Gorman and Kee Thompson.

A third man escaped. The boys finished Gorman and Thompson with metal poles. The survivor told police the boys had done this before and the boys—the oldest was 18 and the youngest 15-years old—admitted to police that they sought out Native, homeless men to victimize.

The only exceptional thing about these brutal murders is how common they are in New Mexico. In the towns that border New Mexico's many Indian reservations, Native people are more likely to be poor, more likely to be incarcerated and more likely to experience violence than any other group. Since July of 2013, in Gallup alone, more than 170 Navajo citizens have died of unnatural deaths.

Albuquerque is just as violent for Native people. Of the estimated 25,000 Native people living in Albuquerque, 13 percent are chronically homeless like Gorman and Thompson. And many of them live in a part of town that Albuquerque police call the "War Zone." According to the homeless Native people who live in that part of town, it's a war waged by police against Native people.

A few blocks from the Albuquerque Indian Center — a place where homeless Native people can get a free lunch, connect with social services, and even pick up their mail — one man told me he's constantly harassed and that it often comes at the hands of the police, not teenagers. "You know I'm an alcoholic and I drink on the streets, and [the police] picked me up and they brought me all the way down to the Bio Park and they beat me up, while I was in handcuffs, and then they unhandcuffed me and let me go."

A few blocks away another man who told me, "I was walking on the street and [a cop] was following me. I'd go down the alley and he'd follow me. 'Why don't you go back to the Rez? You're not welcome here in Albuquerque,' he told me." A Jicarilla Apache man named Natani at a homeless tent camp had the same experience. "This is ours, our land," he said. "And the cops they'll say things like 'Why do you want to bring the reservation our way?'"

Natani didn't want me to take his photo, so I took a picture of our shadows instead. When I asked how often harassment turns violent, he gave me an impatient look. "It's usually," he said. He showed me his wrists. They were covered in scabbed-over wounds. They were from handcuffs, he said. He pulled off his sunglasses. One eye was red and swollen. "They maced me in this eye. They walked up to me from behind and maced me like this," he said, as he put his hand inches from my eyes to show me how it was done. "How common is this? Does this happen to everyone?" I asked. "Yes," he said. "They handcuff you and then they beat you and then they take you to the hospital and say something like 'We found him this way.'"

Days later near the Indian Center one woman told me a cop recently slammed her head to the pavement. "Then he just got back in his car and drove away." Her friend described constant harassment. "They pull up and tell us to leave or they'll arrest us for loitering," she said. I asked where this happens. "Everywhere," she said, "even when we're waiting at the bus stop."

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Native Americans make up 0.8 percent of the population, but comprise nearly two percent of the victims of police violence, a rate greater than any other racial group. And while police kill young black men more than any other group, they kill Native Americans at a higher rate.

Much of this violence happens in New Mexico, the state with the highest rate of police killing in the United States in 2014. And among New Mexico's police departments, the Albuquerque Police Department has the highest rate of fatal police shootings, and one of the highest in the country. More than twenty percent of homicides in Albuquerque in 2014 were committed by police officers. Since 2010, Albuquerque cops have shot nearly 50 people, killing 28.

Navajo leaders sent the Navajo Nation Human Rights Commission to Albuquerque in December to investigate last summer's double murder. But commissioners were equally as interested in police violence. They scheduled a public hearing at the Albuquerque Indian Center on the treatment of Navajo citizens by Albuquerque law enforcement. Leonard Gorman, the executive director of the Commission, began the hearing by reminding people of the problem. "The role of the police is supposed to be to protect and serve, but our people tell us that we need to protect ourselves from the police."

The first person to testify described constant harassment by Albuquerque police. "I was the Indian, so I was the bad guy, I guess. The police aren't going to help us. They don't care." Another person testified about police harassment of Native homeless people, saying, "It happens whether we're homeless or not. The danger is everywhere. But the homeless are just easier targets. Someone was shot to death on the streets recently and no one even heard about it. It wasn't reported."

According to a Department of Justice investigation, the Albuquerque Police Department routinely engages in unconstitutional policing and frequently employs unjustified fatal force.

But its scathing report from last April made no mention of violence against Native people. As recently as February of this year, Albuquerque Mayor Richard Berry, who refused to attend the Navajo Nation Human Rights Commission hearing, told a local radio station that police violence in Albuquerque has nothing whatsoever to do with race.

I asked Natani what explains the police violence against Native people and the general indifference to Native suffering in New Mexico's border towns. "Prejudice," he said. "It's all the same from Farmington to Albuquerque."

Cowboy, Rabbit and Border Town Violence.

Most people probably don't think of Albuquerque as a border town. But Dine (Navajo) Melaine Yazzie squarely defines the central New Mexico city as a classic one. Surrounded not only by Native and trust lands, Albuquerque and its suburbs are built on an old indigenous land base that now hosts geopolitical and economic powerhouses such as Sandia National Laboratories, Kirtland Air Force Base and Intel Corporation.

"There's the contradiction," Yazzie told FNS. "Border towns are established on Native land but power and money is not with Native people." Although more than 50,000 Native Americans reside in the Duke City, the indigenous community does not possess local political representation, Yazzie added. Yazzie, who works with the new activist organization The Red Nation, spoke to FNS at the beginning of a vigil/memorial held in the Duke City this past weekend. As thunder and lightning choreographed a graying summer sky that soon splashed city streets with priceless rain, Yazzie and dozens of others assembled on an East Central Avenue corner July 19 to protest violence against Native Americans and honor two Dine men, Allison "Cowboy" Gorman and Kee "Rabbit" Thompson, who were viciously beaten to death July 19 a year ago while they slept on an empty lot off Central Avenue.

Three teenagers, Alex Rios, Nathaniel Carrillo and Gilbert Tafoya, stand accused of a crime that shocked the city, the Navajo Nation and even the world. "Cowboy and Rabbit: We Remember," "Native Lives Matter" and "Stop Racist Violence against Natives" were among the messages on signs memorial participants waved at passing motorists on the Central Avenue main drag. Grasping flowers and listening to prayers, the attendees included members of Thompson's family, local residents and activists from The Red Nation, the Albuquerque Center for Peace and Justice, the Party for Socialism and Liberation, the anti-police brutality organization ABQ Justice and other groups. Mourning over the loss of friends, one tearful Native woman broke into song for a few moments. "I want my friends back, but they're not coming back," she sobbed.

As at least three Albuquerque Police Department (APD) units monitored the gathering, tense moments developed when a beefy driver for Greg's Towing attempted to haul away a car driven by KOB news reporter Stephanie Claytor that was parked on a property behind the memorial site where a Circle K convenience store and a McDonald's do business.

A small crowd rallied and formed a wedge between the tow truck's rear and Claytor's car, "liberating" the vehicle from the creeping menace of a lowered truck ramp and allowing the reporter enough time to wiggle the vehicle out of its predicament. Arms folded, the hapless tow truck driver insisted that he must remove the vehicle, but was unable to act. A transit cop appeared and barked at the crowd, "If you don't want to get arrested, get off the property now!" "Boycott Circle K!" the crowd shot back. But the real focus of the day was on victims of violence like "Cowboy" Gorman and "Rabbit" Thompson.

In a press release announcing the vigil/memorial, The Red Nation called on the public to take action:

"This pattern of violence and racism can longer go unnoticed. Too many families have suffered. It must stop." In conversations with FNS both during and after the memorial, members of Thompson's family shared memories of their loved one. Sister Veda Yazzie, aunt Louise Yazzie and nephew Ivan Yazzie described Thompson as a fun-loving, helpful and outgoing man who enjoyed basketball, cooking, traveling, playing cards and heavy metal music.

According to relatives, Thompson herded sheep in the summer and looked for construction jobs the remainder of the year. "He comes and goes and comes back," said Louise Yazzie, who raised Thompson from the time her nephew's mother died until he when he went out into the world after his 18th birthday. Switching her words between English and Navajo, Yazzie said Thompson liked to help "the girls" bake cakes. He loved food, especially roast mutton, fried bread, tortillas, mild and hot chile, and "all kinds of stews," she said. The Yazzies are from Church Rock, New Mexico. Three days prior to July 19, the small Dine community not far from Gallup marked another grim anniversary. On July 16, 1979, the breach of a uranium mill tailings pond sent a river of contamination gushing down the Rio Puerco, wreaking havoc on the ecosystem and Dine lives.

Veda Yazzie spoke of her brother's violent death in Albuquerque as an unimaginable event. "It was devastating for me. I didn't think we'd lose him that way. It was a shocker. I never imagined anyone dying like that, the way he did..," Yazzie said. "I don't think any human being should die like that."

Ivan Yazzie said his uncle's murder and the subsequent arrest of three teenagers for the crime shook his outlook to the core. "It made me lose hope in the judicial system and our country as a whole," the young man said. The Red Nation's Melanie Yazzie said the murders of Cowboy and Rabbit helped inspire the formation of her group late last year. Co-founder Sam Gardipe placed the emergence of The Red Nation in the context of long struggles for survival.

"It was a government policy of extermination at one point and we aren't supposed to be here. We're supposed to be in a museum.." Gardipe said. "We've survived all of it. It's the resilience, it's the Native. We know how to survive, but it isn't easy. The beauty of Native folk is that we can survive in our homeland." A Pawnee veteran of many struggles, Gardipe said The Red Nation unites older activists like himself with those from a new generation like Melanie Yazzie who are articulating both historic and contemporary concerns.

The Red Nation defines itself as a coalition "dedicated to building a widespread movement to liberate Indigenous peoples from colonialism." While not underrating the importance of environmental and sovereignty struggles, The Red Nation fills a void by focusing on urban Indian issues of violence, poverty, homelessness and health care, Yazzie said. Seventy percent of Native Americans live off the reservation in urban centers like Albuquerque, she stressed.

The Native activist said the particular site of the July 19 anniversary memorial for Thompson and Gorman was selected because it's located in an impoverished part of the city where many Natives live. As if no additional proof was needed of the conditions prevailing along East Central, a woman independently working from a truck off to a side of the memorial gave away free burritos to a steady file of people coming in from the streets to fill their stomachs.

The urgency of addressing the issues raised by The Red Nation and others was further reinforced only days before the memorial. KOB and other local news media reported this week that APD is searching for a purple SUV linked to a July 11 attack on a Native homeless man in southeast Albuquerque. The attackers tossed fireworks at the sleeping man, setting him on fire. Quoted by KOB, APD spokesperson Tanner Tixier said the still publicly unidentified victim has spent more than two weeks in intensive care.

As one of its first actions, The Red Nation staged a February 2015 demonstration in Gallup that protested violence against the local Native community. According to Yazzie, The Red Nation has counted 170 “unnatural deaths” in Gallup between 2013 and April 2015 from causes that include murder, hypothermia, alcohol, and run-overs by trains and automobiles. “I guarantee you, (the death toll) is higher now,” Yazzie added. “It seems that nobody cares.”

FNS asked Yazzie about anecdotal reports of Dine women being abducted on or near the Navajo Nation. “There is no reliable source for numbers,” Yazzie said. “I have heard plenty of stories of Native women being kidnapped in border towns like Gallup and trafficked into sex trafficking,” Yazzie said.

In a broad historical sense, The Red Nation’s border town protests weave a loop with the indigenous mass activism of the late 1960s and 1970s. “It has come full circle,” Gardipe observed. “The next generation wants to do something.” As a 17 year-old, Gardipe said he marched during the times when organizations that included the National Indian Youth Council, the American Indian Movement, the Coalition for Navajo Liberation, and the UNM Kiva Club mobilized thousands for protests in Gallup, Farmington, Window Rock and Albuquerque.

The grievances ranged from the exploitation of Native crafts and culture in tourist-oriented Gallup to the beating deaths of Dine men by white teenagers in Farmington, New Mexico. The Farmington atrocities attracted the attention of the United States Commission on Civil Rights, with an advisory committee to the Commission filing a landmark 1975 report after conducting an independent investigation and holding a field hearing.

Following a comprehensive examination of conditions facing the Farmington-area Native community, the advisory committee “concluded that Native Americans in almost every area suffer from injustice and maltreatment,” according to a University of Massachusetts summary of the report. Forty years later, Gardipe assessed the earlier movement as having some positive but not enduring effects. “I think it got better for awhile, but it didn’t last,” Gardipe reflected. “I don’t know if the city officials didn’t care or if the people didn’t care.” In a déjà vu of sorts, Gardipe said The Red Nation was contemplating upcoming actions that include a protest in Farmington, where more recent spates of violence against Native men recall previous years.

Members of Kee “Rabbit” Thompson’s family said they plan to monitor the trial of the three teens charged in a brutal murder. Thompson’s relatives expressed fears that the trio of alleged killers would get off the hook and not be held accountable for their actions. “If they get away with it, they’re telling society, hey guys, you’re on your own, and it’s not just Natives,” sister Veda Yazzie said. Thompson’s sibling said life imprisonment justice would be fitting justice for the alleged killers of her brother. Urging parents to take responsibility for their young, Yazzie added that Thompson’s murder inflicted a pain that “doesn’t go away” or let her know when it will stop. “It’s really hard,” she concluded. “At times I think, when is this nightmare going to end?” -Kent Paterson

(sent this Bcc-DOJ-pass to Loretta Lynch)

In many past e-mails I pointed out that the Journal, particularly its editorial staff was largely responsible for the culture of corruption, lack of transparency and lack of accountability here.

I often compared Journal Editor Kent Walz (who clearly is in Berry's and Perry's pockets) to Hitler's propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels-so I was not surprised that none of my letters to the editor are ever published.

Our disgraceful Mayor, his (always flushed, red faced-seemingly substance impaired) CAO Perry (who has been compared in the ABQ Free Press by former APD cop Dan Klein to a Mafia leader worse than Al Capone) and Perry's Mafia "soldiers" (Eden and his senior command staff) are never criticized by their Journal buddies.

This is why I often lamented the loss of the ABQ Tribune and urged citizens instead to go to the ABQ Free Press, to the Eye on Albuquerque (see latest blog today) and Joe Monahan's blog sites and to other news sources in addition to some select TV reporters to get the truth.

Today's Journal article by Ryan Boetel, who has apparently joined the Perez, Sandy killer cop defense team again chose to ignore the fact that APD never releases incriminating recordings showing their many unjustified shootings and other excessive uses of force. These recordings would expose the lies told to the public.

To try to justify not only the Mayor's unjustified retention bonuses to the command staff passed by an apathetic Council's weeks ago, and to approve the double-dipping proposal by the Mayor sponsored by my NM Representative (former BCSO cop) Bill Rehm, on the front page today was the Boetel's article on the worsening officer shortage.

Boetel would falsely claim that it may be attributed to APD's "strict lapel camera policy" but deliberately ignores the fact that they don't release any incriminating recordings made.

Boetel and the others at the Journal and those downtown choose to ignore the fact that Eden still refuses to respond to my October 1 NM IPRA request for the recordings of their most recent APD shooting because the recordings would prove Eden and his shooter lied. Will the Councilors ask Eden about this Monday? They didn't ask Huntsman at the last meeting when Eden chose to be MIA.

The reason BCSO's Sheriff Manny Gonzalez has little problem recruiting is that he doesn't require that his deputies have video camera-thus can lie with impunity to justify their excessive force.

M005320

Yet the APATHETIC BERNCO Commissioners don't care.

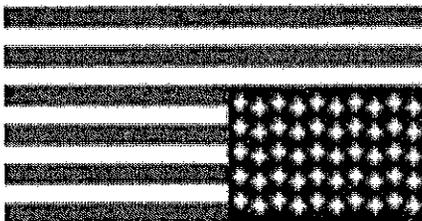

The DOJ along with their and Judge Brack's appointed toothless PMR Inc monitors have also betrayed we-the people along with our new US AG Loretta Lynch who believes only "Black Lives matter". She is an embarrassment and clearly has no interest in real police reform.

See the scathing report on the Journal below by Arthur Alpert. It's no wonder that the Journal never released the results of their recent survey showing how readers feel about its editorials and other biased reporting.

"Falsifying The News"-Albuquerque Journal Watch

<http://civicpolicy.com/journalwatch/?p=7560&cpage=1#comment-12704>

October 16th, 2015 • By Arthur Alpert

Gosh, I've been Albuquerque Journal watching on and off for five years now. Just checked.

Seems I started in January, 2010. That's surprising. So is my initial naïveté. I anticipated I would criticize both the political bias seeping into the news pages and the daily's amateur, incompetent journalism. As it turns out, and I apologize for this, I haven't written much on the latter.

For as I read it became absolutely clear that bias seeping into the news was the least of it. That happens, it's forgivable and what I saw wasn't. It was, however, shocking, so shocking I squirmed and tried to evade it for a long time. Put simply, the editors were deliberately falsifying the news. (Whether they knew what they were doing or persuaded themselves their actions were justified I don't know. That's a question for students of our human capacity for deceiving ourselves. I'd guess they are sometimes self-aware, sometimes not.)

Their actions, however, were unambiguously political, not journalistic. They cut sentences and paragraphs that contradicted the Journal's editorial agenda from stories supplied by the Associated Press or Washington Post. Once in a while they inserted sentences or paragraphs advancing the Journal's politics into news stories. This was done secretly, not a word to readers, no matter that the daily trumpets its dedication to transparency. As the Journal uses the word, I learned, transparency is a virtue for other institutions.

That wasn't all I saw. When stories displeased, the editors sometimes totally ignored them, no matter how big. Or relegated them to page C11. Or, as when Pope Francis delivered his historic encyclical on climate change, devoted three whole paragraphs inside the A section. Three. Remind me to write another day about the Journal's religious narrative, which is, essentially, praise the Lord except when His (Her?) representatives question radical individualism, laissez-faire, corporatism, materialism, unlimited profit, hierarchy or war as first recourse.

Sometimes the editors were subtle. When a story casting the Journal's allies or causes in a bad light couldn't be totally ignored, they set out to mute it. Muting's first rule is keep it off the front page. Two, don't publish anything for a day or two, longer if possible. Three, when it's time to concede something happened, do so with a "second-day lead." (Or third, fourth or fifth.)

That way the rebuttal from the Journal's buddies becomes the lead paragraph. This has multiple benefits. First, the buddies' case is headlined. Next, the original sordid details can be left at the bottom of the pyramid, probably in the jump. Best yet they may be left out because, as everybody knows, the news hole is not infinite.

Simultaneously, the editors ran political campaigns in the "news" columns, of which the War on Obamacare (in collaboration with politicized coverage from AP's Washington Bureau) is the longest running. See the Journal's Friday, Oct. 16 issue, A4, for the latest fusillade. It became impossible, too, over the years, to ignore the editors' version of accountability, extolled almost as much as they do transparency. At the Journal, this meant holding political opponents' feet to the fire while sparing friends.

Have they ever asked Rep. Steve Pearce where that raging inflation he predicted years ago is? Ever asked him any hard question? Based on my scrutiny of the “news” pages, no. Also, as often documented here, the editors exercised a range of techniques for tricking readers – misleading headlines, placement and display of stories, pull quotes and such.

Meanwhile, back at the Op Ed page, editors carefully labeled the (rare) dissenting essays as “liberal” or (for example) coming from a union or pro- consumer organization. Yet essays pushing the Journal’s agenda ran with no political ID (e.g., conservative, Tea Party), no industry ID (e.g., oil, gas, Big Pharma) and no information on who paid for them.

In fact, Journal editors still run columns with false IDs, “beards” in urban parlance. In sum, I found a newspaper where the editors so often substituted political judgments for news judgments that I came to call them political commissars. Aside – I’ve often thought of devoting a post to a description how real news people conduct the daily meetings where they discuss priorities in coverage and assignments. Let me know if you might find that interesting.

Given this five-year learning curve, I can no longer extend the benefit of the doubt to Journal editors. Yes, I keep an eye out for the innocent mistake, one wants to forgive, but my operative question as I unfurl the paper at breakfast is, how low will they go today? Which brings us to Hillary Clinton and Benghazi and, lately, her private email server. We’ll examine now the Journal has treated that story, or confluence of stories, next time. I promise an eye-opener.

To the POB

FYI are some comments from others who received my e-mail to you yesterday . You should only nominate Jay Rowland to be the new Executive Director-nobody else.

Silvio

"I'm sure Robin applied. I have reason to believe the POB read the DOJ report about the Mickey Owings shooting and then compared it with her statement to City Council about the same subject and drew some conclusions about her honesty. "

Regarding the other candidate I mentioned-Edna Sprague, one I respect who knows her well told me that "in her current position she is a "vehement defender of all APD police"-thus would make a poor Executive Officer."

My disgraceful District 8 Councilor Trudy Jones' representative to the old POC-the arrogant PhD Carl Foster was a disgraceful obstructionist to any APD accountability-just a Republican political hack. Carl appeared on TV last night criticizing you on the POB for alleged defiance of the Open Meetings Act.

TO: The Honorable Police Oversight Board Members

Info to City Councilors and Bcc to others

After viewing your meeting on GOV-TV last night that included interviews of five candidates for the "Executive Director of POA, the following are some of my observations/questions:

1. I assume that since current interim Executive Director Ms. Hammer was not interviewed, she did not apply for this POA Executive Director position or being considered as a sixth candidate
2. The talk by attorney Alan Wagman was right on target saying essentially that this selection is critically important-that we don't need more of the same (translated-not another Robin Hammer)
3. This position never required that it be an attorney when Ms. Hammer was hired for the IRO job since an attorney is already assigned to the IRO-yet all were attorneys.
4. Who chose these five candidates who you interviewed and more importantly who decided that you had to send three of the five interviewed

M005324

- to the Council to pick one? Only one stood out!
5. You saw their resumes-something that should have also been posted on the website. One candidate-a former Colorado sheriff's deputy had conflicting-erroneous information on his resume
  6. Two of the applicants were former law enforcement/police officers both of whom had beliefs like Ms. Hammer.

Your selection decision is easy.

The only candidate that stood head and shoulders above the other four was former IRO during 2002-2007 Jay Rowland.

Based on his demonstrated knowledge of this job and expected respect by both the many APD honest police officers and the people, only Jay should be nominated to the City Council.

The only other even remotely credible candidate of the other four interviewed was Edna Sprague.

After Edna has the opportunity to review all of the GOV-TV interviews today, she too would likely believe that Jay would be the right choice.

Regards

Silvio
For WE THE PEOPLE

P.S.
Jay would also be a great Mayor if he ever chose to run.

Hello,

Civil liberties and Constitutional Rights are not subject to approval or disapproval. They just exist.

Expecting the usual BEATdown and BREAKdown is a reality for most people actively participating in the governmental process, sadly it's the reality of local government. Beyond the usual resistance from those who disregard the people's due process I was subjected to Javier Urban's outrageous attempt at stonewalling a formal records request I formally filed through scare and intimidation tactics.

I am requesting this matter be addressed with APDs Records Unit and Javier Urban with appropriate action. Members of the public should not be subjected to standoffs and fear by employees of the public, we have the Albuquerque police Department for that. Violating the NM Sunshine Laws is violating constitutional rights, intimidation and threats are breaking the law, I am requiring due process and representation.

On Friday, August 12, 2015 I walked into the headquarters of the Albuquerque Police Department at 400 Roma NE, and of my own freewill, I committed one single act of defiance. I deliberately, willfully, and intentionally exercised my right to open government. I exercised a very basic right – I simply wanted to inspect a public record afforded to the public under the New Mexico State Sunshine Laws, also known as the Freedom of Information Act. Stated in the Sunshine Law are two acts, Inspection of Public Records Act (IPRA) and the Open Meetings Act (OMA). These two acts allow the public access to most state and local government records (with few exceptions).....

Good Afternoon: The question of public comment for administratively closed cases I believe is answered in the Boards Policies and Procedures. Article II Paragraph 6 (B) states: When an individual civilians police complaint is on the agenda for the POB to review, the complainant or authorized representative will be provided with a minimum of five minutes to address the POB relating to the complaint and investigation.

I hope this information helps guide your decision on how to proceed as a Board.

Ms. Hammer - In the future, we need to avoid the situation which happened this week - where I sent an emailed agenda for the personnel subcommittee for posting well before the deadline, but you didn't received it, and it wasn't posted 72 hours prior to the meeting.

As staff for the POB, we all need you to be the person primarily responsible for staying on top of these deadlines with agendas and posting. Volunteer Board members shouldn't be the ones primarily responsible for this task.

To be clear, the failure is not that you didn't receive my email, as that technology is beyond our control. The issue was that when you didn't receive the agenda in plenty of time for posting, that you neither emailed, called nor texted me to find out the status of the agenda. As I had previously disclosed, I was working out of state, in 3 locations involving both coasts between June 13th and yesterday evening. Had I received any communication from you that you hadn't yet received an agenda, I could have resent it prior to the deadline.

In the future, to ensure there isn't a repeat of this issue, you will follow the protocol listed below:

5-days prior to meeting - email the Chair of the POB, or subcommittee chair, requesting an agenda, and asking if they would like your assistance to format a draft agenda; please CC the committee members, or in the case of the full POB, cc the co-vice chairs. This is also the last point where the most recent minutes should be sent out in draft form.

4-days prior to meeting - if you haven't received a response, call the Chair and follow up to ensure that an agenda is forthcoming.

3-days prior to the meeting - verify the receipt of an agenda and post. If for whatever reason the chair is unable to put together an agenda, and you haven't received an agenda or any response from anyone else, please post an updated version of the most recent agenda for that body. For the personnel subcommittee, just update the last agenda with the upcoming agenda's date and post it, so at least the meeting won't need to be cancelled.

2-days prior to the meeting, verify the room reservation and email a reminder to the full POB inviting/reminding everyone of the meeting or subcommittee meeting.

Following this timetable for all future meetings will ensure that we are able to smoothly conduct business. If you'd prefer to assign one of your staff members to this task, please let us know who will be primarily responsible. Feel free to call with any questions. Thanks much, -B

Announcement from the NACOLE Board of Directors

Greetings:

The NACOLE Board of Directors is saddened to announce that Ilana Rosenzweig has resigned from her position as Immediate Past President. Ilana was first elected to the Board in 2009 in Austin, and was subsequently elected to serve as Vice President/President-Elect for two years and as President from 2012-2013. She has been serving as Immediate Past President since 2013, until her resignation last week.

Ilana has meant a great deal to this organization and to the field of civilian oversight. She has made countless invaluable contributions toward NACOLE's growth and development, many of which people will never know about because she didn't stop to take credit. She has helped raise nearly $15,000 for the Scholarship Program, a program which she helped to build from the ground up. Ilana also helped develop and implement the NACOLE core competencies, awards program, detailed agency profiles, and more. She has given so much of herself in these last six years, and we are forever grateful. Thank you, Ilana.

In accordance with the bylaws, the Board appointed NACOLE Founder Don Orin to fill Ilana's unexpired term as Immediate Past President. Don will add a unifying voice to the Board at a time when such a voice is needed, especially as we embark upon NACOLE in 2020, our ambitious strategic and organizational planning initiative.

Don worked for more than 25 years in civilian oversight. He started as a Berkeley police officer in 1972, and worked for the Berkeley Police Department for 12 years, first as an officer and then as a sergeant. Don worked as a senior investigator for the San Francisco Office of Citizen Complaints; as an investigative and appeals officer for the Richmond Police Commission; and as director of the Office of Public Safety Accountability in Sacramento. He also assisted in the startup of these three agencies. Don was a past president and founding member of the International Association for Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement (IACOLE). He was also a founding member of NACOLE.

We are so grateful that Don has agreed to serve on the Board, for an organization he founded more than 20 years ago. We are sorry to see Ilana go but we are honored to have the opportunity to serve alongside Don.

Kind regards,

Brian Buchner
President
NACOLE

Some commentary on news

LATEST APD KILLING

Observer of latest APD shooting yesterday writes: "About 3PM on Edith & Garfield. I'm here with eyewitnesses. Car chase ended with cops open firing on man. Witnesses say he was running out of car. Didn't see a weapon. Sister arrived sobbing saying it's her brother's car."

Journal article says: APD kills kidnapping suspect BY ROBERT BROWMAN AND NICOLE PEREZ
JOURNAL STAFF WRITERS Albuquerque Journal Aug 1 2015

"A reported abduction at a Downtown Albuquerque park turned deadly Friday afternoon when officers shot and killed the suspect after he fled through a residential area. Police Chief Gorden Eden offered little detail about the incident in a brief..."

COMMENT-After making a big show-being photographed rolling up the crime tape, he likely had already (as he should have) reviewed his responding officers' required video recording-(assuming recorders were turned on.) Will they release them or withhold/edit them?

Then read Eden's ambiguous statements (translated below) seemingly to hide the truth.

"Shots were fired" TRANSLATION-"fired by my officers." "Officers believe suspect was armed"
TRANSLATION- "he was not armed as APD videos confirmed." "He didn't know yet if man fired at police or pointed weapon at them." TRANSLATION-victim neither pointed nor fired any weapon as APD videos shows "Eden said officers found a weapon at the scene but it was too early to say whether it belonged to the subject" TRANSLATION: It wasn't victim's weapon but an APD throw down gun as videos would show."Eden said incident didn't have to end in gunfire "TRANSLATION "in gunfire by my officers.

The assigned multi-jurisdictional shoot team in the absence of any recordings will again determine shooting was justified. They are a joke-they back each other. Nothing has changed. Don't count on the "multi-jurisdictional shoot" team investigators ever doing an honest investigation.

I hope Journal editor Kent Walz will justify his recent NM FOG award by demanding the videos of this APD killing as will others in the media.

DISGRACEFUL ADMISSION OF LEVI CHAVEZ INTO UNM LAW SCHOOL

LEVI AND THE LAW: CHAPTER 2 Joline Gutierrez Krueger Albuquerque Journal Aug 1 2015

Sometime after Levi Chavez walked free from a Sandoval County courtroom that warm July day in 2013 after being found not guilty of killing his wife in one of the most high-profile and hellacious trials in recent memory, he must have thought: Now what?"

Levi Chavez's admission to the law school is black eye on UNM. Is it just a third world university? Those law school students and graduates should all be disgusted

SEEMINGLY HYPOCRITICAL COUNCILOR DAN LEWIS

Lewis asks colleagues to withdraw work bill By Dan McKay / Journal Staff Writer

PUBLISHED: Saturday, August 1, 2015 at 12:05 am

City Councilor Dan Lewis called on two of his colleagues Friday to withdraw legislation they introduced to require employers to set work schedules three weeks in advance and pay employees for unexpected changes, among other requirements. Lewis said he believes that having the proposal on the table damages the city by creating concern among businesses considering an expansion into the Albuquerque market. He called on councilors Isaac Benton and Klarissa Peña to withdraw the bill voluntarily.

"I'm in favor of any legislation that helps people, but not at the expense of small business owners, and definitely not at the expense of the very people it's designed to help," he said in a written statement. Benton said he has no plans to withdraw the bill. He was traveling Friday and hadn't seen the news release issued by Lewis. "If I've got an issue with somebody's legislation, I pick up the phone and speak to them," Benton said. Lewis said the proposal is simply too burdensome. "It's not an exaggeration to say that this bill could cause many of our small, local businesses – businesses that have survived the great recession of the last six years and are just starting to recover – to go out of business," Lewis said.

COMMENT-Inconsistency-or at worst hypocrisy. See my attached e-mail and earlier ones that talks about the biggest threat to small businesses along Central, Berry's and Rizzieri 's $13 million albatross-their Albuquerque Rapid Transit System ART/BRT that the ABQ Free Press covered in detail in its most recent issue now in stores and also on freeabq.com. Apparently, if something is proposed by the Mayor then it's OK with Lewis but if it's not like Councilors Benton and Pena's bill then it's not. The question also is why are Benton and Garduno also supporting ART? Don't they care about the rest of us in the city?

As an aside, I was in a barber shop on the SW corner of Juan Tabo and Montgomery Thursday night. While waiting to be taken, I saw at least six cars blow through red lights at that intersection almost causing accidents. I'm sure the good Councilor Lewis is happy that his unlawful driver friends/voters and his Mayor is also happy the red light cameras were removed. Is Dan really considering a run to be our next Mayor? Another Berry?

THE MOST CORRUPT ADMINISTRATION AND DANGEROUS POLICE FORCE IN THIS CITY'S HISTORY

From: Silvio Dell'Angela [mailto:Dellansi@comcast.net]

Sent: Friday, July 31, 2015 1:37 PM

Subject: Preliminary hearing Monday for Boyd's killers-Perez and Sandy, former APD cp Dawne Roberto, the ABQ Free Press, hopefully new oversight ED Jay Rowland and more

TO: All, Bcc

The disgraceful double standard here allowing APD police officers to murder while jailing others who do the same is disgusting. We have a corrupt police force leadership and supportive corrupt Mayor and administration that has made us the disgrace of the nation. Honest officers are punished if they dare speak the truth while APD's corrupt leadership is using every trick in the book to prevent any real reform.

Murdered James Boyd only pulled out his two small knives to protect himself against the fierce K-9 dog (not a police officer) straining at his leash to get to him to chew him apart and never threatened the real officers on the scene including Boyd and Sandy. The dog was later turned loose on the lifeless body and began chewing on it.

A K-9 DOG IS NOT A POLICE OFFICER! Sandy's recorded comments two hours before shooting Boyd showed premeditation-yet the autopsy report claims only Perez's bullet(s) killed Boyd. Really? Was that analysis really credible? Any bets whether either of the two killer cops will ever get convicted? Not here in Albuquerque--"(corrupt) "Mexico True."

<http://www.abqjournal.com/620984>.

"They are going to protect their brother officers," McGinn said in an interview. "And even if they have reservations about the shooting, they can't express them because of the blue wall of silence." There are 16 Albuquerque police officers on the defendants' witness list.

The July 29 Issue of the ABQ Free Press now in stores and on their website has some incriminating stories about our failed leadership and corrupt APD. One written by retired honest cop Dan Klein "Why are N.M.'s Top cops Immune from Discipline Beat Cops Face?" talks about the seemingly corrupt NM Law Enforcement Academy (LEA) Board. Berry's TASERGATE Schultz is one of the best examples of this. See the KOB reported retaliation by APD blessed by the LEA Board against former honest APD cop Dawne Roberto who allegedly leaked incriminating information about the lethal cesspool in APD. Integrity has no place in APD.

Alleged administrator of anti-APD blog set to lose police certification

Updated: 06/17/2015 10:32 PM | Created: 06/17/2015 9:58 PM By: Chris Ramirez, KOB Eyewitness News 4

An alleged administrator of a blog used to disparage the Albuquerque Police Department and city leaders was fired two years ago from the department and now is on track to lose her law enforcement certification. APD brass accused Dawne Roberto, a 15-year-veteran officer on the force, of operating under the screen name "Stealth" to write hateful, embarrassing and often untrue posts on the website "Eye on Albuquerque." APD fired her on grounds she violated the department's social media policies. A hearing officer recently recommended the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy Board revoke Roberto's law enforcement certification based on her frequent involvement with the controversial ??? website. Last week, the LEA Board accepted that recommendation.

In summary, the hearing officer found Roberto:

- Lied about her involvement with Eye on Albuquerque (never proven)
- Diminished public trust and confidence in APD (deserved)
- Personally attacked APD's leadership and city leaders (deserved)
- Lowered morale at APD (only to bad cops) and used bad judgment
- Used city computers to write her posts (cops use take home cars to do family chores)
- Used information she learned while on duty against APD (God bless her)

In his report, Hearing Officer Peter Camacho ( a joke) wrote, "I find [Roberto] did commit acts that indicate a lack of moral character that would adversely affect her ability to exercise the duties of a certified law enforcement officer. KOB reached out to both Roberto and her attorney, John D'Amato, Wednesday. Neither returned emails or phone calls. Roberto currently works as a sergeant for the Bosque Farms Police Department. Bosque Farms Police Chief Gregory Jones told KOB he has not received any direction from the Law Enforcement Academy regarding Roberto yet, but plans to keep Roberto on the force unless otherwise directed. He said Roberto has been a "terrific employee" and "wished he had more officers like her." Roberto does have the option to appeal the LEA Board's decision. The website Eye on Albuquerque is still active.

Really-is the Eye still active? The last Eye posting criticizing Mayor and his corrupt minions and the city council was on July 5 "Time to Face the Facts"-26 days ago. APD is likely trying to shut down that blog as well?

More on this latest revealing issue of the ABQ Free Press in a later e-mail. In addition to Dan Klein's great article on the NM LEA, there are articles about "ABQ's Mean Streets," Berry's Bus Blueprint: Boon or Boondoggle," (Recall COO Mike Riordan's incredulous reply to my NM IPRA request on the ART/BRT and the contract being seemingly rigged for just one contractor), "ABQ Cringes in Fear While Mayor Does...What exactly?" by Joe Monahan, "Like the rest of Us, Mayor Needs to Act on Homelessness" by Joy Junction's director Jeremy Reynolds who the Mayor ignored, and other good articles..

As for KOB and their good reporters Chris Ramirez who wrote the above article on the NM LEA and partner Caleb James. While they made a big splash with their good one time "boomerang thugs" report criticizing only the judicial system while allowing Chief Eden, Bob Huntsman, BCSO Sheriff Gonzalez and other high ranking NM officers to get a lot of free publicity answering their phones for just one night, KOB was never willing to spend the money to put the photos of these boomerang thugs in the Journal as I suggested but forced viewers to go to their website. Just a superficial effort at best. Do the job right KOB-or don't do it at all!

Then there is the latest scam foisted on citizens by the City's Office of Diversity and Human Rights with these UNM conducted Collaborative meetings with citizens pretending they really will result in any changes to APD except superficial ones. The City is now stonewalling my IPRA request for the list of attendees at their PHASE 1 meetings and for the resumes/qualifications of the UNM "facilitators." Good job-Berry (not City) attorney Hernandez.

As my earlier e-mail to the POB said, former IRO Jay Rowland is the only credible candidate put forth to the Council to be the next Executive Director of the Police Oversight Agency to replace Robin Hammer who was never interviewed and should not even be considered. Honest APD cops and the citizens who want real oversight support Jay. Let's see if the Council has the guts to give him the job.

Finally, Is the DOJ naïve enough to believe think James Ginger and his PMR Inc. fellow former police officers and the Greenwood/Streicher team will ever reform APD until Berry leaves office and takes his corrupt minions with him? Apparently so or they think we are stupid.

Regards

Silvio

Reference my 9-10 e-mail Subject: "Monday's Council meeting and your disgraceful actions and selection of ex cop Ed Harness + attorney Paul Livingston's related Notice of Violations of NM Open Meetings Act by the CPOA sent you"

JOURNAL PAYING ATTENTION-REACTING

Even though the NOT "Independent" Journal won't print my submitted letters to their editor (I've stopped sending them), it's interesting that they and those who control them in the Mayor's office and elsewhere read my e-mails and then responds by directing that their Editorial Board write editorials lying claiming what I say is not the truth. Note that they no longer say these editorials are written by the "newspaper" as if this was a person

In the past I have compared the likeable Editor who seemingly has a nice pay-to-play arrangement with Berry and the Governor's machine to Hitler's propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels and also compared the Journal to Pravda, the official newspaper of the Communist Party in Russia. Those comparisons may be harsh but all should look at the editorials if there are any doubters of these comparisons. The City is the disgrace of the nation and Berry-the one mainly responsible for this is never blamed by his Journal.

Every so often to give readers the illusion of balance, a letter is published by an honest retired cop like Dan Klein or a short on in the Tuesday edition in the "Speak UP" column telling it like it is. In the September 15, Speak up, J.C. writes "SMALL WONDER there is a net migration out of Albuquerque. People don't want to live in a City where corruption and nepotism is rampant."

With the ABQ Tribune gone, thank God we have other news sources like our TV stations, the ABQ Free Press, blog sites like Joe Monahan's, the Eye on Albuquerque, La Jicarita and others. Check them out for the truth here that the Journal won't ever tell you.

PAST BRAINWASHING ATTEMPTS AS IF READERS ARE FOOLS

In addition to reporter Ryan Boetel's recent fluff piece portraying James Boyd's killer Dominique Perez as a hero-thus above the law, we see other lies told us in their editorials.

Earlier editorials have praised the rigged procurement to rip-off of taxpayers for the four story profitable to Berry and Lubar's buddy Geltmore for their condo complex downtown portrayed as merely a grocery store.

M005354

We saw the editorial blessing the Mayor's clearly unjustified $100+ million ABQ Rapid Transit (ART) System along Central that is based on the same lies told by Mayor Marty's minions for his proposed $400 million "modern streetcar." ART will "only" cost us taxpayers $10 million/mile instead of the $40 million/mile for Marty's never funded by the FTA tax wasting streetcar.

We saw another supporting the (rare) killing of cops here as hate crimes

Now that the "Garrity vs. NJ Supreme Court" ruling can no longer be used by the thug/killer APD officers to lie and get away with it, another recent editorial claims the Fifth Amendment can now be used by officers to prevent self-incrimination. So with no recordings made of their murders or other use of excessive force, they can now take the Fifth. Nice.

Today's editorial "Police oversight takes bold step toward independence" was the latest example of brainwashing intended to deceive their naïve readers here. The editorial would even repeat POB member/former California cop Beth Mohr's justification to the Journal for the POB selecting the unqualified/inexperienced fellow former Milwaukee cop Ed Harness to be the new Executive Director.

Beth said Ed would give the process a "fresh perspective." This embarrassing POB ex cop never showed up at the September 9 Council meeting to repeat that insulting POB excuse for hiring Harness.

I'm surprised that the editorial also didn't parrot what the condescending POB member-Dr. Miora Amado McCoy told the Council on September 9. She claimed the inexperienced Harness was a "transformational leader-a collaborator." Really?

You saw my referenced September 9 e-mail to the Council and others on how this Executive Director selection was seemingly rigged for ex cop Harness. Ed was the only one Mayor Berry, CAO Perry, Chief Eden and their enablers on the Council deemed acceptable/was non-threatening to APD.

After their first meeting and interviews that made Jay Rowland the only logical choice, the POB had to first check with them before holding another meeting to announce it would be Harness.

BRAINWASHING THE POB

Since none on the POB were ever involved in the past oversight process controlled by the APD Chief and Mayor-a prerequisite for their selection, today's editorial also says that since March the POB has been "going through training and developing rules for how it will operate." Translated-this means the POB will likely go through APD's Firearms Training Simulator (FATS) to brainwash them into believing an officer must shoot first since his/her life is far more important than that of a citizen.

This training may also include remembering that their role is primarily limited to looking over

APD policies and also reminded that any recommended punishments they make of officers can be overruled by the Chief without any real justification in his letter response back. So they shouldn't waste their time recommending any harsh/justifiable punishments.

Still unknown is whether Harness' periodic Police Oversight Agency reports to the Council will still be as useless as those by former IRO Hammer with no police officers ever named and only token punishments, if any, given.

See the attached two pages from one of Ms. Hammer's reports showing even some officers unidentified-really and mere reprimands for failing to record. Also see the attached CPC-2012-106 never blaming APD COAST officers for the suicide of a mentally disturbed son of a family in our/Trudy Jones' District 8. Trudy couldn't care less.

So now in addition to ex cop and powerless "monitor" Dr. James Ginger and his fellow ex cop PMR Inc. foxes, and former Cincinnati police Chief Streicher, now with Harness in the Agency we now have four new foxes assigned to guard the hen house. What a sick joke being played on all of us!

Annual Report -- 2010

Citizen Police Complaints Reviewed Third Quarter 2013

The Albuquerque Police Department provides for police protection, law enforcement, investigation, crime prevention, and maintenance of order in the community. In order to carry out their duties and responsibilities, the police are empowered with legal authority. To achieve success, the Department must win and retain the confidence and respect of the citizens it serves. Police officers do not act for themselves, but for the public. To that end, it is necessary to create and maintain a system through which the Department can be effectively directed and controlled. Written directives have been incorporated into Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) to guide and direct department personnel in the performance of their duties. Violations of these provisions may result in disciplinary charges against personnel. Standard Operating Procedures are defined as written orders by the Chief of Police or a bureau, division, or section commander to define policy and direct procedures for specific situations or events. The following section lists each of the Citizen Police Complaints (CPCs) reviewed by the POC during the Third Quarter. Each CPC entry is formatted with the CPC number, the Complainant's City Council District and Neighborhood Association (NHA), the investigating organization (Independent Review Office or Internal Affairs), a brief synopsis of the complaint, the current case status, followed by each of the officers involved in the complaint, including their assigned APD area. The officers' actual names have been omitted, and for any given complaint, are referred to using alphabetic letters (A-Z). Within each officer listing is the SOP number involved, the SOP's general category, the case finding, the Chief/IRO Decision, and the case disposition. For any SOP non-concurrence between the Chief and IRO, additional levels of commentary relative to the POC, Chief, and CAO are listed.

CPC-2012-106 District: 8, NHA: Glenwood Hills South Casa Grande - Investigator: IRO
Complainant called APD concerned for the welfare of her 21-year-old son. They noticed that their son's personal appearance had changed. Their son was experiencing delusions, hallucinations, and exhibiting signs consistent with Paranoid Schizophrenia. An APD officer went to the apartment and made contact with Complainant's son. Complainant relayed her concerns about her son to the officer and the officer told her that the police report will be forwarded to the COAST unit for follow-up. Later that evening, the Complainant and her husband went to their son's apartment because their son had agreed to go to the ER to undergo a psychological evaluation, but later changed his mind. Complainant called 911 and two officers arrived at the apartment and had placed their son in handcuffs. The officer announced that their son is going to jail for Domestic Violence against a family member. The Complainant and her husband told the officer that he needed medical help and the officer only seemed interested in taking her son to jail. The officer told her that they have the best psychiatrists in the jail and that her son would get the treatment that he needed, he would be drug-tested and have a psychiatric evaluation while he was in jail. Her son was not drug-tested in jail nor did he undergo an evaluation. He was booked and later released downtown. On March 27, 2012, a member of APD's Crisis Outreach and Support Team (COAST) called the Complainant and spoke about all of her concerns about her son. The member of the support team told Complainant that he would set up an appointment to meet with a Psychiatrist to see how they could get help for their son. The Complainant alleges that the system failed them and that the police and the COAST Team Member failed to intervene as they should have and could have prevented her son from taking his own life.

The individuals listed below constitute the applicant pool for the Executive Director position and will be considered by the Personnel Subcommittee. The Personnel Subcommittee will invite selected applicants to the Interview at the Special Meeting on July 29th. All of these people have submitted applications and have either submitted their writing assignments, or will submit them shortly.

Unfortunately, Mr. Green was unable to send out writing assignments last Friday when the stragglers turned in their applications, so a few applicants only got their writing assignment today, those people are marked with a * below. They are being asked to turn them in by July 23rd but they could probably turn them in as late as July 25th; if anyone has not turned in their writing assignment prior to the Personnel Subcommittee meeting, their application will be considered without the writing assignment. If any such person is invited to the interview, their writing assignment will be available to POB members prior to the interview.

Police Oversight Board
City of Albuquerque 400 Marquette N.W.
Albuquerque, NM 87103

Dear Board Members:

I write to introduce myself for consideration as Director of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency (CPOA) for the City of Albuquerque. As a cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School with significant leadership experience in police oversight and the investigative field, I am confident that I can be an asset.

Currently, I am Deputy Inspector General for the City of Philadelphia, where I supervise internal investigations into allegations of waste, fraud, corruption and misconduct involving City employees and programs. I lead a team of analysts, investigators and attorneys, and I manage all aspects of the investigative process, from case evaluation to interviews and report writing. The breadth of my role with the Office of the Inspector General has allowed me to develop exceptional management skills, an aptitude for creative problem solving and a team-based approach to success.

I am also a former supervisor at the New York City Civilian Complaint Review Board, a similar civilian police oversight organization, where I managed a team of approximately 14 investigators and directed approximately 600 active investigations. I have an in-depth understanding of police procedures, practices and effective oversight - including the investigation of individual incidents as well as policy recommendations and systemic reform.

Academically, I further developed a practical skill set and achieved a high level of success. While at Harvard, I focused squarely on legal research and writing skills. I received an award for outstanding performance in the first year moot court competition and later completed advanced coursework in legal research. I was also a member of an honor organization centered on the subject, and I have significant research and writing experience in a variety of legal settings.

With a distinctive combination of academic and professional experience, I know that I can contribute to the CPOA, the Albuquerque Police Department and the City of Albuquerque more broadly. If possible, I would like to meet with you to further discuss my qualifications. Please contact me at any time via phone or email to set up a mutually convenient date and time. I very much appreciate your consideration and look forward to speaking with you.

Sincerely,

Alexander F. DeSantis

I am no promoter of Donald Trump but what I do share with him and other champions for the middle and lower class is my disgust with the inbred corruption among our political leaders of both parties-not only in Washington DC that the article focuses on but also here in this State and City.

He will never be nominated by the Republican Party but hopefully will run as an independent. As the article says, he will be a target and better have good security because opponents to those in power want to destroy such people.

This is why as a vet I have tried to show the American flag I served under for 22 years upside down showing that we are a nation, a State and a City in distress. It was not surprising that those cowards on the City Council-refused to have it shown it on GOV-TV during my presentations and also banned my big flag from being shown in the Council chambers as if it were some illegal sign or banner.

Mr. Root writes a provocative article that seems to make a lot of sense. I hope The Donald has great security, he is going to need it. Most if not all are in his cross hairs and will be exposed. This will explain why so many rocks are being thrown at Donald Trump.

By Wayne Allyn Root

Someone is getting very nervous. Obama. Valerie Jarrett. Eric Holder. Hillary Clinton. Jon Corzine...to name just a few. And I know why. I wrote a book entitled, "The Murder of the Middle Class" about the unholy conspiracy between big government, big business and big media. They all benefit by the billions from this partnership and it's in all of their interests to protect one another. It's one for all, and all for one.

It's a heck of a filthy relationship that makes everyone filthy rich. Everyone except the American people. We get ripped off. We're the patsies.

But for once, the powerful socialist cabal and the corrupt crony capitalists are scared. I've never seen them this outraged...this vicious...this motivated...this coordinated.

NEVER in all my years in politics, have I seen anything like the way the mad dogs of hell have been unleashed on Donald Trump. When white extremist David Duke ran for Governor of Louisiana even he wasn't treated with this kind of outrage, vitriol and disrespect. When a known fraud, scam artist and tax cheat like Al Sharpton ran for President, I never saw anything remotely close to this.

The over-the-top reaction to Trump by politicians of both parties, the media and the biggest corporations of America has been so swift and insanely angry that it suggests they are all threatened and frightened like never before. Why? Because David Duke was never going to win. Al Sharpton was never going to win. Ron Paul was never going to win. Ross Perot was never going to win as a third party candidate.

None of those candidates had the billion dollars it takes to win the presidency. But Donald Trump can self fund that amount tomorrow...and still have another billion left over to pour into the last two week stretch run before election day. No matter how much they say to the contrary, the media, business and political elite understand that Donald Trump is no joke and could actually win and upset their nice cozy apple cart.

It's no coincidence that everyone has gotten together to destroy Donald. No, this is a coordinated conspiracy led by President Barack Obama himself. Obama himself is making the phone calls and giving the orders -- the ultimate intimidator who plays by the rules of Chicago thug politics.

Why is this so important to Obama? Because most of the other politicians are part of the "old boys club." They talk big, but in the end they won't change a thing. Why? Because they are all beholden to big money donors. They are all owned by lobbyists, unions, lawyers, gigantic environmental organizations, multi-national corporations like Big Pharma or Big Oil. Or they are owned lock stock and barrel by foreigners -- like George Soros owns Obama, or foreign governments own Hillary with their Clinton Foundation donations.

These run-of-the-mill establishment politicians are all puppets owned by big money. But one man- and only one man- isn't beholden to anyone. One man doesn't need foreigners, or foreign governments, or George Soros, or the United Autoworkers, or the Teachers Union, or the SEIU, or the Bar Association to fund his campaign.

Billionaire tycoon and maverick Donald Trump doesn't need anyone's help. That means he doesn't care what the media says. He doesn't care what the corporate elites think. That makes him very dangerous to the entrenched interests. That makes Trump a huge threat. Trump can ruin everything for the bribed politicians and their spoiled slavemasters.

Don't you ever wonder why the GOP has never tried to impeach Obama? Don't you wonder why Boehner and McConnell talk a big game, but never actually try to stop Obama? Don't you wonder why Congress holds the purse strings, yet they've never tried to defund Obamacare or Obama's clearly illegal Executive Action on amnesty for illegal aliens? Bizarre, right? It defies logic, right?

Well first, I'd guess many key Republicans are being bribed. Secondly, I believe many key Republicans are being blackmailed. Whether they are having affairs...or secretly gay...or stealing taxpayer money...the NSA knows everything.

Ask former House Speaker Dennis Hastert about that. The government even knew he was withdrawing large sums of his own money, from his own bank account. Trust me -- the NSA, SEC, IRS and all the other 3-letter government agencies are watching every Republican political leader. They know everything.

Thirdly, many Republicans are petrified of being called "racists." So they are scared to ever criticize Obama, or call out his crimes, let alone demand his impeachment.

Fourth, why rock the boat? After defeat or retirement, if you're a "good boy" you've got a $5 million dollar per year lobbying job waiting. The big money interests have the system gamed. Win or lose...they win.

But Donald Trump doesn't play by any of these rules. Trump breaks up this nice cozy relationship between big government, big media and big business. All the rules are out the window if Donald wins the presidency. The other politicians will protect Obama and his aides. But not Donald. Remember Trump is the guy who publicly questioned Obama's birth certificate. He questioned Obama's college records and how a mediocre student got into an Ivy League university.

Now he's doing something no Republican has the chutzpah to do -- question our relationship with Mexico ... question why the border is wide open...questioning why no wall has been built across the border...questioning if allowing millions of illegal aliens into America is in our best interests...questioning why so many illegal aliens commit violent crimes yet are not deported...questioning why our trade deals with Mexico, Russia and China are so bad.

Donald Trump has the audacity to ask out loud why American workers always get the short end of the stick? Good question. I'm certain Trump will question what happened to the almost billion dollars given in a rigged no-bid contract to college friends of Michele Obama at foreign companies to build the defective Obamacare web sites. By the way that tab is now up to $5 billion.

Trump will ask if Obamacare's architects can be charged with fraud for selling it by lying. He will ask if Obama himself committed fraud when he said, "If you like your healthcare plan, you can keep it."

Trump will investigate Obama's widespread IRS conspiracy, not to mention Obama's college records. Trump will prosecute Hillary Clinton and Obama for fraud committed to cover-up Benghazi before the election. How about the fraud committed by employees of the Labor Department when they made up dramatic job numbers in the last jobs report before the 2012 election.

Obama, the multi-national corporations and the media need to stop this. They recognize this could get out of control. If left unchecked telling the raw truth and asking questions everyone else is afraid to ask, Donald could wake a sleeping giant. Trump's election would be a nightmare. Obama has committed many crimes.

No one else but Donald would dare to prosecute. Donald Trump will not hesitate. Once Donald gets in and gets a look at "the cooked books" and Obama's records, the game is over. The gig is up. The goose is cooked. Eric Holder could wind up in prison. Valerie Jarrett could wind up in prison. Obama bundler Jon Corzine could wind up in prison for losing $1.5 billion of customer money.

Hillary Clinton could wind up in jail for deleting 32,000 emails ...or accepting bribes from foreign governments while Secretary of State ...or for "misplacing" $6 billion as head of State Department ...or for lying about Benghazi.

The entire upper level management of the IRS could wind up in prison. Obamacare will be defunded and dismantled. The Obama Crime Family will be prosecuted for crimes against the American people. And Obama himself could wind up ruined, his legacy in tatters.

Trump will investigate. Trump will prosecute. Trump will go after everyone involved...just for fun. That will all happen on Trump's first day in the White House. Who knows what Donald will do on day #2?

That's why the dogs of hell have been unleashed on Donald Trump. That's why we must all support Donald. This may be our only shot at saving America, uncovering the crimes committed against our nation and prosecuting all of those involved.

TO The DOJ-our NM police killing enablers

(Pass to Ms. Loretta Lynch your new boss allegedly the "Steel wrapped in velvet" new US AG with an invite to come here.

DOJ'S FAILURES

FYI is a copy of yesterday's Fiscal Times report about the failures of Eric Holder that flows down to you. While its focus is on the double standard of justice given to the privileged corporation leaders, the same could be said for your failure to also hold the deemed privileged criminal cops and their leaders accountable for their actions-particularly here.

The reality is US AG Eric Holder's replacement-your new boss, Loretta Lynch has apparently not deemed it important enough to come here and acknowledge-much less clean up the corruption within our disgraceful and dangerous police force and our city's biggest corrupt corporation-the Berry administration. I guess not enough black citizens like fellow Vietnam vet Vincent Wood were killed here to justify her visit.

You all betrayed the citizens of this city with that disgraceful powerless reform agreement you signed with Berry and his hired mercenaries because you were fearful that Berry was going to sue you if you served the people for a change. This threatened lawsuit was something revealed to me and Alan Wagman during a private late 2014 meeting that US Attorney for NM Martinez chose to miss. Damon had no guts to face those of us not intimidated by him.

All we have gotten from your people here is lip service-nothing more, and a phony PR outreach-collaboration meetings run by UNM. Yet the APD killings still go on with still no incriminating APD recordings or seized citizen cell phone and business surveillance recordings ever released. No recording-thus no jail time yet for the APD killers. Taxpayer are paying our large sums of money to settle lawsuits against APD.

PMR Inc. made up of mostly former police officers according to you and the embarrassing Federal Judge Brack must reports only you once a year for the $4.5+ million of our tax dollars being wasted on these toothless monitors-"auditors."

At the last City Council meetings fellow APD reform activist Tony Pirard threatened twice at his home by US Marshals put on the overhead projector a long list of victims of Schultz's (who a Berry Journal editorial called the "best man for the job") and now Eden's urban warfare killer cops.

Any honest US Attorney General would have immediately fired US Attorney General for NM Damon Martinez and the two US Marshals for that inexcusable threatening act-but not Ms. Lynch.

OUR FAILED CITY LEADERSHIP

Not surprisingly, like my upside down flag-an approved US Code signal of distress, Tony's list of APD victims was never shown on GOV-TV in yet another example of arrogant Council censorship. None of their APD killers have been convicted and sent to jail. This is because APD cops and their command staff-like the privileged-excluded from accountability corporate executives in the article, are also above the law. They are our City's white collar criminals.

BRAINWASHING

Now after a brave/honest judge charged the two cop murderers of homeless camper James Boyd, all we see are embarrassing brainwashing appeals from Berry's well rewarded Journal editorial board and its reporters, from senior retired police officers, from the corrupt "them vs. us"-don't be a squealer rat, APD union VP Willoughby and seemingly also the "entitled" wives of police officers.

These wives claim because each cop has a family they should have at least one free kill rather than get jail time. Sorry ladies-but try being the wife of a combat military veteran. Every veteran and their families would be outraged with their sob story. It's doesn't play. What about the recent killings of the four Marines in Chattanooga? Are these killings of our true heroes not to be deemed hate crimes?

We are now hearing for calls for making police killings (something rare in NM) a hate crime. It's not surprising that my NM Representative Bill Rehm (a former cop) is supporting it even for his corrupt police brotherhood.

Even the Eye on Albuquerque blog site run by a former officer has claimed we have a cop killing problem here. See an extract from their September 3 posting

"THE THIN BLUE LINE-The Thin Blue Line ( Police ) is all that stands between us and total chaos and criminal running wild in our streets. We look at places like Baltimore, Ferguson, Detroit and yes, Albuquerque, New Mexico. Local news reports almost daily on murders, gangs running wild in the streets stealing anything they can get their hands on. There is no one to stop the criminals; the THIN BLUE LINE IS BROKEN ACROSS THE UNITED STATES. There are police officers being murdered just because they wear a badge.".....more.. NOT here- Eye!

Instead of demanding real APD reform and accountability, the seemingly only concern of our cowardly "empty suits" on the City Council is to just decide how much more of our tax dollars they can throw at APD to hire more officers as if that will solve our problem-address the crisis. APD's command staff is already too top heavy and overpaid but still want retention money. Honest cops believe all of their corrupt APD command leaders should be sent packing as the first step in any reform-beginning with Eden and Huntsman.

In addition to the three unjustified new APD Majors (two with checkered pasts) that we could have done without, Eden should not have brought out of retirement Schultz's Commander/his killer trainer "boy" and now Eden's shadow Chief Bob Huntsman a neighbor of mine who likely encouraged his two trained SWAT officers to murder our neighbor Chris Hinz on June 10, 2010.

Huntsman was the same arrogant cop who twice last year threatened to arrest me if I dared to step on his property merely to deliver our Neighborhood Association newsletter. "I know who you are Dell'Angela. Don't you even dare to step on my property." I would have like to have Huntsman under my command while in the Air Force for 22 years-one in Vietnam. He wouldn't have lasted one day.

The disgraceful selection by the POB (after being told which of the three candidates was acceptable to Berry and Eden) and later the Council's appointment of the POB's first choice-former the completely unqualified Milwaukee cop Ed Harness to lead and join the three other former cops on the new Police Oversight Agency were just more of the same insults to us.

Why should we be surprised after Berry gave jobs to two of Governor Martinez's discards-the unqualified Chief Eden and now Berry's and Perry's new private attorney Jessica Hernandez.

HIDING THE TRUTH

As city leaders directed that the Schultz's illegal "arrangement" with TASER be swept under the rug, APD will make sure that our thug CAO Perry's and at least one Councilor's alleged substance abuse problems will never be exposed.

Nor will the public ever find out just who in the Mayor's office was the intended recipient of the "souvenir" panties left there in an empty suitcase by the never charged "bomb threat" Cory Crosby Lockwood.

Not surprising that It was APD's trigger happy cop Leah Kelly-Arcata who was sent out to hunt Cory down and likely threaten her to shut up. Using the NM IPRA I asked for the recordings of Leah's and her partner's contact with Cory but was stonewalled. Cory's panties that should have been put on the flagpole in Old Town instead of the historical stars and bars flag of the North Virginia Confederate army or the City flag.

You have embarrassed yourselves here in New Mexico. Time for some serious soul searching and a long look at yourselves in the mirror.

The Justice Department's New Policy Is a Brutal Admission of Eric Holder's Failures

THE FISCAL TIMES By David Dayen 20 hours ago f t e

This week, the Justice Department felt the need to write a memo to staff instructing them to indict individuals when they commit crimes, seemingly something implied by their job titles. It doesn't say as much about the current Justice Department regime under Loretta Lynch as it does about the former one under Eric Holder.

No major Wall Street executive went to jail for the illegal actions that precipitated the financial crisis, despite a mountain of documentary evidence of fraud. Corporations and their employees got away with what amounted to slaps on the wrist. And Holder, after presiding over this, joined the head of his Justice Department criminal division and several top deputies at Covington & Burling, a white-collar defense firm that represents most major banks.

Related: Eric Holder's Shameful Legacy on Wall Street Fraud

You can draw a direct line from this failure back to the "Holder memo," written when he served as a deputy in the Clinton Justice Department. That memo created the "collateral consequences" policy, arguing that prosecutors who seek criminal cases against large companies should take into account innocent victims who may get hurt. It laid out a host of alternative remedies, such as fines and deferred prosecution agreements.

This eventually gave prosecutors a way to shrink from complex cases, to talk themselves into not wasting the effort. The working theory inside the Holder Justice Department was to only go after cases where victory was absolutely assured, and where collateral damage was minimized. And this philosophy drifted to preventing prosecutions of individuals, as well, even though there's no shred of evidence that sending an executive to jail would sink a company (or that juries won't be able to understand complex cases against individuals, for that matter).

This Holder doctrine has soured opinions of the Justice Department, giving the impression that it serves only to protect the rich and powerful from the consequences of their actions. It's a perception that DoJ wants to correct, which is why it made the "Yates memo," named after Deputy Attorney General Sally Yates, public.

CALLOUT: After the foxes have left the henhouse, DoJ decides it's time to find some foxes.

The idea that prosecutors have to be told to prosecute again is an utter indictment of the Holder era. What was holding them back before? It's also worth noting that this change in direction, only applicable to future cases, comes after nearly all of the statutes of limitations for crisis-era misconduct have passed. After the foxes have left the henhouse, DoJ decides it's time to find some foxes. If this realization causes you to break something, then we have that in common.

Related: DOJ Is Still More Bark Than Bite When It Comes to Corporate Crime

Despite this, I will try to look forward. Though prosecutorial will ultimately matters more than any guidelines, directives like this have historically been an important signal. Will the Yates memo create a tone at the top to effectuate change?

The memo proceeds from this premise: "One of the most effective ways to combat corporate misconduct is by seeking accountability from the individuals who perpetrated the wrongdoing."

Yates recognizes challenges to this: complex lines of responsibility, difficulty identifying intent, levels of decision-making insulating top executives. Therefore, she outlines steps that should be taken in corporate cases to maximize the possibility of holding individuals accountable.

The biggest change concerns cooperation credit. In the majority of legal cases, a corporation identifies misconduct, pledges to cooperate with the investigation and hires lawyers (frequently ex-Justice Department lawyers) to conduct an internal probe to ferret out the problem and take steps to correct it. DoJ usually rewards this cooperation with reduced penalties.

Related: How Wall Street Is Fighting to Rip Off Your Retirement Money

Now, Yates decrees that no corporation will get credit for cooperating unless it essentially offers up all individuals responsible for the misconduct. And Yates doesn't want that person to be a scapegoat, telling The New York Times, "We're not going to be accepting a company's cooperation when they just offer up the vice president in charge of going to jail."

If rates rise

Regardless of that tough talk, I could envision how this demand for corporations to turn in individual wrongdoers gets abused. You could see executives who lose power plays inside their organizations bear responsibility, regardless of whether they deserve it.

Most important, this leaves in place the dynamic of corporate internal investigations doing the work of law enforcement. Internal investigations paid by the corporate offender simply aren't going to look as hard at the depth of the misconduct. It requires old-fashioned police work, including flipping lower-level employees to go after those truly responsible. The Yates memo still relies too much on the old way of doing business.

Related: Meet Loretta Lynch, 'Steel Wrapped in Velvet'

Effective police work takes resources, which is where the real impact of this guidance will lie. It's nice to say that corporate investigations should prioritize prosecuting or imposing civil penalties on individuals first and corporations second, or that criminal and civil attorneys in corporate prosecutions should communicate, or that prosecutors shouldn't release guilty parties from liability, all of which is in the Yates memo. The provision to not resolve any corporate cases without a plan to deal with individual cases before the statute of limitations expires, for example, can be an important step. But if the prosecutors can't do more than accept what the guilty corporations tell them, the memo is as useless as the Holder memo was before.

The Justice Department would not have attempted to make this change without full recognition of the loss of public trust its actions over the past several years have engendered. Relentless criticism of the lack of white-collar prosecutions had an impact, and those who participated in that conversation should be proud.

But at this point, guidelines won't do the trick, only actions will — a genuine effort to make the concept of justice more than a punch line. This is the beginning of a real overhaul in mindset at the Department of Justice. Hopefully, the resources and training needed to undertake wide-ranging investigations will accompany the guidelines. Hopefully, U.S. Attorneys and FBI agents will be allowed to do their jobs. Hopefully, settlements with corporations no longer represent a dead end of accountability. Hopefully, the Justice Department will live up to its name.

CORRUPTION AND MORE WITH AN APATHETIC/MIA CITY COUNCIL WHO WON'T DO THEIR JOBS-REPRESENT US

A recent national report said this state was fifth most corrupt in the nation. I expected it to be rated first. As former NM governor Toney Anaya allegedly told a prospective business owner thinking about relocating here, "You have to pay to play in NM." Likely our City is also the most corrupt with APD among the most corrupt police departments in the US because of its Command staff.

A recent Eye on Albuquerque posting called the command staff a bunch of gangsters led by Eden and Eden's mentor/Mafia like boss-Berry's CAO Rob Perry. See one depiction of Perry attached.

APD

We are getting ripped off again with $650,000 or more going to two Cincinnati mercenaries to negotiate with the DOJ and they are still here doing exactly what? We have over $4.5 million over four years being wasted on a bunch of primarily former cops led by MIA James Ginger from South Carolina to merely monitor/"audit" APD reform.

What we needed here was another APD Chief like Bob Stover who recently passed away. The latest 9/26 Eye on Albuquerque posting paid Bob a tribute-extract is below.

The Honorable Chief, Bob V. Stover

It is truly with a heavy heart and sincere sorrow we must all say our goodbye's to Chief Bob V. Stover, who recently passed. Our senior Eyes tell us Chief Stover was the BEST Chief of Police the Albuquerque Police Department has had in the past 35 years. We are told Chief Stover was a no nonsense type leader. Stover was not a politician's political appointee and pawn like many others such as Joe Polisar who's wife was related to Marty Chavez; or Gil Gallegos who was only appointed because of his political ties to the FOP; or Ray Schultz who was brought in by Chavez to rescue APD but instead ruined the Department; and recently the newest political appointee, the inept and incompetent Gordon Eden who was appointed by the same type of incompetence, RJ Berry."

BIO-PARK

M005393

Instead of living within their means, now we are going to be asked to fund/approve a new $3.5 million bond measure and also a sales tax increase for our Bio-Park after its admission prices were raised years ago because this administration continued to waste our tax dollars on fluff projects.

One of the biggest tax wasters has been our former Mayor Marty Chavez whose 9/26 Journal letter "Let's dream big again for ABQ" endorsed this double rip-off of taxpayers for the Bio-Park. All should say NO to both the bond and tax increase

RESSURECTING MAYOR MARTY'S UNJUSTIFIED 'MODERN STREETCAR' (NOW ON TIRES) DOWN HIS PRECIOUS CENTRAL

While our Mayor took a stand against Mayor's Marty's $400-500 million "Modern Streetcar" to nowhere down Central, he has now found his own public transit legacy to waste-his blatantly unjustified ABQ Rapid Transit (ART) along the same route that is being justified on the same lies told us for the streetcar.

The lies tell us that we are comparable to/have the density of big cities like Cleveland. The apathetic Council was even given a propaganda pitch from a mercenary from Chicago hired by Rizzieri whose lies the councilors never challenged. They think it's a done deal!

We had heard the truth from business owners along Central like Doug Peterson (see his objection to ART in his June 25 letter to the Journal) and real public transit vs. automobile experts like Randal O'Toole whose first books included "The Vanishing Automobile and Other Urban Myths: How Smart Growth Will Harm American Cities"

While the Berry Journal's editorial board not surprisingly fell in line and promoted this tax wasting unjustified ART as they had done years ago with Mayor Marty's modern streetcar to nowhere, there has also been serious questioning of the need for ART in the ABQ Free Press, by Joe Monahan and others who aren't beholden to Berry and the corrupt political machine here.

ART JUST BASED ON LIES-SMOKE AND MIRRORS

The fact is that there has never been any objective cost/benefit or other analysis justifying its need as ABQ Ride's Bruce Rizzieri confirmed when I asked for it. It is all based on mere smoke and mirrors.

See my attached July IPRA request questioning whether the "construction management at risk approach" advertised by Kiewit who has relocated to this city will be used to justify essentially use only subjective evaluation criteria to give the contract award to them?

Berry's embarrassed COO Mike Riordan then goes in a damage control mode and his response claims such is not the case. Mike who also supported Marty's streetcar while head of DMD claims responses to the RFP for the ART will be due by this Wednesday-9/30. Is the RFP posted showing the ART's contractor selection criteria? Does the Council even care?

Why is work starting this year to waste our tax dollars tearing up Central for ART before we get a FTA decision on the $80 million grant request? There are few supporters of ART except the tax wasting characters in the Berry administration and on the Council.

Last Thursday's KOB's report attached said business owners along Central have given up on our City leaders (including Councilors like Rey Garduno) using any common sense and fiscal responsibility with our tax dollars. They are now going right to the Federal Transportation Administration and telling them to reject the $80,000 grant our irresponsible City leaders are asking to build ART. I plan to do the same as should all taxpayers.

RIZZIERI NOW TAKING HIS LYING DOG AND PONY SHOW ON THE ROAD TO TRY TO CONVINC NEIGHBORHOOD LEADERS WHO HE BELIEVES ARE ALL STUPID

I am aware that the Academy Ridge Neighborhood Association (ARENA) along possibly with our Eisenhower Area Neighborhood Association (EANA) has agreed to hear his propaganda pitch. I expect that that Bruce and his fellow liars that may include more paid mercenaries will get an earful. Likely other NAs or Coalitions will be subjected to the same lies.

Maybe Councilor Garduno will be Rizzieri's opening act. We'll see.

Some Nob Hill business owners say new Rapid Transit Project will hurt business

Updated: 09/24/2015 10:27 PM | Created: 09/24/2015 9:39 PM By: Caleb James, KOB Eyewitness News 4

Now that a massive public transportation project along Central Ave. in Albuquerque is closer to reality, some small businesses are crying foul. Owners say they're fearful Albuquerque's Rapid Transit Project will kill their livelihoods. Some business owners say it will funnel traffic away and turn Central into a "business cemetery," and they're using postcards with some brash wording to get that message to the federal government.

A graveyard of dreams -- that's what Steve Schroeder sees in Albuquerque's Rapid Transit Project. "If people start to try to come into the businesses on Central, and they can't get in here because of congestion, they go somewhere else," said Schroeder. Schroeder owns Nob Hill Music right on Route 66 -- a motorway easy to exit, for now. "It was like, nobody would do this. This is idiocy," he said. Schroeder has launched SaveRt66.org, listing dozens of business owners opposed to the plan.

Schroeder thinks Route 66 businesses have an expiration date thanks to the project. From Tramway to Coors, Central will be revamped to include a two-way bus lane right down the middle, with modern stations and a solid median. Schroeder says it will mean fewer left turns and fewer options to stop.

"Gonna start putting stamps on them to mail to the Federal Transportation Administration," said Schroeder, holding a stack of postcards, all with different return-addresses from customers of businesses up and down the corridor. Schroeder is mailing them straight to the feds on behalf of folks who oppose the project. The cards ask the FTA to block grant money for the project. He's collected about 500. Those postcards don't mince words.

They read: "The city is making a commitment to keep access open to these businesses as much as possible,"(????) said ABQ Ride director Bruce Rizzeri. Rizzeri says accommodations ???? will be made every few blocks for business access.

"It's unfortunate," said city council president Rey Garduno. Nob Hill is his district, and Garduno said he isn't impressed by the postcard campaign. He said the time for discussion over the project was largely ignored years ago. "There have been a myriad of opportunities for people to talk about these things," he said. (THAT'S A BLATANT LIE AS REY KNOWS FROM ONE WHO DOESN'T GIVE ONE DAMN ABOUT THIS WASTE OF OUR TAX DOLLARS. HIS PREDECESSOR MARTIN HEINRICH WHO ALSO SUPPORTED MARTY'S MODERN STREETCAR-ALSO SAID DAMN THE TAXPAYERS. "But to do this has a tendency to make people think, 'now I'm on one side and they're on the other,' and that's not what we want." (ANOTHER INSULT TO EVERYBODY'S INTELLIGENCE)

Mr. Rizzieri, Mr. Riordan

Info those shown and not shown.

See my e-mails below without the attached- the recent small Kiewit Journal ad and a description of the seemingly no-bid "Construction Management at risk approach" to contracting.

The e-mails expresses my concerns as a taxpayer with this seemingly unjustified bus system that will eventually cost over $120 million of our local, State and federal (if given) tax dollars while other real needs are being seemingly ignored.

IAW the NM IPRA, allow me to review

M005397

1. the City's contract defining the scope of work and funding-including the source of funds given to the Kiewit Construction Company for all work associated with the ABQ Rapid Transit (ART) system --earlier referred to as the Bus Rapid Transit (BRT) system along Central.
2. Also indicate whether other contractors were allowed to bid and if so whether cost--not merely "cost control" was a selection criterion.
3. If it was a competitive procurement process request I have the opportunity to review the RFP, the members on the evaluation team and their ratings.
4. Also provide for my review documentation showing the scope and cost and schedule of work to be performed along Central for the ART this year.
5. Provide the name of the contractor and cost of the design of the BRT/ART system if it is not Kiewit.
6. Provide for my review any documentation indicating if Cumbre Construction is a sub-contractor to Kiewit

Your response is due NLT August 9, 2015.

Thank you

Some final comments from my other e-mails that demands that the more important needs are addressed if we are to escape the third world image that seemingly the rest of the country has of us. The ART is seemingly an unjustified want and not a need just like the earlier proposed "modern streetcar," down Central, the Rail Runner and other alleged economic engines.

"I just returned from attending the July 10 retirement ceremony of my USMC Colonel nephew at Quantico USMC base VA and later attended to family estate matters in New Jersey. Most looked on us as just a corrupt, backward city and state. While our Mayor has his propaganda machine (primarily the Journal) working hard to convince all here that everything is just fine, many in the rest of the US apparently thinks otherwise."

Reference my earlier e-mail today shown again below. My earlier June 14 e-mail to the Journal's Win Quigley and the June 25 article by developer Doug Peterson were omitted in the interest of brevity. A reader told me it was Kiewit-not Li wit who posted the ad yesterday asking for feedback-copy attached. The survey at the website listed is a joke and this no-bid award is an insult to the sensibilities of every taxpayer and business owner along the proposed Central route. Kiewit is the construction company apparently already awarded a no-bid contract by the city using the CM at risk approach (copy again attached) in order to justify the award to build this $120 million+ tax wasting albatross along Central. A Kiewit office headed by Sean White has already been set up at 5130 Masthead NE Albuquerque, NM 87109 PHONE-(505) 717-3075 EMAIL Sean.white@kiewit.com. We continued to be insulted by this Mayor, Bruce Rizzieri, Mike Riordan and others.

Subject: The Albuquerque Rapid Transit-ART, a $120+ million albatross along Central being jammed down our throats-do you care?

Councilors

(Info to those shown and many not shown-sent this Bcc. Share with others if you wish.)

While Mayor seems only concerned with meeting with misguided/P.C. opponents of the old Stars and Bars Confederate flag remaining downtown rather than doing what's logical-leave it there as a historical symbol, apparently he and ABQ Ride's Rizzieri apparently don't need citizen consensus on their $120 million+ ART.

M005399

They are now are going full speed ahead with wasting $13-20 million of our tax dollars this year ripping up Central this year and expecting those at the FTA in Washington DC to give the city/waste another $100+ million next year to build it. The fiscally responsible thing is to do a cost/benefit analysis and also wait until 2016 to see if the feds are foolish enough to fund this albatross. It will cost $10 million/mile to build.

Rizzieri in response to my recent NM IPRA request confirmed that there was never any needs/cost benefit analysis ever done justifying ART by ridership, density or other criteria.

Justification for it was based solely on smoke and mirrors-lies told us of being another much needed catalyst for economic growth. Only the alleged success in Cleveland-a more dense city was cited as justification for ART.

The only thing done was a July 25 2011 "InfraConsult LLC" BRT "Feasibility Assessment" not a justification assessment and used Chavez's proposed "modern streetcar" and other not relevant studies that also included some selected four year old 2011 ABQ-Ride boardings. Go to the ABQ-Ride website to see the old study.

These lies of high ridership great economic growth were the same used by Mayor Marty Chavez when trying to justify his own white elephant the $30-40 million/mile "modern streetcar" down Central that the feds refused to fund.

Now Kiewit another company or person is asking (after the fact) for citizen feedback-as announced in a small recent article in the Journal. Is Kiewit the/an ART contractor? Will R.J.'s and Maria Berry's Cumbre Construction be a subcontractor?

The same lies were told to justify the Rail Runner-another sink hole of our tax dollars. Likely at the direction of Governor Richardson, MR-COG then under Lawrence Rael then would claim in his bogus unsupported studies that there would be high ridership, a faster than automobile ride along I-25, tremendous economic development and increased population growth along the route particularly in Santa Fe. None of this ever occurred.

Not only did a Berry Journal editorial trying to justify it based on false claims but good Journal reporter Winthrop Quigley unfortunately jumped on the bandwagon as well. See my e-mail to him below. In an earlier interview with a small Central Avenue business owner, the owner said that it was a gross waste of our limited tax dollars and would likely put many like him out of business.

I hope developer Doug Peterson and other business owners file a lawsuit against the city to prevent the start of prep work/tearing up Central this year that will likely put many businesses along the route in jeopardy. See Doug's objection to ART in his June 25 Journal article below. Isn't it also time for those in NAIOP to also start representing the taxpayers for a change?

Since the Internal Audit office and IG were apparently directed to bury the Schultz/Berry "greasing" of the $1.9 million contract with Schultz's employer TASER-TASERGATE, I wonder whether they are also being told to leave other disgraceful waste of our tax dollars alone.

Every trick in the book is repeatedly used by the Berry administration to justify no-bid contracts. Among these was the token $70K one given to the Streicher-Greenwood team to negotiate with the DOJ on APD reform that intentionally was under the Council's approval threshold. Almost $600K was not surprisingly added to that contract later deeming Schultz's TASER two buddies now incumbents.

Then Schultz and his procurement office buddies downtown would claim the token buy to TASER to test a nominal number of AXON body camera would be the justification for the subsequent $1.9 million no-bid award.

For the ART we have a novel new tactic foisted on us by Berry and Rizzieri on us. This is to use a Construction Management (CM) at Risk approach being described/misrepresented as an "innovative approach to public project delivery." See attached.

The claimed advantages to CM at risk are bogus. What it really means is that this CM at risk approach justifies yet another no-bid award to Berry's/Rizzieri's desired ART contractor(s). Again, is Cumbre Construction being promised part of the work?

If you don't care and put a halt to this albatross, or a lawsuit isn't filed by Peterson and others, isn't it also time for an investigative report by Larry Barker and other TV reporters, other media outlets like the ABQ Free Press as the Berry Journal seems to be in Berry's pocket-has become a proponent of this waste-disregard for businesses along Central and us taxpayers?

My latest e-mail yesterday called for Board President, Don Duran-another puppet of the Governor to excuse him from the School Board vote on the unethical/lying to all Luis Valentino, because of his conflict of interest with another Guv puppet-interim Superintendent Winter's decision to rehire Duran's daughter Gabriella Blakeley. But Duran is so arrogant-contemptuous of the people that he refuses to excuse himself from the vote.

While one naïve letter writer to the Journal and likely others in his Council District 4 believe that Brad Winter should be rehired if Valentino leaves, they apparently not been following Brad's record-first as the deputy Superintendent, then interim Superintendent and while serving as his District 4 Councilman. Like fellow PhDs Valentino, Board member Peercy and other elitists, all of them apparently feel they are far smarter than we common folks/country bumpkins that includes our great APS beleaguered teachers.

A Joe Monahan earlier posting revealed that it was Winter who "greased" the Board's selection of Valentino-assured that Luis would be an integral part of the Governor's corrupt political machine that runs things In NM. It was also Winter, Kizito Wijenje and APS's IPRA stonewaller Rigo Chavez who withheld incriminating information from me as to the real excessive cost of our new Georgia O'Keefe Elementary School construction project and was never criticized by his media friends for the cost overruns to the new west side high schools.

Many rightfully believe that Brad and his puppet-master in Santa Fe were also behind the removal by UNMH of former outspoken APD Board member Kathy Korte and her later defeat for re-election because she dared challenge Hanna Skandera's dictatorial testing policies. Kathy is now (along with a long list of others) suing APS and we taxpayers will again be shelling out even more money for their malfeasance.

While on the Council, Winter scammed taxpayers repeatedly to make sure his sports fields on the west side were given first priority for our tax dollars. He also never once criticized APD for their bloodbath going on here. Some even speculate it was Brad's wife Nan who claimed the unqualified Rob Perry would be hired away by the MFA if fellow puppet Berry didn't give Rob a huge raise.

I once believed in this Winter as I did the puppet master-Guv in Santa Fe but no longer. Both have embraced the culture of corruption that NM is known for nationwide. But with the Journal editor and its editorial board as other willing puppets of the Guv, we will never read about scandals told us by TV reporter, the ABQ Free Press, the Eye on Albuquerque and other news outlets.

One notable news item the Journal ignored was the TV reported lawsuit by APD's original IPRA stonewaller Reynaldo Chavez's claiming he was directed by Kathryn Levy with the blessing of the Chief and those in the Mayor's office to hide the incriminating information proving the death of Mary Han was a murder and not a suicide. An earlier "Live Leak" internet report likely based information provided by an honest APD cop revealed that APD also withheld incriminating recordings of Boyd and Perez's murder of homeless camper James Boyd-also ignored by the Journal.

Not to be content with joining killer cop Dominique Perez's defense team with his earlier disgraceful article portraying this killer of James Boyd as a hero who should be exonerated-permitted at least one murder of a citizen as all cops are here, Journal reporter Ryan Boetel's article today discusses the lawsuit against APD and the city by a good cop Jacob Grant. But Ryan never mentions that the APD IPRA stonewallers still refuse to release the APD video of his shooting as well as the surveillance video recording made by the McDonald's store.

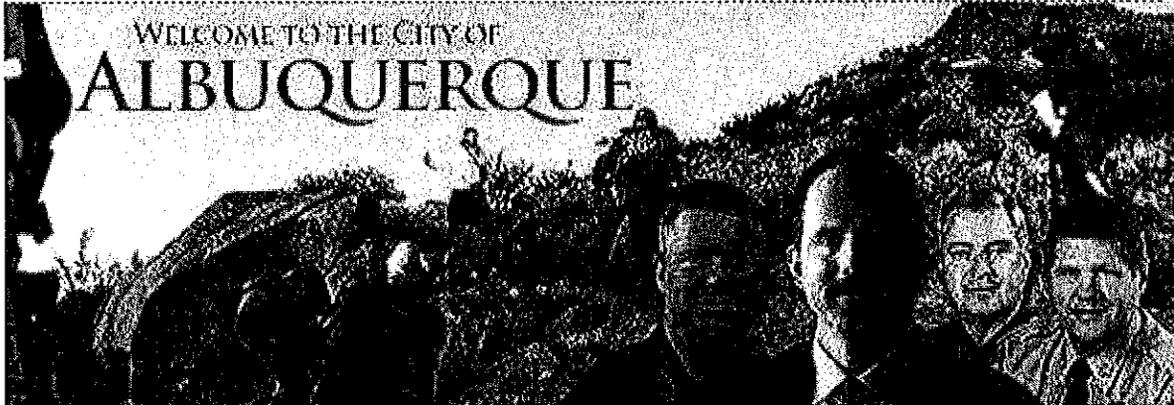

We then read that another Guv Martinez discard/puppet Berry/APD attorney Jessica Hernandez pretends the shooting of the now seriously disabled cop Jacob Grant by Lt. Greg Brachle was justified because she knows that no incriminating recordings will be released by APD. Good job Jessica! Like your Guv's fellow unqualified Guv discard Gorden Eden, you fit in just fine in this corrupt Berry administration.

Finally, back to puppets Brad Winter and Board President Don Duran. We don't need another four years of you-Brad. Don't insult our sensibilities Don by not excusing yourself and voting on Luis Valentino Monday.

An extract of Joe Monahan's latest August 28 posting is below that discusses the unethical lying Valentino who the APS Board is trying so hard to make the easy decision to fire him Monday. Like Joe Monahan and others, I more than disgusted with the Governor and her puppets.

The Summer of '15: The Reading Was Not On The Lighter Side

The APS School Board met for over four and half hours Thursday morning but announced it still has not decided the fate of APS Superintendent Luis Valentino. The board will meet for a third time on the matter at 7 a.m. Monday. And that brings us to our latest column for the ABQ Free Press. . .

The reading material for the Summer of '15 was definitely not on the lighter side for New Mexicans. Try as they might to beat the heat and escape into the plot of a mindless novel or seek relief in the magazine pages of pop culture, there was really no way out. The wreckage of this summer will be long-lived and long-remembered. We start with that mine waste spill into the Animas River in the Four Corners. It alarmed local residents who depend on its waters as well as armchair environmentalists nationwide who eyed the eerie, orange tainted river via their TV screens. The EPA, which caused the spill that originated at Silverton, Colorado, will be mired in the mess for years. Investigations and reparations are de rigueur with such disasters but what about accountability?

Then there was the summer unraveling of new Albuquerque Public Schools Superintendent Luis Valentino. The deputy superintendent he brought to town may be his own undoing. And it should be.

Jason Martinez was not subjected to a criminal background check before he started punching the clock. Then the shocker hit the headlines. Valentino had put in command a man who faces trial in Colorado on charges of sexually assaulting children. No, that's not summer fiction but the brutal reality of failed leadership. Prior to the sex scandal Martinez and Valentino were busted for playing politics over a contract with a Colorado firm that had questionable ethical ties. Valentino suspended APS chief financial officer Don Moya who opposed their hanky-panky. The sex scandal was like instant karma for Moya but yet another nightmare for Albuquerque whose luck picking superintendents over the years is summed up by the saying: "If I didn't have bad luck, I'd have no luck at all."

The summer news dump doesn't stop there. Two Albuquerque police officers were bound over for trial on second degree murder charges for the notorious fatal shooting of homeless camper James Boyd. Sure, you could see it coming but the preliminary hearing at which a judge found probable cause to have the officers stand trial was an undeniable low point in the history of the APD and the city. The saving grace may be that hitting that low point is the only way we can start clawing our way back to higher ground. The sorry summer kept delivering even more fodder for the glass is only half-full crowd. Google, one of the most important companies on the planet, announced that it was moving to California the aerospace company it had acquired in Moriarty only a year ago. Gov. Martinez was on hand to celebrate Google's entry into the state but nowhere to be found when the firm packed up and headed down I-40. It was the latest in a very long line of economic disappointments that have haunted the state in what historians will no doubt look back on as an epic bad news era. And that doesn't include the drumbeat of horrific crimes that plagued Albuquerque this summer. This list is depressing enough without bringing that to the table. A chief characteristic of this peculiar era in New Mexico has been the lack of accountability, but now the misdeeds are so egregious that they can no longer be ignored by the body politic (or at least the judiciary) or enabled by a public that has grown apathetic, acquiescent and exhausted by the nonstop negativity. Who is ultimately responsible for that Animas spill and will heads roll?

Who will be held accountable for the hiring of the new APS superintendent whose incompetence could have endangered school children? The superintendent himself? The school board that hired him? Who in the upper reaches of APD will ever lose their job over the scandals that have plagued the department all these years under Mayor Berry? So far, no one. Who will be held accountable for the loss of not only Google but the multi-year failure to address the economic problems of this state? The Governor? The Mayor? No one? Will accountability finally surface from the wreckage that was the Summer of '15?

Councilors

(All others-Bcc)

Reference my earlier e-mail today, "ABQ Journal Falsifying The News--Seems like I'm not alone in believing this"

If you listened to buddies Rey Garduno and Ken Sanchez you wouldn't believe that we have a police problem here caused by its corrupt leadership that has been compared to a dangerous Mafia organization.

These two and others have continued to look the other way to these and other serious problems that this city including the still corrupt /procurement contract award systems has. More examples are on Monday's agenda listing no-cost demanded awarded contracts and in the IG and Internal Auditor's reports.

As media seeking hounds, the two always look for new ways to either waste our tax dollars on ART and other Berry white elephants or pander to special interest groups like the misguided leaders of the Red (skin) Nation. It's curious that the Red (skin) Nation opposed the name of the NFL football team-Washington Redskins as racist. What does their Red Nation stand for if not red skin? Hypocrites

During the past two weeks these two have refused to ask Chief Eden why he is still not complying with our State law-the NM IPRA and demanding that he stop stonewalling citizen and media requests for (likely incriminating) recordings that exposes the lies Eden, his spokespersons and his bad APD officers tell. Eden is still stonewalling my October 1 IPRA request for videos of the latest APD shooting. They don't care.

Having never served in the military where the real heroes are, the two also chose to insult our US Flag that I showed upside down at 2014 and 2015 Council meetings deeming it just a banner to be banned from ever being shown on GOV TV or in the chambers.

To justify his action, Sanchez while Council President intentionally chose to rely on the opinion of Berry's bad attorney Gregg Wheeler who would tell all that the actual US flag I showed upside down as an approved US Flag Code signal of a people in distress was somehow forbidden. The others on the Council remained silent to this outrageous action by Sanchez.

Not surprisingly, when he became President, Sanchez's buddy Garduno would first lie to me saying that I could now show it upside down at his Council meetings. When I later did so and Sanchez objected, Rey had me remove it from sight and then allowed an obviously ignorant alleged veteran humiliate me publicly claiming showing my flag upside down was a USMJ Court Martial offense. What cowardice.

The attachments and narrative below discusses much more that all should know about these two

SANCHEZ AND THE RETENTION BONUSES

See the attached 10-2015 Journal article and Eye on Albuquerque articles on Sanchez and citizen comments to both-particularly the one by retired APD officer Dan Klein

GARDUNO AND HIS APPARENT HATE FOR EUROPEANS-PARTICULARLY THOSE WHO ARE WHITE-LIKE MY ANCESTOR COLUMBUS

Attached is the 10-15 Journal article by Dan McKay with Rey's feeble attempt to justify renaming Columbus Day to Indigenous Peoples Day and my scathing comments to it shown in red.

See also the attached 10-11 a letter to the Journal calling Garduno's action embraced by buddy Sanchez as being "driven by hate" for Columbus and seemingly all Europeans-particularly those who are white. (Maybe some white kids kicked Rey's butt while he was young and he still hasn't forgotten it.)

After reading that neither the Governor nor the Mayor would comment on-much less endorse his outrageous attack on Columbus with his disrespectful secret back door resolution, now Rey says in a failed effort at damage control that "I'm anxious to have a frank conversation with anyone that wants to work with me on this resolution. Really Rey? It's too late as you disgraced yourself.

In addition to his misguided resolution called by the 10-11 letter writer as hateful, a later 10/14 letter writer said that "Garduno should relearn history to include taking a refresher course in anthropology." I said the same thing in earlier e-mails.

The clock for the indigenous people here didn't start in 1492 when Columbus landed on our shores and others before him but 15,000 years ago when people migrated from Asia, Siberia and elsewhere as a Smithsonian article I sent to him and others pointed out.

"Native American" is also an assigned P.C. historical revisionist label and NOT how American Indians want to be referred to. Nor would any honest/educated Indian spokespersons claim that their tribes that existed in 1492 were "indigenous" to the land we now call the United States.

If Garduno had any self-respect, he should MAN UP in front of the Council Monday and say that he deserves to being censored by his peers.

Second, he should drop this hate against the white and Hispanic people of this city and their ancestors and also forget about following those in Berkeley, Portland and other historical revisionists in the few other cities who also are also misguided and also eliminating Columbus Day.

Like those Garduno embraces in the "Black Lives Matter" movement, he needs to acknowledge that ALL LIVES MATTER and stop laying guilt trips on just those Europeans and their ancestors for slavery and other acts committed in the US throughout our history.

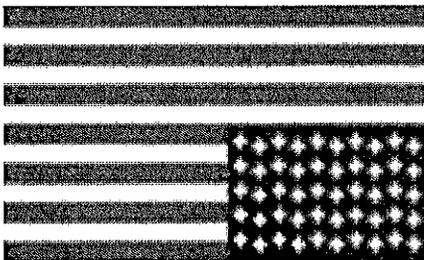

Finally, isn't it interesting that the P.C crowd decided to abolish as holidays the birthdays of our first President and father of our country George Washington and that of Abraham Lincoln, the signer of the Emancipation Proclamation but instead made the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr. a holiday whose accomplishments pale in comparison to these two Presidents.

THE SOONER THAT BOTH GARDUNO AND HIS EQUALLY DISGRACEFUL BUDDY SANCHEZ ARE OUT OF OFFICE THE BETTER OFF WE WILL ALL BE.

Regards

Silvio

P.S.

I still expect a public apology from Garduno and Sanchez for banning/disrespecting my American Flag that I served under for 22 years-over a year in Vietnam.

ABQ to consider formal policy recognizing Indigenous Peoples Day

By Dan McKay / Journal Staff Writer Published: Thursday, October 15th, 4:49pm Updated: 10:42pm

City Council President Rey Garduño plans to introduce a resolution next week that would formally establish a city policy recognizing Indigenous Peoples' Day in Albuquerque. REJECT

That means the proposal will get a full hearing, debate and vote in a City Council meeting, probably next month. The move comes after Garduño faced criticism – and the possibility of a censure by his colleagues – for reading a proclamation last week recognizing the second Monday of October as Indigenous Peoples' Day. Opponents said it wasn't an appropriate topic for a proclamation, which is a ceremonial announcement that isn't voted on. Proclamations don't establish city policy either.

The idea should have been proposed as a resolution, opponents said, so councilors could have time to consider it ahead of time and formally cast a vote in a meeting. Garduño said he stands by the original proclamation, but wanted to address the criticism. "I'm anxious to have a frank conversation with anyone that wants to work with me on this resolution," he said in an interview. TOO LATE NOW REY?

City Councilor Dan Lewis, meanwhile, said he plans to go ahead with his motion asking his colleagues to censure Garduño for the original proclamation and other behavior. "I'm going to move for a censure vote on Monday, and I expect it to pass," Lewis said Thursday. GOOD-IT'S LONG OVERDUE

The debate in Albuquerque comes as more cities around the country are opting to recognize the contributions and culture of indigenous people on the second Monday of October. JUST LOOK AT THE CITIES-BERKELEY, PORTLAND AND THE LIKE

That, of course, is also the holiday recognized by the state and federal governments as Columbus Day. It's a regular workday for city of Albuquerque employees. Much of the local dispute centers on Garduño's decision to handle Indigenous Peoples' Day as a proclamation rather than regular legislation. NO-IT'S MORE THAN THAT. Hundreds of people marched through Downtown Albuquerque as part of a rally to celebrate Indigenous Peoples' Day.

Garduño said the resolution he will introduce at Monday's meeting will avoid some language that opponents had objected to – a section of the proclamation that mentioned the "occupation" of New Mexico lands that were home of indigenous nations. TOO LATE REY-AND CURRENT INDIAN TRIBES ARE NOT INDIGINEOUS TO LAND BUT THOSE THAT EXISTED ONLY WHEN COLUMBUS LANDED

The bill would be scheduled for action at a future meeting, probably in November. REJECT THIS BILL AND CONSIDER AMERICAN INDIAN (NOT INDIGINEOUS PEOPLES) DAY SOMETIME ON DIFFERENT DAY.

Attacks on Columbus driven by hate

By Jackie De La Porte / Albuquerque Resident Sunday, October 11th, 2015 at 12:02am

History is history and Christopher Columbus ushered in the European "Age of Discovery" in 1492. Although there may have been many forays by previous explorers, Asians, Vikings, etc., into what is now known as the Americas; it was following Christopher Columbus' exploration into the "New World" which, yes, was inhabited by what we call indigenous people, that expanded worldwide European civilization. Discovering the discovered is still discovery.

There has been a movement afoot for some time (since 1954) to eliminate Columbus Day (first celebrated in 1938) as a national holiday. It has become fashionable for some people, through ignorance of history and the influence of revisionists' historic propaganda to bash Christopher Columbus and his accomplishments. What this reveals, in fact, is a hidden agenda to express hatred of the Italian-American and/or Hispanic people in a socially acceptable manner.

The Spanish brought with them horses, cattle, sheep, cats and other animals, and other types of agriculture that had never been seen here before. Plus the wheel, ironwork tools, a rule of equality under the law and a unifying language, among many other things. They brought Western Civilization to the New World. This is significant! Something to celebrate, not try to erase.

Outside groups have strived repeatedly and relentlessly to eradicate the honoring of Columbus and his substantial contributions to world history. Vilifying Spain, its people and the Roman Catholic Church does not change the fact that his achievements were amazing. Was he a perfect man, no, but who is?

This mariner's audacity, perseverance, constancy, vision, and competence in his profession in confronting uncharted seas is worthy of extreme honor.

Columbus Day is a federal and a state holiday. However, here at Albuquerque Public Schools, it was obliquely eliminated in favor of nothing. (Actually, now simply a four day "Fall Holiday" weekend).

On Wednesday the Albuquerque City Council voted to substitute Columbus Day for Indigenous People Day. Erasing history? How sad. Perhaps Indigenous Day is a good idea, but let us not be deceived that it must be on October 12 and no other.

Why insist on this day when there are so many other days from which to choose? It does not honorably serve one to diminish another. This movement to eliminate a day set aside to honor Christopher Columbus, who sailing west to encounter Asia, first stumbled across the Americas on Oct. 12, 1492 – he made four trips to the New World, changing the history of the world for all time – should not continue. Let us not be a party to revisionist hate.

Plan provides pay raise for APD officers

By Dan McKay / Journal Staff Writer Friday, October 16th, 2015 at 11:43pm

A proposal heading to the City Council aims to boost the pay of rank-and-file officers and provide $5 million to settle a lawsuit filed by the police union. Mayor Richard Berry's administration immediately blasted the idea as an unwise intrusion into settlement negotiations.

The police union, meanwhile, said it appreciated the proposal and would present the offer to members for consideration, if passed by the city. The mixed reaction centers on a resolution sponsored by Ken Sanchez, a Democrat from the West Side. Berry is a Republican.

The proposal has two goals – boost officers' pay and provide enough money to settle a lawsuit alleging the Berry administration improperly withheld pay raises outlined in a union contract five years ago. Sanchez said the legislation would boost salaries to what was promised in the old union contract. "We are working so hard to try to get to this point, where we can avoid a multimillion-dollar lawsuit and where the officers can be restored," Sanchez said.

But the city administration said the proposal interferes with settlement talks. Rob Perry, the top executive under the mayor, called it "unfathomable" that the city would tell the union how much it's willing to pay to settle a pending suit. "The fact is, five million dollars is far more than the city has in reserve for this lawsuit and, if passed, this legislation could cost taxpayers millions more than necessary," Perry said.

The city administration, he said, "has been working hard on solving this police union lawsuit and the issues surrounding it." Furthermore, Perry said, "we don't telegraph how much money we have available for lawsuit settlements."

Sanchez said the administration has had plenty of time to end the litigation on its own. "We have sat waiting patiently for them to get this issue resolved," he said.

The debate comes as Albuquerque struggles to fully staff its police department and carry out reforms mandated by a settlement agreement with the U.S. Department of Justice. The city has about 865 officers employed now – 21 percent fewer than it had five years ago in summer 2010.

The Sanchez proposal would provide enough money to boost the base pay of most patrol officers by 5.9 percent, or to about $58,240 a year, officials said. Higher-ranking officers would get smaller raises of about 1 percent. In addition to the pay raise, the council legislation would reserve $5 million to settle the lawsuit filed by the Albuquerque Police Officers Association.

The union alleges Berry improperly withheld pay raises five years ago. The officers were due to get raises in 2010 under a contract agreed to in the prior mayoral administration.

But as the Great Recession squeezed the city budget, Berry moved to cut officer pay instead. Other employees faced similar reductions. It was necessary to help close a $67 million hole in the budget, the mayor contends, and the raises were always contingent on budget appropriations. The union filed suit, and each side has won some court decisions in the case, which is pending.

The pay raise would cost the city roughly $2.5 million a year. The council cannot mandate how much each officer and rank would get. That's subject to union negotiations. Shaun Willoughby, vice president of the police union, said he appreciates the council's willingness to address the "crisis at APD." "I think the pay increase, coupled with the settlement, will assist us in healing some of the wounds that were caused by the Berry administration years ago," he said.

Dan Klein · (retired APD officer) Works at ABQ Free Press

Perry and Berry hand out our money in civil cases like it's Halloween, then they turn around and screw the beat cops over when it comes to their raises. APD cops have received negative pay raises under Richard Berry, but the 1% at City Hall are getting richer. Perry received a $30,000 pay raise, Montano a $15,000 pay raise and Eden (before even accepting the job) received $25,000 (as compared to Chief Schultz). Berry is a perfect example of screwing the low level worker and rewarding his pals for horrible job performance. Berry, Perry, Eden, etc were working for someone in the private sector they would have been fired by now. Berry's administration is the perfect example of what Greed and Austerity do, they destroy a city and a police department.

Change is Needed

As reported in the Albuquerque Journal, Councilman Ken Sanchez proposed for one million dollars to be set aside. This would provide a raise for the Albuquerque Police Department (APD); an increase of 2.7 million dollars. The question is, where is the money going to come from?

We all know if the APD didn't have to pay out tens of millions of dollars in lawsuits, there would be plenty of money. If the City didn't waste money redoing projects that were never done right in the first place, there would be plenty of money. If the City didn't waste money on this joke of a recycle program, there would be plenty of money. Here is one suggestion that may help, exclude the top brass from any pay raise(s).

You see Councilman Sanchez, any study ever done shows money is not the main reason people stay at a job. People want to enjoy their work, feel respected by their supervisors, and feel secure in their position(s). You have none of this with the APD! Top brass give themselves bonuses and take away from the rank and file officer the money was meant for in the first place. What kind of leader does this? These people are not leaders they only take care of themselves.

Our Eyes tell us they have heard top brass bragging that the only reason they are there is to add to their already huge retirement. Our Eyes in the police department tell us they are afraid of their job, it's like walking on egg shells, waiting for the next shoe to drop. They are not afraid of the bad guys, they are afraid of the top brass, the good ol' boys.

Councilman Sanchez, thank you for trying to help. It is a step in the right direction, but until the culture changes at the APD and appointed politicians stop running the department, things will not change, and officers will continue to leave.

Ken Sanchez has been on the City Council now for over 12 years, he has done absolutely nothing to stop the corruption at APD, and his proposal for more money for APD rank and file is nothing more than pure political pandering now that he is running for Mayor. This is the same Ken Sanchez who voted to confirm Darren White as Chief Public Safety Officer, who never demanded action against Ray Schultz, who publicly supported Chief Allen Banks as a great chief, who did not challenge Rob Perry when APD top brass were called in to intimidate the City Council. I am hoping Sanchez does run for Mayor this time like he has promised to do twice before so that he will finally lose and we can get him off the Council.

It's really too bad the "top brass" doesn't read this AND take it to heart. YUP GOOD people have left and they continue to leave, and it will continue to happen.....not to mention the longer they drag their feet for promotions just makes those people that much closer to retirement ALSO want to leave.

Don't get your hopes up on Sanchez just yet. I've kept an eye on Sanchez over the years and while a nice guy with his heart in the right place, I have heard him talk a lot but never follow anything through. He just doesn't have the tough guy balls to stand up and fight to the bitter end. This is why he'll never be mayor. Even he does get it approved by council, do you honestly think strawBerry shortcake and his butt-licker staff won't pull a fast one to derail it? You all know something will be taken from you to offset the raise. He's done it to you multiple times now.

1. *After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?*

The Albuquerque community wants results. First and foremost, the community wants to participate in police oversight. The CPOA and POB are tools for that participation. The CPOA and POB must be responsive to the community's legitimate aspiration to participate in the process.

Valid results contemplated by the community range from merely wanting to be kept reliably informed about the important issues concerning APD to those of activist citizens who want to be more directly involved by attending POB hearings, community meetings, and other public gatherings. These citizens want to be heard and want their opinions to be given serious consideration.

The CPOA must keep the public at large informed and provide the community a real opportunity to give feedback. Part of this endeavour will be to have a good relationship with a broad range of media where CPOA can keep the community as a whole up-to-date. The objective here is to reach as broad a spectrum of the community as possible within budget and time constraints.

Necessarily included here is the need for transparency. Community participation means increased scrutiny. The CPOA and POB must strive to be as open and transparent as the Decree and the relevant laws allow. Anything less will result in community dissatisfaction and ultimate failure.

The community's acceptance and approval of the CPOA's and POB's work, in large part, will be based on how the new oversight ordinance is implemented. The Decree provides the CPOA and POB with new and innovative authority and responsibility that did not exist in Albuquerque before and is rare around the country. Innovation brings opportunity and new responsibilities.

The DOJ faulted the former oversight system for bias and a lack of independence from APD and the City, mostly related to structure but somewhat due to ineffective implementation. Among the most important new features of the current oversight system is the CPOA's and POB's right to hire independent legal counsel, a set budget to be administered independently of the city, the ability to recommend discipline, and the duty to review "APD trends and issues" and recommend policy and procedure changes. Given the scrutiny I expect from the public, the CPOA and POB need to produce conspicuous results with these new features.

It is important to note that the new oversight ordinance requires the CPOA to document that over 50% of the agency's time is spent reviewing APD's policy and procedures for recommendations to be made to the Chief and the City Council. I find no reference to the amount of time allotted to this endeavour by the Decree, however, the ordinance does not appear to be in conflict with the Court's Order.

The results required to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective begin with transparency. The community needs to be confident in CPOA and POB. However, unless the substantive changes detailed in the Decree are implemented in consequential ways, the CPOA and POB will fail in the community's eyes.

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

For purposes of this answer I will refer to this client as "Pat", which is of course a fictitious name. As a young public defender I represented a client with bipolar disorder. Pat was extremely intelligent and suffered a disability, in part controlled by medication. Pat was charged with relatively minor misdemeanor charges stemming from incidents that I believe occurred while suffering from this disability.

During the pendency of this case Pat became convinced that the complaining witness and the authorities were conspiring to deny Pat's constitutional rights. Pat came to my office one afternoon and in a private conversation made statements that I interpreted as imminent credible threats against the personal safety of the witness. The threats involved a firearm.

I consulted the rules of ethics that cover such situations and determined that the rules allowed me, but did not require me, to report my client to the authorities. Few conflicts are as important or as troubling for a lawyer than those involving knowledge that a client is contemplating a criminal or unethical act—especially where violence is involved. In such situations an attorney's duty of confidentiality and loyalty to a client comes in direct conflict with other important duties under the ethical code. After discussing the matter with senior attorneys in my office I decided to call the prosecutor in the case.

Because my client's charges included misdemeanour telephone harassment, I thought it likely that Pat had called the witness earlier that same day. My plan was to make a decision about revealing my specific concerns about the safety of the complaining witness only after I determined if the police were unaware of the threat. Without revealing my client's statement, I asked the prosecutor if she could tell me whether my client had a warrant.

The prosecutor refused to answer my question citing a departmental prohibition against revealing the existence of arrest warrants. This was understandable since the subject of a warrant might be likely to flee if they became aware of a warrant. I asked to speak to her superior.

When I spoke with the supervising prosecutor I repeated my request explaining as I had earlier that I was unable to describe the circumstances. The supervisor complied and told me that there was in fact an arrest warrant for Pat based on threats against the complaining witness involving a firearm.

If I had learned that the authorities were unaware of my concern that my client had made a credible threat against the safety of the complaining witness, I was prepared to tell the prosecutor about my concerns. Since the police and prosecutor were aware of the specific set of facts that caused my concern, and there was in fact an arrest warrant for my client, I believed my information would not add materially to the safety of the witness. I prepared and filed my withdrawal as counsel due to the conflict, started the procedure to immediately get a contract attorney assigned to Pat's case, and wrote Pat a letter explaining that I was no longer the attorney-of-record in the case.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

The most challenging aspect of management is employee discipline. One overwhelming pressure on humans is to get along. We all want to be liked by our peers and colleagues. However, as a manager of other human beings we must approach our relationships with those we supervise or evaluate in a professional manner. This requires self-discipline by the manager. Striking the right balance between maintaining a collegial, friendly relationship and a formal, professional one is difficult.

Clearly people respond to positive, reinforcing management much better than draconian practices. Employees deserve to be clearly informed of specific, detailed outcomes that they are expected to achieve in their jobs and given praise when they meet the standards. If they fail to meet standards, they should be afforded the opportunity to understand their shortcomings and be given the opportunity to correct their deficits.

In my role as the manager of the morphology laboratory of the Office of the Medical Investigator in the 1970s I was presented with at least two employees who failed to follow prohibitions against sexual harassment. Two male junior technical employees consistently disregarded supervision by senior female technicians and resorted to conduct demeaning to the gender of their superiors. Using the step-wise disciplinary procedures in place at the University of New Mexico at the time I was able to correct the behavior of one of these employees. In the other instance I ultimately fired the technician.

As Fifth Judicial District Defender I was presented with a set of circumstances in one of the district offices that is best described as total chaos. The staff of about ten employees had split themselves into two camps. Some of the attorney staff was aligned with the highest-ranking, non-attorney staff member while one single attorney was aligned with the rest of the non-attorney support staff. A few of the attorneys took no sides in the conflict. The operation of the office was in a shambles. The work of the office fell well below standards for a criminal defense law office and was affecting the quality of legal representation.

I inherited this difficult situation and was appointed District Defender in part to remedy it. I turned to the senior non-attorney administrator in my own district office for her professional perspective. Together we conducted a thorough investigation of the troubled office. Through consultation with the Chief Public Defender and other senior members of the Department's administration including the human resources manager, we developed a plan. We prepared letters detailing disciplinary action for the employees that we identified as being responsible for the conflicts in the office. These letters were consistent with New Mexico's State Personnel rules.

A few of the employees responded to the notice letters positively and made appropriate behavioral changes. One employee resigned on the spot, refusing to sign a neutral acknowledgment of receipt of the letter. While the atmosphere in that office continued to be quite tense for some time afterward, operational standards improved and the standards of legal representation returned to acceptable levels.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

I find this question to be somewhat out of place for an employment interview. My life long approach to the practice of law has been to serve my clients, the law and the public. It would be difficult if not impossible for me to pick out one or several cases that I take particular pride in. I won cases as a lawyer that I probably should not have and I lost cases that I believe I shouldn't. As always, this was due as much to luck as it was to my skill as a lawyer.

As a public defender and later as a judge I strived to approach each case as if it were the most important case I had. Early on as a lawyer I was taught that while lawyers have many clients and cases, most clients have only one case in their lives. That is a heavy burden but nonetheless important. I resolved at the start to strive to be the most prepared person in the courtroom to give my client the best possible chance to achieve favorable results. I also believed that an important part of my obligation to my clients was as a counselor at law, that is to say, someone who advises a client as well as seeks redress for his or her circumstances.

However, I can describe things that gave me satisfaction in my legal career. As a public defender I was pleased to give a voice to many of my clients who believed they had a ghost of a chance of getting a fair shake. Often, the most rewarding moments came when a client would thank me even though we lost the case. Often knowing that I had done my professional best to represent them was enough to restore their faith in the system even when the personal outcome was less than favorable for them.

I was pleased that I maintained a cordial relationship with police officers, detention officers, court officials and others even when the very nature of our professional relationship was often adversarial. I felt good when police officers that I had subjected to grueling cross-examination were nonetheless happy to sit down at lunch with me. Or later, when I became a judge, to ask me to perform their wedding.

Additionally, as a judge, I was pleased to engage criminal defendants, witnesses, victims, and members of the public in court as regular human beings not as case numbers to be processed. I believe that I always strive to treat others as I want to be treated professionally as well as personally.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.

Quite simply I like to approach investigations as scientifically as possible. Initially, I want to learn as many facts as are available in a neutral way—without any presumptions. Later, after gathering as much factual information as is reasonably available, I think it is appropriate to develop hypotheses. Testing a hypothesis or multiple hypotheses allows you to accept or reject explanations of what has occurred based on a factual analysis.

The key is to approach an investigation with an open mind. If you form a hypothesis too early you can easily fall into the trap of only looking at facts that support your hypothesis. The key is to collect facts in an unbiased, neutral way until a hypothesis takes shape. Next, and equally important, is to test the hypothesis against additional facts. Often, testing a hypothesis will require the investigator to seek additional facts. If those additional facts indicate that your hypothesis is false, then you must reject it.

Facts can be placed in at least two different categories. Investigators can directly observe physical evidence, photographs, videos and the like. The investigator can use personal skills and experiences to evaluate this evidence. Another category of evidence is in the form of witness statements and opinions. Evidence of this sort requires an investigator to evaluate the witnesses' credibility, bias, accuracy of observation, and other aspects. Credibility determinations must be based on unbiased assessments of all the available evidence. At times a witness can honestly believe their observation or opinion is accurate but other evidence makes it clear that they are mistaken or untruthful. Not many determinations an investigator makes are as important as resolving credibility issues. When two witnesses' statements cannot be reconciled the investigator's determination of credibility can be decisive in the case.

During an investigation when an investigator rejects a working hypothesis, he or she can modify this hypothesis to retest or, if appropriate, take an entirely new approach and form a new hypothesis. Investigations that begin with premature assumptions often result in the investigator accepting all facts that support the assumption and rejection of all that do not.

However, when all the facts are assembled from an unbiased investigation, and a hypothesis survives a test of sufficient facts, the investigator can reach a rational conclusion. At times there will be no hypothesis that can be sustained by the facts. Some complaints simply cannot be sustained.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

In my tenure as a public defender, I spent over 15 years dealing with workload pressures. First, as a line attorney handling caseloads that were double and, at times, even triple American Bar Association standards. As an attorney in the trenches you learn to handle pressure from the courts and your clients.

The only way to have any sense of success is to carefully prioritize your work. I learned early on that managing such a heavy caseload required managing my clients' expectations. That is not to say that I attempted to minimize their expectations. Rather, I learned to carefully explain what they could expect during the course of my representation.

I found that most clients understood that there were times in the life of a criminal case when an attorney's attention was critical and there were other times when there was little an attorney could do to further the cause. More often than not my clients were satisfied with this understanding as long as I could deliver my services for them at the critical times.

Later as District Defender, a senior administrator in the Public Defender, I attempted to instill this approach in the Department's statewide mentoring program. Pairing inexperienced attorneys with more senior attorneys around the district offices to help the new hires tackle the challenges of the workload was simply the best if not the only way to handle the problem. As a state office, our budget was set and our resources were necessarily fixed.

As an organization under workload pressure like a backlog of cases, the only way forward is to identify the scope of the problem and develop a plan for dealing with it. Clearly communicating the priorities to every employee and providing a clear understanding of individual expectations is key to success.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?

Fair, unbiased, and professional oversight of police make a community safer for all—citizens and officers alike. The CPOA should be recognized broadly in Albuquerque's diverse communities, the City and APD administrations, as well as among the rank-and-file police officers, as a valuable tool for public participation in oversight of APD.

CPOA's investigations need to be thorough and timely; communication about results should be effective tools for all involved in implementing the Decree but also clear to lay people. CPOA should strive to be seen as fair and unbiased by the community as well as the police officers.

According to the Decree, the CPOA is one of several mechanisms created to foster continued participation and long-term sustainability of the reforms and goals embodied in the settlement agreement. CPOA should coordinate its work with the Mental Health Response Advisory Committee, Community Policing Councils, and community policing partnerships among others to increase communication within the community.

In its Memo Order of June 2, 2015, the Court notes that the Decree "repeatedly direct[s] the parties to respond to the community voices as they implement the decree. . . . Neglect of community voices gave rise, in part, to the concerns stated in the Complaint. The Court does not want that to be an on-going problem." Thus CPOA should be part of a collaborative effort to respond to changing circumstances and evolving needs through conspicuous review and recommendation of policy and procedure changes.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

i) Fairness. Throughout my life I have sought to be as fair-minded as I can be. In my work I believe I approach conflicts large and small with an open mind and seek resolutions in a way that is as near to unbiased as possible. My experience shows that when people feel they have been treated fairly they are more likely to accept resolutions to conflicts that they do not agree with. I believe the value of this trait in police oversight is clear and invaluable.

ii) Experience as a district judge. After years representing clients accused of crimes, I felt a sense of relief on the bench that I no longer had clients to represent. While I missed the personal contact a client provided, I was relieved that I no longer had to work to achieve my client's goals. I felt somewhat unburdened since my role on the bench was to assess facts and reach unbiased conclusions of law to resolve cases presented to me.

It was not long before my viewpoint changed. I learned that a decision-maker has a much broader burden. As a judge one central duty is to provide the fairest possible forum for all involved, the litigants, witnesses, and the public among others. For example, a judge is not allowed to offer assistance to litigants, even unrepresented ones facing an attorney on the other side. I found it extremely hard not to jump in to offer advice to unrepresented litigants based on my legal training and a very human sense of "fairness".

I believe I gained important insight into how insidious bias can be. Explicit bias, that which is obvious to everyone, is easily identified and relatively easy to avoid. Implicit bias, that which is so subtle that it is extremely difficult to detect in oneself or others, takes much more experience and skill to avoid. My six years on the bench was a continual experiment in detecting and avoiding implicit bias. Avoiding bias or even the mere appearance of bias is clearly valuable to police oversight.

iii) Background in science. While police oversight is not a scientific discipline it does lend itself to certain principles of science. First, there are volumes of literature available that touch on just about every topic in police procedure and oversight one could imagine. Some of the articles are in overtly scientific formats and others are narrative and anecdotal.

Many of the articles I have read indicate that the body of literature is very broad but that there is little depth. In other words there is a diversity of topics addressed but many topics remain largely unexplored in any real depth. My background in science (and law) and a general understanding of statistics helps inform me about the quality of the work as reported. A scientist looks for evidenced-based conclusions. My background should help me distinguish useful articles, reports and evaluations from those that have little or no merit.

iv) Experience as a criminal defense attorney. In addition to the experience and skills I gained by investigating criminal charges, I believe the approach I used in my investigations is a viable way for police oversight investigation. Frontline investigation of crimes by police officers is a very different set of circumstances from what I did as a criminal defense lawyer. My work was one step removed from determining who committed a crime and how it was committed. Police oversight investigation is similar in nature to the investigations I conducted as a lawyer.

v) The diversity of my experiences. My personal and professional experiences have been quite diverse. I grew up in Carlsbad, New Mexico, where I graduated from high school in 1969, the first in my family. My father and grandfather were potash miners. My first job was in a potash refinery. I spent a couple of years working before starting university at UNM in 1972. I worked as railroad brakeman, a construction laborer, a lifeguard, a landscaper, bartender, cab driver and welder. I attended Albuquerque's Technical Vocational Institute to learn welding as a trade in order to finance my education. I alternatively worked and attended UNM, eventually graduating in 1978 with a degree in biology. In nearly 30 years living in Albuquerque, I lived every quadrant of the city.

My wife and I joined the Peace Corps and taught I high school sciences and English in a small community school in Kenya. We traveled through Egypt, Israel and Greece on our way home. My wife began medical school soon after we returned and I started my work at OMI, first as a technician and later as a manager. I entered law school and graduated when I was 40 years old. I worked briefly for an environmental law firm in Santa Fe before joining the Public Defender. My work with the PD exposed me to a broad cross-section of indigent New Mexico residents. I represented clients with mental disabilities, for over two years I handled all the mental health clients in the metro division of the Albuquerque Public Defender. I represented clients from across Albuquerque and later from across the Fifth Judicial District of Eddy, Lea, and Chaves counties. For six years I served as district judge in Carlsbad hearing cases in every category: criminal, juvenile, civil, domestic, abuse and neglect, and many others. I presided over countless jury trials and bench trials. At times the lawyers before me were some of the best in the nation and at other times the litigants were unrepresented and often struggling.

In December of 2012, my wife and I decided to move to New Zealand where she would continue her work as family practice physician. After being there for two years we decided to return home. We missed family and friends. On our way home we traveled through China, Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia, Thailand, Myanmar, and Qatar. We took six months in order to better understand the places we visited.

All in all, I believe that the diversity of my experiences gives me broad perspective that helps me understand a wide spectrum of people. I believe that perspective would be valuable to police oversight. This is especially true in light of the Decree's requirement that the entire community should be encouraged to participate.

iv) Personal challenge. I believe that the most challenging aspect of my personality is knowing when a job or project is adequately complete. I often struggle to feel satisfied with my work whether it is a written document, a plan to go forward, or other product—such as this very document you are reading. I struggle with this in my personal life as well as in my professional life. My experience in law taught me one valuable technique to help with this challenge. The practice of law is replete with deadlines. I learned that, for someone with this affliction, deadlines are your friends. When there are external deadlines imposed it goes without saying that a project is finished on the deadline—by definition if nothing else. When no external deadlines are in place, the way to address this affliction is to self-impose a reasonable deadline and live with it. I have more-or-less succeeded using this technique.

9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

The call of this question exposes perhaps the weakest part of my application. I cannot point to a single experience I have had that meets the description in the question. That is not to say that I do not have general experiences and skills that provide me with a solid foundation to address this aspect of the job description. I have described the diversity of my life experiences above, especially regarding my personal and professional interactions with a broad cross-section of people around the world, New Mexico, and Albuquerque.

Additionally, my work as a criminal defense attorney necessarily exposed me to varied conflicts and points of view most often between clients and their accusers but also involving community organizations focused on criminal justice as a whole and from many points of view. My interactions with such groups gave me insight to the public's perceptions and expectations for the justice system. My role as an administrator in the Public Defender interacting with legislators and others to secure funding for the department and legislation to better serve the people of the state informed me about the nuts and bolts of state government and how to reach consensus.

While a jury hardly is the same as the "disparate groups of stakeholders" referred to in the question, a jury is a microcosm of the community with a fair diversity of interests and backgrounds. In a jury trial, a lawyer has done all of the pure legal work before starting to try the case. In court, a lawyer's role is properly shifted to persuasion. A skillful trial attorney is adept at communicating with a jury in as many ways as possible. First, an attorney must be as clear as possible when speaking to a jury. The language used must not be over simplified so as to be insulting but not be too technical or unnecessarily complicated. A skilled trial lawyer tells a story for the jury, as that is how humans have learned since before languages were fully developed. The lawyer paints visual images for the jury to better understand the lawyer's arguments. The lawyer must also use a variety of visual aids and graphic exhibits to help the jury understand and retain as much information as possible. Finally, the lawyer must be honest and fair to the opposition, the court and the jury otherwise the jury will distrust the lawyer and not be persuaded.

I did not intend to write a treatise on trial persuasion. However, I believe that the skills and experience I gained through trying numerous jury trials and conducting hundreds of bench trials and contested motions are applicable to the kind of work contemplated by this question. I have read in several documents and articles regarding reform of police oversight systems in Albuquerque and elsewhere that discussed the proper approach to community outreach. One suggestion is that a member of the oversight team should be primarily responsible for outreach. I believe this would be a valuable asset to the CPOA, of course with the POB's approval.

Finally, I believe my experiences as a judge lend themselves to the skill set this question addresses. Serving the community on the bench exposed me to some of the most needy members of the community. This exposure came from individuals involved in criminal cases, divorces, abuse and neglect cases, mortgage foreclosures, and many others. I also was exposed to a variety of advocacy groups in the local, state and national communities through direct contact and through formal and informal continuing legal education.

Perhaps more relevant, my participation in the judicial selection process and subsequent partisan election, required that I expose myself to the public in what many would find uncomfortable and awkward ways. Being interviewed in a public forum by a dozen or so judges, lawyers and prominent members of your community is a trial by fire. Upon appointment to the bench a judge must face a partisan election and all the public scrutiny that goes with that. Part of the unique circumstances of a judicial election stem from ethical obligations that restrain the judge from commenting on a variety of specifics. As a judicial candidate, a sitting judge finds herself or himself in the role of educator first and candidate second. Pulling that off requires savvy, composure, ethics, and discipline. Surely these experiences will help when reaching out to the community in the public forum.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

I am satisfied that as the deadline approaches for submitting this document I have exhausted the subjects I was asked to address (if not the reader). My experience is that when I have more time to edit my written work I tend to make it more concise. Perhaps what I need is a page limit in addition to a deadline.

All - At this point we have 13 CPOA Director applications complete with writing assignment; we also have four applications received by City HR that have not yet come to me, three with writing assignments due on 7/18/2015, and one with a writing assignment past due.

Enclosed are all the applications which are complete with writing assignments, plus the spreadsheet tracking our applicant pool. The new applicants are:

Jay Rowland (former IRO)
Jennifer Burrill
Philip Dabney
Denise DeForest
Stephanie Lopez

I am enclosing all of the complete applications for any of you who missed getting them in prior emails. I am NOT enclosing any incomplete applications, but will send them as soon as they are complete, if the applicants complete them.

Please use the spreadsheet to double-check and ensure you have everyone. If at least one person would kindly confirm receipt of these, then I'll know that the file wasn't too large to send.

Call me with questions. Thanks, -B

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

The City of Albuquerque has attempted some form of public oversight continuously since June of 1978. During the intervening decades, the city has explored a variety of methods with limited or no success. In fact, the April 2014 DOJ Findings letter opined that the then current approach to public oversight was a contributor to what it considered to be unconstitutional conduct of the Albuquerque Police Department (APD). There may be no greater failure of public oversight.

In September 2014, the City of Albuquerque instituted the POB and CPOA as a new form of public oversight in attempt to address the short comings believed to be present in the prior implementations. As with all previous forms of public oversight, under the current system the APD remains free to ignore the recommendations of the POB. However, the present environment makes it far more likely that the APD will be receptive to change as a result of information it receives from the community. The single most important element in the success of public oversight is APD's willingness to participate.

As a result, the most important goal for the CPOA and POB to achieve within the next 12 months is to objectively demonstrate on a consistent basis that the APD is meaningfully responsive to recommendations of the POB and CPOA. If the APD fails or refuses to adopt the recommendations of the POB as a general practice, the POB and CPOA will fail at effective public oversight within far less than twelve months.

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

During my representation of a company, I became aware that a high level executive, who was my superior, had purchased and was operating an independent business venture. The existence of that business venture may have exposed the company to the possibility of civil and criminal claims. Knowing that my employment was in jeopardy, I reported my concerns to the CEO of the company and the executive. The executive obtained legal counsel and divested of that business venture. I took action because my ethical responsibility to the company is of greater importance than my continued employment. Fortunately though, our working relationship successfully survived the situation.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

Prior to law school during my employment at The Boeing Company I was given responsibility for a software quality assurance department that made the final delivery decisions for a number of multi-billion dollar programs including nuclear capable weapon systems. At the time of my promotion, I was the sole member of the department and confronted with the challenge of budgeting, obtaining facilities, and staffing in the face of rapidly growing business demand. I located facilities, obtained equipment, and hired a number of employees in a matter of weeks. Over the course of the next few years, I recruited and hired more than 30 employees. During this time, I created company-wide policies and procedures that outlined the philosophy of the organization and allowed employees quickly to become productive. I dealt with this challenge by creating a well-rounded cohesive team that could be relied upon to effectively accomplish their responsibilities independently. Managing delegation of tasks was critical, because the scope of work was broad and some of my employees were located remotely where communication was limited to phone calls with months passing between in person visits.

My second example is when, as general counsel, I was asked to terminate the HR director of a 650 employee company. I proposed to the executives the alternative of demoting of the HR director to an administrative position and the transfer another partially qualified employee to the director position. Having anticipated the situation over a year previously, I had arranged for the employee to be transferred to the HR department as an administrative assistant to gain HR experience, followed by coordinating her promotion and transfer to the business development department engaged in HR facilitation activity. By the time the situation with the incumbent HR director developed, the employee had sufficient experience to handle the position. The executives approved my proposal and tasked me with carrying it out, which I did in a matter of weeks.

The reason I proposed this alternative was that termination and replacement of the HR director could have caused significant disruption to the company. The incumbent was an experienced HR professional who enjoyed the administrative aspects of the job and had significant corporate memory, but disliked the conflict inherent in the HR director position. The proposed employee was adept at handling conflict and resolving disputes, but had insufficient experience in HR to serve a 650 employee company alone. However, with the enthusiastic support of the former HR director, she successfully performed as HR director while gaining experience in the position. The two of them work well as a team. Both individuals are still serving in those positions now after nearly three years.

A final example involves a situation when a physician-employee of the company related a racially charged joke in the presence of two minority employees, one of whom took offense. Another physician in the office reported the incident to me and I immediately investigated to confirm the occurrence, engaged in a discussion with the offending physician regarding the inappropriate conduct, then scheduled sensitivity training which included a final examination. My outside legal counsel included a female minority attorney who agreed to provide the sensitivity training as well as to counsel the offended employee to ensure that future performance was not affected. I followed up three months later to verify that the intervention had been successful and the office continued to be productive. Ensuring appropriate respect for all persons is vital to ensuring that an organization is able to function at optimal productivity.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

One case of which I am proud involves a mentally disadvantaged youth who had been charged with two counts of statutory rape with an initial proposed plea of one count with a 40 year sentence and no possibility of parole. A multi-state investigation revealed that an older sister who was alienated from her father had made false claims about her younger sister in an attempt to harm her father, which gave rise to the false charges against my client. A court appointed medical expert re-examined the alleged victim and reported that the investigative findings presented in three reports all had been fabricated. After over a year involving many hearings before the court, I reached a plea agreement with the prosecutor for a misdemeanor conviction. The judge accepted a plea of no contest, entered a misdemeanor conviction and a sentence of time served. I am proud of this case because it represents defending a vulnerable person in an unpopular cause in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds.

Another case involved a claim of commercial fraud perpetrated by the relative of a sitting judge in the same district. After having engaged in a protracted uphill struggle to get the case in front of a jury, the presiding judge interrupted my examination of the defendant and allowed those of my claims that he previously had disallowed. Deliberation took less than 20 minutes. I am proud of this example because it represents pursuing justice in a difficult case with significant opposition.

One final case of many involved a court appointed representation relating to counts of attempted murder, kidnapping, felony evade and elude, and felony criminal damage to property. At the first preliminary hearing, the judge refused to bind over two of the counts for want of probable cause. The prosecutor dropped charges and refiled, and I was reappointed to the same defendant by mere chance. At the second preliminary hearing in front of a different judge, the judge bound the two charges, but refused to bind over the charges that had been bound in the previous hearing. Again, the prosecutor dropped the charges and refiled, but this time in anticipation, I had requested the assignment clerk to assign the case to me. The third preliminary hearing in front of a still different judge resulted again in only two charges being bound over, at which point the prosecutor entered into a plea for two misdemeanor counts with time served. My success largely was a result of my long-term relationship with an out of state law enforcement officer who served as an investigator. I am proud of this case because of my persistence in seeking a better outcome for my client. The traditional approach would have been to waive the preliminary hearing and let the case go to trial, but that would have meant the defendant would have spent perhaps close to a year in custody awaiting trial.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.

The POB and CPOA exist to assure the community of the quality of the APD. Quality in this case being compliance with the US Constitution, New Mexico laws, the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree, and other specifications of the APD system. Verification of quality can be expected to involve both a systemic audit program and a complaint resolution program. The audit program investigates both that the policies and procedures are correct and adequate, and verification of operational compliance with those policies and procedures. The complaint resolution program uses information provided by complaint investigations to further examine and verify the adequacy of the APD policies and procedures.

An investigation is an important step in a process of ensuring and improving the quality of the APD system. The investigation, however, is merely the information gathering portion of the process. The critical and possibly more difficult activity is that of implementing effective resolution of the identified concerns. The typical reaction of an organization to audit findings or complaints is to defend, deny and avoid taking any corrective action. But, with education and persistence, organizations can understand that all systems are imperfect, and that investigative findings are critical information necessary to continuously improve the system.

Part of my investigation philosophy is that among the most damaging conduct possible with respect to public oversight is false statements made by public servants in the course of an investigation. The Fifth Amendment does not shield false statements. See U.S. v. Wong (1977), U.S. v. Mandujano (1976), and U.S. v. Knox (1969). Consequently, Garrity rights do not apply to perjured or false statements made by a government employee under Garrity protection. I vigorously will encourage prosecution of any government employee who participates in sworn false statements made during the course of an investigation, whether they utter the false statement or knowingly allow it to be uttered.

Furthermore, it is my opinion that Garrity rights do not require that the City of Albuquerque knowingly to expose the public to a risk of danger merely because information regarding that danger was elicited through compelled self-incriminating statements. It is my expectation and belief that the constitutional rights of government employees can be protected while simultaneously protecting the constitutional rights of the public at large.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

The POB and CPOA are tasked with verifying the quality of the APD as defined by the US constitution, New Mexico laws, the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree, and other quality specifications. I have extensive experience with quality verification that is relevant here. In addition to my experience with criminal defense attorney, which will help with interpretation of the quality specifications for the APD, I also have fifteen years of quality assurance and industrial statistics experience that will allow rapid implementation of a comprehensive and cost effective program to verify APD's compliance with the identified requirements. In the past, I have been certified by the American Society for Quality, as a Quality Engineer, a Quality Auditor, and a Reliability Engineer, representing the possession of specific knowledge relating to the investigation of compliant and noncompliant systems and the resolution of noncompliance.

My background in industrial statistics also may be especially useful in rapidly responding to a large backlog of cases in a timely manner. Although sometimes criticized by people who do not understand, statistics is a science of decision making and problem solving that involves taking quantities of data and identifying information contained therein. The efficiency of investigations may be increased with the appropriate use of such analytic methods. Statistics can be used not only to identify the priority of investigations to pursue, but also to identify which cases are likely to be isolated events and which may be signals of systemic issues, and to objectively measure the success of implemented recommendations.

Statistical methods allow for an objective determination whether the POB and CPOA are effective. CPOA's report to the community and the City be expressed with a scientific level of confidence. For example, appropriate implementation of statistical methods can allow measurement of community confidence, and the change in that confidence over time, regarding whether the POB and CPOA have been able to achieve effective public oversight. Among the many other factors of quality that can be objectively measured are whether the frequency of observations of putative unconstitutional conduct has changed to a statistically significant extent and whether recommendations implemented by APD are likely to have contributed to an improvement in system performance.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?

The POB is the voice of the community seeking to ensure the quality of the APD. Among the factors of quality that can be measured is the level of community confidence that the APD is appropriately protecting the community and that the CPOA is effective in supporting public oversight. The CPOA is the administrative function that supports the POB and empowers it with appropriate resources and systems to ensure that the concerns of the community have been satisfactorily addressed and that the APD is maintaining appropriate quality.

The primary purpose of the POB and the CPOA is to ensure that the community has confidence that the APD is complying with the US Constitution and other quality requirements while allowing the APD the appropriate operational secrecy necessary to engage in effective law enforcement. It is my expectation based on prior experience with quality systems, that the APD can be persuaded to be responsive voluntarily to the recommendations of the POB from its own self-interest. It will be my goal to persuade the APD to take objectively verifiable action with respect to every recommendation of the POB.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

Prior experience with similar quality assurance systems. I have created and managed many quality assurance and complaint resolution systems in similar politically charged and conflict-filled environments under tight time constraints and high pressure to perform. I can create and have in operation an objectively verifiable system producing results visible to the community in a very short period of time.

Focus on the goal. The important goal of public oversight is for the community to have confidence in the APD. I am able to evaluate mountains of data to determine which are important versus merely urgent, and develop a strategy to satisfactorily accomplish large numbers of assignments in a short period of time. The CPOA has a large backlog of cases and being able to address and resolve that backlog quickly and effectively is important for establishing confidence in the CPOA and the APD.

Willingness to forgive insult to get the job done. I do not hold grudges and easily forgive insults. In an environment of conflict and divergent motivations, holding grudges for past insults or seeking retaliation can politicize an environment and destroy consensus building necessary for conflict resolution. Having implemented quality systems before, I have extensive experience de-escalating the natural defensiveness of organizations against perceived criticism and induced change.

Independence. I am an outsider. I have no prior relationships with the APD, the City Attorney, or any other employee of the City of Albuquerque. I have never been a police officer, a prosecutor, nor a city attorney. No one justifiably can accuse me of bias or favoritism.

Development of effective relationships. I have experience with developing effective relationships with people of all perspectives, cultures and backgrounds. Having an appropriate understanding of our different world views is important to ensuring effective community engagement and support.

As for one of my challenging characteristics, I have a tendency to be intense with a laser-like focus on completing important assignments that can cause distress for those who work for me. At times I have been given the nicknames, 'Bulldog' and 'Missile-lock.' I gravitate toward situations that involve more work than can be done in the given amount of time and lose sight of the clock to ensure the completion of an important goal. Sometimes this results in giving employees more work than they accomplish leading to stress and distress. To address this characteristic, I intentionally develop a rapprochement with my staff that allows them to coordinate the scheduling of their assignments and identify appropriate deadlines. We discuss the distinction between important and urgent assignments, and coordinate a priority that assures the appropriate assignment is accomplished at the required time.

9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others.

An advantage of having many years of life experience is that I have had numerous opportunities to be involved as officer, chairman or member of numerous community groups, including branches of the American Red Cross, American Cancer Society, Habitat for Humanity, and other organizations. I have represented multiple independent practice associations, which are a type of union for physicians, with respect to their labor negotiations with contracted health plans and in matters relating to discipline of individual physicians, including navigation of the contractual dispute resolution and appeals provisions. I have served as an intern for a state senator, and coordinated lobbying action seeking reformation of state law. I have interacted with DOJ attorneys with respect to multi-million dollar civil and criminal claims. I have no prior experience working with a DOJ monitor, but my employment with The Boeing Company involved years of working closely with numerous defense procurement officers that served in an analogous role of monitoring that our system was complying with the requirements of the procuring government department. My fifteen year career at Boeing, and seventeen as an attorney, has centered on resolving disputes between groups having different interests in order to create a consensus necessary to achieve a common goal.

Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

My situations are myriad, but unfortunately the most interesting examples involving legal cases, the DOJ and others, are cloaked in confidentiality or involve classified programs. One example I can relate involved the assembly and installation of the aft access and blow out door that precludes a catastrophic failure mode for the 737 commercial aircraft; the door keeps the aircraft from blowing apart in midair. The installation process took nearly 8 hours to complete but the production line was being accelerated necessitating a more efficient process. There was significant conflict with the installation crew blaming assembly, assembly blaming tooling, and tooling blaming engineering; these conflicts related to hundreds of millions of dollars and involved perhaps 100 people all highly motivated to place blame on others with negative impact on process improvement. My responsibility was to improve the process to allow the airplane assembly to move faster while maintaining appropriate quality, which caused increased work but no reward for all of the supporting organizations. My role was to mediate disputes and obtain engagement from those disputing organizations. As a result of my facilitation and in a period of less than a week, the process was adjusted to allow completion of installation in less than 20 minutes.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

A Wichita, Kansas television news station used me as an on-air legal expert for a period of years. They would call me with an issue of criminal or civil law as they were on their way to my office to televise the interview. In most cases, I had less than ten minutes notice of the interviews on a wide variety of legal subjects.

Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

DUNCAN L. BRADLEY

2395 North Florida, Alamogordo, New Mexico 88310

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

The reestablishment of productive and trusting relations between the Albuquerque Police Department and the communities it serves is of first importance. Both the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree and the October 6, 2014 Amendment to Chapter 9, Article 4, Part 1 ROA 1994, the Police Oversight Ordinance provide important guidance, direction, and operational requirements to achieve that goal.

In that connection, there are a number of things which might be immediately accomplished by the Civilian Police Oversight Agency and the Police Oversight Board in the course of their required interactions with the Albuquerque City Government and Police Department. For example, the development of a process for productive interaction between the Albuquerque Police Department and the citizens of Albuquerque through an active community watch program would directly involve Albuquerque's several communities with the Department, which is something which the Civilian Police Oversight Agency might be able to foster.

Further, advocacy for, and support of an Albuquerque Police Department in-house activities such as the implementation of a monthly in-service training program would be another step in that direction. Such a program could focus on the historic role of law enforcement in the American judicial system (concerning its primary goal of maintaining public peace, order, and safety), professional patrol procedures, professional call response procedures, field officer public demeanor, citizen contact protocols, officer safety procedures, and professional constraints on responses to threats involving an officer and/or public peace, order, and safety.

Enhancement of public awareness and involvement could also be advanced by encouraging the Department to invite direct citizen and media participation in various aspects of such programs (albeit, not all, since as some law enforcement training entails unacceptable security risks and liabilities, and the Police would wish to keep certain matters confidential with regard to field operations).

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

While serving as the Designated Alternate Defense Counsel for Colorado's Seventh Judicial District, in the course of interviewing a client he advised he was going to commit another crime in connection with the offenses with which he was charged, in order to conceal his involvement and generate false testimony.

Pursuant to the specific provisions of the Attorney Code of Professional Responsibility, the Canons of Ethics, and prevailing written standards from the Bar Association, an en camera hearing with the presiding Court was requested, the purpose of which was to ask to be excused from representation of that client on the grounds of a conflict of interest, and that the Court appoint alternate counsel.

The Court granted the request and did appoint alternate counsel. It also recused itself from further participation in proceedings regarding the case.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

While in private practice, on more than one occasion intra-office and inter-office disharmony affected the firm's ability to effectively represent the interests of its clients. The situation was resolved by exercising leadership by example, among other things by inviting the in-input of those expressing competing or conflicting interests and points of view. This approach proved, and has proven successful in almost all cases. Very few individuals, if any, respond positively to being ordered to act or conduct themselves in specific ways. However, for the most part they will respond favorably to an invitation of conversation and exchange of views.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

As an attorney:

Personal satisfaction does not arise from a particular success involving the results of a particular case, but from the over-all results of many cases, those achieved on behalf of many clients. In the course of both private and public practice, the satisfaction felt has arisen from the many letters and other expressions of appreciation received from clients who were assisted in the resolution of the difficulties concerning which consultation and representation were afforded.

As a peace officer:

The successful resolution of a case which involved a serial kidnapper-rapist-murderer (twenty-four known victims) accomplished in the face of official disapprobation by a politician who wished the effort expended investigating the perpetrated crimes to be spent on another, more publically visible goal (the exact rebuke was, "Nobody gives a damn about an East Colfax hookers—we need that jail built!"). As it happened, it was an election year.

The perpetrator was eventually arrested, tried, and convicted, and hen last heard (Summer of 2006), he was still serving a life sentence in the Colorado Department of Corrections without chance of parole.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.

As an attorney:

Establish the facts necessary to accurately evaluate a case, and determine for the client a course of action, advise him or her regarding the cause of action pending, and create a plan to successfully resolve the matter in the client's best interests with the least expense and personal disruption.

As a peace officer in Illinois and Colorado:

Establish what happened by a careful evaluation of the facts of the matter, and preserve the scene and its evidence to the end of maintaining public peace, order, and safety in order to achieve substantial justice in resolution of the matter into which enquiry is being made.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

In meeting the several requirements of the October 6, 2014 Amendment to Chapter 9, Article 4, Part 1 ROA 1994, and the Police Oversight Ordinance the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree for the Civilian Police Oversight Agency and Police Oversight Board, an ability to analyze factual material, prioritize goals, and focus effort on achieving specific results and ends would be essentail, which ability was acquired by and through:

Education (BA; MA; Certification in Iranian Area Studies and Farsi Language - Reed College, Portland, Oregon; PhD; JD; Diploma - Jefferson County Sheriff's Department Training Academy, Golden, Colorado; Diploma - ATLA College of Trial Advocacy; Diploma - Iraq Rule of Law - Civilian Police International; and, Certification - United States Institute for Peace, Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe;

Service as Legislative Advisor (to a Colorado State Senator, the late James Francis Congrove);

Service as a Board Member on two boards of directors (the Jeffco (Jefferson County, Colorado) Federal Credit Union and the Midwestern Center for Mental Health, Montrose, Colorado);

Service as an Advisor to two Sheriffs: (the Montrose County Colorado Sheriff, four years as a member of his committee for budget and training and representing him to the Montrose Board of County Commissioners and the Sheriff's Citizens Advisory Committee, and the Jefferson County Colorado Sheriff, four years as his Research and Development Specialist representing him and the Department to the Jefferson Board of County Commissioners regarding the Department's annual budget, staffing needs, and equipment and facilities requirements, to the Citizens Advisory Committee for New Facilities, and negotiating and implementing the Department's contract with the U.S. Forest Service regarding the provision of law enforcement services in the Pike and San Isabel National Forests);

Service a member on the Colorado Bar Association's Judicial Advisory Committee: (three years, Denver, Colorado);

Service in Iran: (working with the Iranian Ministry of Education and the Iranian Literacy Corps);

Service with Southern Illinois University's Division of International Education: (working under the direction of the Division Dean creating international education programs, the University's Center for Vietnamese Studies, and serving as Faculty Advisor to Students from the Middle East and as the Faculty Advisor for the International Students' Association); and,

Higher education administration and teaching experience: (Colorado Continuing Legal Education Services; Metropolitan State College, Denver; Southern Illinois University, Carbondale in extension at Menard Penitentiary in Chester Illinois and at the Macomb Community College in Macomb Illinois; Southern Illinois University Faculty Committee for the Creation of Core Curriculum Courses; and, in Iran at the Iranian Women's College, Tehran, Mamazan Agricultural College, Deh-ye-Mamazan, Pars College, Shimran, and the Iranian Literacy Corps creating a correspondence school program aimed at fostering national literacy).

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?

The immediate goal would be the satisfaction of the October 6, 2014 Amendment to Chapter 9, Article 4, Part 1 ROA 1994, and the Police Oversight Ordinance the Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree to establish a situation which provides a basis for creating on behalf of the Albuquerque Community and the Albuquerque Police a sound and effective basis for the resolution of complaints through the establishment of the services needed to maintain the public peace, order, and safety of the community while building and maintaining its trust.

The long term goal would be to establish a professional staff to implement the policies and procedures created for the long-term so that the events of the recent past do not again arise, guided by the principle of fostering trust between the Albuquerque Police and the community it serves by means of creating effective training and communication channels.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

1) Education, training, and experience which includes the area of court administration acquired as an intern to Chief Justice Edward Pringle, Colorado Supreme Court and Judge Donald P. Smith, Colorado Court of Appeals (see ¶ 6, supra);

2) Law Enforcement Experience in both administration and the provision of field service;

3) Attorney Experience in both the public practice of the law in New Mexico, and the private and public practice of the law in Colorado;

4) Administrative and Supervisory Experience serving a Dean of Internal Education, as a Faculty Advisor, as a member of two boards of directors, two law enforcement advisory committees, contract negotiator for the Jefferson County Colorado Sheriff's Department with the with Federal Government, and implementation of the resulting contracts for te provision of law enforcement services, instructor with the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department Training Academy reference crime scene preservation and report writing, and service a judicial advisory committee; and,

5) Service as a Legislative Advisor.

The life-long challenge has been to continually work in order to improve personal knowledge, information, and people skills so as to avoid making mistakes in conduct and decision making regarding matters for which responsibility is carried for self and others, personally and professionally, and to communicate that knowledge, information, and people skills to those with whom one is obliged to work and interact.

9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

In the course of personal experience, have worked with all such individuals as identified, except for union officials and Department of Justice monitors, while serving on two Board of Directors, two Advisory Committees for elected Colorado Sheriffs, as a Legislative Advisor, on the Colorado Bar Association's Judicial Advisory Committee, while in service to the Iranian Ministry of Education and the Iranian Literacy Corps, while in service to the Dean of International Education at Southern Illinois University, as the Jefferson County Sheriff's designated representative to the United States Forest Service in contract negotiations for the Department's provision of law enforcement services in the Pike and San Isabel National Forests, in the implementation of those contracts and as a field supervisor for the National Forest Contract Services Team, and as Designated Alternate Defense Counsel in the Colorado Seventh Judicial District.

All these situations involved disparate groups of stakeholders with different viewpoints and conflicting interests. However, working relationships have been invariably established, albeit not without some difficulties.

A situation which was especially serious entailed service on the Board of Directors for the Jefferson County (Jeffco) Federal Credit Union, when serious operational misconduct was discovered, resulting in the resignation of Chairman of the Board, a number of Board members, and of institutional employees. Elected to be act as the interim Acting Chairman of the Board, the situation was resolved without the filing of criminal charges, professional Savings and Loan operations were re-established, and a new Chairman was elected. I left Jefferson County employment at the conclusion of the matter, having applied to, and been accepted at the University of Denver, College of Law, and so was no longer eligible to participate in the Credit Union's operations.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.
11. Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

ANSWER: Use of Force is the issue on which the public will focus. What is the CPOA going to do about it? I propose the following:

- a. Within 30 days the Chief of APD must present an overview of the department's Use of Force Training for new hires and in-service training. This report must include a detailed use of force continuum. Additionally, the Chief must present a comparison between APD standards and national standards.
- b. Within 90 days the Chief must submit an action plan to conform with national standards for use of force with a timeline for department wide training.

At the same time the Director must initiate an aggressive media campaign to highlight the work of the CPOA relating to the use of force issue. That campaign must include individual meetings with stakeholders, media availability, and use of social media.

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

ANSWER: A few years ago a client came to my office needing to protect assets from garnishment. The garnishment effective date was just a few days away. I filed an action in federal court on an emergency basis.

After the case was filed I discovered my clients had an interest in a business they had not disclosed to me or to the court. Because I filed the case on an emergency basis, the case status was still pending. Therefore, the clients' assets had not been finalized with the court.

Upon discovering these facts I met with my clients and discussed their options. They could continue the case and possibly face criminal charges; and I would file a motion to withdraw as their attorney, or they could voluntarily dismiss their case and find another way to protect their assets.

My clients voluntarily dismissed their case.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

ANSWER: An employee presented a challenge to me. For a time my law office ran commercials on a local Spanish TV station. The campaign was successful and I needed to add a Spanish speaking assistant. My Office Manager and I interviewed applicants and we hired a part-time assistant to answer phones, do client intake, and data entry.

After the employee started it became apparent she was comfortable speaking Spanish in the office, but not interacting with clients. My office manager began to tutor the employee in Spanish to help the employee's confidence.

Another problem developed, the employee fell behind on data entry tasks. I counseled the employee on the data entry tasks, and offered to increase her hours to help complete the tasks. She said she would get caught up and did not need the extra hours.

The employee's interaction with our Spanish speaking clients did not improve. The data entry tasks fell behind again, so I terminated her employment.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

ANSWER: The legal case I'm most proud of is Feerick v. Matrix Moving Systems, Inc. et.al. I'm proud because I received a fair and just outcome for my client, and proud of the work it took to get it.

The case involved interstate transportation of household goods and exploitation of the elderly. My clients moved from Wisconsin to Florida. The moving company charged the Feericks $20,000.00 more than the original quote (a violation of federal statute). The moving company held the household goods hostage until my clients paid the extra $20,000.00.

The Feericks hired me to help them recover the extra money paid. I filed a claim and complaint with the Better Business Bureau. The BBB conducted an arbitration hearing. The arbitrator ruled in our favor.

The moving company hired new attorneys and the appeals process began. I filed an action in state court to confirm the arbitrator's decision. Meanwhile, the moving company sought relief from the decision through federal statute. During the state court action the defendants through their attorneys claimed the arbitration award money was in the moving company's lawyer's trust account.

The state court ruled in my client's favor ordering the money be paid, and that is when it got complicated. The law firm for the moving company then stated it did not have the money. I filed a Contempt Motion to compel the law firm to turn over the money. The court ruled in our favor and the law firm paid the money from its general business account.

The case then moved to the Wisconsin Court of Appeals. After submissions from all parties the appellate court ruled judicial estoppel was not the correct legal theory to hold the law firm liable and remanded the case back to state court for further proceedings.

Upon remand my clients were dismissed from the case and allowed to keep the arbitration award, based upon the legal theory of equitable estoppel. The case took 5 years to complete.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.

ANSWER: It is important to understand investigations of the police have a special nature, because police hold a special place in our society. First and foremost every complaint matters. Each complaint can be analyzed as a management tool for the CPOA.

Investigations must be timely and thorough: Were all the identified witnesses interviewed? Were there efforts to identify additional witnesses? Was a neighborhood canvas conducted? Did the investigation include any photographs or diagrams? Were there any conflicts of interest for the parties involved? Was there any conflict of interest that existed between the parties? Is this a pattern and practice? These are questions that should be answered for each investigation.

My philosophy is to treat each and every investigation with the care it deserves, because each complaint is a tool to better the police department.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

ANSWER: In 1999, the Better Business Bureau of Wisconsin hired me to lead its Dispute Resolution Center during a time of transition. The BBBWI wanted to add mediation as a dispute resolution process, but more importantly the organization needed to upgrade its arbitrator cadre to comply with federal warranty laws and state administrative code. When I came to the BBBWI the arbitrators were volunteers and non-lawyers. To gain compliance the arbitrators needed to be attorneys.

Over the next 18 months I recruited and trained a new cadre of arbitrators across the state of Wisconsin. Additionally, I designed and implemented a mediation program for resolution of consumer complaints.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?

ANSWER: My vision for CPOA is that it conducts thorough and fair investigations of both internal and external complaints. That CPOA deter future police misconduct by ensuring discipline in cases of proven misconduct. That CPOA provides a satisfactory procedure for citizens to seek redress for grievances against the police. That CPOA provide fair treatment of officers accused of misconduct. That CPOA enhance public confidence in the police by providing a professional complaint review process.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

ANSWER: Five assets I bring to the position are:

- Experience – My work as a police officer in a major city, an administrator of a statewide organization, an attorney, a mediator, and Vice Chair of a civilian oversight of police commission.
- Demeanor- I'm calm, pragmatic, and decisive.
- Education – BA in Criminal Justice Operations, Law Degree from Marquette University Law School
- Accomplished - Most recently as a Leading Lawyer in Milwaukee for 2015

- o Marketer – I took my firm from $0 to over $200,000.00 of gross revenues by learning how to market. I've done trade-shows, community events, designed websites, and used social media including blogging.

I struggle with finding a balance between work and off time. I'd rather check email or phone messages instead of letting them go until the next day.

9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

ANSWER: I am a professionally trained Mediator. My training is in the evaluative, facilitative, and transformative models of mediation. The issues I've mediated have been quite diverse: federal land use issues, discrimination complaints, consumer issues, and employee/employer to name a few.

Most of the mediations I conducted were for the United States Postal Service. These mediations involved union workers, union representatives and management officials. Over 80 % of the cases I mediated resulted in resolution of the dispute.

My achievements and recognition as an attorney have presented other opportunities for community involvement. State Senator Lena Taylor requested my participation in a series of workshops related to homeownership. Alderperson Linda Lubotsky requested I participate in a workshop for the citizens of Greenfield when new property assessments threatened homeowner's ability to meet their property tax obligations.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

ANSWER: The CPOA has a big task ahead. My breadth of experience, education, and training make me uniquely qualified to fill the position. I will be ready from Day 1 to assume the duties of the position.

Based upon the current make-up of the committee, not a single member has police experience. According to news reports, there is already pushback from police staff and the police union. My experience shows me a committee comprised of all civilian personnel will meet great resistance to change. I can change the dynamic.

Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

For this Written Assignment refer to the Settlement agreement/Consent Decree and related documents available at <http://www.cabq.gov/cpoa> or <http://www.cabq.gov/police> or <http://www.justice.gov/crt/about/spl/findsettle.php#newmexico>

Please provide the following information:

Name: Herbert Strassberg
Firm/Employer: None
Address: [REDACTED] Hobbs, NM 88240
Phone: [REDACTED]

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?
  - a. It seems that more transparency is needed and the availability of the results of investigations into particular police complaints be made available to the public and while the number of complaints filed by citizens has fallen over the last couple of years, there is still a backlog that needs to be addressed. Perhaps some additional procedures being put into place and more defined roles of investigative personnel involved would help to resolve the complaints more quickly. The shifting of financial resources to improve law enforcement training and the number of trained professionals in dealing with mentally ill citizens as well as those high on illegal substances in reducing the use of force especially in situations involving mentally ill citizens as well as minimizing racial profiling and constitutionally proper search and seizure procedures together with increased documentation of the particular procedures being followed in police reports would go a long way to reduce further the number of citizen complaints filed.
2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.
  - a. As an Assistant Public Defender, there is often the ethical conflict of expediency in urging a client to accept a plea deal from the Assistant District Attorney (ADA) versus going to trial. Because we (as well as the Assistant District Attorneys) have a heavy caseload and there is not enough work time to take all or most of our cases to trial, there is the ever present ethical conflict of having our clients best interests served vs. getting his or her case resolved quickly. In my case, I have often been able to get charges dropped (usually the most serious ones) and an offer of no jail time, but supervised probation in exchange for their pleading guilty and the clients usually prefer that certainty vs. taking their case to trial when the evidence appears to weigh in favor of the ADA. Of course there are often times when I filed a motion to suppress improper evidence to try to get the ADA' cases dismissed instead of the client accepting a plea deal. When that failed and/or the evidence is weak on the prosecution side, then I have taken the client's case forward towards a trial. Again, most of these have been settled along the way with revised plea deals more to the clients liking. Of course, sometimes I had to take cases to trial and I won about 50% of those cases that went all the way to a judge or jury verdict.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.
  - a. As a supervisor of employees that had multiple supervisors, I encountered the challenge of getting the underlying employees to treat my projects with appropriate priority. I have dealt with these situations by asking what the other projects were for the other supervisors and letting the employee know how mine fit into their workload. At times, I contacted the other supervisors to inform them of my project so that we could work out the appropriate priority of the pending projects for the effected employees as well as to inform them of the work I have given to those employees. This way, all the supervisors can better coordinate the workload on the effected employees.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?
  - a. I am most proud of my criminal defendant cases where I got the ADA to dismiss or reduce charges against my client in light of the motions I told them I was going to file after I discussed with them why the evidence and law was in my clients favor. I am most proud of such cases as I was able to resolve these cases quickly in my clients favor without the expense and time needed to take their cases to trial and that my being able to convince the ADA of this meant I was on the right path in achieving justice for my clients. In such cases, the ADA could see that I would likely win given the law and evidence in such situations.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.
  - a. As an Assistant Public Defender, I usually didn't just depend on the ADAs to provide me with discovery for a particular case as they often drag their feet in timely getting me the legally required evidence against my client. Also, they often don't give me all or even most the possible exculpatory evidence available; but rather, tend to turn over only the standard items of evidence, usually the items in their prosecutorial favor. My standard mode of practice was early after I am assigned a case, I review our case file and criminal information we have initially and then make a list of items that are likely available (such as audio and video recordings, call logs and reports) and request them from our in-house investigator. Not only do I obtain additional exculpatory evidence this way, but it also puts pressure on the ADAs to turn over evidence more quickly to my office.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?
  - a. One part of my background that makes me uniquely qualified to attack the backlog of cases is that I earned a Bachelor's of Science Degree in Industrial Engineering. In that major, I was taught how to optimize the flow of labor and materials not just in a factory setting, but also in an office setting. Since obtaining my degree, I have always worked towards optimization of not only handling my assigned projects, but the layout and handling of papers and projects coming across my workstations in just about every job I have held since graduation.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?
  - a. My vision is that the CPOAi is able to effectively and efficiently handle citizen complaints in a timely manner to the satisfaction of the constituents and citizens of Albuquerque so as to eliminate most of the backlog and more importantly, to properly educate and oversee the training of the law enforcement personnel of the Albuquerque Police Department as to just and proper procedures in light of the constitutional rights of its citizens to be free from improper searches and seizures as well as to be treated with the respect they deserve regardless of their race, income level and place they reside or are encountered in by law enforcement personnel. One area in particular, not just for the Albuquerque Police Department, but also for most police departments across the United States is proper psychological training in dealing with mentally ill citizens as well as those that are high on illegal substances causing them to act irrationally. Perhaps there can be on call a staff of mental health care professionals and/or substance abuse counselors around the clock to serve as a resource for law enforcement personnel. Many encounters with mentally ill patients and/or those high on illegal substances lead to violent encounters with law enforcement, as the proper recognition of their illnesses and limitations as well and how best to handle such encounters so as to calm them down without violent shows of force is not part of standard law enforcement training.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.
- a. I am a dedicated worker, often putting my work first ahead of personal commitments and don't mind working overtime to get the job done when needed. This is important to meet the goals of the organization, especially in light of the current backlog.
  - b. I am an ethical person and like to do the right thing whenever possible not just on the job, but in my personal life as well. The CPOA is all about law enforcement personnel acting ethically and respecting the rights of others, so this is a key quality.
  - c. I prefer to be collaborative and please as many people involved in a particular work project or assignment as possible vs. doing whatever is needed to get the job done at the cost of causing acrimonious relationships. Many diverse stakeholders are affected by actions by the CPOA, so it is important to work as collaboratively as possible to work out arrangements that can please as many people as possible while still achieving the goals of the CPOA.
  - d. I am a person of high integrity and professionalism. I strive for keeping my word whenever possible and keeping other effected individuals informed when things cause deadlines to shift. I do not make false promises to others.
  - e. I strive to not mix personal and work relationships by not getting too personal and prying into the lives of co-workers, but stick to the work at hand, yet show my concern for the welfare of my co-workers. This is important to not implicate insinuations by member of the public and other stakeholders, especially in a neutral oversight body such as the CPOA that must maintain its independence from any particular group of stakeholders to accomplish its mission.
  - f. One challenging area to improve is that I am a bit of a shy person and can sometimes be a little intimidated in public speaking situations before large groups, but I have been active in Toastmasters in the past and have practiced overcoming my nervousness in such situations. In fact, once I start speaking for 30 seconds or so, I usually get over my apprehensiveness. My recent position as an Assistant Public defender has helped a great deal in this respect as well.
9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.
- a. At one of my former positions, I worked for a bankruptcy claims agent as a communications specialist and paralegal for national level chapter 7 and 11 bankruptcies. I effectively dealt with a wide array of stakeholders, employees, stockbrokers, landlords, creditors, attorneys and investors. I answered phone bank calls and email requests for all sorts of information effecting these stakeholders as to how the bankruptcy effected their salaries, investments, pension plans, etc. and how to file a claim for what is owed to them in a number of bankruptcy proceedings. As a paralegal for various bankruptcy law firms and intellectual property law firms, I also communicated with a variety of people and organizations including creditors, patent examiners, technical support and customer service agents. In other employment, I was an extern to a United State Bankruptcy Judge and for a United State Attorney's Office where I interfaced with attorneys, judges and court staff personnel. More recently, I was a paralegal in litigation support for the California Attorney General's office where I interfaced with staff attorneys, the executive office and attorneys and paralegals at many CA State agencies that the Attorney General's Office represented in litigation proceedings. Finally, in my last job as an Assistant Public Defender, I represented indigent persons accused of crimes and I regularly negotiated and communicated with police officers, Assistant District Attorneys and of course appeared before magistrate and district court judges.

- b. As a paralegal for a patent prosecution firm, I was assigned the task of figuring out how to electronically file patent applications and amendments when that procedure was still new to many law firms. In a series of staff meetings that were held, I informed the other firm members (lawyers, paralegals, patent agents and legal secretaries) of the information I found out and we openly discussed the procedures and protocols that we could use as a firm to implement the use of electronic filing in place of the tried and true filing by mail and facsimile. I was the point person on the project and I learned how to do the electronic filing for the firm. Some of the long time firm members were a bit old school and hesitant of the trustworthiness of electronic filing, preferring to follow the old tried and true methods, but after we discussed how we can change office procedures and workflow in the office in these meetings, I volunteered to be the person to do all of the electronic filing initially, then slowly train others to do so both one on one and by developing training documentation for the office. Eventually, most everyone came to appreciate the speed and almost immediate confirmations we received in filing electronically with the US Patent Office vs. our old methods of filing documents and that became the new norm for the firm within 6 months of beginning the process.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

- a. I am a detailed oriented person, yet I like to know the bigger picture to keep things in perspective. I also like to be more of a collaborator than a dictator type manager giving people I supervise some autonomy and authority over their own work, but within reasonable limits of course. When new and difficult situations arise, I like to involve co-workers in some brain storming for ideas and possible solutions when the standard protocols and procedures do not seem to be able to efficiently resolve the situations at hand.

Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective? I believe the most important goal for police oversight is police shooting cases. Our credibility with the citizens of Albuquerque will never be good unless we can prove to them that we are serious about properly investigating and quickly reporting the findings to the public. The starting point is to ensure police shooting cases are investigated and completed in a timely manner (eg 60 days) and the District Attorney presents the case to the grand jury quickly (eg 30 days). Then the POB and Executive Director present the facts, findings and recommendations to the public at the first possible POB meeting so the public can judge us by our actions. A close second is the serious use of force by APD officers. These need to be quickly and thoroughly investigated and presented publicly at the first possible POB meeting. Both of these are critical to winning the trust of the citizens of Albuquerque by showing the openness of this new police oversight system. Then we must accept public input.

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome. After a year as IRO, I had an APD lieutenant call me and tell me that she had very important information about some misconduct by the Chief of Police. She wanted to talk to me about it, but wanted my assurance that I would not tell anyone, because she feared retaliation. I gave her that assurance but had no legal authority to promise confidentiality or treat her as a "Whistleblower". She and I had long discussions on these issues. She told me the Chief had just changed the findings on two police shooting cases and one Citizen Police Complaint from Sustained to Exonerated. After much agonizing and study of the APD Standard Operating Procedures, she decided to go to the Chief and tell him that she had told me this information and she thought his actions were wrong. I presented this information to the Police Oversight Commission at our publicly televised meeting and answered questions from reporters. This began the journey of discovery that led to significant changes in the original POC Ordinance.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why. The Mayor asked me to do an independent investigation of the Evidence Room controversy that was front page news for several days. This was outside the Police Oversight Ordinance, but I accepted the challenge. Not only was this a very politically charged controversy, but it also stretched our limited resources of only two investigators. We were tasked to quickly complete this massive investigation of the Evidence Room problems, while at the same time providing citizens with timely investigations of their complaints. The Mayor approved my hiring of additional investigators. I contacted and hired former Independent Counsels (the previous police oversight attorneys) and an independent investigator I had hired for the Iraq war demonstration cases. Thanks to all these investigators, we were able to interview numerous APD employees in a timely manner, seize an APD computer for evidence, obtain all emails from the public Safety Director, APD Chief and Deputy Chiefs, captains, and all others involved. We made and sustained significant findings which were supported by the evidence and the Mayor was able to act decisively, make the investigation public and order corrections of the problem areas.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why? Several months into the IRO job, the Iraq war started. There were numerous demonstrations by Albuquerque citizens against the war. APD responded to attempt to control the demonstrations and ensure they were peaceful. We immediately received dozens of citizen complaints against the use of force by APD. Again, we were stretched thin with only two investigators to try to get this controversial case completed quickly and thoroughly while continuing to complete the other citizen complaints within the required time frames. I am especially proud of this case because we provided APD not only with the facts of all the complaints, but also with a guide on how to handle the next demonstrations. We did not have any other large scale demonstrations while I was IRO, but I hope APD learned from our extensive recommendations.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy. My investigative philosophy is very simple. We investigate the entire incident complained about thoroughly and quickly. We don't investigate just the issue complained about. We investigate the entire course of conduct and anything else that is discovered during the course of the investigation. A citizen might complain about the use of force, but if we find other issues raised by the evidence of any other APD policy or procedure violations, we investigate them as well. Every issue the evidence raises will be investigated to its conclusion. All findings are based on a preponderance of the credible evidence.

6. The CPOA as an organization has been through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward? That is exactly the same situation I inherited when I became IRO in 2002. The previous IRO did not have her contract renewed and the position was vacant for several months. As soon as I was appointed by the Mayor and approved by City Council, I directed Internal Affairs to send all cases that had not been completed to our office for review and investigation. Some cases had to be reinvestigated. In one case, Internal Affairs had referred the investigation out of their office and to the sergeant of the area command in which the person complained about was the sergeant's captain and superior. My reinvestigation of this case created a controversy with APD and the APOA. I dealt with that and all other issues personally, so my investigators could maximize the number of citizen complaints that they could investigate. Investigating cases was their sole duty and our goal was to eventually be able to investigate all citizen complaints and not have Internal Affairs investigate any of those complaints. This was to establish our credibility with the citizens of Albuquerque. The new Ordinance is far superior to the previous one. The Executive Director's job has changed for the better and the CPOA has been given more resources. I will be able to hit the ground running with little to no learning curve.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA? With the enhanced funding and a full time staff person dedicated to community outreach, the CPOA has the potential to become the model for other cities. The POB will prove to the citizens of Albuquerque that the POB can be trusted to provide meaningful civilian oversight of APD. Citizen comments and input will be solicited and heard regularly in many different forums all across the city. POB members will become the best trained independent oversight body in the country. The publicly televised hearings will prove their fairness and impartiality to the public and APD. The POB will attend the Citizen Police Academy, do FATS training in both de-escalation situations and shooting scenarios. They will attend the many new outreach efforts by the CPOA and APD. They will do regular ride-a-longs with young APD officers and prove to the young officers that the civilian oversight system works and is fair and can be trusted. All of this can and will be done to improve community relations and earn the public's trust in civilian oversight and in APD.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve. First is my experience. I was the IRO for four and a half years in Albuquerque. I knew the APD policies and procedures and will quickly learn the changes made over the last several years. My entire career has been involved with investigations and discipline from the investigations findings, as well as systemic improvements.

My last assignment in the Air Force was at Kirtland AFB with the Air Force Inspection Agency. We worked directly for the Air Force Inspector General and at his direction, we conducted investigations and inspections throughout the world. These were designed to improve important issues for the Air Force. During my career, I not only conducted numerous inspector general investigations, I reviewed and recommended disciplinary actions and systemic corrective actions on hundreds of inspector general investigations and inquiries. I also acted as the Inspector General for HQ 21st Air Force in the absence of the general. Second is my integrity. I firmly believe in the necessity for independent oversight of all agencies of government. Inspector Generals, auditors, and Police Oversight Boards are a necessity. You can be sure that you will get the truth from me and I will do what the job requires. I proved that as IRO and in my 30 years in the Air Force. Third, I am innovative. As the second IRO, I started the long term planning committee for the POC, wrote the POC Rules and Regulations that were approved by the City Council, started sending letters from the POC to the citizens explaining the investigation and findings, negotiated changes to the old Ordinance that actually gave the POC some authority, got the jail to save homeless peoples' property when they were arrested, allowed the County Sheriff to appeal the Sustained finding against an APD officer, and did ride-alongs with other POC commissioners on APD helicopters and with SWAT officers. I encourage out of the box thinking and action. My investigators and I conducted a stake out of the APD prisoner transport station, seized an APD captains computer, seized emails from the Director of Public Safety, Chief of Police and his Deputies and other senior staff. We were innovative and aggressive in our investigations to ensure we got the facts and enhanced the system of civilian oversight of APD. Fourth, I am dedicated and will work tirelessly to achieve our goals and meet our responsibilities. Police are absolutely essential to our city and a civilized society. Police have an extremely difficult and dangerous job to do. We citizens of Albuquerque need to support and appreciate the 97% of good police officers. ( I use these percentages based on my experience, not with any cited authority). APD and our investigations need to identify the small minority of officers who are prone to abuse the great authority given to them by our citizens. Review of all use of force cases will identify officers who need retraining, counseling, discipline or removal. We need to protect our officers who want to do the right thing and protect the citizens of Albuquerque. Civilian oversight of police is essential. Long hours and night meetings are a requirement for this job and I have shown the will and capability to do it in the face of strong opposition. Fifth, I have the right personality for this job. I have a very thick skin. I do not take personal attacks personally. I have patience when patience is called for. I spent over an hour on the telephone listening to a very nice lady who was a regular complainant and had mental health issues. At the end, she thanked me for an excellent conversation (I had said maybe 10 words). The area I need to improve on is my lack of patience with government bureaucracies (or any bureaucracy) that do not serve the public in a courteous and timely manner. We are public servants and our goal should be to make things work to help our citizens. It can be done!

9. Is, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome. When I was IRO, the City Attorney wrote legal opinions that stated the findings of the POC were not authorized to be placed in the officers' records or anywhere in an APD record. The City Attorney also stated the Chief of Police could legally change the sustained findings on police shooting cases and citizen police complaints any time the Chief wanted. This was the impetus for the POC to request changes to the old Ordinance. Counselor Winter was willing to carry our recommended changes, but wanted us to sit down and negotiate the changes with the Administration, APD and the APOA. Our first meeting was a total disaster. No agreements were reached and the POC and I decided to leave it up to the City Council. Councilor Winters made us to keep trying to reach some agreement. I was negotiator for the POC. After numerous meetings and give and take on both sides, we finally agreed to the amendments that were passed by the City Council. The Administration, APD, the APOA and I presented a united front at the City Council. The amendments were passed. I have also met with many community groups including Vecinos United, NAACP, ACLU, homeless advocacy groups, Human Rights Commission, the Vietnamese Task Force, and anybody else who wanted to talk to me. I have never worked with a DOJ monitor before, but look forward to the experience. I was assigned to the Air Force Litigation Division in the Pentagon for almost 3 years. We worked very closely with the US Attorneys in all the states and District of Columbia. I met with the Solicitor General in an effort to get him to appeal one of my cases. Another one of my cases was eventually unanimously reversed in our favor by the United States Supreme Court.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision. You probably want to know what I have been doing for the last eight and a half years. My wife and I left Albuquerque to care for her elderly parents. They were like second parents to me and we had always told them that when they got to the point they could not care for themselves that we would be there for them. My 83 year old mother in law had heart surgery and contracted a serious infection. Everyone thought she was dying, including herself. My father in law had congestive heart failure and was totally exhausted and asked for our help. So we did as we promised and went to live with them and care for them. She eventually recovered and is now 91 and in the best physical and mental health since that surgery. My father in law was in the hospital every 3-4 months and died in 2010. The last 8 years, I have been doing legal work for friends and family. I manage the building and farm that my mother in law owns. My wife manages all her mother's personal finances and affairs and drives her to all doctor's appointments, etc. In 2008, a friend and I started a local charity, Backpack Snack Attack. We started at one elementary school and as donations permitted we expanded to all the public elementary, middle and high schools in Warwick Township (that includes 5 separate villages). We average almost 300 meals on weekends to children in the schools' free and reduced lunch programs. We later expanded to include a summer program to feed these same children. Our annual budget is around $80,000 and the community generously supports us through our numerous fundraisers. We kept our home in Albuquerque and visit often. Our daughter and three grandchildren live in Albuquerque. Our sons and their families live in Seattle, Wa and Chicago, Il. My most important job now is being a good grandpa.

1. After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

I believe an immediate need is to establish a simple, efficient and reliable system to administer civilian complaints and coordinate the effective investigation of these complaints. This requires the development of easily understood procedures and guidelines. This will eliminate confusion and assist in the just resolution of civilian complaints. This step is critical in order to establish confidence that members of law enforcement will be held accountable for their actions. It is necessary to implement a well-thought-out system to ensure that the oversight board is accountable, equitable and gives both the law enforcement community and the general public confidence that their concerns will not be overlooked and that they will be treated fairly.

2. Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

A client appeared for a court hearing and he was highly intoxicated. Unfortunately, he hid it very well and I was the only one in the courtroom aware of his condition. He was my client so I was obligated to advocate on his behalf and keep him out of jail. I also had to make sure that he didn't do any harm to himself or others. I discussed this with my client and informed him that we needed to address the court regarding his condition. He was angry and threatened to leave. I quickly discussed the matter with the Assistant District Attorney and he agreed that if I made sure that he did not drive we could request a reset of the hearing and not have my client taken into custody. I took the client back to my office. He slept in my conference room for the rest of the day and his wife picked him up after she got off work.

3. Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

When I was supervising the Magistrate Court Division of the First Judicial District Attorney's Office, one of my duties was to make sure that we had adequate coverage for the Magistrate Courts in Santa Fe, Rio Arriba and Los Alamos Counties. There were four attorneys including me to make sure that all three courts were covered. This was challenging given the number of cases and the size of the area that needed to be covered. There were courthouses located in Chama, Espanola, Los Alamos and Santa Fe. One of the lawyers I supervised constantly complained about the size of his caseload and what he perceived as the unfair distribution of cases. I sat with him on numerous occasions and attempted to resolve it without much success. I finally hit upon the idea to put him in charge of case coverage. Much to my surprise he adapted well to the new assignment, worked closely with the other attorneys and flourished in his new role. I was able to focus on other needs within the division and could count on him as a reliable back up.

4. Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

I represented a single mother who suffered significant injuries as a result of an arrest. Once her case was resolved she used the proceeds to purchase a home and pursue her college degree. I have found that the most rewarding moments of my career are those that result in helping my clients obtain resolutions that allow them to improve their lives.

5. Describe your investigative philosophy.

Investigation is the key to obtaining a just result. It is a process that requires a patient, step by step inquiry into conflicting and sometimes confusing fact patterns. A professional investigation exonerates those who are wrongly accused and establishes a basis to proceed when the facts point to misconduct. The foundation of effective investigation is developing facts, weeding out inconsistent and false statements and arriving at a just resolution.

6. The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

I have been a solo practitioner in a very busy criminal defense practice. I have done this without a support staff for the last five years. I have handled hundreds of difficult cases and clients and have provided excellent service and representation under challenging circumstances. I have the focus to ensure I handle my caseload in a manner that is efficient and effective. I work well under pressure and I am used to handling multiple cases at the same time, all of which will allow me to move the backlog of cases efficiently.

7. What is your vision for the CPOA?

I believe that the core function of the CPOA should be establishing and maintaining Albuquerque citizens' confidence that members of law enforcement will be held accountable for their actions. Above all, the community must believe in the CPOA's integrity to ensure that this confidence is developed. Trust in law enforcement is the cornerstone of a vibrant community. The CPOA must actively monitor and work closely with law enforcement; when necessary the CPOA must be willing to make difficult decisions to foster community belief in its legitimacy. I have unique perspectives from the several different positions I have held in the legal system, including those of prosecutor, defense attorney, civil litigator and legislator. I have tried many cases in these various roles. As a result of this background, I have developed an ability to work effectively with a variety of individuals. My previous experience ensures that I will be able to fulfill my role as Executive Director based on my current knowledge and my ability to adapt quickly and effectively. My extensive and diverse experience will allow me to define challenges and quickly develop solutions.

8. What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experiences. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

1. Honesty. This is a key asset in establishing credibility with all stakeholders involved in this process.
2. Integrity. I hold myself to high standards and believe it reflects in the work that I do. I trust myself to do the right thing in a variety of circumstances. If you can't trust yourself then you can't expect others to trust your insight or observation.

3. Candor. I feel a direct approach results in the efficient use of a limited amount of time to resolve issues.
  4. Ability to work well with others. Throughout my career I have been most effective when I recognized other points of view and worked with people in arriving at a solution rather than trying to force someone to accept my view.
  5. Sense of humor. This quality has allowed me to see trying situations as challenges to overcome and not as roadblocks without a solution.
  6. I struggle with being somewhat direct in addressing an issue. There are circumstances that require a more delicate touch and I am working on that.
9. This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the group's goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

As a New Mexico State Senator I carried and passed the first major piece of ethics legislation passed by the legislature and signed into law. Senate Bill 931 governed ethical conduct by legislators and substantially cut monetary awards and gifts to legislators. There was significant opposition to my proposal. Several legislators felt it was unnecessary and that it created more oversight than was needed. Proponents of the legislation did not think that it went far enough and asked for significant penalties to be attached to the bill. I spent a great deal of time convincing legislators that we were obligated to our constituency to monitor our own conduct and control any appearance of impropriety. I met with vocal constituents who wanted stiff penalties and worked out a compromise to ensure that the legislation passed. This Bill proved to be an important first step in the development of additional ethics legislation.

10. Is there anything else we should have asked? Feel free to share anything you wish the POB to know about you that will help us make a decision.

When I first started at the Attorney General's Office as an administrative prosecutor, I presented cases to the Law Enforcement Academy Board for the revocation of law enforcement officers' certifications. This gave me valuable insight into the function of a board that monitors law enforcement and the challenges a board has in maintaining high standards of professionalism in a sometimes adversarial environment. Additionally, it helped me develop my skills as attorney and help me recognize the fundamentals of good investigation. I have used these skills in my career to direct investigations and as a defense attorney to point out flaws in investigations. As Deputy Director of the Civil Division of the Attorney General's Office, I advised numerous Boards and Commissions on all aspects of compliance with State law and regulation.

Provide three professional references that we may contact, please include their full name, firm and position, phone number(s) and email address, as well as a few words detailing their knowledge of you.

3. Q: Are you an active member in good standing with the Bar Association of a US State or Territory, or the District of Columbia?

A: Yes

4. Q: If you are an active Bar Association member in good standing identify the state.

A: New Mexico

5. Q: How many years of management experience do you possess related to this position?

A: 1 year to less than 2 years

6. Q: Select the number of years of work experience you possess which relate to this position.

A: 4 years to less than 5 years

7. Q: Briefly describe your experience in criminal investigation.

A: I worked as the sole intern of a criminal defense attorney in the District of Columbia. While working for Michael Madden, I conducted extensive investigation for the many cases he was trying, including homicide, rape, assault and battery, domestic violence, and robbery. I investigated the alleged crimes and reviewed numerous police reports and witness statements relevant to the case. I worked closely with Mr. Madden's personal criminal investigator and accompanied him and participated throughout the investigation process. I interviewed witnesses and prepared the defendant and witnesses for direct and cross examination. I researched the relevant law and wrote numerous motions which were submitted to the Court.

8. Q: Briefly describe your experience with administrative and judicial processes, policies and procedures.

A: As a Staff Attorney at Disability Rights New Mexico (DRNM), I represent my clients in Administrative Fair Hearings and am required to have extensive working knowledge of relevant administrative procedures and policies. Because I work closely with Administrative Law Judges, I have experience with the Hearings Process and relevant laws. As a Staff Attorney at DRNM, I represent clients challenging guardianship and represent these clients in guardianship proceedings. In light of my experience working for Michael Madden as a criminal defense intern, I often appeared in front of criminal court judges and was required to know criminal laws, policies, and procedures.

1) After reviewing the City of Albuquerque Settlement Agreement/Consent Decree*, what strikes you as the most important goal for the CPOA (and POB, if applicable) to achieve within the next 12 months, in order to demonstrate to the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and effective?

One of the first objectives is to catch up on all the backlogged cases. Doing so will show the community that civilian oversight is meaningful and that the agency takes it seriously. By demonstrating a commitment to review complaints that have been backlogged will show the community that the agency is actively trying to review all complaints and begin the investigation process. I expect that due to the number of cases that have been backlogged, this process will take time; however, beginning this process and substantially reducing the number of cases in the backlog is a critical first step. Another initial goal is to begin training both agency personnel and the APD in appropriate use of force, de-escalation techniques, and to revise and develop new policies, with a special emphasis on providing crisis intervention trainings and developing crisis intervention teams. With the development of new policies and with the conclusion of initial trainings, new procedures for handling misconduct must be in order to ensure compliance with the new policies and procedures. I believe that while trainings are taking place, it is important to begin the process of establishing procedures for handling misconduct and for supervising officers in the field. This requires developing a staffing plan to ensure close supervision of officers and creating an early intervention system. These initial steps will demonstrate to the community that the agency is reassessing its policies, evaluating officers in the field, and creating a supervision plan that involves closely monitoring officers and creating a procedure for handling officer misconduct. Coupled with the issue of reprimanding or punishing officer misconduct is creating a plan for hiring and encouraging officer compliance with the new policies and procedures. Recruiting new officers and encouraging compliance with policies and procedures for professional and ethical policing can include plans to have thorough psychological and medical evaluations of new candidates and lateral hires, conduct pre-employment and routine drug testing of all officers, and providing a variety of supports and assistance for officers, including access to occupational training, mental health services, and other social services. These initial steps should occur while the Director and other agency staff regularly meet with community stakeholders to facilitate ongoing communication, conduct outreach to inform the public of progress towards the new goals and objectives, and to maintain transparency.

2) Please provide a specific example of an ethical conflict you encountered, how you handled it, and why, as well as the outcome.

While working under the supervision of an attorney during an internship opportunity, I witnessed a mentally ill client be treated in a way that negated their dignity and informed choice. This was an ethical conflict because I believed that the individual had a right to make their own decision regarding their legal argument; however, the attorney chose to act in a way he believed served the client's best interests but ignored the client's wishes. When working with individuals suffering from a disability or mental illness, there are two approaches that are often implemented: 1) best interests or 2) client centered. I believe that clients deemed legally competent have a right to make decisions they believe are appropriate. Informed choice is an idea that I strongly stand by and believe is necessary for treating individuals with dignity despite any disabilities they may have. My supervising attorney believed in the best interests approach and we disagreed on how to handle the situation. In this particular case, I was working under direct supervision from an attorney who was trying the case, so while I made my opinion known, I was not able to change the plan. I believe that as I was under the supervision of another attorney, I was not in a position to make the decision; however, I did feel obligated to express my concern and disagreement and provide reasons to support my position. I felt that my ethical obligation was to inform the supervising attorney of the alternate approach with supporting reasons. While I believe my client had the right to make his own decision, I was not in a position to act as his attorney and thus could only express my differing position to my supervisor. While I had hoped to sway my supervisor's decision, he ultimately pursued a course of action that was in the client's best interest and while that did allow the client some additional perks, it was not an approach the client wanted to take. I do believe that I handled the situation appropriately given that I was not a licensed attorney at the time but that I expressed my position and stood by it. I believe that my actions in that situation demonstrated my integrity and dedication and fulfilled my ethical obligation to inform my supervisor of the alternate approach.

3) Give one or more examples of a challenge you encountered as a manager/supervisor, how you dealt with it and why.

While working as a Staff Attorney at Disability Rights New Mexico, I have been paired to work on various projects with other staff members. As an attorney, I am given more discretion as to the project and have made supervisory decisions regarding trainings and presentations. Although I am not the direct supervisor of the individuals I am working with on a training project and a conference presentation, I have been assigned the lead and continue to play a supervisory role in organizing the project, creating a plan, and delegating work. In this capacity, I will review all project materials and training guides and will make necessary additions or changes to provide the highest quality materials. One of the challenges I have encountered is that I am working with individuals who have been with the agency for a very long time and are working under the same models and hierarchy they have held in the past. As I started in November of 2014, I am relatively new to the agency and I am finding that some staff members do not want me to take the lead. The challenge is getting staff to trust in my experience and knowledge and to allow me to direct the project. In doing so, I am working closely one-on-one with individual staff and creating an informal environment to have discussions and to decide on details together. In creating an informal setting to create a plan, I am asking for input from the staff and allowing their opinions to be heard and taken into consideration. I believe this approach allows individuals to trust that I will respect their opinions and work closely with them to create a collaborative project. Overall, I believe this method results in a positive working relationship and allows for individuals to trust in my abilities but to also feel like they will remain active participants and that their opinions are meaningful.

Questionnaire for Director of Civilian Police Oversight Agency Applicants
Due by the close of business on July 1, 2015

4) Which of your legal cases are you the most proud of and why?

While working at Disability Rights New Mexico, I represented a student with learning disabilities and behavioral problems who was facing a permanent expulsion from high school. The student admitted to bringing and using illegal drugs on school grounds and to engaging in numerous fights with other students. I am most proud of this case because despite the seriousness of the charges, during the expulsion appeal hearing I was able to convince the school to reverse the expulsion and allow the student to return to school with additional special education accommodations. I am extremely proud of this result because I was working under pressure as I had not received all the information until shortly before the hearing and because the family and the student were very difficult to communicate with. I am also proud of this result because I was able to quickly learn an area of law that I was unfamiliar with and make a very strong and sound legal argument in support of my client despite the seriousness of the charges.

5) Describe your investigative philosophy.

I believe that in conducting an investigation, it is important to remain open-minded and not reach a conclusion before all information is gathered and assessed. I believe that all complaints should be thoroughly investigated and that an investigation is deemed complete only when reliable and complete findings are made. Complainants need to be individually interviewed, interviews should be recorded to ensure accuracy and context of statements, and witnesses should provide written statements of their observations or lack thereof. I believe that investigations need to remain confidential and that administrative and criminal investigations remain separate to protect constitutional rights. My investigative philosophy requires thorough and private interviews and that in many cases, a follow-up interview is necessary to ensure completeness of information. I believe that timeliness is crucial to accurate reporting of observations and information gathering and that obtaining information from a variety of sources is crucial for an unbiased interpretation of events.

6) The CPOA as an organization has gone through a period of transition and is currently dealing with a variety of issues, including a large backlog of cases. What in your background makes you uniquely qualified to take the helm of this organization and move it forward?

I have a lot of experience working in a variety of offices and have extensive knowledge of organizational methods, time management, and self-directed work. I believe that I am a qualified leader and when it comes to projects involving many people, I am able to delegate and assign work based on individual's skills. Because of the large backlog of cases, I believe taking the helm of the organization and moving it forward requires someone who is capable of jumping in and quickly directing and delegating work while also investing a lot of additional time to do a thorough job. I believe that when presented with an abundance of work leftover from a predecessor, I am able to prioritize and began working immediately while working efficiently and thoroughly. I am a strong leader and am not afraid to direct and delegate individuals where I believe they would be most effective. While professionalism is important and vital to a productive work environment, I am capable of acting professionally and courteously even when confronted with staff who do not want to cooperate or take direction. In stepping into this position as someone new to the department that is undergoing substantial changes, I believe people may not be happy with a new Director's vision or plans and I am not afraid to step into a position where staff may not trust me or respect me at first. I believe in myself and my ability to make appropriate decisions and I believe that in time, I can rally people together to be committed to a new vision and working together.

7) What is your vision for the CPOA?

My vision for the CPOA is to work to ensure police integrity, protect officer safety, prevent the use of excessive force and/or unreasonable use of deadly force, and promote trust and communication between APD and Albuquerque's many communities. My vision for the CPOA is to review and complete the backlogged cases and be able to conduct and conclude investigations in a timely manner. I believe the CPOA should monitor and review all citizen complaints or concerns and investigate the claims. As a result of these investigations and review of complaints or concerns, the CPOA should review, revise, and/or develop departmental policies and procedures for the Police Oversight Board. I envision the CPOA catching up on backlogged cases to prove to the community that complaints are taken seriously and that excessive or unreasonable use of force is a serious issue within the agency. I envision the CPOA developing a realistic perspective on its current status and its timeline for meeting the objectives outlined in the Settlement Agreement and developing an effective and efficient plan for meeting those objectives. I also envision the CPOA developing a strong working relationship with community stakeholders while reinvigorating the agency's relationship with the community fostering support, trust, collaboration, and communication.

8) What do you view as the top five assets you bring to this position, whether personality traits, knowledge-based skills or experience. Explain why each is important and how it is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA. Also provide at least one challenging area of your personality or skill set that you struggle with or are working to improve.

I believe that my top five assets that I bring to this position are: 1) integrity; 2) dedication; 3) experience working with the community; 4) open-mindedness ; and 5) experience working with mentally ill individuals

Integrity: I believe that integrity is one of the strongest personality traits to have. I believe that I am an honest individual with strong moral principles. Honesty is crucial when working within an agency because it allows me to communicate both the positives and negatives of a situation and work with others to provide constructive criticism and honest opinions. Because I have strong moral principles, I always try to do what I believe to be right and I always treat everyone with dignity and respect. I believe that treating everyone with dignity and respect is vital to this position because it means listening to what colleagues and civilians have to say, providing support and appropriate supervision to employees, handling employee grievances in a timely manner and with support and fairness, and working with other agencies and community stakeholders in a way that fosters communication and willingness to work together. As a CPOA Director, I believe that supervision of other employees is a task that requires integrity so as to always remain respectful, honest, and supportive of their opinions while fostering a work environment that exudes integrity and veracity, both within our work environment and with other individuals and agencies.

Dedication: As a community activist and strong believer in the need for government accountability, my dedication to the cause is uniquely beneficial to the CPOA because it equips me with the motivation to continue working towards the ultimate objective. When things get rocky or I hit a roadblock, this dedication allows me to work through the difficult times and think outside the box to come up with other possible solutions. My own desire and dedication to engage with community stakeholders and with other community groups advocating for accountability is an asset for this position because it means that I will be able to work with community partners, listen to their opinions, and be open minded so as to meet the objectives of the Civilian Police Oversight Agency.

Experience Working with Community Leaders and Members: Throughout my various extracurricular activities, I have been heavily involved with working with community leaders and members. I believe that systemic reform requires community involvement and by getting involved with various community leaders and community groups, a larger audience can be reached and information can be widely disseminated. Once community partners are involved, they are able to spread the information and get others involved. I believe that the ability to work within the community and engage with them regularly and in informal settings and formats creates a positive relationship that fosters honesty and openness. In light of the ongoing allegations of overuse of police force against civilians, it is incredibly important to have a strong relationship with civilians to show them my commitment to listening to what they have to say, taking their comments and concerns seriously, and reforming the system with their opinions in mind. I believe that my ability to work closely with community members is an asset that I bring to this position because I am comfortable working with community members, listening to their concerns, and committing to addressing their concerns in a timely and professional manner. One of the objectives of the settlement agreement is to foster greater trust among officers and the communities they serve, it is vital to have a good working relationship with community organizations and leaders. This objective requires that the agency undergo reforms to support community participation and create both formal and informal mechanisms that facilitate ongoing communication between APD and Albuquerque's communities. I believe that my ability to work with individuals at a community level and my interpersonal skills are a necessary asset for this position and I believe that I would excel at fostering a stronger relationship between the police department and the community.

Open-mindedness: As the department is undergoing substantial reform, I believe that open-mindedness and a willingness to accept constructive criticism from all stakeholders is a crucial asset for this position. I believe that I am open-minded and willing to work with stakeholders to develop a plan that strives to leave all parties satisfied. One of the biggest concerns in communities is the use of excessive force and many communities currently distrust APD. I believe that working with community members and being open-minded to their criticisms and concerns is a vital component since previous models and methods of running the department have been ineffective. Being open-minded means working towards a solution by utilizing a variety of methods and plans and being open to changing those plans as problems or alternatives develop. I believe that the agency needs an individual who is willing to step into this position with an open-mind and a willingness to hear stakeholder's concerns while creating and recreating plans that target the heart of the problem. I believe that because there are so many stakeholders involved, it is important that the Director be open-minded to the various comments that will arise from discussions with the different stakeholders. Being new to this agency and being open to the comments and criticisms will create a more diverse and inclusive agency. This ability to step into a new position and listen to everyone's concerns without heading down a stagnant and close-minded path will ultimately have the biggest and most positive impact.

Experience working with mentally ill individuals: Crisis intervention is one of the provisions of the Settlement Agreement and requires that APD ensure accountability and promote constitutional, effective policing, by minimizing the necessity for the use of force against individuals in crisis due to mental illness or a diagnosed behavioral disorder. In law school I focused my studies on criminal law and procedure and disability law. I conducted several research projects that focused on the intersection of disability and the law, specifically I addressed the unique needs of individuals suffering from mental illness who are experiencing a crisis situation where police are the first responders. My research also addressed the unique needs of these individuals upon arrest and intake. I believe that my academic background is a strong asset as it has helped me prepare for a career that involves working with individuals with mental illness. Furthermore, this research background forms a strong foundation for professional investigation and planning. As a Staff Attorney at Disability Rights New Mexico, I have numerous clients that suffer from mental health or diagnosed behavioral disorders, many of which are juveniles, who engage in problem behaviors leading to intervention or school disciplinary actions. I believe that my interest in working to ensure that the unique needs of individuals with disabilities are met and so crisis intervention does not involve unnecessary use of force is a strong foundation for serving in this position. As one of the biggest issues in the settlement agreement is crisis intervention planning and restructuring, I believe that my experience working with individuals with mental illness and my academic and professional background that focused on studying the intersection of disability and the criminal justice system is highly relevant to this position. If selected for this position, my experience would allow me to quickly begin working with members of the mental health community of providers, advocates, and individuals to create a more effective and constitutionally sound way in which to work with local stakeholders and develop a crisis intervention program constituting of an advisory committee, behavioral health training, crisis intervention certified responders and intervention unit, and crisis prevention.

Questionnaire for Director of Civilian Police Oversight Agency Applicants

Due by the close of business on July 1, 2015

One challenging area of my personality that I struggle with and am working to improve is that I sometimes doubt my ability and skills. When I am working on a difficult case or am dealing with a challenging question or factual scenario, I sometimes become doubtful that I am well-equipped to solve the problem on my own. I am working to improve my self-doubt and learn to trust my abilities by working through problems on my own and spending additional time researching, preparing, and learning everything I can that is relevant to the problem. After going through this process, I prepare a list of questions that I am still struggling with and will sit down and try to come up with answers, sometimes multiple answers, to these questions without judgment as to whether the answers are right or wrong. Once I have answered the questions, I go back and reassess why they are correct or incorrect. At this point, I have usually answered the majority of my questions and begin to feel more confident on my knowledge and skill-set because I know that I have analyzed the issues to the best of my ability. At this point, I also know that if I have remaining questions, I can brainstorm and discuss the issue with my colleagues and take their input into consideration. I find that this process is more effective than immediately going to others when there is a question I cannot answer because it allows me to become more confident in my own abilities and to make efficient use of my time and the time of others. It also allows me to learn what I need to know and gain practical experience with researching, learning other relevant information, and being able to attack another future problem in the same way.

9) This position requires working with diverse groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Please describe your experience working with disparate groups of stakeholders, such as community groups, union officials, elected officials, Department of Justice attorneys, a DOJ monitor, and others. Describe a situation where you were involved with a group that started out with conflict or opposite points of view, where you were able to help achieve the groups' goals through a collaborative process of your facilitation or management. Describe the stakeholders, your role and responsibility, and also give the outcome.

Throughout my academic, professional, and extracurricular experiences, I worked closely with various community groups, union officials, attorneys, and others. While working as an Advocate and then a Staff Attorney at Disability Rights New Mexico (DRNM), I conducted trainings with community special education support groups and parents. During these sessions, I thoroughly explained special education law, the rights of students and parents, and some of the reservations that school districts have regarding the provision of services. While working at DRNM, I attend numerous Individualized Education Program (IEP) meetings to work with schools to identify and then provide appropriate services. Often these IEP meetings are difficult because the schools do not always want to provide necessary and appropriate services and it was my job to convince the schools to provide these services to both abide by federal law and to provide the services the student needs in order to succeed in school. These meetings often started with a conflict over what services should be provided to a student and my role was to work with the school to provide the requested services. I did this by working with the school to conduct evaluations of the student, assess relevant data and reports, and listen to parent and student input to decide what kinds of services are necessary and appropriate. In many cases, I was successful in that I worked with the IEP team and the school district representative to evaluate the student's needs, review relevant reports, and listen to the parties' opinions to come up with a solution that was satisfactory to all involved. In my work at DRNM, I work extensively with opposing counsel to avoid litigation yet addressing and solving client concerns. I often need to communicate regularly with opposing counsel, write thorough legal analysis, and circulate the client's objectives while addressing the opposing side's opinions. In many cases, I successfully avoid litigation by working with the opposing party to come up with a solution or plan that is satisfactory for all involved.

While volunteering with the California Reentry Project as a reentry counselor, I worked with inmates to address their concerns regarding their return to their communities when they parole or their sentences have concluded. In working at San Quentin State Prison, I spent the majority of my time working with the inmates but frequently interacted with correctional officers and prison administrators who ultimately had control over our the project and could decide whether we could continue to work within the prison. Even though our mission was to help inmates prepare to return to their communities, there was often a lot of pushback from prison staff who believed we were wasting our time working with offenders. One important factor when working in that setting was to engage with prison staff and navigate the relationships between staff and inmates to ensure that we were providing quality support to the inmates but were respecting the staff even when they made disparaging remarks to the program, the inmates, and the reentry counselors.

When I lived in Washington, D.C., while I was in law school, I was actively involved with Amnesty International and community activism on issues including Metro union organizing and mental health community awareness. Working with Amnesty International involved networking with local embassies and planning and participating in larger events aimed at promoting human rights. I worked with local universities and partnered with their student chapters to fundraise and participate in local Amnesty International events. While in D.C., I became involved with Metro union organizing when I became friends with several of the Metro bus drivers and learned about union organizing. Once I became involved, I participated in talking with community members, educating the public through manning a booth at various busy areas in the city, and attended several events where I helped create and handout relevant literature. During this process, I learned about how unions operate and strived to get other individuals who were inactive members in the union and the community at large more involved in understanding the process and its importance. I participated in several community based events in the Anacostia area to meet with community members to discuss mental health stigma and various mental health treatments and resources available within the community. This work was focused primarily with individual community members who attended our event but I networked with other community organizations for support and to help promote our meetings. Because these issues were important to the community and because the community was traditionally underserved, I felt that our events were successful and we were able to increase attendance and engage with the community to foster a larger network of supporters.
